(b) An employee of the facility that performs the test shall provide, for purposes of pretrial preparation and in court proceedings, oral and documentary evidence limited to whether the person tested pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and subsequently charged under section 18-7-201.7 or 18-7-205.7 was provided notice prior to the date of the offense that he or she had tested positive for the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome and the date of such notice.

18-7-201.7. Prostitution with knowledge of being infected with acquired immune deficiency syndrome. (1) Any person who performs or offers or agrees to perform any act of sexual intercourse, fellatio, cunnilingus, masturbation, or anal intercourse, as such terms are defined in section 18-7-201 (2), with any person not his spouse, in exchange for money or any other thing of value, and if such person has been tested for acquired immune deficiency syndrome pursuant to section 18-7-201.5 or 18-7-205.5 or otherwise, and the results of such test indicate the presence of the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) which causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome, such person commits prostitution with knowledge of being infected with acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

(2) Prostitution with knowledge of being infected with acquired immune deficiency syndrome is a class 5 felony.

(3) (a) In sentencing any person convicted of prostitution with knowledge of being infected with acquired immune deficiency syndrome pursuant to this section, the court may order that such person submit to an assessment for the use of controlled substances or alcohol developed pursuant to section 16-11.5-102 (1) (a), C.R.S. The court may further order that such person comply with the recommendations of such assessment as part of any sentence to probation, county jail, community corrections, or incarceration with the department of corrections. The assessment and compliance with the recommendations of the assessment shall be at the person's own expense, unless the person is indigent.

(b) In addition to treatment for abuse of controlled substances and alcohol, the court may require the person to participate in mental health treatment if such treatment is recommended in the person's presentence report prepared pursuant to section 16-11-102, C.R.S. The mental health treatment shall be at the person's own expense, unless the person is indigent.

ANNOTATION

Constitutionality. This section does not violate one's due process, equal protection, or constitutional privacy rights, and is neither vague nor overbroad. People v. Mason, 642 P.2d 8 (Colo. 1982).

There is no constitutionally protected right the exercise of which would be threatened by the legislative prohibition of soliciting, pandering, and pimping. People v. Mason, 642 P.2d 8 (Colo. 1982).

There is an element in pandering not necessarily present in pimping, i.e., the affirmative, knowing action of arranging or offering to arrange an assignation for the practice of prostitution by another; therefore, the two crimes are distinguishable and may entail different punishments. People v. Johnson, 195 Colo. 350, 578 P.2d 226 (1978).

18-7-203. Pandering. (1) Any person who does any of the following for money or other thing of value commits pandering:

- (a) Inducing a person by menacing or criminal intimidation to commit prostitution; or
- (b) Knowingly arranging or offering to arrange a situation in which a person may practice prostitution.

(2) (a) Pandering under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section is a class 5 felony. A person who is convicted of pandering under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section shall be required to pay a fine of not less than five thousand dollars and not more than ten thousand dollars in addition to any penalty imposed by the court pursuant to section 18-1.3-401, which additional fine shall be transferred to the state treasurer, who shall transfer the same to the prostitution enforcement cash fund created in section 24-33.5-513, C.R.S.

(b) Pandering under paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section is a class 3 misdemeanor. A person who is convicted of pandering under paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section shall be required to pay a fine of not less than five thousand dollars and not more than ten thousand dollars in addition to any penalty imposed by the court pursuant to section 18-1.3-501, which additional fine shall be transferred to the state treasurer, who shall transfer the same to the prostitution enforcement cash fund created in section 24-33.5-513, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Constitutionality. This section does not violate one's due process, equal protection, or constitutional privacy rights, and is neither vague nor overbroad. People v. Mason, 642 P.2d 8 (Colo. 1982).

Subsection (1)(b) is clearly directed at specific type of conduct, and is designed to punish persons who act as "brokers" to bring prosti-tutes together with their customers. People v. Johnson, 195 Colo. 350, 578 P.2d 226 (1978).

18-7-204. Keeping a place of prostitution. (1) Any person who has or exercises control over the use of any place which offers seclusion or shelter for the practice of prostitution and who performs any one or more of the following commits keeping a place of prostitution if he:

(a) Knowingly grants or permits the use of such place for the purpose of prostitution; or

(b) Permits the continued use of such place for the purpose of prostitution after becoming aware of facts or circumstances from which he should reasonably know that the place is being used for purposes of prostitution.

(2) Keeping a place of prostitution is a class 2 misdemeanor.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-7-204 is similar to former § 40-9-15, C.R.S. 1963, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Defendant must have had control of or assisted in management of house. In order to sustain a conviction under this section it must be shown that the accused had control of and conducted, or assisted in the management of the affairs of the house, so as to be in some manner responsible for the immoral practices there carried on; or must at least have been so in control as to be able to bring about, or assist in bringing about, such immoral practices. To merely aid, abet, advise, or encourage another in the conduct of the house is not within the statute, and to so construe it is to read into it the descriptive elements of an accessory, and so enlarge it by construction. Trozzo v. People, 51 Colo. 323, 117 P. 150 (1911).

18-7-205. Patronizing a prostitute. (1) Any person who performs any of the following with a person not his spouse commits patronizing a prostitute:

(a) Engages in an act of sexual intercourse or of deviate sexual conduct with a prostitute; or

(b) Enters or remains in a place of prostitution with intent to engage in an act of sexual intercourse or deviate sexual conduct.

(2) Patronizing a prostitute is a class 1 misdemeanor. A person who is convicted of patronizing a prostitute may be required to pay a fine of not more than five thousand dollars in addition to any penalty imposed by the court pursuant to section 18-1.3-401 or 18-1.3-503, which additional fine shall be transferred to the state treasurer, who shall transfer the same to the prostitution enforcement cash fund created in section 24-33.5-513, C.R.S.

18-7-205.5. Acquired immune deficiency syndrome testing for persons convicted of patronizing a prostitute. (1) (a) Any person who is convicted of patronizing a prostitute pursuant to section 18-7-205 or a comparable municipal ordinance shall be ordered by the court to submit to a diagnostic test for the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome. The court shall order that such person shall pay the cost of such diagnostic test as a part of the costs of the action.

(b) As used in this subsection (1), “diagnostic test” means a human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) screening test followed by a supplemental HIV test for confirmation in those instances when the HIV screening test is repeatedly reactive.

(2) The results of any test performed pursuant to this section shall be reported to the person tested and to the district attorney or the municipal prosecuting attorney of the jurisdiction in which the person is prosecuted. The district attorney or the municipal prosecuting attorney shall keep the results of such test strictly confidential unless the results of such test indicate the presence of the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome and:

(a) The person is subsequently charged with a violation of section 18-7-201.7 or 18-7-205.7; or

(b) The person is subsequently charged with a violation of section 18-7-201 or 18-7-205 or a comparable municipal ordinance and the district attorney or the municipal prosecuting attorney for the charging jurisdiction seeks the test results for purposes of case evaluation, charging, and sentencing. In such case, the district attorney or municipal prosecuting attorney who obtained the original conviction pursuant to section 18-7-205 or a comparable municipal ordinance may release the test results only to the district attorney or municipal prosecuting attorney in the charging jurisdiction or the said district attorney’s or municipal prosecuting attorney’s designee. Any district attorney or municipal prosecuting attorney who receives test results pursuant to this paragraph (b) shall keep said test results strictly confidential, except as provided in this subsection (2).

(3) (a) The test ordered pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall be performed by a facility that provides ongoing health care.

(b) An employee of the facility that performs the test shall provide, for purposes of pretrial preparation and in court proceedings, oral and documentary evidence limited to whether the person tested pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and subsequently charged under section 18-7-201.7 or 18-7-205.7 was provided notice prior to the date of the offense that he or she had tested positive for the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome and the date of such notice.

18-7-205.7. Patronizing a prostitute with knowledge of being infected with acquired immune deficiency syndrome. (1) Any person who performs any of the acts described in section 18-7-205 (1), with any person not his spouse, and if such person has been tested for acquired immune deficiency syndrome pursuant to section 18-7-201.5 or 18-7-205.5 or otherwise, and the results of such test indicate the presence of the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) which causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome, such person commits patronizing a prostitute with knowledge of being infected with acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

(2) Patronizing a prostitute with knowledge of being infected with acquired immune deficiency syndrome is a class 6 felony.

18-7-206. Pimping. Any person who knowingly lives on or is supported or maintained in whole or in part by money or other thing of value earned, received, procured, or realized by any other person through prostitution commits pimping, which is a class 3 felony.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-7-206 is similar to former § 40-9-11, C.R.S. 1963, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

This section is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Ganatta, 638 P.2d 268 (Colo. 1981).

There is an element in pandering not necessarily present in pimping, i.e., the affirmative, knowing action of arranging or offering to arrange an assignation for the practice of prostitution by another; therefore, the two crimes are distinguishable and may entail different punishments. People v. Johnson, 195 Colo. 350, 578 P.2d 226 (1978).

The phrase "lives on" is defined as to be maintained in life; to acquire a livelihood, to subsist with, on, or by, as to live on spoils of those who live by labor. Trozzo v. People, 51 Colo. 323, 117 P. 150 (1911); People v. Ganatta, 638 P.2d 268 (Colo. 1981).

Receipt of proceeds of prostitution from pimp did not support conviction. See Trozzo v. People, 51 Colo. 323, 117 P. 150 (1911).

Receiving money pursuant to legitimate business transaction not proscribed. One who receives money or any other thing of value from a prostitute pursuant to a legitimate business transaction, i.e., in consideration of the sale of merchandise or services, does not come within the proscription of this section. People v. Ganatta, 638 P.2d 268 (Colo. 1981).

Evidence that defendant was a pimp under this section was held admissible to show motive in prosecution for murder of police officer who was attempting to take defendant's "woman" away from him. Coates v. People, 106 Colo. 483, 106 P.2d 354 (1940).

Establishment of prima facie case. Where the people's evidence establishes that a person knowingly applies a thing of value received through another's act of prostitution to his own benefit, whether it be a business or personal benefit, a prima facie case of proof of the crime of pimping has been made. People v. Ganatta, 638 P.2d 268 (Colo. 1981).

Evidence supporting inference of support by prostitution. Evidence that a prostitute has given all her earnings for a certain time period to the defendant, and that the defendant's other sources of income were insufficient to pay his living expenses, supports a reasonable inference that the defendant had knowingly lived on or been supported in whole or in part by money earned through prostitution. People v. Barron, 195 Colo. 390, 578 P.2d 649 (1978).

Despite defendant's argument that he merely received money for "room rent" and not from acts of prostitution, jury's finding that defendant was guilty of pimping was supported by evidence that purpose of businesses was to allow prostitution, that businesses were given 30% of the money the women received for acts of prostitution, and that defendant had full knowledge of how each business operated. People v. Cerrone, 867 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1993); aff'd on other grounds, 900 P.2d 45 (Colo. 1995).

(1) Any person who, for pecuniary gain, furnishes or makes available to another person any facility, knowing that the same is to be used for or in aid of sexual intercourse between persons who are not husband and wife, or for or in aid of deviate sexual intercourse, or who advertises in any manner that he furnishes or is willing to furnish or make available any such facility for such purposes, commits promoting sexual immorality.

(2) "Facility", as used in this section, means any place or thing which provides seclusion, privacy, opportunity, protection, comfort, or assistance to or for a person or persons engaging or intending to engage in sexual intercourse or deviate sexual intercourse.

(3) Promoting sexual immorality is a class 2 misdemeanor.

Constitutionality. This section does not violate one's due process, equal protection, or constitutional privacy rights, and is neither vague nor overbroad. People v. Mason, 642 P.2d 8 (Colo. 1982).

the legislative prohibition of soliciting, pandering, and pimping. People v. Mason, 642 P.2d 8 (Colo. 1982).

PART 3

PUBLIC INDECENCY

18-7-301. Public indecency. (1) Any person who performs any of the following in a public place or where the conduct may reasonably be expected to be viewed by members of the public commits public indecency:

(a) An act of sexual intercourse; or

(b) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (HB 10-1334), ch. 359, p. 1707, § 1, effective August 11, 2010.)

(c) A lewd exposure of an intimate part as defined by section 18-3-401 (2) of the body, not including the genitals, done with intent to arouse or to satisfy the sexual desire of any person; or

(d) A lewd fondling or caress of the body of another person; or

(e) A knowing exposure of the person's genitals to the view of a person under circumstances in which such conduct is likely to cause affront or alarm to the other person.

(2) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), public indecency is a class 1 petty offense.

(b) Public indecency as described in paragraph (e) of subsection (1) of this section is a class 1 misdemeanor if the violation is committed subsequent to a conviction for a violation of paragraph (e) of subsection (1) of this section or for a violation of a comparable offense in any other state or in the United States, or for a violation of a comparable municipal ordinance.

(3) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (HB 10-1334), ch. 359, p. 1707, § 1, effective August 11, 2010.)

Source: L. 71: R&RE, p. 453, § 1. C.R.S. 1963: § 40-7-301. L. 2008: (1)(d) amended and (1)(e) and (3) added, p. 1716, §§ 1, 2, effective July 1. L. 2010: Entire section amended, (HB 10-1334), ch. 359, p. 1707, § 1, effective August 11.

ANNOTATION

The plain language of this offense reflects the general assembly's intent to make public indecency a strict liability crime without a culpable mental state. Because this section makes it a crime to perform any of the stated acts where the conduct may reasonably be expected to be viewed by members of the public, it does not matter whether the defendant knew he was in a public place. The objective standard depends on what a reasonable person in the defendant's position should have known. Therefore, the trial court did not err in rejecting a jury instruction that would have required the jury to find the defendant knew he was in a public place. People v. Hoskay, 87 P.3d 194 (Colo. App. 2003).

18-7-302. Indecent exposure. (1) A person commits indecent exposure:

(a) If he or she knowingly exposes his or her genitals to the view of any person under circumstances in which such conduct is likely to cause affront or alarm to the other person with the intent to arouse or to satisfy the sexual desire of any person;

(b) If he or she knowingly performs an act of masturbation in a manner which exposes the act to the view of any person under circumstances in which such conduct is likely to cause affront or alarm to the other person.

(2) (a) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2003, p. 1435, § 31, effective July 1, 2003.)

(b) Indecent exposure is a class 1 misdemeanor.

(3) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2002, p. 1587, § 21, effective July 1, 2002.)

(4) Indecent exposure is a class 6 felony if the violation is committed subsequent to two prior convictions of a violation of this section or of a violation of a comparable offense in any other state or in the United States, or of a violation of a comparable municipal ordinance.

(5) For purposes of this section, "masturbation" means the real or simulated touching, rubbing, or otherwise stimulating of a person's own genitals or pubic area for the purpose of sexual gratification or arousal of the person, regardless of whether the genitals or pubic area is exposed or covered.

L. 95: (2) to (4) amended, p. 1254, § 15, effective June 3. L. 2002: (2)(b), (3), and (4) amended, p. 1587, § 21, effective July 1. L. 2003: (2) and (4) amended, p. 1435, § 31, effective July 1. L. 2010: (1) amended and (5) added, (HB 10-1334), ch. 359, p. 1708, § 2, effective August 11.

ANNOTATION

Subsection (1) provides a sufficiently clear standard of conduct, and application of the statute of the defendant's conduct did not deprive him of due process of law. People v. Randall, 711 P.2d 689 (Colo. 1985).

Elements of offense not satisfied simply by proof that defendant was naked. A person must do something that would make his or her genitals visible to another person. People v. Barrus, 232 P.3d 264 (Colo. App. 2009).

Subsection (4) is a sentence enhancer, not a substantive offense. Therefore, the prosecution must prove the prior convictions to the court, not the jury. The burden of proof to the court is preponderance of the evidence. People v. Schreiber, 226 P.3d 1221 (Colo. App. 2009).

CHILD PROSTITUTION

Editor's note: This part 4 was repealed in 1977 and was subsequently recreated and reenacted in 1979, resulting in the addition, relocation, and elimination of sections as well as subject matter. This part 4 was not amended prior to its repeal in 1977. For the text of this part 4 prior to 1977, consult the Colorado statutory research explanatory note and the table itemizing the replacement volumes and supplements to the original volume of C.R.S. 1973 beginning on page vii in the front of this volume.

18-7-401. Definitions. As used in this part 4, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Anal intercourse" means contact between human beings of the genital organs of one and the anus of another.

(2) "Child" means a person under the age of eighteen years.

- (3) “Cunnilingus” means any act of oral stimulation of the vulva or clitoris.
- (4) “Fellatio” means any act of oral stimulation of the penis.
- (5) “Masturbation” means stimulation of the genital organs by manual or other bodily contact, or by any object, exclusive of sexual intercourse.
- (6) “Prostitution by a child” means either a child performing or offering or agreeing to perform any act of sexual intercourse, fellatio, cunnilingus, masturbation, or anal intercourse with any person not the child’s spouse in exchange for money or other thing of value or any person performing or offering or agreeing to perform any act of sexual intercourse, fellatio, cunnilingus, masturbation, or anal intercourse with any child not the person’s spouse in exchange for money or other thing of value.
- (7) “Prostitution of a child” means either inducing a child to perform or offer or agree to perform any act of sexual intercourse, fellatio, cunnilingus, masturbation, or anal intercourse with any person not the child’s spouse by coercion or by any threat or intimidation or inducing a child, by coercion or by any threat or intimidation or in exchange for money or other thing of value, to allow any person not the child’s spouse to perform or offer or agree to perform any act of sexual intercourse, fellatio, cunnilingus, masturbation, or anal intercourse with or upon such child. Such coercion, threat, or intimidation need not constitute an independent criminal offense and shall be determined solely through its intended or its actual effect upon the child.

ANNOTATION

By enacting the definition of “prostitution of a child”, the general assembly sought to prohibit acts by individuals, commonly referred to as pimps, who, in exchange for money or something of value, induce or force a child to perform sex acts. People v. Madden, 111 P.3d 452 (Colo. 2005).

18-7-402. Soliciting for child prostitution. (1) A person commits soliciting for child prostitution if he:

- (a) Solicits another for the purpose of prostitution of a child or by a child;
 - (b) Arranges or offers to arrange a meeting of persons for the purpose of prostitution of a child or by a child; or
 - (c) Directs another to a place knowing such direction is for the purpose of prostitution of a child or by a child.
- (2) Soliciting for child prostitution is a class 3 felony.

Source: L. 79: Entire part RC&RE, p. 741, § 1, effective May 31.

ANNOTATION

The statutory elements of the general inchoate offense of solicitation do not apply to the separate substantive offense of soliciting for child prostitution. The offense of soliciting for child prostitution is an offense in and of itself with its own designated penalty level. People v. Jacobs, 91 P.3d 438 (Colo. App. 2003).

The person seeking the illicit act and the person who acts as the agent between the person seeking the illicit act and the child prostitute are both guilty of solicitation of prostitution under this section. People v. Emerterio, 819 P.2d 516 (Colo. App. 1991), rev’d on other grounds, 839 P.2d 1161 (Colo. 1992).

The necessary mens rea to prove solicitation of a child for prostitution is “knowingly”. People v. Emerterio, 819 P.2d 516 (Colo. App. 1991), rev’d on other grounds, 839 P.2d 1161 (Colo. 1992).

Abandonment and renunciation is not an affirmative defense to soliciting for child prostitution. People v. Jacobs, 91 P.3d 438 (Colo. App. 2003).

18-7-403. Pandering of a child. (1) Any person who does any of the following for money or other thing of value commits pandering of a child:

(a) Inducing a child by menacing or criminal intimidation to commit prostitution; or
(b) Knowingly arranging or offering to arrange a situation in which a child may practice prostitution.

(2) Pandering under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section is a class 2 felony. Pandering under paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section is a class 3 felony.

18-7-403.5. Procurement of a child. Any person who intentionally gives, transports, provides, or makes available, or who offers to give, transport, provide, or make available, to another person a child for the purpose of prostitution of the child commits procurement of a child, which is a class 3 felony.

18-7-404. Keeping a place of child prostitution. (1) Any person who has or exercises control over the use of any place which offers seclusion or shelter for the practice of prostitution and who performs any one or more of the following commits keeping a place of child prostitution if he:

(a) Knowingly grants or permits the use of such place for the purpose of prostitution of a child or by a child; or

(b) Permits the continued use of such place for the purpose of prostitution of a child or by a child after becoming aware of facts or circumstances from which he should reasonably know that the place is being used for purposes of such prostitution.

(2) Keeping a place of child prostitution is a class 3 felony.

18-7-405. Pimping of a child. Any person who knowingly lives on or is supported or maintained in whole or in part by money or other thing of value earned, received, procured, or realized by a child through prostitution commits pimping of a child, which is a class 3 felony.

18-7-405.5. Inducement of child prostitution. (1) Any person who by word or action, other than conduct specified in section 18-7-403 (1)(a), induces a child to engage in an act which is prostitution by a child, as defined in section 18-7-401 (6), commits inducement of child prostitution.

(2) Inducement of child prostitution is a class 3 felony.

ANNOTATION

Defendant's conduct of offering a child money to masturbate in his presence constitutes one type of conduct intended to be punished by the general assembly, and, therefore statute is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Young, 694 P.2d 841 (Colo. 1985).

Statute proscribes inducing a child to masturbate in presence of accused. People v. Young, 694 P.2d 841 (Colo. 1985).

Evidence insufficient to support verdict. If a defendant's attempts at persuasion do not induce the child to perform, or to agree to perform, a sexual act in exchange for money or other thing of value, he is not guilty of inducement of child prostitution. People v. Hansen, 708 P.2d 468 (Colo. App. 1985).

18-7-406. Patronizing a prostituted child. (1) Any person who performs any of the following with a child not his spouse commits patronizing a prostituted child:

- (a) Engages in an act which is prostitution of a child or by a child, as defined in section 18-7-401 (6) or (7); or
 - (b) Enters or remains in a place of prostitution with intent to engage in an act which is prostitution of a child or by a child, as defined in section 18-7-401 (6) or (7).
- (2) Patronizing a prostituted child is a class 3 felony.

Source: L. 79: Entire part RC&RE, p. 741, § 1, effective May 31.

ANNOTATION

The intent behind the crime of patronizing a prostituted child is to punish those people who either profit from or pay for sex with a child. People v. Madden, 111 P.3d 452 (Colo. 2005).

The crime of patronizing a prostituted child requires an exchange of something of value, a commercial transaction. It is precisely this exchange that distinguishes this crime from that of sexual assault. People v. Madden, 111 P.3d 452 (Colo. 2005).

18-7-407. Criminality of conduct. In any criminal prosecution under sections 18-7-402 to 18-7-407, it shall be no defense that the defendant did not know the child's age or that he reasonably believed the child to be eighteen years of age or older.

18-7-408. Severability. If any provision of this part 4 or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions of this part 4 which may be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and, to this end, the provisions of this part 4 are declared to be severable.

When a person is convicted, pleads nolo contendere, or receives a deferred sentence for a violation of the provisions of this part 4 and the court knows the person is a current or former employee of a school district in this state or holds a license or authorization pursuant to the provisions of article 60.5 of title 22, C.R.S., the court shall report such fact to the department of education.

PART 5

SEXUALLY EXPLICIT MATERIALS HARMFUL TO CHILDREN

Editor's note: The Colorado Supreme Court held this entire part 5 unconstitutional because the display provision of section 18-7-502 (5) was overly broad and infringed upon free speech rights of adults and the provision of section 18-7-503 which allowed an exemption to "accredited" museums, libraries, schools, and institutions of higher education was vague. See Tattered Cover, Inc., v. Tooley, 696 P.2d 780 (Colo. 1985).

18-7-501. Definitions. As used in this part 5, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "Child" means a person under the age of eighteen years.
- (2) "Harmful to children" means that quality of any description or representation, in whatever form, of sexually explicit nudity, sexual conduct, sexual excitement, or sadomasochistic abuse, when it:
 - (a) Taken as a whole, predominantly appeals to the prurient interest in sex of children;
 - (b) Is patently offensive to prevailing standards in the adult community as a whole with respect to what is suitable material for children; and
 - (c) Is, when taken as a whole, lacking in serious literary, artistic, political, and scientific value for children.
- (3) "Knowingly" means having general knowledge of, or reason to know, or a belief or ground for belief which warrants further inspection or inquiry, or both, of:
 - (a) The character and content of any material described herein which is reasonably susceptible of examination; and
 - (b) The age of the child; however, an honest mistake shall constitute an excuse from liability hereunder if a reasonable bona fide attempt is made to ascertain the true age of such child.
- (4) "Sadomasochistic abuse" means actual or explicitly simulated flagellation or torture by or upon a person who is nude or clad in undergarments, a mask or bizarre costume, or the condition of being fettered, bound, or otherwise physically restrained on the part of one so clothed.
- (5) "Sexual conduct" means actual or explicitly simulated acts of masturbation, homosexuality, sexual intercourse, sodomy, or physical contact in an act of apparent sexual stimulation or gratification with a person's clothed or unclothed genitals, pubic area, buttocks, or, if such be female, breast.
- (6) "Sexual excitement" means the condition of human male or female genitals when in a state of sexual stimulation or arousal.
- (7) "Sexually explicit nudity" means a state of undress so as to expose the human male or female genitals, pubic area, or buttocks with less than a full opaque covering, or the showing of the female breast with less than a fully opaque covering of any portion thereof below the top of the areola, or the depiction of covered or uncovered male genitals in a discernibly turgid state.

18-7-502. Unlawful acts. (1) It shall be unlawful for any person knowingly to sell or loan for monetary consideration to a child:

- (a) Any picture, photograph, drawing, sculpture, motion picture film, or similar visual representation or image of a person or portion of the human body which depicts sexually explicit nudity, sexual conduct, or sadomasochistic abuse and which, taken as a whole, is harmful to children; or
 - (b) Any book, pamphlet, magazine, printed matter however reproduced, or sound recording which contains any matter enumerated in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), or explicit and detailed verbal descriptions or narrative accounts of sexual excitement, sexual conduct, or sadomasochistic abuse and which, taken as a whole, is harmful to children.
- (2) It shall be unlawful for any person knowingly to sell to a child an admission ticket or pass, or knowingly to admit a child to premises whereon there is exhibited a motion picture, show, or other presentation which, in whole or in part, depicts sexually explicit nudity, sexual conduct, or sadomasochistic abuse and which is harmful to children or to exhibit any such motion picture at any such premises which are not designed to prevent viewing from any public way of such motion picture by children not admitted to any such premises.

(3) It shall be unlawful for any child falsely to represent to any person mentioned in subsection (1) or (2) of this section, or to his agent, that he is eighteen years of age or older, with the intent to procure any material set forth in subsection (1) of this section, or with the intent to procure his admission to any motion picture, show, or other presentation, as set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

(4) It shall be unlawful for any person knowingly to make a false representation to any person mentioned in subsection (1) or (2) of this section, or to his agent, that he is the parent or guardian of any juvenile, or that any child is eighteen years of age or older, with the intent to procure any material set forth in subsection (1) of this section, or with the intent to procure any child's admission to any motion picture, show, or other presentation, as set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

(5) It shall be unlawful for any person knowingly to exhibit, expose, or display in public at newsstands or any other business or commercial establishment frequented by children or where children are or may be invited as part of the general public:

(a) Any picture, photograph, drawing, sculpture, motion picture film, or similar visual representation or image of a person or portion of the human body which depicts sexually explicit nudity, sexual conduct, or sadomasochistic abuse and which is harmful to children; or

(b) Any book, pamphlet, magazine, printed matter however reproduced, or sound recording which contains any matter enumerated in paragraph (a) of this subsection (5), or explicit verbal descriptions or narrative accounts of sexual excitement, sexual conduct, or sadomasochistic abuse and which, taken as a whole, is harmful to children.

(6) A violation of any provision of this section is a class 2 misdemeanor.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Obscenity Law in Colorado: The Struggle to Pass a Constitutional Statute", see 60 Den. L.J. 49 (1982).

Display provisions in subsection (5) unconstitutional. Display provisions must be narrowly drawn so as to only have an incidental effect on the bookseller's right to sell adult materials and an adult's ability to purchase them. Tattered Cover, Inc. v. Tooley, 696 P.2d 780 (Colo. 1985).

18-7-503. Applicability. (1) Nothing contained in this part 5 shall be construed to apply to:

(a) The purchase, distribution, exhibition, or loan of any work of art, book, magazine, or other printed or manuscript material by any accredited museum, library, school, or institution of higher education;

(b) The exhibition or performance of any play, drama, tableau, or motion picture by any theatre, museum, school, or institution of higher education, either supported by public appropriation or which is an accredited institution supported by private funds.

ANNOTATION

Term "accredited" unconstitutionally vague. Tattered Cover, Inc. v. Tooley, 696 P.2d 780 (Colo. 1985).

Deletion of "accredited" from the exception provision creates a classification which is not supported by an overriding justification thus exception violates equal protection. Tattered Cover, Inc. v. Tooley, 696 P.2d 780 (Colo. 1985).

18-7-504. Severability. If any provision of this part 5 or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions of this part 5 which may be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and, to this end, the provisions of this part 5 are declared to be severable.

Source: L. 81: Entire part added, p. 1006, § 1, effective June 29.

ANNOTATION

Severing of unconstitutional provisions under this section would frustrate clear legislative intent; therefore entire part is declared unconstitutional. Tattered Cover, Inc. v. Tooley, 696 P.2d 780 (Colo. 1985).

PART 6

VISUAL REPRESENTATIONS CONTAINING ACTUAL VIOLENCE

18-7-601. Dispensing violent films to minors - misdemeanors. (1) No person shall sell, rent, or otherwise furnish to a minor any video tape, video disc, film representation, or other form of motion picture if:

(a) The average person, applying contemporary community standards, would find that the work, taken as a whole, predominantly appeals to the interest in violence; and

(b) The work depicts or describes, in a patently offensive way, repeated acts of actual, not simulated, violence resulting in serious bodily injury or death; and

(c) The work, taken as a whole, lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value.

(2) For the purposes of this section, "minor" means any person under eighteen years of age, and "serious bodily injury" shall be defined as provided in section 18-1-901 (3) (p).

(3) Any person who violates subsection (1) of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of one thousand dollars; except that, for a second or subsequent offense, the fine shall be five thousand dollars.

(2) For purposes of this section:

(a) "Correctional institution" means a correctional facility, as defined in section 17-1-102 (1.7), C.R.S., a local jail, as defined in section 17-1-102 (7), C.R.S., operated by or under contract with the department of corrections, a jail, a facility operated by or under contract with the department of human services in which juveniles are or may be lawfully held for detention or commitment for the commission of a crime, or a facility of a community corrections program as defined in section 17-27-102 (3), C.R.S.

(b) "Sexual conduct" means sexual contact as defined in section 18-3-401 (4), sexual intrusion as defined in section 18-3-401 (5), or sexual penetration as defined in section 18-3-401 (6). "Sexual conduct" does not include acts of an employee of a correctional institution or a person who has custody of another person that are performed to carry out the necessary duties of the employee or the person with custody.

(3) Sexual conduct in a correctional institution is a class 5 felony if the sexual conduct includes sexual intrusion or sexual penetration and is committed by an employee or contract employee of a correctional institution or by an employee, contract employee, or individual who performs work functions in a correctional institution or for the department of corrections, the department of human services, or a community corrections program.

(4) Sexual conduct in a correctional institution is a class 6 felony if:

(a) The sexual conduct consists solely of sexual contact and is committed by an employee or contract employee of a correctional institution or by an employee, contract employee, or individual who performs work functions in a correctional institution or for the department of corrections, the department of human services, or a community corrections program;

(b) The sexual conduct includes sexual intrusion or sexual penetration and is committed by a volunteer.

(1) A person who knowingly observes or takes a photograph of another person's intimate parts, as defined in section 18-3-401 (2), without that person's consent, in a situation where the person observed or photographed has a reasonable expectation of privacy, commits criminal invasion of privacy.

(3) For the purposes of this section, "photograph" includes a photograph, motion picture, videotape, live feed, print, negative, slide, or other mechanically, electronically, digitally, or chemically reproduced visual material.

PART 1

18-8-101. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "Government" has the same meaning as described in section 18-1-901 (3) (i).
- (2) "Governmental function" has the same meaning as described in section 18-1-901 (3) (j).
- (2.5) "Peace officer" has the same meaning as described in section 16-2.5-101, C.R.S.
- (3) "Public servant" has the same meaning as described in section 18-1-901 (3) (o).

Editor's note: Subsection (2.5) was originally enacted as subsection (4) but was renumbered on revision for ease of location.

ANNOTATION

Corporation or a corporate body is not included in the definition of "government". Bailey v. People, 200 Colo. 549, 617 P.2d 549 (1980).

Employee of the Colorado Springs urban renewal effort is not a "public servant" performing a "governmental function" on behalf of a "government" as defined in this section. Bailey v. People, 200 Colo. 549, 617 P.2d 549 (1980).

18-8-102. Obstructing government operations. (1) A person commits obstructing government operations if he intentionally obstructs, impairs, or hinders the performance of a governmental function by a public servant, by using or threatening to use violence, force, or physical interference or obstacle.

(2) It shall be an affirmative defense that:

- (a) The obstruction, impairment, or hindrance was of unlawful action by a public servant; or
 - (b) The obstruction, impairment, or hindrance was of the making of an arrest; or
 - (c) The obstruction, impairment, or hindrance of a governmental function was by lawful activities in connection with a labor dispute with the government.
- (3) Obstructing government operations is a class 3 misdemeanor.

Cross references: For impeding any public official in the lawful performance of his duties or activities, see § 18-9-110.

18-8-103. Resisting arrest. (1) A person commits resisting arrest if he knowingly prevents or attempts to prevent a peace officer, acting under color of his official authority, from effecting an arrest of the actor or another, by:

(a) Using or threatening to use physical force or violence against the peace officer or another; or

(b) Using any other means which creates a substantial risk of causing bodily injury to the peace officer or another.

(2) It is no defense to a prosecution under this section that the peace officer was attempting to make an arrest which in fact was unlawful, if he was acting under color of his official authority, and in attempting to make the arrest he was not resorting to unreasonable or excessive force giving rise to the right of self-defense. A peace officer acts "under color of his official authority" when, in the regular course of assigned duties, he is called upon to make, and does make, a judgment in good faith based upon surrounding facts and circumstances that an arrest should be made by him.

(3) The term "peace officer" as used in this section and section 18-8-104 means a peace officer in uniform or, if out of uniform, one who has identified himself by exhibiting his credentials as such peace officer to the person whose arrest is attempted.

(4) Resisting arrest is a class 2 misdemeanor.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Impeding Unlawful Arrest: A Question of Authority and Criminal Liability", see 61 Den. L.J. 655 (1984).

The general assembly is free to prescribe different punishments for conduct perceived to result in varying degrees of social consequences, and the distinction between this section and § 18-2-203 (1)(f) is not arbitrary or inadvertent. Therefore § 18-2-203 (1)(f) is not unconstitutional. People v. Wieder, 693 P.2d 1006 (Colo. App. 1984), aff'd, 722 P.2d 396 (Colo. 1986).

Section allows reasonable force. A citizen in resisting an unlawful arrest cannot act with any more force than could the officer in effecting a lawful arrest. This section does not broaden the long accepted rule that one may not act to protect himself or property, whether it be in self-defense or otherwise, with more force than is reasonably necessary. McDaniel v. People, 179 Colo. 153, 499 P.2d 613, cert. denied, 409 U.S. 1060, 93 S. Ct. 558, 34 L. Ed.2d 512 (1972) (decided under former § 40-7-57, C.R.S. 1963).

Use of force prohibited. A person may not use force to resist being placed under arrest or in protective custody by a police officer engaged in the performance of his duties, regardless of whether the police conduct is unlawful. People v. Hess, 687 P.2d 443 (Colo. 1984).

Where defendant was charged with both resisting arrest and second degree assault, one of the factors in determining whether the defendant is guilty of one or both of the charges shall be whether the actions of the defendant, which caused injury to the officers, were continuous, stemming from his efforts to resist arrest, or whether there was a break between his actions to thwart the officers efforts to arrest him and the actions which lead to the injury of the officers. People v. Armstrong, 720 P.2d 165 (Colo. 1986).

A person using violence against a peace officer to avoid arrest commits the crime of resisting arrest up to the point of arrest. However, after the arrest is made, a person in custody who uses violence against a peace officer commits second degree assault under § 18-3-203. People v. Stanley, 56 P.3d 1241 (Colo. App. 2002).

Resisting arrest is distinguishable from second degree assault on a peace officer, as described in § 18-3-203, and third degree assault, as described in § 18-3-204, and therefore these sections do not violate equal protection. This section and § 18-3-204 require that the defendant act knowingly, whereas § 18-3-203 requires that the defendant act intentionally. Further, § 18-3-203 requires the defendant to intend to cause bodily harm, while this section requires only that the defendant use or threaten to use physical force. People v. Whatley, 10 P.3d 668 (Colo. App. 2000).

Self-defense instruction required for case involving unreasonable or excessive force during an arrest when defendant charged with resisting arrest. Self-defense instruction is required when evidence has been presented that officers displayed weapons and were commanded to discharge them in course of effecting arrest and that their conduct was unreasonable or excessive under the circumstances. People v. Fuller, 781 P.2d 647 (Colo. 1989).

Resisting arrest applies only to arrests made by peace officers acting under color of official authority and not to an off-duty police officer privately employed as a security guard for a skating rink. People In Interest of J.J.C., 835 P.2d 553 (Colo. App. 1992), aff'd, 854 P.2d 801 (Colo. 1993).

Defendant may not respond to an unreasonable search or seizure by a threat of violence against the officer and then rely on the exclusionary rule to suppress evidence pertaining to the criminal act of obstructing a peace officer and resisting arrest. People v. Brown, 217 P.3d 1252 (Colo. 2009).

Applied in People v. Jackson, 198 Colo. 193, 601 P.2d 622 (1979); People v. Annan, 665 P.2d 629 (Colo. App. 1983).

18-8-104. Obstructing a peace officer, firefighter, emergency medical services provider, rescue specialist, or volunteer. (1) (a) A person commits obstructing a peace officer, firefighter, emergency medical services provider, rescue specialist, or volunteer when, by using or threatening to use violence, force, physical interference, or an obstacle, such person knowingly obstructs, impairs, or hinders the enforcement of the penal law or the preservation of the peace by a peace officer, acting under color of his or her official authority; knowingly obstructs, impairs, or hinders the prevention, control, or abatement of fire by a firefighter, acting under color of his or her official authority; knowingly obstructs, impairs, or hinders the administration of medical treatment or emergency assistance by an emergency medical service provider or rescue specialist, acting under color of his or her official authority; or knowingly obstructs, impairs, or hinders the administration of emergency care or emergency assistance by a volunteer, acting in good faith to render such care or assistance without compensation at the place of an emergency or accident.

(b) To assure that animals used in law enforcement or fire prevention activities are protected from harm, a person commits obstructing a peace officer or firefighter when, by using or threatening to use violence, force, physical interference, or an obstacle, he or she knowingly obstructs, impairs, or hinders any such animal.

(2) It is not a defense to a prosecution under this section that the peace officer was acting in an illegal manner, if he or she was acting under color of his or her official authority. A peace officer acts “under color of his or her official authority” if, in the regular course of assigned duties, he or she makes a judgment in good faith based on surrounding facts and circumstances that he or she must act to enforce the law or preserve the peace.

(3) Repealed.

(4) Obstructing a peace officer, firefighter, emergency medical service provider, rescue specialist, or volunteer is a class 2 misdemeanor.

(5) For purposes of this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) “Emergency medical service provider” means a member of a public or private emergency medical service agency, whether that person is a volunteer or receives compensation for services rendered as such emergency medical service provider.

(b) “Rescue specialist” means a member of a public or private rescue agency, whether that person is a volunteer or receives compensation for services rendered as such rescue specialist.

ANNOTATION

Interference with peace officer is a matter of both local and statewide concern. City & County of Denver v. Howard, 622 P.2d 568 (Colo. 1981).

And Denver ordinance does not conflict with section. Denver revised municipal code 846.1-2 (interfering with a police officer) does not conflict with this section. City & County of Denver v. Howard, 622 P.2d 568 (Colo. 1981).

If violation of municipal ordinance may result in fine or imprisonment, then the ordinance is penal in nature within the meaning of this section. People v. Shockley, 41 Colo. App. 515, 591 P.2d 589 (1978).

Term "enforcement" as used in subsection (1) encompasses those activities which a peace officer is under a duty to perform in order to give effect to a penal law. People v. Shockley, 41 Colo. App. 515, 591 P.2d 589 (1978).

Obstruction of booking process is violation of this section. People v. Shockley, 41 Colo. App. 515, 591 P.2d 589 (1978).

While mere verbal opposition alone may not suffice to merit a conclusion of interference or obstruction, a combination of statements and acts, viewed in the totality of the circumstances, can form the crime of obstruction. Dempsey v. People, 117 P.3d 800 (Colo. 2005).

Obstruction of a peace officer under this section is a lesser included offense of second degree assault under § 18-3-203 (1)(c) and (1)(f) since all of the elements contained in the definition of obstruction of a peace officer would be necessarily established by the proof of the elements of second degree assault under § 18-3-203 (1)(c). People v. Stafford, 890 P.2d 244 (Colo. App. 1994).

Trial court's failure to instruct the jury that obstruction of a peace officer under this section was a lesser included offense of second degree assault under § 18-3-203 (1)(c) was error requiring a new trial where defendant acknowledged the officers sustained bodily injury but there was no admission that he intended to act in a manner that would cause the injury. People v. Stafford, 890 P.2d 244 (Colo. App. 1994).

Trial court's failure to instruct the jury that obstruction of a peace officer under this section was a lesser included offense of second degree assault under § 18-3-203 (1)(f) was error requiring a new trial where defendant testified that the only action he volitionally took after the first officer entered the cell was to raise his arms. People v. Stafford, 890 P.2d 244 (Colo. App. 1994).

Self-defense is an available defense against a charge under this section when a defendant reasonably believes that unreasonable or excessive force is being used by a peace officer. People v. Barrus, 232 P.3d 264 (Colo. App. 2009).

Defendant may not respond to an unreasonable search or seizure by a threat of violence against the officer and then rely on the exclusionary rule to suppress evidence pertaining to the criminal act of obstructing a peace officer and resisting arrest. People v. Brown, 217 P.3d 1252 (Colo. 2009).

18-8-105. Accessory to crime. (1) A person is an accessory to crime if, with intent to hinder, delay, or prevent the discovery, detection, apprehension, prosecution, conviction, or punishment of another for the commission of a crime, he renders assistance to such person.

(2) "Render assistance" means to:

(a) Harbor or conceal the other; or

(a.5) Harbor or conceal the victim or a witness to the crime; or

(b) Warn such person of impending discovery or apprehension; except that this does not apply to a warning given in an effort to bring such person into compliance with the law; or

(c) Provide such person with money, transportation, weapon, disguise, or other thing to be used in avoiding discovery or apprehension; or

(d) By force, intimidation, or deception, obstruct anyone in the performance of any act which might aid in the discovery, detection, apprehension, prosecution, conviction, or punishment of such person; or

(e) Conceal, destroy, or alter any physical or testimonial evidence that might aid in the discovery, detection, apprehension, prosecution, conviction, or punishment of such person.

(3) Being an accessory to crime is a class 4 felony if the offender knows that the person being assisted has committed, or has been convicted of, or is charged by pending information, indictment, or complaint with a crime, and if that crime is designated by this code as a class 1 or class 2 felony.

(4) Being an accessory to crime is a class 5 felony if the offender knows that the person being assisted is suspected of or wanted for a crime, and if that crime is designated by this code as a class 1 or class 2 felony.

(5) Being an accessory to crime is a class 5 felony if the offender knows that the person being assisted has committed, or has been convicted of, or is charged by pending information, indictment, or complaint with a crime, or is suspected of or wanted for a crime, and if that crime is designated by this code as a felony other than a class 1 or class 2 felony; except that being an accessory to a class 6 felony is a class 6 felony.

(6) Being an accessory to crime is a class 1 petty offense if the offender knows that the person being assisted has committed, or has been convicted of, or is charged by pending information, indictment, or complaint with a crime, or is suspected of or wanted for a crime, and if that crime is designated by this code as a misdemeanor of any class.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "One Year Review of Criminal Law and Procedure", see 35 Dicta 26 (1958). For article, "Incriminating Evidence: What to do With a Hot Potato", see 11 Colo. Law. 880 (1982).

Annotator's note. Since § 18-8-105 is similar to former §§ 40-1-12 and 40-1-13, C.R.S. 1963, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Common-law rule. At common law the accused must have rendered some assistance to a felon, and that assistance must have been such as to shelter him to some extent from prosecution, such as concealing him in his house. Howard v. People, 97 Colo. 550, 51 P.2d 594 (1935).

The common-law rule that a person cannot be prosecuted as an accessory after the fact until after the principal has been convicted does not apply. Howard v. People, 97 Colo. 550, 51 P.2d 594 (1935).

Since the early days of the English common law, it has been generally held that any assistance whatever given to one known to be a felon in order to hinder his being apprehended, or tried, or suffering punishment makes the assistor an accessory after the fact. Self v. People, 167 Colo. 292, 448 P.2d 619 (1968).

Constitutionality. Former section held not unconstitutionally vague since it gave fair warning of the conduct forbidden, and men of common intelligence can readily apprehend the statute's meaning and application. This is the accepted test in this jurisdiction. Self v. People, 167 Colo. 292, 448 P.2d 619 (1968).

This section does not violate a defendant's constitutional privilege against self-incrimination. An accessory after the fact, by definition, does not assent to the commission of the principal's crime. And this section does not impose liability upon defendant for his failure to reveal his complicity, but rather for his affirmative acts which constituted the interdicted conduct. Self v. People, 167 Colo. 292, 448 P.2d 619 (1968).

This section gives fair warning of the conduct forbidden. Men of common intelligence can readily comprehend the statute's meaning and application. People v. Young, 192 Colo. 65, 555 P.2d 1160 (1976).

The word "might" must be construed to mean a reasonable probability that the forbidden result would obtain and thus the statute is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Pratt, 759 P.2d 676 (Colo. 1988).

Neither is this section unconstitutionally overbroad. People v. Pratt, 759 P.2d 676 (Colo. 1988).

Any assistance whatever given to one known to be a felon, including the harboring and protection of the wrongdoer, constitutes "rendering assistance" within the meaning of this section. People v. Sandoval, 791 P.2d 1211 (Colo. App. 1990).

Although the mere failure to inform public authorities of one's knowledge of a felon may not be sufficient to establish that an accused is an accessory to the crime, the offense can be established by proving the defendant was of personal help to, or aided, the offender in avoiding arrest and prosecution. People v. Sandoval, 791 P.2d 1211 (Colo. App. 1990).

The act of an accessory providing a felon with a secret hiding place in order that he would avoid detection and arrest constituted giving shelter or refuge and thus violated the statutory prohibition against harboring and/or concealing. People v. Sandoval, 791 P.2d 1211 (Colo. App. 1990).

The act of harboring or concealing a wanted person, coupled with the requisite intent under this section, forms the basis of the criminal offense. People v. Sandoval, 791 P.2d 1211 (Colo. App. 1990).

For factors supporting the conclusion that accessory was harboring and/or concealing a felon, see People v. Sandoval, 791 P.2d 1211 (Colo. App. 1990).

Section applicable to noncriminal-code crimes. There is nothing in the statutory context of this section indicating a legislative intent to prohibit the application of its provisions on being an accessory to crime to noncriminal-code crimes. Barreras v. People, 636 P.2d 686 (Colo. 1981).

The relevant standard for knowledge in regard to the accessory statute is whether defendant knew the principal had committed a crime. People v. Young, 192 Colo. 65, 555 P.2d 1160 (1976).

Knowledge that a theft has occurred is knowledge sufficient to sustain a conviction of accessory to theft of auto parts. Barreras v. People, 636 P.2d 686 (Colo. 1981).

It is not necessary for the defendant to have known that the crime committed was a particular class. People v. Young, 192 Colo. 65, 555 P.2d 1160 (1976).

When such classification is relevant. The statutory classification of the crime committed by the principal (class one or two felony) is only relevant in determining the degree of the accessory charge (class four or five felony or class one petty offense). People v. Young, 192 Colo. 65, 555 P.2d 1160 (1976).

The phrase "charged with", as used in the former accessory after the fact statute, means more than a mere formal charge and includes responsibility for the crime. Self v. People, 167 Colo. 292, 448 P.2d 619 (1968).

Elements of offense. The offense may be committed by either concealing the commission of the crime from the magistrate, or by harboring or protecting the felon. Howard v. People, 97 Colo. 550, 51 P.2d 594 (1935).

To convict a defendant under this section it must be proved that a crime has been committed; that after full knowledge of the commission of such crime, the defendant concealed the same from the magistrate, or that defendant harbored and protected the criminal after he had full knowledge that the crime had been committed. Lowe v. People, 135 Colo. 209, 309 P.2d 601 (1957).

Where defendant was prosecuted as an accessory to murder, it was necessary for the people to prove that the alleged killer had murdered his wife, and that defendant with knowledge of that fact concealed the commission of the crime, or that after full knowledge of the commission of the crime had harbored and protected the murderer. Lowe v. People, 135 Colo. 209, 309 P.2d 601 (1957).

Whether one is an accessory depends on whether what he did was a personal help to the offender to elude punishment. He need only aid the criminal to escape arrest and prosecution. Lowe v. People, 135 Colo. 209, 309 P.2d 601 (1957).

To establish that an accused is guilty of being an accessory under subsection (5), the following statutory elements must be proven: (1) A crime has been committed; (2) the accused rendered assistance to the actor; (3) the accused intended to hinder, delay, or prevent the discovery, detection, apprehension, prosecution, conviction, or punishment of the principal; (4) the accused knew that the person being assisted has committed, or has been convicted of, or is charged by pending information, indictment, or complaint with such crime, or is suspected of or wanted in connection with such crime; and, (5) the underlying crime is designated as a felony other than a class 1 or 2 felony. Barreras v. People, 636 P.2d 686 (Colo. 1981).

Mere silence is not enough. Mere silence as to one's knowledge of a felony, with no intent to aid the felon, or mere failure to inform the public authorities, does not establish such person as an accessory. Lowe v. People, 135 Colo. 209, 309 P.2d 601 (1957).

Specific statutory definition of "render assistance" must be included in jury instructions, where failure to do so may lead jurors to conclude that the defendant's mere presence at scene of crime is "assistance". People v. Broom, 797 P.2d 754 (Colo. App. 1990).

Section does not retain full knowledge requirement of previous accessory after fact statutes. Prior to the adoption of subsection (1), proof that the defendant had full knowledge of the underlying crime actually committed was a condition precedent to conviction for the statutory offense of accessory after the fact. People v. Barreras, 44 Colo. App. 402, 618 P.2d 704 (1980), aff'd, 636 P.2d 686 (Colo. 1981).

This section has no application to one who was guilty of the principal offense as a complicitor, if the commission of both offenses is grounded upon the same act; a different specific intent is required for accessory offenses than for the crime of conspiracy. People v. Broom, 797 P.2d 754 (Colo. App. 1990).

Evidence that defendant rendered assistance to his companions' efforts to conceal or destroy evidence of murder for which defendant was convicted supported defendant's conviction of being an accessory, on the basis of complicity, to the conduct of his two companions. People v. Ager, 928 P.2d 784 (Colo. App. 1996).

This section has no application to one who was a principal in the commission of the crime. Miller v. People, 92 Colo. 481, 22 P.2d 626 (1933).

Guilt of principal, not legal status, is element of section. The guilt or innocence of an accessory after the fact depends as to one element on the factual status of the principal as to guilt or innocence; not on his legal status as regards liability or nonliability to suffer a penalty. Roberts v. People, 103 Colo. 250, 87 P.2d 251 (1938).

Thus, the state must establish that the crime was in fact committed on the trial of the accessory, and the result of the trial of the principal, if there is a trial, is immaterial. Roberts v. People, 103 Colo. 250, 87 P.2d 251 (1938).

Since this section creates a crime complete in itself, before a conviction may be had every necessary element must be established in the case in which the accessory is on trial, including the factual commission of the antecedent crime concealed or the perpetrator of which was harbored. Roberts v. People, 103 Colo. 250, 87 P.2d 251 (1938).

On the trial of a criminal charge of accessory to a murder, the state is required to establish the killing, and this requirement is not satisfied by evidence of the prior conviction of the principal perpetrator of the crime. Roberts v. People, 103 Colo. 250, 87 P.2d 251 (1938).

To successfully convict a defendant of being an accessory, there must be sufficient evidence presented to show that there was, in fact, a principal who was guilty of the crime charged, even though it is inconsequential whether or not the principal was ever charged with the criminal offense. Britto v. People, 178 Colo. 216, 497 P.2d 325 (1972).

But conviction of principal is not condition precedent. Under this article, being an accessory after the fact is a statutory offense, and a person may be convicted thereof although the principal had not been formally charged with, or convicted of the crime. Howard v. People, 97 Colo. 550, 51 P.2d 594 (1935).

The accessory statute is held to create a substantive statutory crime and, as construed, the conviction of the principal is not a condition precedent to the conviction of an accessory. Roberts v. People, 103 Colo. 250, 87 P.2d 251 (1938).

The conviction of the principal is not a condition precedent to the conviction of an accessory. Lowe v. People, 135 Colo. 209, 309 P.2d 601 (1957).

Accessory distinguished from one who aids or abets a crime. It is not true that one can be indicted as principal whose conduct is such as to make of him an accessory. The penalty provided for this crime is entirely different from that authorized for one who "aids, abets, or assists", or who has advised and encouraged the perpe-tration of the crime, and the essential ingredients of the crimes under comparison are entirely different. Martinez v. People, 166 Colo. 524, 444 P.2d 641 (1968).

Accessory after the fact is not lesser included offense. As to accessories after the fact a specific charge raising that issue is necessary. Questions relating thereto are not included, upon the theory of a lesser included offense, within an information in which the persons accused are charged as principals. Martinez v. People, 166 Colo. 524, 444 P.2d 641 (1968); Mingo v. People, 171 Colo. 474, 468 P.2d 849 (1970).

The court's refusal to instruct the jury that the crime of accessory during the fact is also a lesser included offense when robbery is charged, which was the defendant's principal theory of the case, was not error because accessory during the fact is a separate and distinct offense which was not charged and which could not properly have been the subject of an instruction. Maes v. People, 178 Colo. 46, 494 P.2d 1290 (1972).

And acquittal of a criminal charge does not bar conviction as an accessory after the fact. Howard v. People, 97 Colo. 550, 51 P.2d 594 (1935).

This section requires only that a defendant obstruct anyone in the performance of any act which might aid in detection of the principal; this section does not require that the act be successful. People v. Preciado-Flores, 66 P.3d 155 (Colo. App. 2002).

This section is distinguishable from § 18-8-111. A deliberate attempt to thwart law enforcement is more destructive than conduct not designed to do so. As a result, the greater punishment for the offense of accessory to a crime is justified. People v. Preciado-Flores, 66 P.3d 155 (Colo. App. 2002).

Applied in People v. Roberts, 43 Colo. App. 100, 601 P.2d 654 (1979); People v. McCall, 43 Colo. App. 117, 603 P.2d 950 (1979); People v. Archuleta, 616 P.2d 977 (Colo. 1980); People v. R.V., 635 P.2d 892 (Colo. 1981); People v. Mann, 646 P.2d 352 (Colo. 1982); People v. Simien, 656 P.2d 698 (Colo. 1983).

18-8-106. Refusal to permit inspections. (1) A person commits a class 1 petty offense if, knowing that a public servant is legally authorized to inspect property:

(a) He refuses to produce or make available the property for inspection at a reasonable hour; or

(b) If the property is available for inspection he refuses to permit the inspection at a reasonable hour.

(2) For purposes of this section, "property" means any real or personal property, including books, records, and documents which are owned, possessed, or otherwise subject to the control of the defendant. A "legally authorized inspection" means any lawful search, sampling, testing, or other examination of property, in connection with the regulation of a business or occupation, that is authorized by statute or lawful regulatory provision.

18-8-107. Refusing to aid a peace officer. A person, eighteen years of age or older, commits a class 1 petty offense when, upon command by a person known to him to be a peace officer, he unreasonably refuses or fails to aid the peace officer in effecting or securing an arrest or preventing the commission by another of any offense.

18-8-108. Compounding. (1) A person commits compounding if he accepts or agrees to accept any pecuniary benefit as consideration for:

- (a) Refraining from seeking prosecution of an offender; or
- (b) Refraining from reporting to law enforcement authorities the commission or suspected commission of any crime or information relating to a crime.
- (2) It is an affirmative defense to prosecution under this section that the benefit received by the defendant did not exceed an amount which the defendant reasonably believed to be due as restitution or indemnification for harm caused by the crime.
- (3) Compounding is a class 3 misdemeanor.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-8-108 is similar to former G.S. § 810, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

A promise to compound any criminal offense is itself a crime and affords no valid consideration for a contract. Lomax v. Colo. Nat'l Bank, 46 Colo. 229, 104 P. 85 (1909).

Thief or third person may recompense owner for loss resulting from theft. A thief is under a legal, as well as a moral, duty to repay the person whose property he has stolen, and it is not in itself an illegal contract for him to give his own obligation therefor, or for a third party to agree to recompense the owner for the loss. Giles v. De Cow, 30 Colo. 412, 70 P. 681 (1902); Lomax v. Colo. Nat'l Bank, 46 Colo. 229, 104 P. 85 (1909).

18-8-109. Concealing death. Any person who conceals the death of another person and thereby prevents a determination of the cause or circumstances of death commits a class 1 misdemeanor. For the purpose of this section only, "another person" includes a fetus born dead.

Elements of offense. A violation of this section requires proof that a defendant both conceal a death and, by concealing the death, prevent a determination of the cause of the death. People v. T & S Leasing, Inc., 763 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988).

18-8-110. False report of explosives, weapons, or harmful substances. Any person who reports to any other person that a bomb or other explosive, any chemical or biological agent, any poison or weapon, or any harmful radioactive substance has been placed in any public or private place or vehicle designed for the transportation of persons or property, knowing that the report is false, commits a class 6 felony.

18-8-111. False reporting to authorities. (1) A person commits false reporting to authorities, if:

(a) He or she knowingly:

(I) Causes by any means, including but not limited to activation, a false alarm of fire or other emergency or a false emergency exit alarm to sound or to be transmitted to or within an official or volunteer fire department, ambulance service, law enforcement agency, or any other government agency which deals with emergencies involving danger to life or property; or

(II) Prevents by any means, including but not limited to deactivation, a legitimate fire alarm, emergency exit alarm, or other emergency alarm from sounding or from being transmitted to or within an official or volunteer fire department, ambulance service, law enforcement agency, or any other government agency that deals with emergencies involving danger to life or property; or

(b) He makes a report or knowingly causes the transmission of a report to law enforcement authorities of a crime or other incident within their official concern when he knows that it did not occur; or

(c) He or she makes a report or knowingly causes the transmission of a report to law enforcement authorities pretending to furnish information relating to an offense or other incident within their official concern when he or she knows that he or she has no such information or knows that the information is false; or

(d) He or she knowingly provides false identifying information to law enforcement authorities.

(2) False reporting to authorities is a class 3 misdemeanor; except that if it is committed in violation of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section and committed during the commission of another criminal offense, it is a class 2 misdemeanor.

(3) For purposes of this section, "identifying information" means a person's name, address, birth date, social security number, or driver's license or Colorado identification number.

ANNOTATION

Defendant was not entitled to jury instruction that offense of false reporting to authorities was a lesser included offense of criminal impersonation because false reporting has the additional element of making or transmission of a report to law enforcement authorities. People v. Vasallo-Hernandez, 939 P.2d 440 (Colo. App. 1995).

Nor did evidence support jury instruction on offense of false reporting to authorities as a lesser non-included offense of criminal impersonation absent the initiation of affirmative action intended to communicate information.

People v. Vasallo-Hernandez, 939 P.2d 440 (Colo. App. 1995).

This section is distinguishable from § 18-8-105. A deliberate attempt to thwart law enforcement is more destructive than conduct not designed to do so. As a result, the greater punishment for the offense of accessory to a crime is justified. People v. Preciado-Flores, 66 P.3d 155 (Colo. App. 2002).

False reporting to authorities is not a specific instance of attempt to influence a public servant. The crime of false reporting penalizes those who provide untruthful information to public officials, regardless of an attempt to influence public officials. The attempted influence offense can occur without any false reporting at all. Thus, the attempted influence charge and the false reporting charge do not differ solely by prohibiting general and specific conduct. People v. Blue, 253 P.3d 1273 (Colo. App. 2011).

18-8-112. Impersonating a peace officer. (1) A person who falsely pretends to be a peace officer and performs an act in that pretended capacity commits impersonating a peace officer.

(2) Impersonating a peace officer is a class 6 felony.

18-8-113. Impersonating a public servant. (1) A person commits impersonating a public servant if he falsely pretends to be a public servant other than a peace officer and performs any act in that pretended capacity.

(2) It is no defense to a prosecution under this section that the office the actor pretended to hold did not in fact exist.

(3) Impersonating a public servant is a class 3 misdemeanor.

18-8-114. Abuse of public records. (1) A person commits a class 1 misdemeanor if:

(a) The person knowingly makes a false entry in or falsely alters any public record; or

(b) Knowing the person lacks the authority to do so, the person knowingly destroys, mutilates, conceals, removes, or impairs the availability of any public record; or

(c) Knowing the person lacks the authority to retain the record, the person refuses to deliver up a public record in the person’s possession upon proper request of any person lawfully entitled to receive such record; or

(d) Knowing the person has not been authorized by the custodian of the public record to do so, the person knowingly alters any public record.

(2) As used in this section, the term “public record” includes all official books, papers, or records created, received, or used by or in any governmental office or agency.

Applicability of section. This section applies only to records after they are created, received, or used by a public office. People v. Trujillo, 189 Colo. 23, 536 P.2d 46 (1975).

Records in custody or control of public agency. A violation of this section occurs only where a person falsifies or otherwise corrupts a record which is in, or is required by law to be in, the custody or control of a public agency at the time of falsification. People v. Trujillo, 185 Colo. 14, 521 P.2d 769 (1974).

Limitation imposed on section improper. Imposing limitation that criminal liability for a violation of this section hinges on whether the document in question is open to public inspection is not proper. People v. Trujillo, 185 Colo. 14, 521 P.2d 769 (1974).

Comparison with section 18-5-114. Abuse of public records under this section was not meant to cover the offense of offering a false instrument for recording under § 18-5-114. People v. Trujillo, 189 Colo. 23, 536 P.2d 46

Term “record” includes civil service examination questions with answers. The word, “record”, in the sense in which the word is used in this section, includes examination questions of the state personnel system with the answers of applicants thereto, but does not include unused examination question. Shimmel v. People, 108 Colo. 592, 121 P.2d 491 (1942) (decided under former CSA, C. 48, § 151).

Personal book kept by probate judge for his own information and convenience which contained records not germane to his office was not a public record. Downing v. Brown, 3 Colo. 571 (1877) (decided under former R.S. p. 208, § 69).

Incorrect information on application for college admission was not included within the offense covered by this section. People v. Trujillo, 189 Colo. 23, 536 P.2d 46 (1975).

18-8-115. Duty to report a crime - liability for disclosure. It is the duty of every corporation or person who has reasonable grounds to believe that a crime has been committed to report promptly the suspected crime to law enforcement authorities. Notwithstanding any other provision of the law to the contrary, a corporation or person may disclose information concerning a suspected crime to other persons or corporations for the purpose of giving notice of the possibility that other such criminal conduct may be attempted which may affect the persons or corporations notified. When acting in good faith, such corporation or person shall be immune from any civil liability for such reporting or disclosure. This duty shall exist notwithstanding any other provision of the law to the contrary; except that this section shall not require disclosure of any communication privileged by law.

ANNOTATION

The Tenth Circuit held no general duty exists under this section to stop or report a crime being committed, in context of defending a charge of conspiracy to commit fraud against the government. U.S. v. Zimmermann, 943 F.2d 1204 (10th Cir. 1991).

This section does not require the degree of certainty on the part of a citizen reporting the commission of a crime as does the probable cause standard that police officers are held to in making warrantless arrests. Lunsford v. Western States Life Ins., 919 P.2d 899 (Colo. App. 1996).

18-8-116. Disarming a peace officer. (1) A person commits disarming a peace officer if he or she knowingly, without justification and without consent, removes the firearm or self-defense electronic control device, direct-contact stun device, or other similar device of a peace officer who is acting under color of his or her official authority.

(2) Disarming a peace officer is a class 5 felony.

(3) The term “peace officer” as used in this section means a peace officer in uniform or, if out of uniform, one who has identified himself by exhibiting his credentials as such peace officer to the person.

ANNOTATION

Self-defense instruction required for case involving unreasonable or excessive force during an arrest when defendant charged with attempting to disarm a peace officer. Self-defense instruction is required when evidence has been presented that officers displayed weapons and were commanded to discharge them in course of effecting arrest and that their conduct was unreasonable or excessive under the circumstances. People v. Fuller, 781 P.2d 647 (Colo. 1989).

PART 2

ESCAPE AND OFFENSES
RELATING TO CUSTODY

18-8-201. Aiding escape. (1) Any person who knowingly aids, abets, or assists another person to escape or attempt to escape from custody or confinement commits the offense of aiding escape.

(2) "Escape" is deemed to be a continuing activity commencing with the conception of the design to escape and continuing until the escapee is returned to custody or the attempt to escape is thwarted or abandoned.

(3) "Assist" includes any activity characterized as "rendering assistance" in section 18-8-105.

(4) Aiding escape is a class 2 felony if the person aided was in custody or confinement as a result of conviction of a class 1 or class 2 felony.

(5) Aiding escape is a class 3 felony if the person aided was in custody or confinement and charged with or held for any felony or convicted of any felony other than a class 1 or class 2 felony.

(6) Aiding escape is a class 1 misdemeanor if the person aided was in custody or confinement and charged with, held for, or convicted of a misdemeanor or a petty offense.

Annotator's note. Since § 18-8-201 is similar to former C.L. § 6805, a relevant case construing that provision has been included in the annotations to this section.

Acceptance of tools to effect escape not necessary to constitute crime. Under this section acceptance by a prisoner of files and saws to effect his escape was not necessary to complete defendant's statutory crime of assisting in an escape by conveying to him such tools. Compton v. People, 84 Colo. 106, 268 P. 577 (1928).

Nor is the attempted escape of the prisoner. This section does not require that jail break, or attempted exodus of the prisoner or prisoners from jail, be shown in order to complete the crime. Compton v. People, 84 Colo. 106, 268 P. 577 (1928).

Defense of execution of public duty held not authorized. A penitentiary guard, accused of aiding an escape, whose theory of the case is that he was attempting to apprehend an escaped criminal by using undercover techniques is not entitled to a jury instruction on the affirmative defense of execution of public duty when his authority to make an arrest is limited to penitentiary grounds and there is no evidence he had any authorization to engage in undercover activities. People v. Roberts, 43 Colo. App. 100, 601 P.2d 654 (1979).

Sufficiency of information. An information under this section which charged that defendant aided a prisoner to escape, though no attempt to escape was actually made, by conveying or causing to be delivered to the prisoner instruments to facilitate his escape, held to sufficiently inform defendant of the nature and cause of the accusation. Compton v. People, 84 Colo. 106, 268 P. 577 (1928).

Conviction under this section for aiding fugitive to flee warrants attorney disbarment despite lack of a prior disciplinary record. People v. Bullock, 882 P.2d 1390 (Colo. 1994).

18-8-201.1. Aiding escape from an institution for the care and treatment of persons with mental illness. Any person who knowingly aids the escape of a person who is an inmate of an institution for the care and treatment of persons with mental illness and who knows the person aided is confined in such institution pursuant to a commitment under article 8 of title 16, C.R.S., commits the offense of aiding escape from an institution for the care and treatment of persons with mental illness, which is a class 5 felony.

ANNOTATION

This section was not intended to apply to the situation where a patient in a state mental institution aids the escape of another patient, as opposed to the situation where an employee of the institution aids the escape of a patient. People v. Cornell, 194 Colo. 211, 572 P.2d 137 (1977).

But the passage of section 18-8-208 (6) enabled this section to be applied to a patient of a state mental institution who aids another patient's escape. People v. Cornell, 194 Colo. 211, 572 P.2d 137 (1977).

18-8-202. Inducing prisoners to absent selves. Any person who invites, entices, solicits, or induces any prisoner in custody or confinement to absent himself from his work or who substantially delays or hinders a prisoner in his work commits a class 1 petty offense.

ANNOTATION

18-8-203. Introducing contraband in the first degree. (1) A person commits introducing contraband in the first degree if he or she knowingly and unlawfully:

(a) Introduces or attempts to introduce a dangerous instrument, malt, vinous, or spirituous liquor, as defined in section 12-47-103, C.R.S., fermented malt beverage, as defined in section 12-46-103, C.R.S., controlled substance, as defined in section 18-18-102 (5), or marijuana or marijuana concentrate, as defined in section 27-80-203 (15) and (16), C.R.S., into a detention facility or at any location where an inmate is or is likely to be located, while the inmate is in the custody and under the jurisdiction of a political subdivision of the state of Colorado or the department of corrections, but not on parole; or

(b) Being a person confined in a detention facility, makes any dangerous instrument, controlled substance, marijuana or marijuana concentrate, or alcohol.

(2) Introducing contraband in the first degree is a class 4 felony.

(3) "Detention facility" means any building, structure, enclosure, vehicle, institution, worksite, or place, whether permanent or temporary, fixed or mobile, where persons are or may be lawfully held in custody or confinement under the jurisdiction of the department of corrections or under the authority of the United States, the state of Colorado, or any political subdivision of the state of Colorado.

(4) "Dangerous instrument" as used in this section and in section 18-8-204.1, means a firearm, explosive device or substance (including ammunition), knife or sharpened instrument, poison, acid, bludgeon, or projective device, or any other device, instrument, material, or substance which is readily capable of causing or inducing fear of death or bodily injury, the use of which is not specifically authorized.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Review of New Legislation Relating to Criminal Law", see 11 Colo. Law. 2148 (1982).

Possession of cannabis not lesser included offense. Because proof of possession is not an essential element to the crime of introducing contraband, the crime of possession of cannabis cannot be a lesser included offense thereof. People v. Etchells, 646 P.2d 950 (Colo. App. 1982).

Defective bullet which will not explode does not constitute "ammunition". People v. Hrapski, 658 P.2d 1367 (Colo. 1983).

Evidence sufficient to sustain conviction. Where the mixture of orange peels, orange, and bread floating in a mixture of milk and water which defendant concocted was capable of producing alcohol, and the surrounding circumstance did not reveal any legitimate purpose for such concoction, defendant's actions were sufficient to support a conviction for attempting to introduce contraband in the first degree despite flaws in the sampling and testing procedures of the mixture. People v. Chavez, 743 P.2d 53 (Colo. App. 1987).

Any amount of marihuana sufficient to ingest will support a conviction for possession of contraband in a detention facility, where statute fails to specify an amount. People v. Greenwell, 830 P.2d 1116 (Colo. App. 1992).

Trial court's admission of expert testimony that defendant had been previously addicted to illegal drugs was harmless error in light of court of appeals holding that the lack of an amount of marijuana sufficient to produce a psychoactive effect is not a defense to a charge of possession of contraband in the first degree. People v. Greenwell, 830 P.2d 1116 (Colo. App. 1992).

Return by jury of verdict of guilty on charge brought pursuant to this section was not inconsistent with acquittal on remaining three charges under this section where the incidents occurred on different dates and different locations from the charge for which the defendant was convicted. People v. Quinn, 794 P.2d 1066 (Colo. App. 1990).

Statements made by defendant during booking process regarding possession of marijuana violated fifth amendment privilege and therefore were inadmissible. Because defendant made statements to booking officers denying possessing contraband without the benefit of Miranda warnings, the trial court erred in admitting those statements. The statements did not fall under the booking question exception because the questions were unrelated to basic identifying data, nor did the statements fall under the public safety exception because the officer's questions exceeded the scope by asking about items beyond weapons or dangerous instruments. People v. Allen, 199 P.3d 33 (Colo. App. 2007).

Applied in People v. Scott, 41 Colo. App. 66, 583 P.2d 939 (1978); People v. West, 42 Colo. App. 217, 603 P.2d 967 (1979); People v. Lepik, 629 P.2d 1080 (Colo. 1981); People v. Allen, 636 P.2d 1329 (Colo. App. 1981); Allen v. People, 660 P.2d 896 (Colo. 1983).

18-8-204. Introducing contraband in the second degree. (1) A person commits introducing contraband in the second degree if he or she knowingly and unlawfully:

- (a) Introduces or attempts to introduce contraband into a detention facility; or
- (b) Being a person confined in a detention facility, makes any contraband, as defined in subsection (2) of this section.

(1.5) A person confined in a detention facility commits introducing contraband in the second degree if he or she knowingly and unlawfully introduces or attempts to introduce contraband into a detention facility or at any location where an inmate is likely to be located, while such inmate is in the custody and under the jurisdiction of a political subdivision of the state of Colorado or the department of corrections, but not on parole.

(2) "Contraband" as used in this section means any of the following, but does not include any article or thing referred to in section 18-8-203:

- (a) Any key, key pattern, key replica, or lock pick;
- (b) Any tool or instrument that could be used to cut fence or wire, dig, pry, or file;
- (c) Any money or coin of United States or foreign currency or any written instrument of value;
- (d) Any uncanceled postage stamp or implement of the United States postal service;
- (e) Any counterfeit or forged identification card;
- (f) Any combustible material other than safety matches;
- (g) Any drug, other than a controlled substance as defined in section 18-18-102 (5), in quantities other than those authorized by a physician;
- (h) Any mask, wig, disguise, or other means of altering normal physical appearance which could hinder ready identification;

- (i) Any drug paraphernalia as defined in section 18-18-426;
 - (j) Any material which is "obscene" as defined in section 18-7-101;
 - (k) Any chain, rope, or ladder;
 - (l) Any article or thing that poses or may pose a threat to the security of the detention facility as determined by the administrative head of the detention facility if reasonable notice is given that such article or thing is contraband;
 - (m) For purposes of a facility of the department of corrections or any private contract prison, any cigarettes or tobacco products, as defined in section 39-28.5-101 (5), C.R.S.; or
 - (n) Any portable electronic communication device, including but not limited to cellular telephones; cloned cellular telephones as defined in section 18-9-309; public, private, or family-style radios; pagers; personal digital assistants; any other device capable of transmitting or intercepting cellular or radio signals between providers and users of telecommunication and data services; and portable computers; except those devices authorized by the executive director of the department of corrections or his or her designee.
- (3) Introducing contraband in the second degree is a class 6 felony.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Review of New Legislation Relating to Criminal Law", see 11 Colo. Law. 2148 (1982).

Section deemed unconstitutional delegation of power. Prior to the 1982 amendments, this section contained no standards to guide the administrative head of a detention facility in the exercise of his delegated discretion to declare certain items contraband and was, therefore, an unconstitutional delegation of the general assembly's power to declare an act to be a crime. People v. Lepik, 629 P.2d 1080 (Colo. 1981).

Section deemed constitutional delegation of power. The statute imposes adequate standards and procedural safeguards because it requires the administrative head of a detention facility to determine whether an item poses or may pose a risk prior to categorizing it as contraband, to find that there is a reasonable probability that an item would pose a threat, and to give notice of what is contraband. Allowing each detention facility to determine what is contraband based on the specific conditions present at each facility does not result in an unlawful delegation of authority. People v. Holmes, 959 P.2d 406 (Colo. 1998).

The notice required in this section must be sufficient to inform a visitor that an item constitutes contraband under this section and that bringing the item into the facility therefore constitutes criminal activity. The notice requirement is not satisfied by simply informing the visitor that the item is prohibited. People v. Holmes, 959 P.2d 406 (Colo. 1998).

"Contraband" as used in this section has a limited meaning. It refers only to the items specified in subsection (2)(a) through (k) and any item that the administrative head of the facility has determined to be a risk or probable risk to the security of the facility. People v. Holmes, 959 P.2d 406 (Colo. 1998).

Any amount of marihuana sufficient to ingest will support a conviction for possession of contraband in a detention facility, where statute fails to specify an amount. People v. Greenwell, 830 P.2d 1116 (Colo. App. 1992).

Applied in People v. West, 42 Colo. App. 217, 603 P.2d 967 (1979); People v. Villapando, 984 P.2d 51 (Colo. 1999).

18-8-204.1. Possession of contraband in the first degree. (1) A person being confined in a detention facility commits the crime of possession of contraband in the first degree if he knowingly obtains or has in his possession contraband as listed in section 18-8-203 (1) (a) or alcohol; except that this subsection (1) shall not apply to contraband specified in section 18-18-405.

(2) Possession of contraband in the first degree, other than a dangerous instrument, is a class 6 felony.

(3) Possession of contraband in the first degree involving a dangerous instrument is a class 4 felony.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Review of New Legislation Relating to Criminal Law", see 11 Colo. Law. 2148 (1982).

Purpose of this statute is to control contraband in penal institutions. People v. West, 43 Colo. App. 246, 603 P.2d 967 (1979).

The purpose of this section is to control contraband in penal institutions. People v. Greenwell, 830 P.2d 1116 (Colo. App. 1992); People v. Wyles, 873 P.2d 34 (Colo. App. 1994).

Any amount of contraband sufficient to ingest will support a conviction for possession of contraband under this section. People v. Greenwell, 830 P.2d 1116 (Colo. App. 1992).

Physical possession of contraband is not required in every instance in order to sustain a conviction under this section. Prosecution's burden is also sustained by proof that inmate exercised knowing dominion or control over the object. People v. Wyles, 873 P.2d 34 (Colo. App. 1994).

Marihuana is within the scope of this section as a class of prohibited contraband since it is specifically included in § 18-8-203 and excluded from § 18-18-405. People v. Higgins, 874 P.2d 479 (Colo. App. 1994).

Defendant need not have been lawfully confined. It is immaterial to the realization of the legislative purpose whether persons convicted under this section are or are not lawfully confined within a detention facility. The critical fact to be established is that the accused person was confined as a prisoner in a detention facility. People v. West, 43 Colo. App. 246, 603 P.2d 967 (1979); People v. Higgins, 874 P.2d 479 (Colo. App. 1994).

Fact that defendant had not yet been convicted of a crime and was not convicted of the crimes of which he was accused and which led to his incarceration, did not relieve defendant of prosecution under this statute. People v. Higgins, 874 P.2d 479 (Colo. App. 1994).

Defective bullet which will not explode does not constitute "ammunition". People v. Hrapski, 658 P.2d 1367 (Colo. 1983).

18-8-204.2. Possession of contraband in the second degree. (1) A person being confined in a detention facility commits the crime of possession of contraband in the second degree if he knowingly obtains or has in his possession contraband as defined in section 18-8-204 (2) unless possession is authorized by rule or regulation promulgated by the administrative head of the detention facility.

(2) Possession of contraband in the second degree is a class 1 misdemeanor.

18-8-206. Assault during escape. (1) Any person confined in any lawful place of confinement within the state who, while escaping or attempting to escape, commits an assault with intent to commit bodily injury upon the person of another with a deadly weapon, or by any means of force likely to produce serious bodily injury, commits:

- (a) A class 1 felony, if the person has been convicted of a class 1 felony; or
- (b) A class 2 felony, if the person has been convicted of a felony other than a class 1 felony; or
- (c) A class 3 felony, if the person was in custody or confinement and held for or charged with but not convicted of a felony; or
- (d) A class 3 felony, if the person was in custody or confinement and charged with, held for, or convicted of a misdemeanor or a petty offense.

ANNOTATION

Defendant's act of touching a knife to the officer's person was not sufficient to establish the elements of assault-during-escape. To hold, under the present criminal code, that a threat with a deadly weapon constitutes an assault with intent to commit bodily injury would eliminate any distinction between the crimes of menacing (under § 18-3-206) and assault with intent to commit bodily injury. People v. Wilson, 791 P.2d 1247 (Colo. App. 1990).

Where the defendant aided and abetted an escapee's assault on an officer with intent to inflict bodily injury, there was also sufficient evidence for a jury to find the defendant guilty of assault-during-escape. People v. Wilson, 791 P.2d 1247 (Colo. App. 1990).

Jury instructions adequately informed jury of the elements of assault-during-escape when read as a whole and which were not objected to and included definitions of "bodily injury", "deadly weapon," and "assault". People v. Wilson, 791 P.2d 1247 (Colo. App. 1990).

Applied in People v. West, 42 Colo. App. 217, 603 P.2d 967 (1979).

18-8-207. Holding hostages. Any person in lawful custody or confinement within the state who, while escaping or attempting to escape, holds as hostage any person or by force or threat of force holds any person against his will commits a class 2 felony.

ANNOTATION

Crime of "holding hostages" includes as essential element general intent crime of "escape". People v. Williams, 199 Colo. 515, 611 P.2d 973 (1980).

Term “escape” is not specifically defined in the Colorado criminal code. People v. Williams, 199 Colo. 515, 611 P.2d 973 (1980).

Term “escape” has same meaning for purposes of this section as section 18-8-208. People v. Williams, 199 Colo. 515, 611 P.2d 973 (1980).

Crime one of general intent. No additional mental state is specified for the crime of “holding hostages”. That crime, as well as the crime of “escape”, is one of general rather than specific intent. People v. Williams, 199 Colo. 515, 611 P.2d 973 (1980).

Applied in People v. West, 42 Colo. App. 217, 603 P.2d 967 (1979).

18-8-208. Escapes. (1) A person commits a class 2 felony if, while being in custody or confinement following conviction of a class 1 or class 2 felony, he knowingly escapes from said custody or confinement.

(2) A person commits a class 3 felony if, while being in custody or confinement following conviction of a felony other than a class 1 or class 2 felony, he knowingly escapes from said custody or confinement.

(3) A person commits a class 4 felony if, while being in custody or confinement and held for or charged with but not convicted of a felony, he knowingly escapes from said custody or confinement.

(4) A person commits a class 3 misdemeanor if, while being in custody or confinement following conviction of a misdemeanor or petty offense or a violation of a municipal ordinance, he or she knowingly escapes from said place of custody or confinement.

(5) A person commits a class 1 petty offense if, while being in custody or confinement and held for or charged with but not convicted of a misdemeanor or petty offense or violation of a municipal ordinance, he or she knowingly escapes from said custody or confinement.

(6) A person who knowingly escapes confinement while being confined pursuant to a commitment under article 8 of title 16, C.R.S.:

(a) Commits a class 1 misdemeanor if the person had been charged with a misdemeanor at the proceeding in which the person was committed;

(b) Commits a class 1 misdemeanor if the person had been charged with a felony at the proceeding in which the person was committed, if in the escape the person does not travel from the state of Colorado;

(c) Commits a class 5 felony if the person had been charged with a felony at the proceeding in which the person was committed, if in the escape the person travels outside of the state of Colorado.

(7) In a prosecution for an offense under subsection (6) of this section, it shall be a defense for any person who, while being confined pursuant to a commitment under article 8 of title 16, C.R.S., escapes and who voluntarily returns to the place of confinement.

(8) A person commits a class 5 felony if he knowingly escapes while in custody or confinement pursuant to the provisions of article 19 of title 16, C.R.S.

(9) The minimum sentences provided by sections 18-1.3-401, 18-1.3-501, and 18-1.3-503, respectively, for violation of the provisions of this section shall be mandatory, and the court shall not grant probation or a suspended sentence, in whole or in part; except that the court may grant a suspended sentence if the court is sentencing a person to the youthful offender system pursuant to section 18-1.3-407.

(10) Any person held in a staff secure facility, as defined in section 19-1-103 (101.5), C.R.S., shall be deemed to be in custody or confinement for purposes of this section.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Highlights of the 1955 Legislative Session — Criminal Law and Procedure", see 28 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 69 (1955).

Annotator's note. Since § 18-8-208 is similar to former § 40-7-53, C.R.S. 1963, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

For a discussion of the legislative history of this section, see People v. Williams, 199 Colo. 515, 611 P.2d 973 (1980).

Purpose of statute. The fundamental purpose of the statute is to prevent the evasion of the due course of justice. People v. Velarde, 657 P.2d 953 (Colo. 1983).

The purpose of the felonious escape statute is to deter and punish an escape while a defendant is being held for another felony. People v. Velarde, 657 P.2d 953 (Colo. 1983).

Not constitutionally required that punishment based on nature of escape. There is no constitutional requirement that the classification of an escape and its punishment be based solely or even partially on the nature of the escape. People v. McKnight, 626 P.2d 678 (Colo. 1981).

Classifications set forth in this section are not arbitrary or unreasonable but are founded on rational distinctions. It does not deny equal protection of the law. People v. McKnight, 626 P.2d 678 (Colo. 1981).

Section 18-8-210.1 does not reclassify adjudicated delinquents as felons for purposes of this section. Rather, § 18-8-210.1 allows the prosecution to bring felony escape charges under this section against a sub-set of juveniles who commit an act that, if committed by an adult, would be a felony. Therefore, there is no conflict with art. XVIII, § 4, of the Colorado Constitution. People v. M.B., 90 P.3d 880 (Colo. 2004).

Section 18-1-105 (9)(a)(V) does not require the imposition of a sentence beyond the presumptive range upon conviction of the crime of escape under this section. People v. Jackson, 703 P.2d 618 (Colo. App. 1985); People v. Russell, 703 P.2d 620 (Colo. App. 1985).

Prosecution following administrative transfer not double jeopardy. Where the defendant, as a prisoner under sentence, was administratively transferred to the penitentiary after he failed to return to a minimum security facility, subsequent prosecution on the escape charge would not constitute double jeopardy. People v. Martinez, 656 P.2d 1317 (Colo. 1983).

Punishment for escape is not double jeopardy. Administrative disciplinary action imposed for breaking rules of the prison on prisoners who have escaped or attempted to escape does not constitute punishment for the substantive crime interdicted by this section. Double jeopardy or double punishment for the same crime is therefore not involved. Silva v. People, 158 Colo. 326, 407 P.2d 38 (1965).

Crime of "holding hostages" includes as essential element general intent crime of "escape". People v. Williams, 199 Colo. 515, 611 P.2d 973 (1980).

Escape definition. An escape is the voluntary departure from lawful custody by a prisoner with the intent to evade the due course of justice. Gallegos v. People, 159 Colo. 379, 411 P.2d 956 (1966); Massey v. People, 649 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1982).

The very word "escape" connotes an attitude of mind as well as an act. One does not "escape" without desire and intent to avoid confinement. Gallegos v. People, 159 Colo. 379, 411 P.2d 956 (1966).

Under Colorado law, "escape" is defined as the voluntary departure from lawful custody by a prisoner with the intent to evade the due course of justice. People v. Rivera, 37 Colo. App. 4, 542 P.2d 90 (1975).

Term "escape" has same meaning for purposes of § 18-8-207 as this section. People v. Williams, 199 Colo. 515, 611 P.2d 973 (1980).

Defendant who broke out of a locked building but was apprehended prior to getting over two barbed wire fences could still be guilty of escape. People v. Padilla, 113 P.3d 1260 (Colo. App. 2005).

Term "escape" is not specifically defined in the Colorado criminal code. People v. Williams, 199 Colo. 515, 611 P.2d 973 (1980).

The general assembly added subsection (10) to clarify, rather than restrict, the circumstances under which a juvenile commits an escape. People ex rel. J.A.C., 25 P.3d 1269 (Colo. App. 2001).

The term felony, wherever it may occur in the constitution, or the laws of the state, shall be construed to mean any criminal offense punishable by death or imprisonment in the penitentiary, and none other. People v. Austin, 162 Colo. 10, 424 P.2d 113 (1967).

Escape is crime of general, not specific, intent, consisting of following essential elements: (1) A voluntary act; (2) which constitutes a departure from one of the forms of lawful custody or confinement specified in this section; (3) by a prisoner; and (4) committed "knowingly", i.e., with an awareness on the part of the prisoner that his or her conduct is of the nature proscribed. People v. Williams, 199 Colo. 515, 611 P.2d 973 (1980).

Mental state of "knowingly" applies only to defendant's conduct of escaping from custody or confinement. People v. Benzor, 100 P.3d 542 (Colo. App. 2004).

The intent of the accused to evade the due course of justice is a necessary element in the felony escape. If that was not present, there was no crime. Gallegos v. People, 159 Colo. 379, 411 P.2d 956 (1966).

Thus, a defendant is entitled to adduce evidence bearing upon his capacity to form the particular intent essential to constitute the crime of felonious escape, such as evidence to the effect that he was too drunk to form the state of mind required for the commission of the offense. Gallegos v. People, 159 Colo. 379, 411 P.2d 956 (1966).

"Conviction", for purposes of this section, includes acceptance of a guilty plea. People v. Garcia, 720 P.2d 1003 (Colo. App. 1986).

Mandatory parolees are "in custody" for purposes of application of this section. People v. Garcia, 64 P.3d 857 (Colo. App. 2002).

For the purposes of this section, a person is not "in custody" until an arrest, in the sense of establishing physical control over the arrestee, has been effected. Physical control does not necessarily require physical restraint; the officer's presence and the suspect's submission in concert may be sufficient to establish the assurance, requisite to a determination of physical control, that the suspect will not leave. People v. Thornton, 929 P.2d 729 (Colo. 1996).

The definition of "custody" found in § 16-1-104 (9), does not apply to the offense of escape under this section. People v. Thornton, 929 P.2d 729 (Colo. 1996).

Subsection (10) was not intended to restrict the type of facilities from which a juvenile could escape to only staff secure facilities. People ex rel. J.A.C., 25 P.3d 1269 (Colo. App. 2001).

Portions of this section require that the defendant must be shown to have been convicted of a felony. Schwickrath v. People, 159 Colo. 390, 411 P.2d 961 (1966).

Evidence of a prior conviction is an essential element of the crime of escape after conviction. Ruark v. People, 158 Colo. 287, 406 P.2d 91 (1965); People v. Rivera, 37 Colo. App. 4, 542 P.2d 90 (1975).

One of the essential elements of escape by a felon is that the defendant has either been convicted of a felony or that he has pled guilty to a felony. People v. Austin, 162 Colo. 10, 424 P.2d 113 (1967).

A conviction under this section requires evidence that the defendant was convicted of and is being held for a felony. Massey v. People, 649 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1982).

Evidence of prior conviction is an essential element of the offense of escape. People v. McKnight, 626 P.2d 678 (Colo. 1981).

Evidence of prior conviction. If it be shown that an individual is the person held under a particular mittimus for the commission of a felony, the requirement of this section is necessarily fulfilled. Schwickrath v. People, 159 Colo. 390, 411 P.2d 961 (1966).

The criminal offense of larceny, to which the defendant pled guilty, was punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, and this statement in the mittimus, considered with the statement of sentence of not less than two and not more than five years, is prima facie evidence of the fact the defendant was being punished for a felony for purposes of defining the term felony in the crime of escape. People v. Austin, 162 Colo. 10, 424 P.2d 113 (1967).

The district attorney may introduce a minute order and other materials to establish the defendant's previous conviction. People v. McKnight, 626 P.2d 678 (Colo. 1981).

Specific underlying offense must be shown. In addition, since the classification of the offense of escape is determined by the nature of the underlying crime for which the defendant was held, it is essential that the specific offense upon which the confinement is premised be shown. Massey v. People, 649 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1982).

Judicial notice of class of felony for which defendant confined. The trial court may take judicial notice that the mittimus under which the defendant is confined concerned crimes which were felonies other than class 1 or 2 felonies. Massey v. People, 649 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1982).

Requirements for conviction under subsection (3). For a conviction under subsection (3) to be sustained, there must be evidence that a felony was committed and that defendant was being held for that felony when he escaped. People v. Velarde, 630 P.2d 100 (Colo. 1981), rev'd on other grounds, 657 P.2d 953 (Colo. 1983).

Plea of nolo contendere constitutes conviction within the meaning of this section. People v. Wines, 43 Colo. App. 8, 597 P.2d 1056 (1979).

Error in conviction no justification for escape. An alleged error or irregularity in judicial proceedings leading to conviction and confinement does not so invalidate the judgment and the confinement as to justify escape. The prisoner's remedy is to seek judicial relief from the claimed illegal incarceration. People v. Rivera, 37 Colo. App. 4, 542 P.2d 90 (1975).

Nor reversal of conviction subsequent to escape. It was not a defense to an escape charge that the Colorado supreme court had reversed defendant's conviction, on the merits, regarding the charge for which he was confined, and that such reversal had occurred before defendant's trial on the escape charge. People v. Rivera, 37 Colo. App. 4, 542 P.2d 90 (1975).

A parolee may be convicted of escape even if there is a legal defect in the process of confinement. Such defects are to be challenged through appropriate legal means rather than through unauthorized departure from a custodial facility. People v. Lanzieri, 25 P.3d 1170 (Colo. 2001).

Subsection (3) conviction upheld despite acquittal on underlying felony. Even where a defendant may later be found not guilty of the underlying felony, his conviction for escape under subsection (3) would be upheld. People v. Velarde, 657 P.2d 953 (Colo. 1983).

An escape by a prisoner being held for extradition does not constitute the crime of escape as that offense is defined in this section. People v. Bulmer, 37 Colo. App. 82, 544 P.2d 993 (1975).

The Colorado statute on escape does not apply to a prisoner held in custody for extradition pursuant to an out-of-state conviction or charge. People v. Bulmer, 37 Colo. App. 82, 544 P.2d 993 (1975).

Failure to return to a work release facility upon the expiration of a 10-hour pass is punishable as escape under this section. People v. Lucero, 654 P.2d 835 (Colo. 1982).

Person who absconds from a non-residential community corrections placement commits the crime of escape in violation of this section and § 17-27-106. By its plain language, § 17-27-106 applies to all types of community corrections placements, including non-residential community corrections programs. People v. Forester, 1 P.3d 758 (Colo. App. 2000).

Section applicable to person committed as result of insanity adjudication in past criminal proceeding. There is nothing in the due process clause to prohibit the application of the escape statute or other criminal statutes to those committed to a state facility as a result of a prior insanity adjudication in relation to past criminal charges. People v. Giles, 662 P.2d 1073 (Colo. 1983).

Even though inapplicable to person committed civilly. Given the state's obvious interest in protecting the public from those who previously have engaged in overt criminal conduct but have been relieved of criminal responsibility by reason of legal insanity, there is no difficulty in finding a rational basis for legislation that proscribes as criminal a knowing escape by a person committed to an institution as a result of an insanity adjudication in a criminal case, but does not impose a similar sanction upon a person who escapes from a facility to which he has been civilly committed. People v. Giles, 662 P.2d 1073 (Colo. 1983).

There is no section within the escape statute pertaining to out-of-state convictions or charges. People v. Bulmer, 37 Colo. App. 82, 544 P.2d 993 (1975).

Degree of escape dependent on degree of original crime. This section establishes a standard whereby the seriousness of the crime of escape is determined by classification of the original crime for which the defendant was in custody or confinement. People v. Bulmer, 37 Colo. App. 82, 544 P.2d 993 (1975).

Effect of subsection (6) on application of § 18-8-201.1. The passage of subsection (6) of this section enabled § 18-8-201.1 to be applied to a patient of a state mental institution who aids another patient's escape. People v. Cornell, 194 Colo. 211, 572 P.2d 137 (1977).

Applicability of § 18-8-210. Section 18-8-210 sets forth guidelines for the purpose of determining the grade and classification of an offense under this section where a person is in custody or confinement for an offense which is unclassified. People v. Bulmer, 37 Colo. App. 82, 544 P.2d 993 (1975).

Does not broaden this section. Section 18-8-210 appears to be a "catchall" for unclassified crimes under Colorado statutes and does not broaden the scope of this section. People v. Bulmer, 37 Colo. App. 82, 544 P.2d 993 (1975).

Burden of proof of permission to leave. It is not necessary that the people call every employee of the penitentiary to testify that no permission was given the prisoner to leave. If the prisoner did receive permission, that information is peculiarly within the knowledge of the prisoner himself, and if he would raise the issue of permission he must go forward with some evidence of it. Ruark v. People, 164 Colo. 257, 434 P.2d 124 (1967), cert. denied, 390 U.S. 1044, 88 S. Ct. 1644, 20 L.Ed.2d 306 (1968).

Choice of evils and duress available as defenses. In certain cases, both choice of evils, § 18-1-702, and duress, § 18-1-708, may be relied upon as affirmative defenses to a charge of escape. People v. Handy, 198 Colo. 556, 603 P.2d 941 (1979).

Escapee must immediately report duress, or choice of evils, which he faced to the proper authorities when a position of safety is reached. People v. Handy, 198 Colo. 556, 603 P.2d 941 (1979).

Otherwise, defense not allowed. Where this requirement is not satisfied, the defenses of duress or choice of evils may be properly refused by the trial judge because they are insufficient as a matter of law. People v. Handy, 198 Colo. 556, 603 P.2d 941 (1979).

Prima facie evidence of punishment for felony. Sentence imposed on defendant as shown in a mittimus is prima facie evidence of the fact that defendant was being punished for a felony. People v. Rivera, 37 Colo. App. 4, 542 P.2d 90 (1975).

Evidence established prima facie case of escape. People v. Rivera, 37 Colo. App. 4, 542 P.2d 90 (1975).

Evidence of escape held sufficient. People v. Cardwell, 181 Colo. 421, 510 P.2d 317 (1973).

Proof that a regularly held prisoner was found miles outside the penitentiary walls, wearing civilian clothes, and when apprehended gave a false name, is certainly sufficient evidence from which the jury, without evidence of intent, could find that the prisoner had committed the statutory crime of escape. Ruark v. People, 164 Colo. 257, 434 P.2d 124 (1967), cert. denied, 390 U.S. 1044, 88 S. Ct. 1644, 20 L.Ed.2d 306 (1968).

Separate trial of escape and substantive charges necessary. Where evidence of a prior conviction was essential to the count of an information alleging the crime of escape after conviction, but would be prejudicial to defendant when applied to the other counts alleging robbery and assault, the court abused its discretion in failing to order a separate trial of the charge of escape after conviction. Ruark v. People, 158 Colo. 287, 406 P.2d 91 (1965).

A person 18 years of age or older who escapes while serving a sentence imposed by the juvenile court may be convicted under this section. Until completing the sentence, the person continues under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court and is therefore considered a "juvenile", subject to the provisions of § 18-8-210.1 and, therefore, this section. People v. Young, 908 P.2d 1147 (Colo. App. 1995).

For purposes of escape, there is no conflict between the home detention statute and the intensive supervision program (ISP) statute. In an escape case, the court must make a factual determination whether a defendant was placed in home detention or ISP based on the different elements of home detention and ISP. Home detention and ISP are mutually exclusive, therefore once the court determines whether the defendant was in home detention or on ISP there is no conflict. People v. Garcia, 64 P.3d 857 (Colo. App. 2002).

The court did not err when it instructed the jury on ISP escape without including the "extended limits" language of § 17-27.5-104. People v. Sa'ra, 117 P.3d 51 (Colo. App. 2004).

Applied in Nieto v. People, 160 Colo. 179, 415 P.2d 531 (1966); People v. West, 42 Colo. App. 217, 603 P.2d 967 (1979); People v. Billips, 652 P.2d 1060 (Colo. 1982); Watkins v. People, 655 P.2d 834 (Colo. 1982).

18-8-208.1. Attempt to escape. (1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (1.5) of this section, if a person, while in custody or confinement following conviction of a felony, knowingly attempts to escape from said custody or confinement, he or she commits a class 4 felony. The sentence imposed pursuant to this subsection (1) shall run consecutively with any sentences being served by the offender.

(1.5) If a person, while in custody or confinement following conviction of a felony and either serving a direct sentence to a community corrections program pursuant to section 18-1.3-301, or having been placed in an intensive supervision parole program pursuant to section 17-27.5-101, C.R.S., knowingly attempts to escape from his or her custody or confinement, he or she commits a class 5 felony. The sentence imposed pursuant to this subsection (1.5) may run concurrently or consecutively with any sentence being served by the offender.

(2) If a person, while in custody or confinement and held for or charged with but not convicted of a felony, knowingly attempts to escape from said custody or confinement, he commits a class 5 felony. If the person is convicted of the felony or other crime for which he was originally in custody or confinement, the sentence imposed pursuant to this subsection (2) shall run consecutively with any sentences being served by the offender.

(3) If a person, while in custody or confinement following conviction of a misdemeanor or petty offense, knowingly attempts to escape from said custody or confinement, he is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than two months nor more than four months. The sentence imposed pursuant to this subsection (3) shall run consecutively with any sentences being served by the offender.

(4) If a person, while in custody or confinement and held for or charged with but not convicted of a misdemeanor or petty offense, knowingly attempts to escape from said custody or confinement, he is guilty of a petty offense and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than two months nor more than four months. If the person is convicted of the misdemeanor or petty offense for which he was originally in custody or confinement, the sentence imposed pursuant to this subsection (4) shall run consecutively with any sentences being served by the offender.

(5) The sentences imposed by subsections (1), (1.5), and (2) of this section and the minimum sentences imposed by subsections (3) and (4) of this section shall be mandatory, and the court shall not grant probation or a suspended sentence, in whole or in part; except that the court may grant a suspended sentence if the court is sentencing a person to the youthful offender system pursuant to section 18-1.3-407.

(6) A person who participates in a work release program, a home detention program, as defined in section 18-1.3-106 (1.1), a furlough, an intensive supervision program, or any other similar authorized supervised or unsupervised absence from a detention facility, as defined in section 18-8-203 (3), and who is required to report back to the detention facility at a specified time shall be deemed to be in custody.

(7) Any person held in a staff secure facility, as defined in section 19-1-103 (101.5), C.R.S., shall be deemed to be in custody or confinement for purposes of this section.

ANNOTATION

Applicability to juvenile offender. Statute requiring the mandatory imposition of consecutive sentences for attempted escape, statute applying the statute on attempted escapes to juvenile offenders, and general children's code statute on commitment of persons to the department of institutions were construed to be in accord with each other, and the imposition of consecutive sentences was held to be an exception to the general children's code section limiting commitments of persons 18 years of age or older to a total of two years. People in Interest of E.Z.L., 815 P.2d 987 (Colo. App. 1991).

Even though the trial court was correct in imposing a consecutive sentence, the sentence must be consecutive only with regard to the sentence the juvenile was then serving and not to sentences simultaneously imposed. People in Interest of E.Z.L., 815 P.2d 987 (Colo. App. 1991).

Section 18-1-105 (9)(a)(V) does not require the imposition of a sentence beyond the presumptive range upon conviction of the crime of attempted escape under this section. People v. Martinez, 703 P.2d 619 (Colo. App. 1985).

Consecutive sentence in the aggravated range may be simultaneously imposed if the defendant escapes twice, once from custody while serving the original sentence and again during processing for the first escape. People v. Andrews, 855 P.2d 3 (Colo. App. 1993), aff'd, 871 P.2d 1199 (Colo. 1994).

Sentence enhancement provision, § 18-1-105 (9)(a)(V), did not apply to the crime of escape and attempted escape where the general assembly had provided for enhanced punishment for the crimes of escape elsewhere, specifically in this section and § 18-8-209, and where the general assembly did not amend the enhancement provision to make it specifically applicable to escape crimes. People v. Andrews, 871 P.2d 1199 (Colo. 1994).

Imposition of consecutive sentence for attempted escape charge is consistent with state policy goal where facts underlying the two convictions had not changed even though the sentence for one had been vacated and replaced with another sentence. People v. Spoto, 865 P.2d 907 (Colo. App. 1993).

Consecutive sentence held proper. When a person is reincarcerated on a parole revocation, he is no longer serving his original sentence. Therefore, when a person is sentenced for the crime of escape during a period of mandatory parole for another offense, ordering such a sentence to run consecutive with the period of incarceration for the parole revocation did not violate § 18-1.3-401 (1)(a)(V)(E). People v. Luther, 58 P.3d 1013 (Colo. 2002).

Applied in People v. Hostetter, 44 Colo. App. 44, 606 P.2d 80 (1980).

18-8-209. Concurrent and consecutive sentences. (1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2) of this section, any sentence imposed following conviction of an offense under sections 18-8-201 to 18-8-208 or section 18-8-211 shall run consecutively and not concurrently with any sentence which the offender was serving at the time of the conduct prohibited by those sections.

(2) If an offender was serving a direct sentence to a community corrections program pursuant to section 18-1.3-301 or was in an intensive supervision parole program pursuant to section 17-27.5-101, C.R.S., at the time he or she committed an offense specified in section 18-8-201 or 18-8-208, the sentence imposed following a conviction of said offense may run concurrently with any sentence the offender was serving at the time he or she committed said offense.

ANNOTATION

Sentence enhancement provision, § 18-1-105 (9)(a)(V), did not apply to the crime of escape and attempted escape where the general assembly had provided for enhanced punishment for the crimes of escape elsewhere, specifically in this section and § 18-8-208.1, and where the general assembly did not amend the enhancement provision to make it specifically applicable to escape crimes. People v. Andrews, 871 P.2d 1199 (Colo. 1994).

This section clearly and unambiguously provides that the sentence imposed for an escape conviction must be consecutive only to any sentence the defendant was serving at the time of the escape and not to a sentence subsequently imposed. People v. Eurioste, 12 P.3d 847 (Colo. App. 2000); People v. Williams, 33 P.3d 1187 (Colo. App. 2001).

Thus, where defendant escaped from police custody after being arrested for child abuse, but prior to being tried, the trial court was not required to impose consecutive sentences for defendant's child abuse and escape convictions. However, the court retained discretionary authority to impose a consecutive sentence. People v. Eurioste, 12 P.3d 847 (Colo. App. 2000).

A defendant, who has pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentencing, is not serving a sentence for purposes of this section, and, therefore, the court is not required to impose a consecutive sentence. A defendant cannot be serving a sentence that has not yet been imposed. However, the court has discretion to impose a consecutive or concurrent sentence. People v. Corral, 179 P.3d 837 (Colo. App. 2007).

Section was applicable to defendant who escaped, because defendant was punished pursuant to § 18-8-208 and subject to provisions of this section since his sentence followed a conviction of an offense under several sections. People v. Williams, 33 P.3d 1187 (Colo. App. 2001).

Where at the time of escape the defendant was on mandatory parole, the court was required to impose a consecutive sentence for defendant's escape conviction. People v. Garcia, 64 P.3d 857 (Colo. App. 2002).

Applied in People v. Anderson, 649 P.2d 720 (Colo. App. 1982).

18-8-210. Persons in custody or confinement for unclassified offenses. For the purpose of determining the grade and classification of an offense under sections 18-8-201, 18-8-206, and 18-8-208, a person in custody or confinement for an offense which is unclassified or was not classified under this code at the time the custody or confinement began is deemed to have been in custody or confinement for a class 2 misdemeanor if such custody or confinement was for a misdemeanor offense or a class 5 felony if such custody or confinement was for a felony offense.

ANNOTATION

Section not violative of ex post facto prohibition. This section does not violate the federal and state constitutional prohibitions against ex post facto laws. People v. Billips, 652 P.2d 1060 (Colo. 1982).

This section appears to be a "catchall" for unclassified crimes under Colorado statutes and does not broaden the scope of § 18-8-208. People v. Bulmer, 37 Colo. App. 82, 544 P.2d 993 (1975).

This section sets forth guidelines for the purpose of determining the grade and classification of an offense under § 18-8-208 where a person is in custody or confinement for an offense which is unclassified. People v. Bulmer, 37 Colo. App. 82, 544 P.2d 993 (1975).

There is no section within the escape statute pertaining to out-of-state convictions or charges. People v. Bulmer, 37 Colo. App. 82, 544 P.2d 993 (1975).

18-8-210.1. Persons in custody or confinement - juvenile offenders. For the purposes of this part 2, any reference to custody, confinement, charged with, held for, convicted of, a felony, misdemeanor, or petty offense shall be deemed to include a juvenile who is detained for the commission of an act which would constitute such a felony, misdemeanor, or petty offense if committed by an adult or who is the subject of a petition filed pursuant to article 2 of title 19, C.R.S., alleging the commission of such a delinquent act or a juvenile who has been adjudicated a juvenile delinquent as provided for in article 2 of title 19, C.R.S., for an act which would constitute a felony, misdemeanor, or petty offense if committed by an adult.

Source: L. 83: Entire section added, p. 708, § 3, effective July 1. L. 87: Entire section amended, p. 817, § 23, effective October 1.

ANNOTATION

The provisions of this section do not violate equal protection guarantees under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution or under article II of section 25 of the Colorado Constitution. The section does not create two classes of similarly situated individuals. It applies to juveniles who have been adjudicated delinquents for conduct which, if committed by an adult, would constitute felonies. Allegedly similar class, adults convicted of conduct constituting misdemeanor offenses, are not similarly situated because their conduct is different. People v. Young, 859 P.2d 814 (Colo. 1993).

This section does not implicate a fundamental right under the due process clauses of the United States and Colorado Constitutions, it is therefore subject to rational basis analysis as applied to an adult convicted of escape. The fact that the adult was originally incarcerated for an offense committed as a juvenile is not relevant. People v. Young, 859 P.2d 814 (Colo. 1993).

This section does not reclassify adjudicated delinquents as felons. Rather, the section allows the prosecution to bring felony escape charges against a sub-set of juveniles who commit an act that, if committed by an adult, would be a felony. Therefore, there is no conflict with art. XVIII, § 4, of the Colorado Constitution. People v. M.B., 90 P.3d 880 (Colo. 2004).

A person 18 years of age or older who escapes while serving a sentence imposed by the juvenile court may, through this section, be convicted under § 18-8-208. Until completing the sentence, the person continues under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court and is therefore considered a "juvenile", subject to the provisions of this section and, therefore, § 18-8-208. People v. Young, 908 P.2d 1147 (Colo. App. 1995).

18-8-210.2. Persons in custody or confinement. For the purposes of this part 2, any reference to custody, confinement, charged with, held for, or convicted of, a felony, misdemeanor, or petty offense shall be deemed to include any felony, misdemeanor, or petty offense under the laws of this state and any felony, misdemeanor, or petty offense having similar elements under the laws of another state, the United States, or any territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

18-8-211. Riots in detention facilities. (1) A person confined in any detention facility within the state commits active participation in a riot when he, with two or more other persons, actively participates in violent conduct that creates grave danger of, or does cause, damage to property or injury to persons and substantially obstructs the performance of institutional functions, or commands, induces, entreats, or otherwise attempts to persuade others to engage in such conduct.

(2) Active participation in a riot by any person while confined in any detention facility within the state:

(a) Is a class 3 felony if the participant employs in the course of such participation a deadly weapon, as defined in section 18-1-901 (3) (e), destructive device, as defined in section 18-9-101 (1), or any article used or fashioned in a manner to cause a person to reasonably believe that the article is a deadly weapon, or if the participant, in the course of such participation, represents verbally or otherwise that he or she is armed with a deadly weapon; or

(b) Is a felony if the participant does not employ any such weapon or device in the course of such participation, and, upon conviction thereof, the punishment shall be imprisonment in a detention facility for not less than two years nor more than ten years.

(3) A person confined in any detention facility in this state commits a class 5 felony if, during a riot or when a riot is impending, he intentionally disobeys an order of a detention officer to move, disperse, or refrain from specified activities in the immediate vicinity of the riot or impending riot.

(4) "Detention facility", as used in this section, means any building, structure, enclosure, vehicle, institution, or place, whether permanent or temporary, fixed or mobile, where persons are or may be lawfully held in custody or confinement under the authority of the state of Colorado or any political subdivision of the state of Colorado.

18-8-212. Violation of bail bond conditions. (1) A person who is released on bail bond of whatever kind, and either before, during, or after release is accused by complaint, information, indictment, or the filing of a delinquency petition of any felony arising from the conduct for which he was arrested, commits a class 6 felony if he knowingly fails to appear for trial or other proceedings in the case in which the bail bond was filed or if he knowingly violates the conditions of the bail bond.

(2) A person who is released on bail bond of whatever kind, and either before, during, or after release is accused by complaint, information, indictment, or the filing of a delinquency petition of any misdemeanor arising from the conduct for which he was arrested, commits a class 3 misdemeanor if he knowingly fails to appear for trial or other proceedings in the case in which the bail bond was filed or if he knowingly violates the conditions of the bail bond.

(3) A person convicted under this section shall not be eligible for probation or a suspended sentence and shall be sentenced to imprisonment of not less than one year for violation of subsection (1) of this section and not less than six months for violation of subsection (2) of this section. Any such sentence shall be served consecutively with any sentence for the offense on which the person is on bail.

(4) A criminal action charged pursuant to this section may be tried either in the county where the offense is committed or in the county in which the court that issued the bond is located, if such court is within this state.

ANNOTATION

This section is not unconstitutional on the grounds that it violates the prohibition against double jeopardy. People v. Garcia, 698 P.2d 801 (Colo. 1985).

Nor is this section unconstitutionally vague and overbroad. People v. Garcia, 698 P.2d 801 (Colo. 1985).

This section, when read together with § 16-4-103 (2), is not unconstitutionally vague as applied. This section only applies to knowing violations of bail bond conditions, and the defendant was adequately apprised by the information of the manner in which he had violated those conditions. People v. Baker, 45 P.3d 753 (Colo. App. 2001).

Subsection (1) does not unconstitutionally delegate authority to the district court to define a criminal offense. People v. Baker, 45 P.3d 753 (Colo. App. 2001).

Subsection (3) is not unconstitutional as a denial of equal protection and due process of law. People v. Garcia, 698 P.2d 801 (Colo. 1985).

Evidence that the defendant intended to and attempted to flee the jurisdiction will support an inference that the defendant knowingly failed to appear in violation of this section. People v. Williamson, 839 P.2d 519 (Colo. App. 1992).

No requirement that defendant be advised that violation of a bond condition is a crime. Statute that imposes criminal liability for certain conduct requires only that defendant know what he is doing when he is doing the conduct. People v. Rester, 36 P.3d 98 (Colo. App. 2001).

18-8-213. Unauthorized residency by an adult offender from another state. (1) A person commits the crime of unauthorized residency by an adult offender if the person, in order to stay in the state, is required to have the permission of the compact administrator or a designated deputy of the compact administrator of the interstate compact for adult offender supervision established pursuant to part 28 of article 60 of title 24, C.R.S., and the person:

(a) Is not a resident of this state, has not been accepted by the compact administrator of the interstate compact for adult offender supervision established pursuant to part 28 of article 60 of title 24, C.R.S., and is found residing in this state; or

(b) Is a resident of this state, has not been accepted by the compact administrator of the interstate compact for adult offender supervision established pursuant to part 28 of article 60 of title 24, C.R.S., and is found residing in this state more than ninety days after his or her transfer from the receiving state.

(2) Unauthorized residency by a parolee or probationer is a class 5 felony.

PART 3

BRIBERY AND CORRUPT INFLUENCES

18-8-301. Definitions. The definitions contained in section 18-8-101 are applicable to this part 3, unless the context otherwise requires, and, in addition to those definitions:

(1) “Benefit” means any gain or advantage to the beneficiary, including any gain or advantage to a third person pursuant to the desire or consent of the beneficiary.

(2) “Party officer” means a person who holds any position or office in a political party, whether by election, appointment, or otherwise.

(3) “Pecuniary benefit” is benefit in the form of money, property, commercial interests, or anything else the primary significance of which is economic gain.

(4) “Public servant”, as used in sections 18-8-302 to 18-8-308, includes persons who presently occupy the position of a public servant as defined in section 18-8-101 (3) or have been elected, appointed, or designated to become a public servant although not yet occupying that position.

18-8-302. Bribery. (1) A person commits the crime of bribery, if:

(a) He offers, confers, or agrees to confer any pecuniary benefit upon a public servant with the intent to influence the public servant's vote, opinion, judgment, exercise of discretion, or other action in his official capacity; or

(b) While a public servant, he solicits, accepts, or agrees to accept any pecuniary benefit upon an agreement or understanding that his vote, opinion, judgment, exercise of discretion, or other action as a public servant will thereby be influenced.

(2) It is no defense to a prosecution under this section that the person sought to be influenced was not qualified to act in the desired way, whether because he had not yet assumed office, lacked jurisdiction, or for any other reason.

(3) Bribery is a class 3 felony.

ANNOTATION

Legislative intent. The general assembly apparently intended to define bribery as the commission of any one of the following three acts: (1) offering to confer upon a public servant, (2) conferring upon a public servant, or (3) agreeing to confer upon a public servant. Although the statute does not specify the person with whom the agreement must be made to be guilty of the third act, under a strict construction, the agreement must be with the public servant, not a third party, while a defendant may be guilty of the first two acts even if the public official does not agree to be bribed. People v. Bailey, 41 Colo. App. 504, 595 P.2d 252 (1978), rev'd on other grounds, 200 Colo. 549, 617 P.2d 549 (1980).

The substantive offense of bribery of a judge can be committed by one person. Peo- ple v. Incerto, 180 Colo. 366, 505 P.2d 1309 (1973) (decided under former § 40-7-5, C.R.S. 1963).

Corporation or a corporate body is not included in the definition of "government" in § 18-8-101. Bailey v. People, 200 Colo. 549, 617 P.2d 549 (1980).

Definition of term "public servant" is question of law for court. People v. Bailey, 41 Colo. App. 504, 595 P.2d 252 (1978), rev'd on other grounds, 200 Colo. 549, 617 P.2d 549 (1980).

Employee of the Colorado Springs urban renewal effort is not a "public servant" performing a "governmental function" on behalf of a "government" as defined in § 18-8-101. Bailey v. People, 200 Colo. 549, 617 P.2d 549 (1980).

18-8-303. Compensation for past official behavior. (1) A person commits a class 6 felony, if he:

(a) Solicits, accepts, or agrees to accept any pecuniary benefit as compensation for having, as a public servant, given a decision, opinion, recommendation, or vote favorable to another or for having otherwise exercised a discretion in his favor, whether or not he has in so doing violated his duty; or

(b) Offers, confers, or agrees to confer compensation, acceptance of which is prohibited by this section.

18-8-304. Soliciting unlawful compensation. A public servant commits a class 2 misdemeanor if he requests a pecuniary benefit for the performance of an official action knowing that he was required to perform that action without compensation or at a level of compensation lower than that requested.

18-8-305. Trading in public office. (1) A person commits trading in public office if:

(a) He offers, confers, or agrees to confer any pecuniary benefit upon a public servant or party officer upon an agreement or understanding that he or a particular person will or may be appointed to a public office or designated or nominated as a candidate for public office; or

(b) While a public servant or party officer, he solicits, accepts, or agrees to accept any pecuniary benefit from another upon an agreement or understanding that a particular person will or may be appointed to a public office or designated or nominated as a candidate for public office.

(2) It shall be an affirmative defense that the pecuniary benefit was a customary contribution to political campaign funds solicited and received by lawfully constituted political parties.

(3) Trading in public office is a class 1 misdemeanor.

18-8-306. Attempt to influence a public servant. Any person who attempts to influence any public servant by means of deceit or by threat of violence or economic reprisal against any person or property, with the intent thereby to alter or affect the public servant's decision, vote, opinion, or action concerning any matter which is to be considered or performed by him or the agency or body of which he is a member, commits a class 4 felony.

ANNOTATION

This statute was not unconstitutionally overbroad on its face where it was narrowly tailored to enable citizens to proscribe the type of conduct that rose to a level of criminal culpability and where defendant's letter to a district court judge went beyond a mere expression of criticism and did not lie within the area of protected speech. People v. Janousek, 871 P.2d 1189 (Colo. 1994).

This statute was not unconstitutionally overbroad as applied to defendant where the tone and language of a letter to a district court judge evinced a threatening manner and the language suggested conduct that was squarely within the statute's proscriptions and was therefore unprotected under the first amendment. People v. Janousek, 871 P.2d 1189 (Colo. 1994).

The words "deceit" and "economic reprisal" contained in this section were not unconstitutionally vague where the statute clearly portrayed the type of conduct that subjected a person to criminal prosecution, it defined the offense with particular words to limit the scope of the offense, and the language was plain and unambiguous. People v. Janousek, 871 P.2d 1189 (Colo. 1994).

First amendment does not require the people to prove that defendant subjectively intended to threaten public official. People v. Stanley, 170 P.3d 782 (Colo. App. 2007).

Criminal defendant has no first amendment privilege to threaten violence against a judge even if he does so in the context of a court proceeding. People v. Stanley, 170 P.3d 782 (Colo. App. 2007).

Requisite intent can exist in case where defendant used a false written instrument prepared by another. Prosecution is not obligated to prove defendant either mailed the false instrument or explicitly directed another to do so on defendant's behalf. People v. Taylor, 159 P.3d 730 (Colo. App. 2006).

Evidence supported a charge under statute where defendant gave a false name to a police officer during a traffic stop with intent to alter officer's official actions toward defendant. People v. Beck, 187 P.3d 1125 (Colo. App. 2008).

False reporting to authorities is not a specific instance of attempt to influence a public servant. The crime of false reporting penalizes those who provide untruthful information to public officials, regardless of an attempt to influence public officials. The attempted influence offense can occur without any false reporting at all. Thus, the attempted influence charge and the false reporting charge do not differ solely by prohibiting general and specific conduct. People v. Blue, 253 P.3d 1273 (Colo. App. 2011).

Applied in People v. Norman, 703 P.2d 1261 (Colo. 1985).

18-8-307. Designation of supplier prohibited. (1) No public servant shall require or direct a bidder or contractor to deal with a particular person in procuring any goods or service required in submitting a bid to or fulfilling a contract with any government.

(2) Any provision in invitations to bid or any contract documents prohibited by this section are against public policy and void.

(3) It shall be an affirmative defense that the defendant was a public servant acting within the scope of his authority exercising the right to reject any material, subcontractor, service, bond, or contract tendered by a bidder or contractor because it does not meet bona fide specifications or requirements relating to quality, availability, form, experience, or financial responsibility.

(4) Any public servant who violates the provisions of subsection (1) of this section commits a class 6 felony.

Cross references: For affirmative defenses generally, see §§ 18-1-407, 18-1-710, and 18-1-805.

ANNOTATION

It is within the discretion of a public servant to accept or reject any or all bids submitted, once they have been opened and modification did not constitute a designation of supplier to fulfill a government contract, but an exercise of the public servant's discretion in rejecting a particular subcontractor on the basis of experience. Heritage Pools v. Foothills Metro. Recreation and Park Dist., 701 P.2d 1260 (Colo. App. 1985).

18-8-308. Failing to disclose a conflict of interest. (1) A public servant commits failing to disclose a conflict of interest if he exercises any substantial discretionary function in connection with a government contract, purchase, payment, or other pecuniary transaction without having given seventy-two hours' actual advance written notice to the secretary of state and to the governing body of the government which employs the public servant of the existence of a known potential conflicting interest of the public servant in the transaction with reference to which he is about to act in his official capacity.

(2) A "potential conflicting interest" exists when the public servant is a director, president, general manager, or similar executive officer or owns or controls directly or indirectly a substantial interest in any nongovernmental entity participating in the transaction.

(3) Failing to disclose a conflict of interest is a class 2 misdemeanor.

Section deals with formal, express contracts. Former section prohibiting interest in contract by officer had to do with such contracts as the officer is charged with the duty of making, and with those in the awarding of which he has a voice, or vote, and clearly means formal, express contracts, which are in terms agreed upon, or awarded on bids. People v. Brown, 60 Colo. 276, 152 P. 1169 (1915) (decided under former R.S. 08, § 4994).

ABUSE OF PUBLIC OFFICE

18-8-402. Misuse of official information. (1) Any public servant, in contemplation of official action by himself or by a governmental unit with which he is associated or in reliance on information to which he has access in his official capacity and which has not been made public, commits misuse of official information if he:

(a) Acquires a pecuniary interest in any property, transaction, or enterprise which may be affected by such information or official action; or

(b) Speculates or wagers on the basis of such information or official action; or

(c) Aids, advises, or encourages another to do any of the foregoing with intent to confer on any person a special pecuniary benefit.

(2) Misuse of official information is a class 6 felony.

Statute as basis for jurisdiction. See People v. Heckers, 37 Colo. App. 166, 543 P.2d 1311 (1975).

18-8-403. Official oppression. (1) A public servant, while acting or purporting to act in an official capacity or taking advantage of such actual or purported capacity, commits official oppression if, with actual knowledge that his conduct is illegal, he:

(a) Subjects another to arrest, detention, search, seizure, mistreatment, dispossession, assessment, or lien; or

(b) Has legal authority and jurisdiction of any person legally restrained of his liberty and denies the person restrained the reasonable opportunity to consult in private with a licensed attorney-at-law, if there is no danger of imminent escape and the person in custody expresses a desire to consult with such attorney.

(2) Official oppression is a class 2 misdemeanor.

18-8-404. First degree official misconduct. (1) A public servant commits first degree official misconduct if, with intent to obtain a benefit for the public servant or another or maliciously to cause harm to another, he or she knowingly:

- (a) Commits an act relating to his office but constituting an unauthorized exercise of his official function; or
 - (b) Refrains from performing a duty imposed upon him by law; or
 - (c) Violates any statute or lawfully adopted rule or regulation relating to his office.
- (2) First degree official misconduct is a class 2 misdemeanor.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-8-404 is similar to former § 40-7-46, C.R.S. 1963, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Purpose of section. The remedy for corrupt discharge of a district attorney's duties is in the criminal statutes. McDonald v. Lakewood Country Club, 170 Colo. 355, 461 P.2d 437 (1969).

Section violated by district attorney's failure to prosecute personal friend for possession of marijuana. People v. Larsen, 808 P.2d 1265 (Colo. 1991).

Section applicable although term of office had expired when indictment was filed. Provisions of former section relating to malfeasance in office were applicable to an official violating the terms thereof, although his term of office had expired when the indictment was filed against him. Whalen v. People, 74 Colo. 417, 222 P. 398 (1924).

Definitions. Malfeasance consists of the doing of an act which is wholly wrongful and unlawful; it involves an act which the officer has no authority to do and it is readily distinguished from misfeasance or nonfeasance. People v. Schneider, 133 Colo. 173, 292 P.2d 982 (1956).

18-8-405. Second degree official misconduct. (1) A public servant commits second degree official misconduct if he knowingly, arbitrarily, and capriciously:

- (a) Refrains from performing a duty imposed upon him by law; or
 - (b) Violates any statute or lawfully adopted rule or regulation relating to his office.
- (2) Second degree official misconduct is a class 1 petty offense.

Source: L. 71: R&RE, p. 462, § 1. C.R.S. 1963: § 40-8-405. L. 83: (1)(a) amended, p. 710, § 2, effective June 10.

ANNOTATION

The language "duty imposed upon him by law" is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Beruman, 638 P.2d 789 (Colo. 1982).

But "clearly inherent" duty language in former provision was constitutionally vague. The language proscribing omissions of duty

Elements of offense. Malfeasance in office cannot be charged except for breach of a positive statutory duty or for the performance of a discretionary act with an improper or corrupt motive. People v. Schneider, 133 Colo. 173, 292 P.2d 982 (1956).

Mere ownership of land by a county commissioner, which land was later subdivided, would not constitute malfeasance. People v. Schneider, 133 Colo. 173, 292 P.2d 982 (1956).

Intent may be inferred. Intent to commit embezzlement of public property, official misconduct, and theft may be inferred from the defendants' conduct and the circumstances of the case. People v. Luttrell, 636 P.2d 712 (Colo. 1981).

There must be some direct allegation of facts which constitute malfeasance. To charge malfeasance without more is to state a conclusion which does not afford the defendant an opportunity to know the nature of or to meet the charge against him. People v. Schneider, 133 Colo. 173, 292 P.2d 982 (1956).

Applied in People v. Enlow, 135 Colo. 249, 310 P.2d 539 (1957); People v. Dilger, 196 Colo. 414, 585 P.2d 918 (1978); People v. Montera, 198 Colo. 156, 596 P.2d 1198 (1979); People ex rel. Losavio v. Gentry, 199 Colo. 153, 606 P.2d 57 (1980).

"clearly inherent in the nature of his office" was unconstitutionally vague. The vagueness present in this statutory language impermissibly infringed the constitutional safeguards of fundamental fairness and due process, and created a danger of arbitrary enforcement. People v.

Beruman, 638 P.2d 789 (Colo. 1982).

Criminal responsibility based on legally imposed duty not invalidated. Since this section provides for alternative bases of liability, the first basis of criminal responsibility — refrains from performing a duty imposed by law — is not affected by the invalidity of the second basis — inherent in the nature of the office. People v. Beruman, 638 P.2d 789 (Colo. 1982).

Charge to be based on specific, mandatory duties. A charge of official misconduct must be based upon mandatory legal duties specific to a particular public office, not upon general allegations of duty. People v. Beruman, 638 P.2d 789 (Colo. 1982).

So that accused can prepare defense. An indictment under this section must set out the source of the duty imposed by law which the defendant failed to perform in addition to the specification of the facts alleged to constitute the failure of performance. It is essential that the defendant know what duties are imposed by law which have not been performed in order to allow him to prepare a defense, and further, to enable him to plead the resolution of the charge as a bar to further prosecution for the same offense. People v. Beruman, 638 P.2d 789 (Colo. 1982).

Applied in People ex rel. Losavio v. Gentry, 199 Colo. 153, 606 P.2d 57 (1980).

18-8-406. Issuing a false certificate. A person commits a class 6 felony, if, being a public servant authorized by law to make and issue official certificates or other official written instruments, he makes and issues such an instrument containing a statement which he knows to be false.

Source: L. 71: R&RE, p. 462, § 1. C.R.S. 1963: § 40-8-406. L. 89: Entire section amended, p. 840, § 84, effective July 1.

The language “authorized by law” is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Buckallew, 848 P.2d 904 (Colo. 1993).

The statute is not overbroad where defendant has failed to show that it infringes any fundamental freedom, and it is “self-evident” that the statute is reasonably related to the legitimate governmental interest in protecting the public from the issuance of false documents by public officials. People v. Buckallew, 848 P.2d 904 (Colo. 1993).

The county sheriff falls within the ambit of the statute where it is clear that a sheriff cannot fully perform his functions without the implied power to make official certificates. People v. Buckallew, 848 P.2d 904 (Colo. 1993).

Indictment need not set forth the source of county sheriff’s authority to issue official certificates as long as the duty to refrain from engaging in the prohibited conduct is clear from the count. The indictment clearly stated defendant sheriff was alleged to have breached the duty not to make and issue false official certificates. People v. Buckallew, 848 P.2d 904 (Colo. 1993).

18-8-407. Embezzlement of public property. (1) Every public servant who lawfully or unlawfully comes into possession of any public moneys or public property of whatever description, being the property of the state or of any political subdivision of the state, and who knowingly converts any of such public moneys or property to his own use or to any use other than the public use authorized by law is guilty of embezzlement of public property. Every person convicted under the provisions of this section shall be forever thereafter ineligible and disqualified from being a member of the general assembly of this state or from holding any office of trust or profit in this state.

(2) Embezzlement of public property is a class 5 felony.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, “One Year Review of Criminal Law”, see 34 Dicta 98 (1957).

Annotator’s note. Since § 18-8-407 is similar to former § 40-5-16, C.R.S. 1963, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Intent of section is to prevent misapplication of public funds. The intention of the general assembly is to prevent the misapplication and use of public funds for the benefit and profit of the officer and to strictly prohibit the use of the money by the officer for speculative purposes and for his own gain. This section is based upon and enacted for the purpose of carrying out the prohibition contained in § 13 of art. X, Colo. Const., and by reference to that, the intention becomes manifest and the limits of legislation defined. Moulton v. McLean, 5 Colo. App. 454, 39 P. 78 (1895); People v. Schneider, 133 Colo. 173, 292 P.2d 982 (1956).

It is the using of public money for the official's own gain that is intended to be reached by this section. People v. Schneider, 133 Colo. 173, 292 P.2d 982 (1956).

The purpose of this section is to prevent the intentional misapplication of public funds for private gain by those officers entrusted with the responsibility for the correct disposition of the moneys. People v. Skrbek, 42 Colo. App. 431, 599 P.2d 272 (1979).

"Public moneys" includes federal moneys. Federal moneys deposited into the state treasury are public moneys of the state within the meaning of this section. People v. Skrbek, 42 Colo. App. 431, 599 P.2d 272 (1979).

It was not the intention of the general assembly to prohibit the depositing of money in banks for convenience in safekeeping. Davis v. Dunlevy, 11 Colo. App. 344, 53 P. 250 (1898).

And bond covering money deposited in bank is valid. A bond given to indemnify the clerk of a county court on account of money deposited in a bank is not void as against public policy, nor in violation of this section. Davis v. Dunlevy, 27 Colo. 244, 60 P. 570 (1900).

An essential element of the crime of "embezzlement" or "criminal conversion" is that the property must be owned by another and the conversion thereof must be without the consent and against the will of the party to whom the property belongs, coupled with the fraudulent intent to deprive the owner of the property. People v. Fielden, 162 Colo. 574, 427 P.2d 880 (1967).

Proof of fraudulent intent not required. In order for public official to commit crime of embezzlement, no need for proof of a fraudulent intent. Only mens rea requirement is that actor knowingly convert the property. People v. Morise, 859 P.2d 247 (Colo. App. 1993).

This section has implicit within its language the requisite unlawful conversion and criminal intent. People v. Fielden, 162 Colo. 574, 427 P.2d 880 (1967).

Fraudulent intent is not an element of the offense under this section. People v. McKnight, 39 Colo. App. 280, 567 P.2d 811 (1977).

Intent may be inferred. Intent to commit embezzlement of public property, official misconduct, and theft may be inferred from the defendants' conduct and the circumstances of the case. People v. Luttrell, 636 P.2d 712 (Colo. 1981).

It does not require that defendant be the custodian of the money in question or that he have exclusive control over it. Rogers v. People, 104 Colo. 594, 94 P.2d 453 (1939).

Qualified ownership of funds by state is sufficient to support a charge of embezzlement. People v. Skrbek, 42 Colo. App. 431, 599 P.2d 272 (1979).

Property was not misappropriated as a matter of law where it was used by the defendant as it was intended to be, on special order, with the knowledge of the hospital agent in charge that it was to be delivered to and used by the director himself, not for public use or at public expense. People v. Fielden, 162 Colo. 574, 427 P.2d 880 (1967).

Required particularity of description of property embezzled. The general rule is that the required particularity of description of property embezzled is the same as in case of property stolen. If, however, the court can determine from the indictment that the property therein mentioned is covered by the statute and the jury can determine that it is the property identified by the evidence, no more is mandatory. People v. Warner, 112 Colo. 565, 151 P.2d 975 (1944).

Indictment that sets forth multiple factual allegations, only some of which properly constitute a factual predicate for an embezzlement charge, is legally sufficient when it accurately recites the law and provides at least one factual basis to support the charge. People v. Gallegos, 260 P.3d 15 (Colo. App. 2010).

Purpose of indictment met where sheriff was given sufficient notice of the charged offenses and the facts to allow adequate trial preparation and protect himself from subsequent prosecution for the same offense. People v. Gallegos, 260 P.3d 15 (Colo. App. 2010).

Indictment sufficient in prosecution for embezzlement of public property. People v. Donachy, 196 Colo. 289, 586 P.2d 14 (1978).

Indictment sufficient where sheriff's use of county vehicles and personnel to transport inmates to construct addition to his home satisfied the public moneys or public property element of embezzlement. People v. Gallegos, 260 P.3d 15 (Colo. App. 2010).

Indictment sufficient where sheriff's use of county vehicles and personnel to transport inmates for work cutting firewood involved public moneys or public property because the vehicles were owned by the county and the personnel were county employees. People v. Gallegos, 260 P.3d 15 (Colo. App. 2010).

Indictment insufficient where sheriff's use of manual labor of inmates to construct an addition to his home and cut firewood did not involve public moneys or public property because inmates are not public property. People v. Gallegos, 260 P.3d 15 (Colo. App. 2010).

Although sheriff benefitted from an increase in the value of his home as a result of inmate labor, this increase did not involve coming into possession of public moneys or public property because inmates are not public property, their labor is not public property, and the increased value was to sheriff's private property, not to public property. People v. Gallegos, 260 P.3d 15 (Colo. App. 2010).

Sheriff's profit from the sale of firewood cut by inmates did not involve public moneys or public property because the wood never belonged to the county. People v. Gallegos, 260 P.3d 15 (Colo. App. 2010).

Statute of limitations applicable. The act averred in the indictment must appear to have been committed within the period prescribed by the statute of limitations or an exception must be set forth. If the indictment avers two dates, one of which is so remote as to be barred by the statute of limitations, it is defective. Bustamante v. District Court, 138 Colo. 97, 329 P.2d 1013 (1958).

18-8-408. Designation of insurer prohibited. (1) No public servant shall, directly or indirectly, require or direct a bidder on any public building or construction contract which is about to be or has been competitively bid to obtain from a particular insurer, agent, or broker any surety bond or contract of insurance required in such bid or contract or required by any law, ordinance, or regulation.

(2) Any such public servant who violates any of the provisions of subsection (1) of this section commits a class 1 petty offense.

(3) Any provisions in invitations to bid or in any contract documents prohibited by this section are declared void as against the public policy of this state.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any such public servant acting on behalf of the government from exercising the right to approve or reject a surety bond or contract of insurance as to its form or sufficiency or the lack of financial capability of an insurer selected by a bidder.

(5) This section shall apply only to contracts entered into on or after July 1, 1977.

18-8-501. Definitions. The definitions in sections 18-8-101 and 18-8-301 are applicable to this part 5, and, in addition to those definitions:

(1) "Materially false statement" means any false statement, regardless of its admissibility under the rules of evidence, which could have affected the course or outcome of an official proceeding, or the action or decision of a public servant, or the performance of a governmental function.

(2) (a) "Oath" includes an affirmation and every other mode authorized by law of attesting to the truth of that which is stated. For the purposes of this section, written statements shall also be treated as if made under oath if:

(I) The statement was made on or pursuant to a form bearing notice, authorized by law, to the effect that false statements made therein are punishable; or

(II) The statement recites that it was made under oath, the declarant was aware of such recitation at the time he made the statement and intended that the statement should be represented as a sworn statement, and the statement was in fact so represented by its delivery or utterance with the signed jurat of an officer authorized to administer oaths appended thereto; or

(III) The statement is made, used, or offered with the intent that it be accepted as compliance with a statute, rule, or regulation which requires a statement under oath or other like form of attestation to the truth of the matter contained in the statement; or

(IV) The statement meets the requirements for an unsworn declaration under the "Uniform Unsworn Foreign Declarations Act", part 3 of article 55 of title 12, C.R.S.

(b) An oath is "required or authorized by law" when the use of the oath is specifically provided for by statute, court rule, or appropriate regulatory provision.

(3) "Official proceeding" means a proceeding heard before any legislative, judicial, administrative, or other government agency, or official authorized to hear evidence under oath, including any magistrate, hearing examiner, commissioner, notary, or other person taking testimony or depositions in any such proceedings.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "The Perjurious Defendant: A Proposed Solution to the Defense Lawyer's Conflicting Ethical Obligations to the Court and to His Client", see 59 Den. L.J. 75 (1981).

Not every false statement constitutes perjury. People v. Onorato, 36 Colo. App. 178, 538 P.2d 898 (1975).

To be perjurious, a false statement must also be "material". People v. Onorato, 36 Colo. App. 178, 538 P.2d 898 (1975).

Test of materiality is whether a witness's testimony, at the time his answers were given, could have affected the course or outcome of the investigation; where the subject of the grand jury's investigation was the heroin distribution ring operating in the Colorado Springs area, all leads were material which might have assisted the grand jury in identifying those who had at any time been members of the heroin ring. People v. Maestas, 199 Colo. 143, 606 P.2d 849 (1980).

To be material, a false declaration must have a tendency to influence, impede or hamper the grand jury from pursuing its investigation and it need not be material to the main issue or directed to the primary subject of the investigation. People v. Spomer, 631 P.2d 1156 (Colo. App. 1981).

Materiality. A false statement is material for purposes of § 18-8-502 (1) if it could have affected the outcome of the official proceeding. People v. Scott, 785 P.2d 931 (Colo. 1990); People v. Drake, 841 P.2d 364 (Colo. App. 1992); People v. Ellsworth, 15 P.3d 1111 (Colo. App. 2000).

Materiality properly question of law. This section does not improperly render the element of materiality in a first degree perjury charge a question for the judge and does not violate the constitutional right to a jury trial on every element of the offense. People v. Smith, 198 Colo. 120, 597 P.2d 204 (1979), abrogated in People v. Vance, 933 P.2d 576 (Colo. 1997).

Materiality is an element of the offense of first-degree perjury entitling a defendant to have a jury determine whether his false statement is material. People v. Vance, 933 P.2d 576 (Colo. 1997)(abrogating People v. Smith, 198 Colo. 120, 597 P.2d 204 (1979)).

A mistrial is an "official proceeding" within the meaning of this section. People v. Valdez, 39 Colo. App. 213, 568 P.2d 71 (1977).

Lawyer knowingly presenting perjuring witness commits subornation of perjury. A lawyer who presents a witness knowing that the witness intends to commit perjury thereby engages in the subornation of perjury. People v. Schultheis, 638 P.2d 8 (Colo. 1981).

Written as well as oral statements may be made under "oath". People v. Chaussee, 847 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1992), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

"Official proceeding", which includes judicial proceedings in the course of which depositions are given under oath, must be read as including interrogatories. People v. Chaussee, 847 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1992), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

As a matter of law, an application for court-appointed counsel constitutes part of an official proceeding under subsection (3). People v. Schupper, 140 P.3d 293 (Colo. App. 2006).

Applied in People v. Frayer, 661 P.2d 1189 (Colo. App. 1982), aff'd, 684 P.2d 927 (Colo. 1984).

18-8-502. Perjury in the first degree. (1) A person commits perjury in the first degree if in any official proceeding he knowingly makes a materially false statement, which he does not believe to be true, under an oath required or authorized by law.

(2) Knowledge of the materiality of the statement is not an element of this crime, and the defendant's mistaken belief that his statement was not material is not a defense, although it may be considered by the court in imposing sentence.

(3) Perjury in the first degree is a class 4 felony.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-8-502 is similar to former § 40-7-1, C.R.S. 1963, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Ruling of unconstitutionality disapproved. People v. Loomis, 698 P.2d 1320 (Colo. 1985).

The elements of perjury are the falsity of the testimony, its materiality to the issue in the contempt matter, that the oath was administered in a proper proceeding, and the criminal intent. Marrs v. People, 135 Colo. 458, 312 P.2d 505 (1957).

To convict of the crime of perjury it must appear not only that the alleged false testimony was given, and that it was false, but also that it was material. It must be shown to have had a legitimate tendency to prove or disprove some fact material to the matter being investigated. McClelland v. People, 49 Colo. 538, 113 P. 640 (1911).

Not every false statement constitutes perjury. People v. Onorato, 36 Colo. App. 178, 538 P.2d 898 (1975).

To be perjurious, a false statement must also be "material". People v. Onorato, 36 Colo. App. 178, 538 P.2d 898 (1975).

Witness may be guilty of perjury in swearing falsely to any material circumstance. A witness may be guilty of perjury, not only by swearing corruptly and falsely to the fact which is immediately in issue, but also to any material circumstance which legitimately tends to prove or disprove such fact; or to any circumstance which has the effect to strengthen and corroborate the testimony upon the main fact. Thompson v. People, 26 Colo. 496, 59 P. 51 (1899); Stonebraker v. People, 89 Colo. 550, 4 P.2d 915 (1931); Papas v. People, 98 Colo. 306, 55 P.2d 1330 (1936).

It is not necessary to prove that each and all of the answers of the defendant were false, but if the jury believes beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant had wilfully sworn falsely to any of the material statements charged, it was their duty to find him guilty. Marrs v. People, 135 Colo. 458, 312 P.2d 505 (1957).

Probable cause existed where the evidence, taken in a light most favorable to the prosecution, showed the defendant lied to the small claims court and showed a document to the small claims court that he allegedly forged, the referee stated that someone was being dishonest, and the document presented contained certain features consistent with a tracing attempt. People v. Scott, 785 P.2d 931 (Colo. 1990).

Materiality is question of law. The court must determine, as a matter of law, whether or not the alleged false testimony is material to the issue. Treece v. People, 96 Colo. 32, 40 P.2d 233 (1934).

In a prosecution for perjury the question of the materiality of the testimony alleged to be false is one of law for the court and not the jury. Marrs v. People, 135 Colo. 458, 312 P.2d 505 (1957).

The people have the burden of proving "materiality" of a false statement and that element may not be presumed. People v. Onorato, 36 Colo. App. 178, 538 P.2d 898 (1975).

Materiality. A false statement is material for purposes of subsection (1) if it could have affected the outcome of the official proceeding. People v. Scott, 785 P.2d 931 (Colo. 1990); People v. Drake, 841 P.2d 364 (Colo. App. 1992); People v. Ellsworth, 15 P.3d 1111 (Colo. App. 2000).

Materiality must appear by facts or direct averment. It is not necessary that the information should set forth how or in what way the evidence alleged to be false was material to the issue. It is sufficient if its materiality appears either from the facts alleged or by direct averment. Thompson v. People, 26 Colo. 496, 59 P. 51 (1899); Treece v. People, 96 Colo. 32, 40 P.2d 233 (1934).

Issue of materiality must be submitted to jury. People v. Vance, 933 P.2d 576 (Colo. 1997).

Knowledge of materiality is not an element of the crime of first-degree perjury. People v. Vance, 933 P.2d 576 (Colo. 1997).

Failure to submit issue of materiality to jury is structural defect and not harmless error. People v. Vance, 933 P.2d 576 (Colo. 1997). (disapproved of by Supreme Court in Griego v. People, 19 P.3d 1 (Colo. 2001)).

An incorrect jury instruction in a criminal case is not a structural error; instead, such instruction is subject only to harmless or plain error review, following the U.S. supreme court precedent in Neder v. United States, 527 U.S. 1 (1999). Therefore, if a conviction is not attributable to the incorrect instruction, a conviction shall not be overturned and all contrary precedent is disapproved of. Griego v. People, 19 P.3d 1 (Colo. 2001) (disapproving on this point Cooper v. People, 973 P.2d 1234 (Colo. 1999), Bogdanov v. People, 941 P.2d 247 (Colo. 1997), People v. Vance, 933 P.2d 576 (Colo. 1997), People v. Villa-Villa, 983 P.2d 181 (Colo. App. 1999)).

A perjury conviction may be predicated upon false statements made before a grand jury. People v. Onorato, 36 Colo. App. 178, 538 P.2d 898 (1975).

Statements made during a mistrial may be grounds for perjury under this section. People v. Valdez, 39 Colo. App. 213, 568 P.2d 71 (1977).

The defendant's attempted retraction in a retrial having the same case number as the mistrial does not afford him protection from conviction of first degree perjury under this section. People v. Valdez, 39 Colo. App. 213, 568 P.2d 71 (1977).

Defendant must be informed of issue against him. When tried on an indictment alleging that perjury was committed before a grand jury, the defendant is entitled to be advised by the indictment what the issue is, or as to the nature of the point in question, so that he may prepare himself to show, if he can, that though the testimony be false, it was not material. Treece v. People, 96 Colo. 32, 40 P.2d 233 (1934).

Absence of warning as to privilege against self-incrimination does not protect perjury. The required warning concerning one's privilege against self-incrimination in grand jury appearance relates to admissions concerning past acts, and its absence does not grant witnesses the right to commit perjury before the grand jury. People v. Spencer, 182 Colo. 189, 512 P.2d 260 (1973).

And testimony not to be suppressed in later perjury prosecution. Defendants who were not advised of their rights against self-incrimination prior to their grand jury appearance are not entitled to have their testimony before the grand jury suppressed in later perjury prosecution. People v. Spencer, 182 Colo. 189, 512 P.2d 260 (1973).

Inconsistent answer relating to credibility is material. If a witness, in answering a question asked for the purpose of laying a foundation for impeachment by a showing of former inconsistent statements, testifies under oath that he did not at a designated time and place make certain statements to officers concerning the whereabouts of the defendant on a certain day, which answers are inconsistent with his testimony on the trial, such testimony is material on the question of his credibility, and if knowingly false, constitutes perjury. Papas v. People, 98 Colo. 306, 55 P.2d 1330 (1936).

Necessity for record of testimony. The record of the case in which perjury is alleged to have been committed must be produced, and the people must display so much of the testimony given in that hearing as shows clearly the materiality of the testimony alleged to have been falsified. McClelland v. People, 49 Colo. 538 (1911).

Sufficiency of information. An information for perjury under this section which charges that it was committed in the "district court of San Miguel county, Colorado", charged with sufficient certainty before what court the alleged false oath was taken; it is not necessary to state the name of the clerk of the court by whom the oath was administered. Smith v. People, 32 Colo. 251, 75 P. 914 (1904).

An information charging perjury in a grand jury investigation should set forth the subject matter of the investigation in which the alleged false testimony was given, and facts, not conclusions, must be averred. If the information is defective in this particular, the prosecution must fail. Treece v. People, 96 Colo. 32, 40 P.2d 233 (1934).

An information that in substance alleges that before a certain district court, properly describing the court, upon the trial of a certain criminal case, the defendant was duly sworn as a witness by the deputy clerk who had authority to administer the oath, sufficiently conforms to this section and by necessary implication states that the proceeding in which the oath was administered was one over which the court had jurisdiction. Thompson v. People, 26 Colo. 496, 59 P. 51 (1899); Papas v. People, 98 Colo. 306, 55 P.2d 1330 (1936).

The information charged that the defendant "feloniously, wilfully, corruptly, and falsely" swore that he did not make the statement and then charged that he did make the statement, and concludes with the further allegation "all of which he, the said A, well knew". With these allegations in the information, it is not conceivable that the defendant was not advised that he was charged with swearing falsely that a certain fact was true, with knowledge of its falsity. To hold otherwise requires so "skillful an elimination of the obvious" that it would not be attempted except by one versed in the technicalities and evasions of the criminal law. Papas v. People, 98 Colo. 306, 55 P.2d 1330 (1936).

Sufficiency of indictment. Indictment for perjury was not fatally defective where the indictment, by implication, indicated that the converse of defendant's testimony was the truth, and the indictment was sufficiently definite to inform the defendant of the charges against him so as to enable him to prepare a defense and to plead the judgment in bar of any further prosecutions for the same offense. People v. Mazza, 182 Colo. 166, 511 P.2d 885 (1973).

Insufficiency of indictment. The perjury charge failed to set forth with sufficient specificity the falsity of the defendant's statements before the grand jury so as to enable him to prepare his defense, where the device by which the defendant was charged with perjury in the indictment was a verbatim partial transcript of the defendant's actual testimony before the grand jury, but there was no averment of fact to demonstrate the falsity of the testimony on which the charge was based. People v. Broncucia, 189 Colo. 334, 540 P.2d 1101 (1975), cert. denied, 431 U.S. 937, 97 S. Ct. 2647, 53 L. Ed.2d 254 (1977).

Joinder of counts in indictment. Two separate counts charging perjury, the first under this section and the second under the following section, were properly joined in one indictment where the two counts were admittedly based upon the same facts, and such facts would render defendants guilty under both sections. People v. Swanson, 109 Colo. 371, 125 P.2d 637 (1942).

Proof required to support conviction. To support a conviction for perjury, the offense must be proved by the testimony of two witnesses or the testimony of one witness and independent, corroborating evidence which is deemed of equal weight to the testimony of another witness. People v. Mazza, 182 Colo. 166, 511 P.2d 885 (1973).

Evidence of defendant's familiarity with crime about which he perjured himself. Evidence in prosecution for perjury which, if believed by the jury, demonstrated defendant's familiarity with the alleged crime about which defendant was being interrogated by the grand jury, was relevant and material to show defendant's knowledge of the perjurious nature of his testimony and his motive for falsifying his testimony. People v. Mazza, 182 Colo. 166, 511 P.2d 885 (1973).

Jury instruction. Where jury instruction failed to include an essential part of the two-witness rule in prosecution for perjury, i.e., that the corroborating evidence must be deemed of equal weight to the testimony of another witness, this omission was harmless error inasmuch as there was direct testimony by three witnesses contradicting the defendant's grand jury testimony. People v. Mazza, 182 Colo. 166, 511 P.2d 885 (1973).

Evidence sufficient to establish guilt beyond reasonable doubt. People v. Concialdi, 191 Colo. 561, 554 P.2d 1094 (1976).

Written versus oral statements. The difference between first- and second-degree perjury does not turn on whether a statement is written versus oral, but rather upon whether a false statement made under oath occurs in an "official proceeding." People v. Chaussee, 847 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1992), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, People v. Chaussee, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

Applied in People v. Francois, 198 Colo. 249, 598 P.2d 144 (1979); People v. Maestas, 199 Colo. 143, 606 P.2d 849 (1980).

18-8-503. Perjury in the second degree. (1) A person commits perjury in the second degree if, other than in an official proceeding, with an intent to mislead a public servant in the performance of his duty, he makes a materially false statement, which he does not believe to be true, under an oath required or authorized by law.

(2) Perjury in the second degree is a class 1 misdemeanor.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-8-503 is similar to former § 40-7-1, C.R.S. 1963, a relevant case construing that provision has been included in the annotations to this section.

To make a valid oath, for the falsity of which perjury will lie, there must be in some form, in the presence of an officer authorized to administer it, an unequivocal and present act by which the affiant consciously takes upon himself the obligation of an oath. Rogers v. People, 161 Colo. 317, 422 P.2d 377 (1966).

No presumption of oath-taking is held to apply where the notary's testimony was equivocal on the issue of whether the oath was taken. Rogers v. People, 161 Colo. 317, 422 P.2d 377 (1966).

Independent proof required where presumption fails. Although in some cases a criminal conviction may be had upon a bare presumption, the presumption so allowed must fall where there is some evidence to counter the notion that the oath was actually taken. The courts then require independent proof of the actual oath-taking. Rogers v. People, 161 Colo. 317, 422 P.2d 377 (1966).

Written versus oral statements. The difference between first- and second-degree perjury does not turn on whether a statement is written versus oral, but rather upon whether a false statement made under oath occurs in an "official proceeding." People v. Chaussee, 847 P.2d 156 (Colo. Applied in People v. Francois, 198 Colo. 249, 598 P.2d 144 (1979).

18-8-504. False swearing. (1) A person commits false swearing if he knowingly makes a materially false statement, other than those prohibited by sections 18-8-502 and 18-8-503, which he does not believe to be true, under an oath required or authorized by law.

(2) False swearing is a class 1 petty offense.

ANNOTATION

Applied in People v. Francois, 198 Colo. 249, 598 P.2d 144 (1979).

18-8-505. Perjury or false swearing - inconsistent statements. (1) Where a person charged with perjury or false swearing has made inconsistent material statements under oath, both having been made within the period of the statute of limitations, the prosecution may proceed by setting forth the inconsistent statements in a single count alleging in the alternative that one or the other was false and not believed by the defendant. In such case it shall not be necessary for the prosecution to prove which statement was false but only that one or the other statement was false and not believed by the defendant to be true.

(2) The highest offense of which a person may be convicted in such an instance shall be determined by hypothetically assuming each statement to be false. If the assumption establishes perjury of different degrees, the person may be convicted of the lesser degree at most. If perjury or false swearing is established by the making of the two statements, the person may be convicted of false swearing at the most.

18-8-506. Perjury and false swearing - proof. In any prosecution for perjury or false swearing, except a prosecution based upon inconsistent statements pursuant to section 18-8-505, falsity of a statement may not be established solely through contradiction by the uncorroborated testimony of a single witness.

ANNOTATION

Section requires testimony of two witnesses or witness plus corroboration of equal weight. In face of the positiveness of § 16-5-204, requiring at least two witnesses to the same fact to find an indictment for perjury, it would seem incongruous to prosecute and convict on less direct proof than is required to indict, and, therefore, if a conviction is to stand on the testimony of one witness and corroborating circumstances, such corroboratory proof must meet the strict requirement of quality equal to the weight of another witness. Lindsay v. People, 119 Colo. 438, 204 P.2d 878 (1949) (decided under former CSA, C. 48, § 448).

To convict one of the crime of perjury the offense must be proved by the testimony of two witnesses, or the testimony of one witness and by other independent and corroborating circumstances which are deemed of equal weight of the testimony of another witness. Marrs v. People, 135 Colo. 458, 312 P.2d 505 (1957) (decided under former § 39-3-2, CRS 53); People v. Losinki, 710 P.2d 1163 (Colo. App. 1985).

Requirements of "two-witness" rule can be satisfied by independent documentary evidence if that evidence is of sufficient weight. People v. Fueston, 717 P.2d 978 (Colo. App. 1985), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 749 P.2d 952 (Colo. 1988); People v. Ellsworth, 15 P.3d 1111 (Colo. App. 2000).

18-8-507. Perjury and false swearing - previous criminal action. No prosecution may be brought under section 18-8-502, 18-8-503, or 18-8-504 if the substance of the defendant's false statement is the entry of a plea of not guilty in a previous criminal action in which he or she was accused of an offense.

18-8-508. Perjury - retraction. No person shall be convicted of perjury in the first degree if he retracted his false statement in the course of the same proceeding in which it was made. Statements made in separate hearings at separate stages of the same trial or administrative proceeding shall be deemed to have been made in the course of the same proceeding. Retraction is an affirmative defense.

ANNOTATION

The only requirement under the section is that the witness recant during the course of a single continuous trial, which may include various hearings and stages which are a part thereof. People v. Valdez, 39 Colo. App. 213, 568 P.2d 71 (1977).

A trial which ends in a mistrial and a retrial are "separate proceedings", rather than "separate hearings at separate stages of the same trial". People v. Valdez, 39 Colo. App. 213, 568 P.2d 71 (1977).

18-8-509. Perjury and false swearing - irregularities no defense. (1) It is no defense to a prosecution under sections 18-8-502 to 18-8-504 that:

- (a) The defendant was not competent, for reasons other than mental disability or immaturity, to make the false statement alleged;
- (b) The statement was inadmissible under the law of evidence;
- (c) The oath was administered or taken in an irregular manner; or
- (d) The person administering the oath lacked authority to do so, if the taking of the oath was required by law.

ANNOTATION

Acts constituting crime must be set forth specifically. Where the acts constituting the offense are not described by the statute, as in this section, the acts which constitute the crime must be set forth with enough specificity to give notice to the defendant. People v. Zupancic, 192 Colo. 231, 557 P.2d 1195 (1976).

Insufficient indictment. Where the prosecution contends in an indictment that the defendant attempted to induce "a grand juror" to disclose the names of the witnesses who appeared before the grand jury and their testimony, the indictment failed to disclose the prohibited conduct. People v. Zupancic, 192 Colo. 231, 557 P.2d 1195 (1976).

Applied in People v. Donachy, 196 Colo. 289, 586 P.2d 14 (1978).

(2) "Physical evidence", as used in this section, includes any article, object, document, record, or other thing of physical substance.

(3) Tampering with physical evidence is a class 6 felony.

The tampering statute is intended to criminalize behavior that interferes with an official proceeding even if that behavior occurs before the proceeding is instituted. In this case, the defendant knew proceedings were “about to be instituted”, because the defendant was about to be taken into custody and had a controlled substance that would have been discovered upon a search incident to arrest. People v. Atencio, 140 P.3d 73 (Colo. App. 2005).

18-8-614. Willful harassment of juror by employer. (1) An employer commits willful harassment of a juror if he willfully deprives an employed juror of employment or any incidents or benefits thereof or willfully harasses, threatens, or coerces an employee because the employee receives a juror summons, responds thereto, performs any obligation or election of juror service as a trial or grand juror, or exercises any right under the “Colorado Uniform Jury Selection and Service Act”, article 71 of title 13, C.R.S.

(I) A judge who has served or is serving in a legal matter assigned to the judge involving the individual or a person on whose behalf the individual is acting;

(II) A member of the judge’s family;

(III) A person in close relationship to the judge; or

(IV) A person residing in the same household with the judge.

(b) An individual commits retaliation against a judge by means of a credible threat as described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) if the individual knowingly makes the credible threat:

- (II) To another person:
 - (A) If the individual intended that the communication would be relayed to the judge; or
 - (B) If the other person is required by statute or ethical rule to report the communication to the judge.

(2) Retaliation against a judge is a class 4 felony.

(3) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, “judge” means any justice of the supreme court, judge of the court of appeals, district court judge, juvenile court judge, probate court judge, water court judge, county court judge, district court magistrate, county court magistrate, municipal judge, administrative law judge, or unemployment insurance hearing officer.

ANNOTATION

To violate subsection (1)(b)(II)(B), a person must know that the person to whom the threat is made has a duty to report the threat. The general assembly did not intend to limit the application of the mens rea of “knowingly” to any particular element of subsection (1)(b). People v. Berry, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 18-8-604 as it existed prior to 1984.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-8-704 is similar to former § 18-8-604, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

All that is necessary to complete the crime under this section is to presently attempt, by threat of harm or injury, to influence someone to withhold testimony at a future time. People v. Proctor, 194 Colo. 172, 570 P.2d 540 (1977).

"Unlawfully" refers to the time when the testimony is to be actually withheld, not to the time of the contract. People v. Proctor, 194 Colo. 172, 570 P.2d 540 (1977).

Threats of future harm delivered before a subpoena arrives may be just as effective as those delivered after the subpoena arrives. People v. Proctor, 194 Colo. 172, 570 P.2d 540 (1977).

Person intimidated must have witnessed something concerning which his testimony is probative. One of the elements of intimidating a witness is that the person intimidated must have witnessed something concerning which his testimony would be probative. People v. Gonzales, 43 Colo. App. 312, 602 P.2d 6 (1978), rev'd on other grounds, 198 Colo. 450, 601 P.2d 1366 (1979).

The language of the statutes regarding retaliation against a witness and intimidation of a witness are similar, however, § 18-8-706 and this section are factually distinguishable and reasonable grounds exist to support differences in punishment provided for each. Therefore they do not violate equal protection. People v. Gardner, 919 P.2d 850 (Colo. App. 1995).

The general assembly may prescribe more severe penalties for conduct it perceives to have more severe consequences, even if the differences are only a matter of degree, so long as the classifications of criminal behavior are based on differences reasonably related to the general purpose of the legislation. People v. Gardner, 919 P.2d 850 (Colo. App. 1995).

Use of the term "victim" as defined in § 18-8-702 does not require that the person being intimidated be the victim of a predicate crime resulting in a conviction; intimidation of a victim charge is unrelated to and independent of any underlying charge. People v. Rester, 36 P.3d 98 (Colo. App. 2001).

Jury was required to find only that the victim was the victim of any crime. Defendant who was acquitted on assault and harassment charges could still be convicted of intimidating a witness, since defendant had been found guilty of violating a restraining order and of violating bond conditions. People v. Rester, 36 P.3d 98 (Colo. App. 2001).

Jury instruction defining "unlawfully" conformed with Proctor annotated above, and was necessary to clarify that the victim did not have to be under legal subpoena at the time defendant threatened her. People v. Rester, 36 P.3d 98 (Colo. App. 2001).

Applied in People v. Jones, 140 P.3d 325 (Colo. App. 2006).

18-8-705. Aggravated intimidation of a witness or victim. (1) A person who commits intimidating a witness or victim commits aggravated intimidation of a witness or victim if, during the act of intimidating, he:

(a) Is armed with a deadly weapon with the intent, if resisted, to kill, maim, or wound the person being intimidated or any other person; or

(b) Knowingly wounds the person being intimidated or any other person with a deadly weapon, or by the use of force, threats, or intimidation with a deadly weapon knowingly puts the person being intimidated or any other person in reasonable fear of death or bodily injury.

(2) For purposes of subsection (1) of this section, possession of any article used or fashioned in a manner to lead any person reasonably to believe it to be a deadly weapon, or any verbal or other representation by the person that he is so armed, is prima facie evidence that the person is armed with a deadly weapon.

(3) Aggravated intimidation of a witness or victim is a class 3 felony.

18-8-706. Retaliation against a witness or victim. (1) An individual commits retaliation against a witness or victim if such person uses a threat, act of harassment as defined in section 18-9-111, or act of harm or injury upon any person or property, which action is directed to or committed upon a witness or a victim to any crime, an individual whom the person believes has been or would have been called to testify as a witness or victim, a member of the witness' family, a member of the victim's family, an individual in close relationship to the witness or victim, an individual residing in the same household with the witness or victim, as retaliation or retribution against such witness or victim.

(2) Retaliation against a witness or victim is a class 3 felony.

ANNOTATION

Phrase “act of harassment” is unconstitutionally overbroad, and it is stricken from the statute. But the term “threat” is not overbroad. After partial invalidation, this section is not unconstitutionally vague or overbroad. People v. Hickman, 988 P.2d 628 (Colo. 1999).

Although the statute does not expressly prohibit threats delivered to third-party recipients, a person of ordinary intelligence would understand that such conduct is proscribed under the statute. Therefore, the statute is not unconstitutionally vague as applied to defendant. People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

The language of the statutes regarding retaliation against a witness and intimidation of a witness are similar however, this section and § 18-8-704 are factually distinguishable and reasonable grounds exist to support differences in punishment provided for each. One is intimidation of a witness prior to testimony, the other is retaliation in response to testimony given. Therefore they do not violate equal protection. People v. Gardner, 919 P.2d 850 (Colo. App. 1995).

The general assembly may prescribe more severe penalties for conduct it perceives to have more severe consequences, even if the differences are only a matter of degree, so long as the classifications of criminal behavior are based on differences reasonably related to the general purpose of the legislation. People v. Gardner, 919 P.2d 850 (Colo. App. 1995).

Threats to kill or injure a witness in retaliation for the witness's testimony are not protected speech. Threats to injure a potential witness's family, made with the intent of discouraging testimony, are not protected speech. People v. Hickman, 988 P.2d 628 (Colo. 1999); People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

18-8-706.5. Retaliation against a juror. (1) An individual commits retaliation against a juror if such individual uses a threat, act of harassment as defined in section 18-9-111, or act of harm or injury upon any person or property, which action is directed to or committed upon a juror who has served for a criminal or civil trial involving the individual or a person or persons on whose behalf the individual is acting, a member of the juror's family, an individual in close relationship to the juror, or an individual residing in the same household with the juror, as retaliation or retribution against such juror.

(2) Retaliation against a juror is a class 3 felony.

18-8-707. Tampering with a witness or victim. (1) A person commits tampering with a witness or victim if he intentionally attempts without bribery or threats to induce a witness or victim or a person he believes is to be called to testify as a witness or victim in any official proceeding or who may be called to testify as a witness to or victim of any crime to:

Whether a statement is a “true threat” or “political speech” is a question for the finder of fact. People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

A threat is a statement of purpose or intent to cause injury or harm to the person, property, or rights of another by the commission of an unlawful act. People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

The critical inquiry is whether the statements, viewed in the context in which they were spoken or written, constitute a true threat. People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

A “true threat” is not merely talk or jest and is evaluated by whether those who hear or read the threat reasonably consider that an actual threat has been made. People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

The threat need not be direct. A threat may be contingent or conditional if the contingency itself remains in the control of the person making the threat. People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

The phrase “directed to” means that a threat must be directed toward or made against a person protected by the statute, but nothing in the language of the statute requires that the threat must be directly communicated to or received by the protected person. People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

This statute is a specific intent offense. People v. Hickman, 988 P.2d 628 (Colo. 1999); People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

The statute does not require proof that defendant intentionally communicated the threat to the witness but only that he made the threat with the specific intent to retaliate or to seek retribution for the witness's involvement in the prior criminal proceedings. People v. McIntier, 134 P.3d 467 (Colo. App. 2005).

- (a) Testify falsely or unlawfully withhold any testimony; or
 - (b) Absent himself from any official proceeding to which he has been legally summoned; or
 - (c) Avoid legal process summoning him to testify.
- (2) Tampering with a witness or victim is a class 4 felony.

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 18-8-605 as it existed prior to 1984.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-8-707 is similar to former § 18-8-605, relevant cases construing that provision have been included with the annotations to this section.

History of statute. The tampering-with-a-witness statute defines a new statutory crime and does not have its genesis in subornation of perjury. People v. Francois, 198 Colo. 249, 598 P.2d 144 (1979).

The drafters of the model penal code from which former § 18-8-605 derived considered subornation of perjury to be a superfluous restatement of accomplice liability and proposed that persons accused of conduct amounting to subornation of perjury be prosecuted under the accomplice and solicitation statutes. People v. Francois, 198 Colo. 249, 598 P.2d 144 (1979).

Success not element of crime. Under former § 18-8-605, it was not necessary that the defendant succeed in his attempt or actually induce the witness to do anything. People v. Moyer, 670 P.2d 785 (Colo. 1983).

The plain language of subsection (1)(a) does not require the people to prove an attempt to interfere with actual testimony anticipated to be offered at a trial, hearing, or other sworn proceeding but only that the defendant attempted to influence a witness or victim to testify falsely or to unlawfully withhold testimony that may be offered in the future, and the witness or victim need not be under subpoena or legal summons at the time of the contact. People v. Cunefare, 102 P.3d 302 (Colo. 2004).

Witness or victim must be legally summoned to be a witness under subsection (1)(b). To find a defendant guilty under subsection (1)(b), the jury must have received evidence that the defendant attempted to have the victim absent herself or himself from a proceeding to which she or he had been legally summoned. The mere presence of the victim at trial does not permit the jury to conclude that she or he was legally summoned to appear at trial. People v. Yascavage, 80 P.3d 899 (Colo. App. 2003), aff'd, 101 P.3d 1090 (Colo. 2004).

Defendant could not have abandoned the crime of tampering with a witness once he attempted to influence the victim, because the crime was completed when the attempt was made. People v. Scialabba, 55 P.3d 207 (Colo. App. 2002).

Materiality not element of offense. A trial court's instruction injecting the element of materiality into the tampering-with-a-witness statute was improper. People v. Francois, 198 Colo. 249, 598 P.2d 144 (1979).

Probable cause established. Where the evidence and the reasonable inferences which could be drawn from it established that the defendant told the witness that if she or 10 people testified before the grant jury, the defendant would sue the witness or any of the 10 persons for perjury and that the defendant was aware that the witness had talked with the district attorney at the time his statements were made, this evidence established probable cause to believe that the defendant committed the crime of tampering with a witness. People v. Moyer, 670 P.2d 785 (Colo. 1983).

Portions of written communications between the defendant and his wife were for the purpose of aiding the crime of witness tampering and were held to be admissible and not confidential. People v. Fox, 862 P.2d 1000 (Colo. App. 1993).

18-8-708. Suit for damages by victim of intimidation or retaliation. (1) The following persons are eligible for relief pursuant to this section:

- (a) Any person who testifies as a witness or victim in any official proceeding;
 - (b) Any person who may be called to testify as a witness to or victim of any crime;
 - (c) Any person who is a member of the witness' or victim's family;
 - (d) Any person who is in a close relationship to the witness or victim;
 - (e) Any person who is residing in the same household with the witness or victim.
- (2) Any person who is eligible pursuant to subsection (1) of this section who suffers any physical injury or property damage as the result of the commission of intimidating a witness or victim pursuant to section 18-8-704, aggravated intimidation of a witness or victim pursuant to section 18-8-705, or retaliation against a witness or victim pursuant to section 18-8-706 shall, in a civil proceeding to recover for such injury or property damage, be eligible for the award of treble damages and attorney fees.

(3) Nothing in this section shall limit the amount of recovery which a person specified in subsection (1) of this section may receive in a civil proceeding or in any other proceeding.

Cross references: For awarding of attorney fees in civil actions generally, see § 13-17-102.

ANNOTATION

To be eligible for civil damages pursuant to this section, an individual must be the victim of or a witness to a crime. Grynberg v. Ark. Okla. Gas Corp., 116 P.3d 1260 (Colo. App. 2005).

Although section provides that the amount of recovery a person may receive in a civil or other proceeding is not limited by the recovery set forth in subsection (2), it does not authorize an amount of recovery that exceeds the exemplary damages limitation set forth in § 13-21-102. Palmer v. Diaz, 214 P.3d 546 (Colo. App. 2009).

PART 3
OFFENSES INVOLVING COMMUNICATIONS

PART 1

PUBLIC PEACE AND ORDER

18-9-101. Definitions. As used in this part 1, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Destructive device" means any material, substance, or mechanism capable of being used, either by itself or in combination with any other substance, material, or mechanism, to cause sudden and violent injury, damage, destruction, or death.

(1.4) "Funeral" means the ceremonies, rituals, and memorial services held in connection with the burial, cremation, or memorial of a deceased person, including the assembly and dispersal of the mourners.

Cross references: In 2006, subsections (1.4) and (1.5) were added by the “Right to Rest in Peace Act”. For the title and legislative declaration, see section 1 of chapter 262, Session Laws of Colorado 2006.

ANNOTATION

Provisions give clear warning that participation in riot forbidden. Subsection (2) of this section and § 18-9-104 give clear warning that knowing participation in the defined conduct is forbidden and provide explicit standards to guide persons charged with their enforcement. People v. Bridges, 620 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1980).

Engaging in a riot was a crime at common law requiring mens rea, or guilty mind, to be criminally actionable. People v. Bridges, 620 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1980).

Mental state “knowingly” is required for the offense of engaging in a riot. People v. Bridges, 620 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1980).

18-9-102. Inciting riot. (1) A person commits inciting riot if he:

(a) Incites or urges a group of five or more persons to engage in a current or impending riot; or

(b) Gives commands, instructions, or signals to a group of five or more persons in furtherance of a riot.

(2) A person may be convicted under section 18-2-101, 18-2-201, or 18-2-301 of attempt, conspiracy, or solicitation to incite a riot only if he engages in the prohibited conduct with respect to a current or impending riot.

(3) Inciting riot is a class 1 misdemeanor, but, if injury to a person or damage to property results therefrom, it is a class 5 felony.

Flag Desecration Statute”, see 48 Den. L. J. 451 (1971).

18-9-103. Arming rioters. (1) A person commits arming rioters if he:

(a) Knowingly supplies a deadly weapon or destructive device for use in a riot; or

(b) Teaches another to prepare or use a deadly weapon or destructive device with intent that any such thing be used in a riot.

(2) Arming rioters is a class 4 felony.

18-9-104. Engaging in a riot. (1) A person commits an offense if he or she engages in a riot. The offense is a class 4 felony if in the course of rioting the actor employs a deadly weapon, a destructive device, or any article used or fashioned in a manner to cause a person to reasonably believe that the article is a deadly weapon, or if in the course of rioting the actor represents verbally or otherwise that he or she is armed with a deadly weapon; otherwise, it is a class 2 misdemeanor.

(2) The provisions of section 18-9-102 (2) are applicable to attempt, solicitation, and conspiracy to commit an offense under this section.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Mass Picketing and the Constitutional Guarantee of Freedom of Speech", see 22 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 28 (1949).

Annotator's note. Since § 18-9-104 is similar to former CSA, C. 48, § 196, a relevant case construing that provision has been included in the annotations to this section.

Concert of action is not essential to the offense of riot, and a previous agreement or conspiracy need not be shown. Trujillo v. People, 116 Colo. 157, 178 P.2d 942 (1946); People v. Martinez, 705 P.2d 9 (Colo. App. 1985).

All persons participating in a riot are guilty as principals. Trujillo v. People, 116 Colo. 157, 178 P.2d 942 (1946).

Instruction on self-defense. It was not error to insert the words "and not participating in any riot" in an instruction to the effect that defendant would not be guilty of riot if he acted in self-defense upon being attacked "while engaged in the lawful pursuit of his own business and not participating in any riot". Trujillo v. People, 116 Colo. 157, 178 P.2d 942 (1946).

Self-defense is an affirmative defense to inciting or engaging in a riot. People v. Mullins, 209 P.3d 1147 (Colo. App. 2008).

Provisions give clear warning that participation in riot forbidden. Section 18-9-101 (2) and this section give clear warning that knowing participation in the defined conduct is forbidden and provide explicit standards to guide persons charged with their enforcement. People v. Bridges, 620 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1980).

Engaging in a riot was a crime at common law requiring mens rea, or guilty mind, to be criminally actionable. People v. Bridges, 620 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1980).

Mental state "knowingly" is required for the offense of engaging in a riot. People v. Bridges, 620 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1980).

Employing a deadly weapon is a sentence enhancing factor, not an element of the crime of engaging in a riot. The culpable mental state does not apply to sentencing enhancing factors, so the court did not need to instruct the jury that the mental state also applied to employing a deadly weapon. People v. Rivas, 77 P.3d 882 (Colo. App. 2003).

Applied in People v. Martinez, 634 P.2d 26 (Colo. 1981); People v. Mattas, 645 P.2d 254 (Colo. 1982).

18-9-105. Disobedience of public safety orders under riot conditions. A person commits a class 3 misdemeanor if, during a riot or when one is impending, he knowingly disobeys a reasonable public safety order to move, disperse, or refrain from specified activities in the immediate vicinity of the riot. A public safety order is an order designed to prevent or control disorder or promote the safety of persons or property issued by an authorized member of the police, fire, military, or other forces concerned with the riot. No such order shall apply to a news reporter or other person observing or recording the events on behalf of the public press or other news media, unless he is physically obstructing efforts by such forces to cope with the riot or impending riot. Inapplicability of the order is an affirmative defense.

Cross references: For affirmative defenses generally, see §§ 18-1-407, 18-1-710, and 18-1-805.

18-9-106. Disorderly conduct. (1) A person commits disorderly conduct if he or she intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly:

(a) Makes a coarse and obviously offensive utterance, gesture, or display in a public place and the utterance, gesture, or display tends to incite an immediate breach of the peace; or

(c) Makes unreasonable noise in a public place or near a private residence that he has no right to occupy; or

(d) Fights with another in a public place except in an amateur or professional contest of athletic skill; or

(e) Not being a peace officer, discharges a firearm in a public place except when engaged in lawful target practice or hunting; or

(f) Not being a peace officer, displays a deadly weapon, displays any article used or fashioned in a manner to cause a person to reasonably believe that the article is a deadly weapon, or represents verbally or otherwise that he or she is armed with a deadly weapon in a public place in a manner calculated to alarm.

(2) Repealed.

(3) (a) An offense under paragraph (a) or (c) of subsection (1) of this section is a class 1 petty offense; except that, if the offense is committed with intent to disrupt, impair, or interfere with a funeral, or with intent to cause severe emotional distress to a person attending a funeral, it is a class 2 misdemeanor.

(b) An offense under paragraph (d) of subsection (1) of this section is a class 3 misdemeanor.

(c) An offense under paragraph (e) or (f) of subsection (1) of this section is a class 2 misdemeanor.

Editor's note: In Snyder v. Phelps, ___ U.S. ___ (2011), the United States Supreme Court held that the first amendment shielded military funeral protesters from tort liability for their picketing because the picketing constituted speech on matters of public concern and because the father of the deceased was not a member of a captive audience.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-9-106 is similar to former § 40-8-1, C.R.S. 1963, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Former subsection (1)(a) was unconstitutional because it was facially overbroad and could not be restrictively construed. Hansen v. People, 190 Colo. 457, 548 P.2d 1278 (1976).

Subsection (1)(b) held unconstitutional. Statute facially overbroad because it may prohibit constitutionally protected speech as well as unprotected speech. Aguilar v. People, 886 P.2d 725 (Colo. 1994).

Subsection (1)(a) applicable to speech. Subsection (1)(a) prohibits certain types of utterances, gestures, and displays in a public place. It is clear that the statute's proscription applies to speech and "expression closely akin to speech". Hansen v. People, 190 Colo. 457, 548 P.2d 1278 (1976).

The term "public place" does not include a public building covered by the specific provisions of § 18-9-110. The court found that the Colorado legislature has excluded from the term "public place" those areas mentioned in other statutes. Therefore, the court dismissed disorderly conduct charges arising out of alleged threats made to the staff of a veteran's administrative hospital within one of the hospital buildings. U.S. v. Wright, 864 F. Supp. 1013 (D. Colo. 1994).

For sufficiency of evidence, see Flores v. City & County of Denver, 122 Colo. 71, 220 P.2d 373 (1950).

State statute as to disturbing the peace not superseded by nonconflicting home-rule ordinance. Vela v. People, 174 Colo. 465, 484 P.2d 1204 (1971).

The actus reus of felony menacing is "placing another person in fear of imminent serious bodily injury by the use of a deadly weapon", an act more specific than the actus reus of disorderly conduct with a deadly weapon, which is displaying a deadly weapon in an alarming manner in a public place. Therefore, it does not violate the equal protection clause of article II, section 25, of the Colorado constitution to subject defendants to potential criminal liability under both statutes. People v. Torres, 848 P.2d 911 (Colo. 1993).

No equal protection violation was found in defendant's claim that the conduct proscribed by § 18-3-206 (felony menacing), a class 5 felony, was indistinguishable from the conduct proscribed in subsection (1)(f) of this section, a class 2 misdemeanor, in which the actus reus is less specific than the actus reus in § 18-3-206. People v. Ibarra, 849 P.2d 33 (Colo. 1993).

It is only when the same conduct is proscribed in two statutes and different criminal sanctions apply, that problems arise under equal protection. People v. Ibarra, 849 P.2d 33 (Colo. 1993).

18-9-107. Obstructing highway or other passageway. (1) An individual or corporation commits an offense if without legal privilege such individual or corporation intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly:

(a) Obstructs a highway, street, sidewalk, railway, waterway, building entrance, elevator, aisle, stairway, or hallway to which the public or a substantial group of the public has access or any other place used for the passage of persons, vehicles, or conveyances, whether the obstruction arises from his acts alone or from his acts and the acts of others; or

(b) Disobeys a reasonable request or order to move issued by a person the individual or corporation knows to be a peace officer, a firefighter, or a person with authority to control the use of the premises, to prevent obstruction of a highway or passageway or to maintain public safety by dispersing those gathered in dangerous proximity to a fire, riot, or other hazard.

(2) For purposes of this section, “obstruct” means to render impassable or to render passage unreasonably inconvenient or hazardous.

(3) An offense under this section is a class 3 misdemeanor; except that knowingly obstructing the entrance into, or exit from, a funeral or funeral site, or knowingly obstructing a highway or other passageway where a funeral procession is taking place is a class 2 misdemeanor.

18-9-108. Disrupting lawful assembly. (1) A person commits disrupting lawful assembly if, intending to prevent or disrupt any lawful meeting, procession, or gathering, he significantly obstructs or interferes with the meeting, procession, or gathering by physical action, verbal utterance, or any other means.

(2) Disrupting lawful assembly is a class 3 misdemeanor; except that, if the actor knows the meeting, procession, or gathering is a funeral, it is a class 2 misdemeanor.

Source: L. 71: R&RE, p. 468, § 1. C.R.S. 1963: § 40-9-108. L. 2006: (2) amended, p. 1199, § 5, effective May 26.

Cross references: In 2006, subsection (2) was amended by the “Right to Rest in Peace Act”. For the title and legislative declaration, see section 1 of chapter 262, Session Laws of Colorado 2006.

ANNOTATION

Statute is constitutional as applied. By adopting an actual disruption standard that focuses on punishment for actual disruption of an assembly, this section is constitutionally based on conduct, not content. Dempsey v. People, 117 P.3d 800 (Colo. 2005).

Under the terms of this section, a defendant must intend to disrupt a meeting. That element of the offense subsumes two notions.

First, the nature of the assembly or meeting defines the bounds of appropriate protest. The standard is drawn from the implicit customs and usages or explicit rules germane to a given meeting. Once the nature of the event is clear, the second question becomes whether the defendant intended to disrupt that event or, stated otherwise, whether the defendant was aware that his or her conduct was inconsistent with the customs of the assembly and whether he or she thereby intended his or her conduct to disrupt the assembly significantly. Dempsey v. People, 117 P.3d 800 (Colo. 2005).

18-9-108.5. Residential picketing - legislative declaration. (1) (a) The general assembly hereby finds that:

- (I) The protection and preservation of the home is a compelling state interest;
- (II) Residents of Colorado are entitled to enjoy a feeling of well-being, tranquility, and privacy in their homes and dwellings;
- (III) The practice of targeted residential picketing causes emotional disturbances and distress to the occupants and has the potential to incite breaches of the peace; and
- (IV) The practice of targeted residential picketing does not seek to disseminate a message to the general public but, instead, seeks to harass and intrude on the privacy of the targeted resident.

(b) The general assembly further finds that ample alternative means of communication are available to those who would choose to engage in picketing outside a person's residence.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Residence" means any single-family or multi-family dwelling unit that is not being used as a targeted occupant's sole place of business or as a place of public meeting.

(b) "Targeted picketing" means picketing, with or without signs, that is specifically directed toward a residence, or one or more occupants of the residence, and that takes place on that portion of a sidewalk or street in front of the residence, in front of an adjoining residence, or on either side of the residence.

(3) (a) It shall be unlawful for a person to engage in targeted picketing except when the person is engaging in picketing while marching, without stopping in front or on either side of a residence, over a route that proceeds a distance that extends beyond three adjacent structures to one side of the targeted residence along the one-way length and three adjacent structures to the other side of the targeted residence along the one-way length or three hundred feet to one side of the targeted residence along the one-way length and three hundred feet to the other side of the targeted residence along the one-way length, whichever distance is shorter.

(b) (I) It shall be unlawful for a person while engaged in targeted picketing to hold, carry, or otherwise display on his or her person a sign or placard while he or she is on a street or sidewalk in a residential area if the person does not comply with the following restrictions:

(A) All signs or placards shall be no greater in size than six square feet;

(B) Each person may carry, hold, or otherwise display no more than one sign or placard.

(II) The restrictions specified pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall not apply to a person while engaged in targeted picketing carrying a sign or placard temporarily while transporting the sign or placard from the person's residence or business to a vehicle.

(4) Vehicles or trailers used in targeted picketing shall not park within three residences or three hundred feet of a residence that is the subject of targeted picketing. There is a presumption that a vehicle or trailer is used in targeted picketing when signage is affixed to the vehicle containing content related to the targeted picketing.

(5) It shall not be a violation of subsection (3) of this section unless a person has previously been ordered by a peace officer or other law enforcement official to move, disperse, or take other appropriate action to comply with this section and the person has failed to promptly comply with the warning. The warning issued by the peace officer or other law enforcement official shall indicate the required distances the person engaging in picketing must march or other conditions necessary to comply with this section. In order to ensure that an appropriate warning has been given, the local law enforcement agency shall maintain a written record indicating the name of each warned individual, the address or addresses of the targeted residence or residences, and the date and time of the warning.

(6) A person who violates subsection (3) of this section commits an unclassified misdemeanor. The court may impose a fine of no more than five thousand dollars.

(7) The provisions of this section shall not prohibit a local government from adopting more restrictive provisions concerning targeted picketing or carrying in a residential area more than one sign of a certain size.

18-9-109. Interference with staff, faculty, or students of educational institutions.

(1) No person shall, on or near the premises or facilities of any educational institution, willfully deny to students, school officials, employees, and invitees:

- (a) Lawful freedom of movement on the premises;
- (b) Lawful use of the property or facilities of the institution;
- (c) The right of lawful ingress and egress to the institution's physical facilities.

(2) No person shall, on the premises of any educational institution or at or in any building or other facility being used by any educational institution, willfully impede the staff or faculty of such institution in the lawful performance of their duties or willfully impede a student of the institution in the lawful pursuit of his educational activities through the use of restraint, abduction, coercion, or intimidation or when force and violence are present or threatened.

(3) No person shall willfully refuse or fail to leave the property of or any building or other facility used by any educational institution upon being requested to do so by the chief administrative officer, his designee charged with maintaining order on the school premises and in its facilities, or a dean of such educational institution, if such person is committing, threatens to commit, or incites others to commit any act which would disrupt, impair, interfere with, or obstruct the lawful missions, processes, procedures, or functions of the institution.

(4) It shall be an affirmative defense that the defendant was exercising his right to lawful assembly and peaceful and orderly petition for the redress of grievances, including any labor dispute between an educational institution and its employees, any contractor or subcontractor, or any employee thereof.

(5) Any person who violates any of the provisions of this section, except subsection (6) of this section, commits a class 3 misdemeanor.

(6) (a) A person shall not knowingly make or convey to another person a credible threat to cause death or to cause bodily injury with a deadly weapon against:

(I) A person the actor knows or believes to be a student, school official, or employee of an educational institution; or

(II) An invitee who is on the premises of an educational institution.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (6), "credible threat" means a threat or physical action that would cause a reasonable person to be in fear of bodily injury with a deadly weapon or death.

(c) A person who violates this subsection (6) commits a class 1 misdemeanor.

ANNOTATION

Subsection (2) is not unconstitutionally vague since it gives fair notice of a reasonably narrow range of prohibited conduct, in terms sufficiently precise so that persons of ordinary intelligence need not speculate as to the conduct that is proscribed. People ex rel. J.P.L., 49 P.3d 1209 (Colo. App. 2002).

The plain language of subsection (2) makes clear that the language requiring proof that the impeding was accomplished "through the use of restraint, abduction, coercion, or intimidation", or that "force and violence [were] present or threatened", applies to both the staff-faculty clause and the student clause. People ex rel. C.A.J., 148 P.3d 436 (Colo. App. 2006).

18-9-110. Public buildings - trespass, interference - penalty. (1) No person shall so conduct himself at or in any public building owned, operated, or controlled by the state, or any of the political subdivisions of the state or at any building owned, operated, or controlled by the federal government as to willfully deny to any public official, public employee, or invitee on such premises the lawful rights of such official, employee, or invitee to enter, to use the facilities of, or to leave any such public building.

(2) No person shall, at or in any such public building, willfully impede any public official or employee in the lawful performance of duties or activities through the use of restraint, abduction, coercion, or intimidation or by force and violence or threat thereof.

(3) No person shall willfully refuse or fail to leave any such public building upon being requested to do so by the chief administrative officer or his designee charged with maintaining order in such public building, if the person has committed, is committing, threatens to commit, or incites others to commit any act which did, or would if completed, disrupt, impair, interfere with, or obstruct the lawful missions, processes, procedures, or functions being carried on in the public building.

(4) No person shall, at any meeting or session conducted by any judicial, legislative, or administrative body or official at or in any public building, willfully impede, disrupt, or hinder the normal proceedings of such meeting or session by any act of intrusion into the chamber or other areas designated for the use of the body or official conducting the meeting or session or by any act designed to intimidate, coerce, or hinder any member of such body or official engaged in the performance of duties at such meeting or session.

(5) No person shall, by any act of intrusion into the chamber or other areas designated for the use of any executive body or official at or in any public building, willfully impede, disrupt, or hinder the normal proceedings of such body or official.

(6) No person, alone or in concert with another, shall picket inside any building in which the chambers, galleries, or offices of the general assembly, or either house thereof, are located, or in which the legislative office of any member of the general assembly is located, or in which a legislative hearing or meeting is being or is to be conducted.

(7) The term "public building", as used in this section, includes any premises being temporarily used by a public officer or employee in the discharge of his official duties.

(8) Any person who violates any of the provisions of this section commits a class 2 misdemeanor.

18-9-111. Harassment. (1) A person commits harassment if, with intent to harass, annoy, or alarm another person, he or she:

(a) Strikes, shoves, kicks, or otherwise touches a person or subjects him to physical contact; or

(b) In a public place directs obscene language or makes an obscene gesture to or at another person; or

(c) Follows a person in or about a public place; or

(d) Repealed.

(e) Initiates communication with a person, anonymously or otherwise, by telephone, telephone network, data network, text message, instant message, computer, computer network, or computer system in a manner intended to harass or threaten bodily injury or property damage, or makes any comment, request, suggestion, or proposal by telephone, computer, computer network, or computer system that is obscene; or

(f) Makes a telephone call or causes a telephone to ring repeatedly, whether or not a conversation ensues, with no purpose of legitimate conversation; or

(g) Makes repeated communications at inconvenient hours that invade the privacy of another and interfere in the use and enjoyment of another's home or private residence or other private property; or

(h) Repeatedly insults, taunts, challenges, or makes communications in offensively coarse language to, another in a manner likely to provoke a violent or disorderly response.

(1.5) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, “obscene” means a patently offensive description of ultimate sexual acts or solicitation to commit ultimate sexual acts, whether or not said ultimate sexual acts are normal or perverted, actual or simulated, including masturbation, cunnilingus, fellatio, anilingus, or excretory functions.

(2) Harassment pursuant to subsection (1) of this section is a class 3 misdemeanor; except that harassment is a class 1 misdemeanor if the offender commits harassment pursuant to subsection (1) of this section with the intent to intimidate or harass another person because of that person’s actual or perceived race, color, religion, ancestry, or national origin.

(3) Any act prohibited by paragraph (e) of subsection (1) of this section may be deemed to have occurred or to have been committed at the place at which the telephone call, electronic mail, or other electronic communication was either made or received.

(4) to (6) Repealed.

ANNOTATION

Gravamen of this offense is the thrusting of an offensive and unwanted communication on one who is unable to ignore it. People v. Weeks, 197 Colo. 175, 591 P.2d 91 (1979).

Defendant’s spitting on the tenant constituted “physical contact” within the meaning of subsection (1)(a). People v. Peay, 5 P.3d 398 (Colo. App. 2000).

Subsection (1)(d) held unconstitutionally vague. This subsection violates the due process clause because it contains no limiting standards to define what conduct is prohibited and, conversely, what conduct is permitted. People v. Norman, 703 P.2d 1261 (Colo. 1985).

Former subsection (1)(e) was facially overbroad and therefore unconstitutional. Bolles v. People, 189 Colo. 394, 541 P.2d 80 (1975).

Subsection (1)(e) held not to be unconstitutionally vague because the statute defined the offense with particularized standards to limit the scope of the offense and the presence in the statute of the words “annoy” and “alarm”, by themselves, were not sufficient to render the statute unconstitutionally vague. People v. McBurney, 750 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1988).

Subsection (1)(g) is facially overbroad and unconstitutionally vague and there are no limiting constructions that will render it constitutional. People v. Smith, 862 P.2d 939 (Colo. 1993).

A defendant lacks standing to challenge the constitutionality of a statute as facially overbroad when the defendants alleged speech is precisely the type of activity which the telephone harassment statute was designed to regulate. People v. McBurney, 750 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1988).

This section and § 18-3-207, which classifies criminal extortion as a felony, address separate and distinct crimes and the classification of such offenses have a rational basis in fact and are reasonably related to legitimate government interests. People v. Czemyrnski, 786 P.2d 1100 (Colo. 1990).

Subsection (1)(h) is not unconstitutionally vague on its face. People ex rel. VanMeveren v. County Court, 191 Colo. 201, 551 P.2d 716 (1976).

The limited scope of the statute brings it within permissible limitations on free expression. People ex rel. VanMeveren v. County Court, 191 Colo. 201, 551 P.2d 716 (1976).

What subsection (1)(h) prohibits. Subsection (1)(h) prohibits (1) "fighting words", as heretofore defined, addressed to another person, (2) consisting of insults, taunts, or challenges, (3) repeatedly made, and (4) with intent to harass, annoy, or alarm another person. People ex rel. VanMeveren v. County Court, 191 Colo. 201, 551 P.2d 716 (1976).

Subsection (1)(h) requires an objective determination: Whether the words when directed to an average person would tend to induce an immediate breach of the peace. People ex rel. VanMeveren v. County Court, 191 Colo. 201, 551 P.2d 716 (1976).

"Annoy" in this section means "to irritate with a nettling or exasperating effect". Bolles v. People, 189 Colo. 394, 541 P.2d 80 (1975).

"Alarm" in this section means "to arouse to a sense of danger; to put on the alert; to strike with fear; fill with anxiety as to threaten danger or harm". Bolles v. People, 189 Colo. 394, 541 P.2d 80 (1975).

18-9-112. Loitering - definition - legislative declaration. (1) The word "loiter" means to be dilatory, to stand idly around, to linger, delay, or wander about, or to remain, abide, or tarry in a public place.

(2) A person commits a class 1 petty offense if he or she, with intent to interfere with or disrupt the school program or with intent to interfere with or endanger schoolchildren, loiters in a school building or on school grounds or within one hundred feet of school grounds when persons under the age of eighteen are present in the building or on the grounds, not having any reason or relationship involving custody of, or responsibility for, a pupil or any other specific, legitimate reason for being there, and having been asked to leave by a school administrator or his representative or by a peace officer.

(3) It shall be an affirmative defense that the defendant's acts were lawful and he was exercising his rights of lawful assembly as a part of peaceful and orderly petition for the redress of grievances, either in the course of labor disputes or otherwise.

(4) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the state has a special interest in the protection of children and, particularly, in protecting children who attend schools because required to do so by the "School Attendance Law of 1963", article 33 of title 22, C.R.S., and the prohibition of loitering in subsection (2) of this section is enacted in furtherance of these interests.

Cross references: For affirmative defenses generally, see §§ 18-1-407, 18-1-710, and 18-1-805.

"Repeatedly" is a word of such common understanding that its meaning is not vague. It simply means in the context of subsection (1)(h) that the defendant uses insulting, taunting, or challenging language more than one time. People ex rel. VanMeveren v. County Court, 191 Colo. 201, 551 P.2d 716 (1976).

Use of "obscene" in subsection (1)(e). Although subsection (1)(e) uses the word "obscene" to describe the speech which is prohibited, that subsection is clearly not designed to regulate the purveyance of "obscenity" as that word is used in Miller v. California (413 U.S. 15, 93 S. Ct. 2607, 37 L.Ed.2d 419, reh'g denied, 414 U.S. 881, 94 S. Ct. 26, 38 L. Ed. 2d 128 (1973)). Whatever the requirements of Miller v. California may be in a prosecution for alleged violations of law prohibiting published obscenity, those requirements are inapposite when the question is whether the state may prohibit unwanted verbal assaults on a person within the privacy of his own home. People v. Weeks, 197 Colo. 175, 591 P.2d 91 (1979).

Evidence sufficient to establish the conviction under subsection (1)(c). Although the evidence could be viewed in two ways, there was sufficient evidence to support the jury's inferences that the defendant did follow the victim in a public place. People v. Cross, 114 P.3d 1 (Colo. App. 2004), rev'd on other grounds, 127 P.3d 71 (Colo. 2006).

Applied in Verner v. Colo., 533 F. Supp. 1109 (D. Colo. 1982).

For article, "Vagrants, Criminals and the Constitution", see 40 Den. L. Ctr. J. 314 (1963). For article, "Review of New Legislation Relating to Criminal Law", see 11 Colo. Law, 2148 (1982).

Annotator's note. Since § 18-9-112 is similar to former § 40-8-19, C.R.S. 1963, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Purpose of section. Measures to cope with vagrancy have as their purpose the safety and good order of the community, by seeking to nip crime in one of its formative settings. Thus, vagrancy laws find sanction in the exercise of the police power. Dominguez v. City & County of Denver, 147 Colo. 233, 363 P.2d 661 (1961), overruled on other grounds, Arnold v. City & County of Denver, 171 Colo. 1, 464 P.2d 517 (1970).

The term "begging" is sufficiently clear. Goldman v. Knecht, 295 F. Supp. 897 (D. Colo. 1969).

Subsection (2)(c) does not satisfy constitutional due process requirements. People v. Gibson, 184 Colo. 444, 521 P.2d 774 (1974).

Because it does not require loitering coupled with other overt conduct. Subsection (2)(c) violates constitutional due process because it fails to require that loitering be coupled with any other overt conduct, but rather provides the loitering need only be coupled with state of mind having "the purpose of . . . deviate sexual intercourse". People v. Gibson, 184 Colo. 444, 521 P.2d 774 (1974).

Former subsection (2)(d) was unconstitutionally vague in violation of due process of law under § 25 of art. II, Colo. Const. People in Interest of C.M., 630 P.2d 593 (Colo. 1981).

Right of personal liberty protects travel and safe conduct. In interpreting constitutional provisions providing for the right to enjoy life and liberty, the right of personal liberty consists in the power of locomotion — to go where one pleases, and when, and to do that which may lead to one's business or pleasure, only so far restrained as the rights of others may make it necessary for the welfare of all other citizens. One may travel along the public highways or in public places, and while conducting themselves in a decent and orderly manner, disturbing no other and interfering with the rights of no other citizens, there they will be protected under the law, not only in their persons, but in their safe conduct. Dominguez v. City & County of Denver, 147 Colo. 233, 363 P.2d 661 (1961), overruled on other grounds, Arnold v. City & County of Denver, 171 Colo. 1, 464 P.2d 517 (1970).

Former vagrancy provision held unconstitutional under the equal protection clause of the federal constitution. The former section declaring idleness or indigency coupled with being able-bodied must be held beyond the power of the state legislative body. The statute did not require either act or behavior; it dealt with condition. Insofar as the statutory prescription seeks to legislate against status, it is in conflict with the substantive due process limitation of the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution. Furthermore, a statute which forbids an act in terms so vague that men of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application violates the first essential of due process of law. Goldman v. Knecht, 295 F. Supp. 897 (D. Colo. 1969).

18-9-113. Desecration of venerated objects. (1) (a) A person commits a class 3 misdemeanor if he knowingly desecrates any public monument or structure or desecrates in a public place any other object of veneration by the public.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in section 24-80-1305, C.R.S., with respect to the disturbance of an unmarked human burial, a person commits a class 1 misdemeanor if he knowingly desecrates any place of worship or burial of human remains.

(c) The court shall order that any person convicted pursuant to this section make restitution to cover the costs of repairing any damages to any monument, headstone, memorial marker, structure, or place that are the result of such person's conduct. Such restitution shall be paid to any person or entity that repairs such damages, as required in article 18.5 of title 16, C.R.S.

(2) The term "desecrate" means defacing, damaging, polluting, or otherwise physically mistreating in a way that the defendant knows will outrage the sensibilities of persons likely to observe or discover his action or its result.

ANNOTATION

Eluding a police officer, as defined in § 42-4-1512, is not a lesser-included offense of vehicular eluding. People v. Fury, 872 P.2d 1280 (Colo. App. 1993) (decided prior to 1994 amendment relocating former § 42-4-1512 to § 42-4-1413); People v. Pena, 962 P.2d 285 (Colo. App. 1997); People v. Esparza-Treto, ___ P.3d ___ (Colo. App. 2011).

Reckless driving is a lesser included offense of vehicular eluding. People v. Pena, 962 P.2d 285 (Colo. App. 1997); People v. Esparza-Treto, ___ P.3d ___ (Colo. App. 2011).

“Wanton or willful disregard” for safety under § 42-4-1401 is essentially the same element as the “reckless” state of mind specified in this section. People v. Pena, 962 P.2d 285 (Colo. App. 1997).

The portion of the statute requiring proof that eluding resulted in the death of another person is a sentence enhancing provision, not an essential element of the offense of vehicular eluding for purposes of merger. People v. Avila, 944 P.2d 673 (Colo. App. 1997).

Therefore, vehicular eluding is not a lesser included offense of vehicular homicide because vehicular homicide does require proof of death. People v. Avila, 944 P.2d 673 (Colo. App. 1997).

A child who is in utero at the time of the vehicular eluding offense who is subsequently born alive and dies from injuries sustained due to the offense can be a victim by virtue of the plain meaning of the statute. People v. Lage, 232 P.3d 138 (Colo. App. 2009).

Vehicular eluding requires only proof that the driver both eluded or attempted to elude a police officer and operated a car recklessly, but not necessarily at the same time. People v. Sherwood, 5 P.3d 956 (Colo. App. 2000).

The intent of the vehicular eluding statute is to protect members of the public from the dangers created by a driver attempting to elude a police officer. There is therefore no need for a prosecutor to identify a particular victim in charging a defendant. People v. Fury, 872 P.2d 1280 (Colo. App. 1993).

Applied in Brutcher v. District Court, 195 Colo. 579, 580 P.2d 396 (1978); People v. Mascarenas, 632 P.2d 1028 (Colo. 1981).

18-9-117. Unlawful conduct on public property. (1) It is unlawful for any person to enter or remain in any public building or on any public property or to conduct himself or herself in or on the same in violation of any order, rule, or regulation concerning any matter prescribed in this subsection (1), limiting or prohibiting the use or activities or conduct in such public building or on such public property, issued by any officer or agency having the power of control, management, or supervision of the building or property. In addition to any authority granted by any other law, each such officer or agency may adopt such orders, rules, or regulations as are reasonably necessary for the administration, protection, and maintenance of such public buildings and property, specifically, orders, rules, and regulations upon the following matters:

(a) Preservation of property, vegetation, wildlife, signs, markers, statues, buildings and grounds, and other structures, and any object of scientific, historical, or scenic interest;

(b) Restriction or limitation of the use of such public buildings or property as to time, manner, or permitted activities;

(c) Prohibition of activities or conduct within public buildings or on public property which may be reasonably expected to substantially interfere with the use and enjoyment of such places by others or which may constitute a general nuisance or which may interfere with, impair, or disrupt a funeral or funeral procession;

(e) Camping and picnicking, public meetings and assemblages, and other individual or group usages, including the place, time, and manner in which such activities may be permitted;

(f) Use of all vehicles as to place, time, and manner of use;

(g) Control and limitation of fires, including but not limited to the prohibition, restriction, or ban on fires or other regulation of fires to avert the start of or lessen the likelihood of wildfire, and the designation of places where fires are permitted, restricted, prohibited, or banned.

(2) No conviction may be obtained under this section unless notice of such limitations or prohibitions is prominently posted at all public entrances to such building or property or unless such notice is actually first given the person by the officer or agency, including any agent thereof, or by any law enforcement officer having jurisdiction or authority to enforce this section.

(3) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this subsection (3), any person who violates subsection (1) of this section is guilty of a class 3 misdemeanor.

The fine imposed by this paragraph (b) shall be mandatory and not subject to suspension. Nothing in this paragraph (b) shall be construed to limit the court's discretion in exercising other available sentencing alternatives in addition to the mandatory fine.

(c) Any person who violates any order, rule, or regulation adopted pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section concerning funerals or funeral processions is guilty of a class 2 misdemeanor.

18-9-119. Failure or refusal to leave premises or property upon request of a peace officer - penalties - payment of costs. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that any individual who violates any provision of this section presents a significant threat to life and property in this state; that such violations require the use of highly trained personnel and sophisticated equipment; and that any such individual, if guilty, shall be convicted of committing a crime and be required to pay for any extraordinary expenses which are a result of said violation.

(5) Any person who violates subsection (2) of this section and who, in the same criminal episode, knowingly holds another person hostage or who confines or detains such other person through the possession, use, or threatened use of a deadly weapon, without the other person's consent, and without proper legal authority commits a class 4 felony.

(6) (a) Any person convicted of a violation of this section or any person who enters a plea of guilty or nolo contendere to a violation of this section or is placed on deferred judgment and sentence for a violation of this section shall be responsible for the payment of up to a maximum of two thousand dollars for any extraordinary expenses incurred by a law enforcement agency as a result of such violation.

(b) As used in paragraph (a) of this subsection (6), "extraordinary expenses" means any cost relating to a violation of the provisions of this section, including, but not limited to, overtime wages for officers and operating expenses of any equipment utilized as a result of such violation or any damage to property occurring as a result of any violation of this section.

(7) Any person who violates subsection (2) of this section and who, in the same criminal episode, knowingly holds another person hostage or confines or detains such other person by knowingly causing such other person to reasonably believe that he possesses a deadly weapon commits a class 5 felony.

(8) As used in this section, to "hold hostage" means to seize, imprison, entice, detain, confine, or persuade another person to remain in any premises or on any property during a violation of any provision of this section in order to seek concessions from law enforcement personnel or their representatives, or to prevent their entry to property or premises. The term includes imprisoning, enticing, detaining, confining, or persuading any child to remain in said premises or on said property in an attempt to secure said concessions.

18-9-121. Bias-motivated crimes. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that it is the right of every person, regardless of race, color, ancestry, religion, national origin, physical or mental disability, or sexual orientation to be secure and protected from fear, intimidation, harassment, and physical harm caused by the activities of individuals and groups. The general assembly further finds that the advocacy of unlawful acts against persons or groups because of a person's or group's race, color, ancestry, religion, national origin, physical or mental disability, or sexual orientation for the purpose of inciting and provoking bodily injury or damage to property poses a threat to public order and safety and should be subject to criminal sanctions.

(2) A person commits a bias-motivated crime if, with the intent to intimidate or harass another person because of that person's actual or perceived race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, physical or mental disability, or sexual orientation, he or she:

(a) Knowingly causes bodily injury to another person; or

(b) By words or conduct, knowingly places another person in fear of imminent lawless action directed at that person or that person's property and such words or conduct are likely to produce bodily injury to that person or damage to that person's property; or

(c) Knowingly causes damage to or destruction of the property of another person.

(3) Commission of a bias-motivated crime as described in paragraph (b) or (c) of subsection (2) of this section is a class 1 misdemeanor. Commission of a bias-motivated crime as described in paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section is a class 5 felony; except that commission of a bias-motivated crime as described in said paragraph (a) is a class 4 felony if the offender is physically aided or abetted by one or more other persons during the commission of the offense.

(3.5) (a) In determining the sentence for a first-time offender convicted of a bias-motivated crime, the court shall consider the following alternatives, which shall be in addition to and not in lieu of any other sentence received by the offender:

(I) Sentencing the offender to pay for and complete a period of useful community service intended to benefit the public and enhance the offender's understanding of the impact of the offense upon the victim;

(II) At the request of the victim, referring the case to a restorative justice or other suitable alternative dispute resolution program established in the judicial district pursuant to section 13-22-313, C.R.S.

(b) In considering whether to impose the alternatives described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3.5), the court shall consider the criminal history of the offender, the impact of the offense on the victim, the availability of the alternatives, and the nature of the offense. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the court to impose the alternatives specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3.5).

(4) The criminal penalty provided in this section for commission of a bias-motivated crime does not preclude the victim of such action from seeking any other remedies otherwise available under law.

(5) For purposes of this section:

(a) "Physical or mental disability" refers to a disability as used in the definition of the term "person with a disability" in section 18-6.5-102 (3).

(b) "Sexual orientation" means a person's actual or perceived orientation toward heterosexuality, homosexuality, bisexuality, or transgender status.

18-9-122. Preventing passage to and from a health care facility - engaging in prohibited activities near facility. (1) The general assembly recognizes that access to health care facilities for the purpose of obtaining medical counseling and treatment is imperative for the citizens of this state; that the exercise of a person's right to protest or counsel against certain medical procedures must be balanced against another person's right to obtain medical counseling and treatment in an unobstructed manner; and that preventing the willful obstruction of a person's access to medical counseling and treatment at a health care facility is a matter of statewide concern. The general assembly therefore declares that it is appropriate to enact legislation that prohibits a person from knowingly obstructing another person's entry to or exit from a health care facility.

(2) A person commits a class 3 misdemeanor if such person knowingly obstructs, detains, hinders, impedes, or blocks another person's entry to or exit from a health care facility.

(3) No person shall knowingly approach another person within eight feet of such person, unless such other person consents, for the purpose of passing a leaflet or handbill to, displaying a sign to, or engaging in oral protest, education, or counseling with such other person in the public way or sidewalk area within a radius of one hundred feet from any entrance door to a health care facility. Any person who violates this subsection (3) commits a class 3 misdemeanor.

(4) For the purposes of this section, "health care facility" means any entity that is licensed, certified, or otherwise authorized or permitted by law to administer medical treatment in this state.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a statutory or home rule city or county or city and county from adopting a law for the control of access to health care facilities that is no less restrictive than the provisions of this section.

(6) In addition to, and not in lieu of, the penalties set forth in this section, a person who violates the provisions of this section shall be subject to civil liability, as provided in section 13-21-106.7, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "The Law of the Sacred Cow: Sacrificing the First Amendment to Defend Abortion on Demand", see 79 Den. U.L. Rev. 91 (2002).

Constitutionality in light of U.S. supreme court decision. Based upon the holding of the U.S. supreme court in Schenck v. Pro-Choice Network (519 U.S. 357, 117 S. Ct. 855, 137 L.Ed.2d 1 (1997)), this section is a content-neutral, generally applicable statute supported by a valid governmental interest in public safety issues and is narrowly tailored to serve that interest and thus does not violate the first amendment to the federal constitution. Hill v. City of Lakewood, 949 P.2d 107 (Colo. App. 1997).

Section is constitutional as a reasonable time, place, and manner restriction on free speech. This provision is sufficiently narrowly drawn to further a significant government interest. Hill v. Thomas, 973 P.2d 1246 (Colo. 1999), aff'd sub nom. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

The eight-foot zone set forth in subsection (3) allows a speaker to communicate at a "normal conversational distance." Additionally, the statute allows the speaker to remain in one place, and other individuals can pass within eight feet of the protester without causing the protester to violate the statute. Finally, there is a "knowing" requirement that protects speakers who thought they were keeping pace with the targeted individual at the proscribed distance from inadvertently violating the statute. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Subsection (3) does not violate the right to free speech because it applies to areas protected by the first amendment, such as streets and public sidewalks. Hill v. City of Lakewood, 911 P.2d 670 (Colo. App. 1995), cert. granted, judgment vacated, and case remanded to Colorado court of appeals for further consideration in light of Schenck v. Pro-Choice Network of Western New York (519 U.S. 357, 117 S. Ct. 855, 137 L.Ed.2d 1(1997)), 519 U.S. 1145, 117 S. Ct. 1077, 137 L.Ed.2d 213 (1997), aff'd on other grounds, 949 P.2d 107 (Colo. App. 1997), aff'd, 973 P.2d 1246 (Colo. 1999), aff'd sub nom. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Subsection (3) is not improper "content based" regulation because it imposes the same restrictions on protestors, whether they be in favor of or against abortion. Hill v. City of Lakewood, 911 P.2d 670 (Colo. App. 1995), cert. granted, judgment vacated, and case remanded to Colorado court of appeals for further consideration in light of Schenck v. Pro-Choice Network of Western New York (519 U.S. 357, 117 S. Ct. 855, 137 L.Ed.2d 1(1997)), 519 U.S. 1145, 117 S. Ct. 1077, 137 L.Ed.2d 213 (1997), aff'd on other grounds, 949 P.2d 107 (Colo. App. 1997), aff'd, 973 P.2d 1246 (Colo. 1999), aff'd sub nom. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Subsection (3) is content neutral. First, it is not a regulation of speech. Rather, it is a regulation of the places where some speech may occur. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Second, it was not adopted because of disagreement with the message being conveyed. This conclusion is supported not just by the Colorado courts' interpretation of legislative history, but more importantly by the state supreme court's holding that the statute's restrictions apply equally to all demonstrators, regardless of viewpoint, and the statutory language makes no reference to the content of the speech. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Third, the state's interests in protecting access and privacy, and providing the police with clear guidelines, are unrelated to the content of the demonstrators' speech. Government regulation of expressive activity is "content neutral" if it is justified without reference to the content of regulated speech. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Subsection (3) is not unconstitutional because: It advances a significant governmental interest; it does not burden speech more than is reasonably necessary; and reasonable alternatives to oral communication are available. Hill v. City of Lakewood, 911 P.2d 670 (Colo. App. 1995), cert. granted, judgment vacated, and case remanded to Colorado court of appeals for further consideration in light of Schenck v. Pro-Choice Network of Western New York (519 U.S. 357, 117 S. Ct. 855, 137 L.Ed.2d 1(1997)), 519 U.S. 1145, 117 S. Ct. 1077, 137 L.Ed.2d 213 (1997), aff'd on other grounds, 949 P.2d 107 (Colo. App. 1997), aff'd, 973 P.2d 1246 (Colo. 1999), aff'd sub nom. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Subsection (3) does not constitute a prior restraint on free speech. There is no authority to extend the doctrine so that a private citizen is limited with respect to her right to determine whether to permit others to confront her concerning medical care. Hill v. City of Lakewood, 911 P.2d 670 (Colo. App. 1995), cert. granted, judgment vacated, and case remanded to Colorado court of appeals for further consideration in light of Schenck v. Pro-Choice Network of Western New York (519 U.S. 357, 117 S. Ct. 855, 137 L.Ed.2d 1 (1997)), 519 U.S. 1145, 117 S. Ct. 1077, 137 L.Ed.2d 213 (1997), aff'd on other grounds, 949 P.2d 107 (Colo. App. 1997), aff'd, 973 P.2d 1246 (Colo. 1999), aff'd sub nom. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Subsection (3) allows every speaker to engage freely in any expressive activity communicating all messages and viewpoints subject only to the narrow place requirement imbedded within the approach restriction. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

The regulations of subsection (3) only apply if the pedestrian does not consent to the approach. Private citizens have always retained the power to decide for themselves what they wish to read, and within limits, what oral messages they want to consider. This statute simply empowers private citizens entering a health care facility with the ability to prevent a speaker, who is within eight feet and advancing, from communicating a message they do not wish to hear. Further, the statute does not authorize the pedestrian to affect any other activity at any other location or relating to any other person. These restrictions thus do not constitute an unlawful prior restraint. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Subsection (3) is not overbroad. The fact that the coverage of a statute is broader than the specific concern that led to its enactment is of no constitutional significance. What is important is that all persons entering or leaving health care facilities share the interests served by the statute. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

In addition, subsection (3) does not ban any messages, nor does it ban any signs, literature, or oral statements. It merely regulates the places where communications may occur. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

Subsection (3) is not unconstitutionally vague. Subsection (3) contains a scienter requirement. The statute only applies to a person who "knowingly" approaches within eight feet of another, without that person's consent, for the purpose of engaging in oral protest, education, or counseling. The likelihood that anyone would not understand any of those common words seemed quite remote to the court. Hill v. Colo., 530 U.S. 703, 120 S. Ct. 2480, 147 L.Ed.2d 597 (2000).

18-9-123. Bringing alcohol beverages, bottles, or cans into the major league baseball stadium. (1) (a) It shall be unlawful for any person to carry or bring into the Denver metropolitan major league baseball stadium district stadium, as defined in section 32-14-103 (5) and (10), C.R.S., and referred to in this section as the "stadium", the following:

- (I) Any alcohol beverage as defined in section 12-47-103 (2), C.R.S.; or
- (II) Any bottle or can except as provided in subsection (2) of this section.

(b) As used in this section:

(I) "Bottle" means a container that is made of nonporous material including but not limited to glass or ceramic, typically with a comparatively narrow neck or mouth, but excluding:

- (A) Containers made of cardboard, paper, or plastic; or
- (B) Thermos bottles.

(II) "Can" means a container of cylindrical shape that is made of metal or metallic alloys.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a person from bringing or carrying into the stadium a beverage, bottle, or can required in connection with the person's practice of religion, the person's medical or physical condition, or food or formula for the person's infant.

(3) Any person who violates subsection (1) of this section commits a class 1 petty offense.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a home rule municipality from enacting an ordinance that is at least as restrictive as or more restrictive than this section that prohibits a person from bringing any alcoholic beverage or alcoholic liquor, any bottle, or any can into the stadium.

18-9-124. Hazing - penalties - legislative declaration. (1) (a) The general assembly finds that, while some forms of initiation constitute acceptable behavior, hazing sometimes degenerates into a dangerous form of intimidation and degradation. The general assembly also recognizes that although certain criminal statutes cover the more egregious hazing activities, other activities that may not be covered by existing criminal statutes may threaten the health of students or, if not stopped early enough, may escalate into serious injury.

(b) In enacting this section, it is not the intent of the general assembly to change the penalty for any activity that is covered by any other criminal statute. It is rather the intent of the general assembly to define hazing activities not covered by any other criminal statute.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) “Hazing” means any activity by which a person recklessly endangers the health or safety of or causes a risk of bodily injury to an individual for purposes of initiation or admission into or affiliation with any student organization; except that “hazing” does not include customary athletic events or other similar contests or competitions, or authorized training activities conducted by members of the armed forces of the state of Colorado or the United States.

(b) “Hazing” includes but is not limited to:

(I) Forced and prolonged physical activity;

(II) Forced consumption of any food, beverage, medication or controlled substance, whether or not prescribed, in excess of the usual amounts for human consumption or forced consumption of any substance not generally intended for human consumption;

(III) Prolonged deprivation of sleep, food, or drink.

(3) It shall be unlawful for any person to engage in hazing.

(4) Any person who violates subsection (3) of this section commits a class 3 misdemeanor.

18-9-125. Interference with a funeral. (1) A person commits interference with a funeral if he or she, knowing a funeral is being conducted:

(a) Refuses to leave any private property within one hundred feet of the funeral site upon the request of the owner of the private property or the owner’s agent; or

(b) Refuses to leave any public property within one hundred feet of the funeral site upon the request of a public official with authority over the property or upon the request of a peace officer, and the public official or peace officer making the request has reasonable grounds to believe the person has violated a rule or regulation applicable to that property or a statute or local ordinance.

(2) Interference with a funeral is a class 2 misdemeanor. The minimum fine prescribed by section 18-1.3-501 (1) for the offense shall be mandatory and may not be suspended in whole or in part.

(3) Each violation of subsection (1) of this section shall constitute a separate offense for which an offender may be separately convicted and sentenced.

(4) Any person who violates any provision of this section may also be proceeded against for violation of any other provision of law.

18-9-202. Cruelty to animals - aggravated cruelty to animals - cruelty to a service animal - restitution. (1) (a) A person commits cruelty to animals if he or she knowingly, recklessly, or with criminal negligence overdrives, overloads, overworks, torments, deprives of necessary sustenance, unnecessarily or cruelly beats, allows to be housed in a manner that results in chronic or repeated serious physical harm, carries or confines in or upon any vehicles in a cruel or reckless manner, engages in a sexual act with an animal, or otherwise mistreats or neglects any animal, or causes or procures it to be done, or, having the charge or custody of any animal, fails to provide it with proper food, drink, or protection from the weather consistent with the species, breed, and type of animal involved, or abandons an animal.

(1.6) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Serious physical harm" means any of the following:

(I) Any physical harm that carries a substantial risk of death;

(II) Any physical harm that causes permanent maiming or that involves some temporary, substantial maiming; or

(III) Any physical harm that causes acute pain of a duration that results in substantial suffering.

(1.8) A peace officer having authority to act under this section may take possession of and impound an animal that the peace officer has probable cause to believe is a victim of a violation of subsection (1) or (1.5) of this section or is a victim of a violation of section 18-9-204 and as a result of the violation is endangered if it remains with the owner or custodian. If, in the opinion of a licensed veterinarian, an animal impounded pursuant to this subsection (1.8) is experiencing extreme pain or suffering, or is severely injured past recovery, severely disabled past recovery, or severely diseased past recovery, the animal may be euthanized without a court order.

(2) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), cruelty to animals is a class 1 misdemeanor.

(II) In addition to any other sentence imposed for a violation of this section, the court may order an offender to complete an anger management treatment program or any other appropriate treatment program.

(III) The court shall order an evaluation to be conducted prior to sentencing to assist the court in determining an appropriate sentence. The person ordered to undergo an evaluation shall be required to pay the cost of the evaluation, unless the person qualifies for a public defender, then the cost will be paid by the judicial district. If the evaluation results in a recommendation of treatment and if the court so finds, the person shall be ordered to complete an anger management treatment program or any other treatment program that the court may deem appropriate.

(IV) Upon successful completion of an anger management treatment program or any other treatment program deemed appropriate by the court, the court may suspend any fine imposed, except for a five hundred dollar mandatory minimum fine which shall be imposed at the time of sentencing.

(V) In addition to any other sentence imposed upon a person for a violation of any criminal law under this title, any person convicted of a second or subsequent conviction for any crime, the underlying factual basis of which has been found by the court to include an act of cruelty to animals, shall be required to pay a mandatory minimum fine of one thousand dollars and shall be required to complete an anger management treatment program or any other appropriate treatment program.

(VI) Nothing in this paragraph (a.5) shall preclude the court from ordering treatment in any appropriate case.

(VII) This paragraph (a.5) does not apply to the treatment of pack or draft animals by negligently overdriving, overloading, or overworking them, or the treatment of livestock and other animals used in the farm or ranch production of food, fiber, or other agricultural products when such treatment is in accordance with accepted agricultural animal husbandry practices, the treatment of animals involved in activities regulated pursuant to article 60 of title 12, C.R.S., the treatment of animals involved in research if such research facility is operating under rules set forth by the state or federal government, the treatment of animals involved in rodeos, the treatment of dogs used for legal hunting activities, wildlife nuisances, or to statutes regulating activities concerning wildlife and predator control in the state, including trapping.

(c) Aggravated cruelty to animals is a class 6 felony; except that a second or subsequent conviction for the offense of aggravated cruelty to animals is a class 5 felony. A plea of nolo contendere accepted by the court shall be considered a conviction for purposes of this section.

(d) If a person is convicted of cruelty to a service animal pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (1.5) of this section, he or she shall be ordered to make restitution to the agency or individual owning the animal for any veterinary bills and replacement costs of the animal if it is disabled or killed as a result of the cruelty to animals incident.

(2.5) It shall be an affirmative defense to a charge brought under this section involving injury or death to a dog that the dog was found running, worrying, or injuring sheep, cattle, or other livestock.

(3) Nothing in this part 2 modifies in any manner the authority of the parks and wildlife commission, as established in title 33, C.R.S., or prohibits any conduct authorized or permitted under title 33, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-9-202 is similar to former § CSA, C. 48, § 404, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Object of section is protection of animals and conservation of public morals. The aim of this section is not only to protect these animals, but to conserve public morals, both of which are undoubtedly proper subjects of legislation. Waters v. People, 23 Colo. 33, 46 P. 112 (1896).

This section and preceding similar legislation was enacted to prevent cruelty to animals. It was not the legislative intent that the prohibition in this section against needlessly killing animals should apply where the undisputed facts show authorization. Failing v. People, 105 Colo. 399, 98 P.2d 865 (1940).

It changes the common law. At common law the acts prohibited in this section would not be a crime or misdemeanor. Waters v. People, 23 Colo. 33, 46 P. 112 (1896).

Section comes within police power. In the exercise of the police power, the general assembly may enact laws for the prevention of cruelty to animals and designate officers charged with the execution thereof. Jenks v. Stump, 41 Colo. 281, 93 P. 17 (1907).

This section is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Allen, 657 P.2d 447 (Colo. 1983).

Nor unconstitutional on equal protection grounds. People v. Wilhelm, 676 P.2d 702 (Colo. 1984).

Not every act that causes pain and suffering to animals is prohibited by this section.

Where the end or object is reasonable and adequate, the act resulting in pain is, in the sense of the statute, necessary or justifiable, as where a surgical operation is performed to save life, or where the act is done to protect life or property, or to minister to some of the necessities of man. Waters v. People, 23 Colo. 33, 46 P. 112 (1896).

It applies to killing doves released from traps and shot for sport. The killing of doves as they are released from a trap merely to improve skill in marksmanship or for sport and amusement, though without specific intent to inflict pain or torture, is within the inhibition of this section and punishable. Waters v. People, 23 Colo. 33, 46 P. 112 (1896).

But the shooting of wild animals in the forest and fishing in the streams do not come within this section. Waters v. People, 23 Colo. 33, 46 P. 112 (1896).

Malice is not an essential ingredient. This section embraces separate and distinct offenses. The offense denounced was not a crime or misdemeanor at common law, and therefore malice is not a necessary ingredient since not expressly made so by statute. McCausland v. People, 58 Colo. 303, 145 P. 685 (1914).

Test was whether acts done intentionally. It was immaterial where the poisoning took place or what other means were used, in addition to the poison, to bring about the injurious result. Neither invitation nor trespass was essential. The important test was that the acts were done intentionally, and that the cattle were killed or injured as a result thereof. Holt v. Mundell, 107 Colo. 373, 112 P.2d 1039 (1941).

Maliciously, as used in former provision, means a wrongful act done intentionally, without just cause or excuse. Richards v. Sanderson, 39 Colo. 270, 89 P. 769 (1907); Holt v. Mundell, 107 Colo. 373, 112 P.2d 1039 (1941).

Sufficiency of information. An information charging that the accused did "unnecessarily and cruelly beat and needlessly mutilate an animal" is sufficient under this section. McCausland v. People, 58 Colo. 303, 145 P. 685 (1914).

Admissibility of evidence. In an action under this section for the poisoning of cattle, it was held that no error was committed in the refusal to admit in evidence an unsigned form used by the government in the distribution of grasshopper poison. By signing the form the recipient of poison assumed all responsibility for any damage resulting from its use. It had no evidentiary value in the determination of the issues involved. Holt v. Mundell, 107 Colo. 373, 112 P.2d 1039 (1941).

Sufficiency of evidence of required criminal intent to warrant its submission to the jury. Holt v. Mundell, 107 Colo. 373, 112 P.2d 1039 (1941).

18-9-202.5. Impounded animals - costs of impoundment, provision, and care - disposition - procedures - application - definition. (1) (a) (I) The owner or custodian of an animal that has been impounded by an impound agency because of alleged neglect or abuse or because of investigation of charges of cruelty to animals pursuant to section 18-9-202; animal fighting pursuant to section 18-9-204; mistreatment, neglect, or abandonment under article 42 of title 35, C.R.S.; or unlawful ownership of a dangerous dog as described in section 18-9-204.5, may prevent disposition of the animal by an impound agency by filing a payment for impoundment, care, and provision costs with the court in an amount determined by the impound agency to be sufficient to provide for the animal's care and provision at the impound agency for at least thirty days, including the day on which the animal was taken into custody.

(II) To the extent practicable, within seventy-two hours after an impoundment described under subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), upon request from the owner or custodian of the impounded animal, the impound agency shall allow a licensed veterinarian of the owner's or custodian's choosing and at his or her expense to examine the animal at a time and place selected by the impound agency, which examination may include taking photographs of the animal and taking biological samples for the purpose of diagnostic testing.

(b) The owner or custodian must file the payment:

(I) Within ten days after the animal is impounded; or

(II) If the owner or custodian requests a hearing pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (c) of this subsection (1), in accordance with subparagraph (IV) of paragraph (c) of this subsection (1).

(c) (I) Within ten days after the date of impoundment, the owner or custodian may request a hearing in a criminal court of competent jurisdiction. The owner or custodian must provide notice to the district attorney of his or her request for a hearing. If the owner or custodian requests a hearing, the court shall hold the hearing within ten days after the request is made.

(II) At the hearing, the court shall determine, as appropriate:

(A) Whether costs associated with the impoundment, care, and provision, as determined by the impound agency, are fair and reasonable and necessary, which costs shall be specifically itemized by the impound agency prior to the date of the hearing and shall include, at a minimum, an accounting of the costs of upkeep and veterinary services;

(B) Whether there was sufficient probable cause for the impoundment; and

(C) If the court finds probable cause for impoundment existed and the owner or custodian elects not to pay the reasonable impoundment, care, or provision costs to prevent disposition, release of the animal to the impound agency for disposition.

(III) A warrant issued in accordance with C.R.C.P. 41 (b) authorizing seizure of the impounded animal constitutes prima facie evidence of sufficient cause for impoundment.

(IV) If probable cause is found at a hearing conducted under this paragraph (c), the owner or custodian shall file payment for costs at the hearing.

(d) At the end of the time for which expenses are covered by an initial or any subsequent impoundment, care, and provision payment:

(I) If the owner or custodian desires to prevent disposition of the animal, the owner or custodian must file a new payment with the court within ten days prior to the previous payment's expiration.

(II) If the owner or custodian has not timely filed an additional payment for impoundment, care, and provision costs, the impound agency may determine disposition of the animal unless there is a court order prohibiting disposition. Unless subsection (4) of this section applies, the owner or custodian is liable for any additional costs for the care of, provision for, or disposal of the animal.

(2) (a) Failure to pay the impoundment, care, and provision costs pursuant to subsection (1) of this section results in the forfeiture of the right to contest those costs and any ownership rights to the animal in question.

(b) A dog that is not claimed by its owner within five days after being eligible for release from impoundment for investigation of a charge of unlawful ownership of a dangerous dog as described in section 18-9-204.5 is deemed abandoned and may be disposed of as the impound agency deems proper.

(c) If, in the opinion of a licensed veterinarian, an impounded animal is experiencing extreme pain or suffering or is severely injured past recovery, severely disabled past recovery, or severely diseased past recovery, the animal may be euthanized without a court order.

(3) The court shall order an impound agency to refund to the owner or custodian all impoundment, care, and provision payments made for the animal if, after trial, a judge or jury enters or returns in favor of the owner or custodian a verdict of not guilty for all charges related to the original impoundment of the animal.

(4) (a) With respect to the sale of an animal, the proceeds are first applied to the costs of the sale and then to the expenses for the care of and provision for the animal during impoundment and the pendency of the sale, including expenses incurred by the impound agency that have not been paid by the owner or custodian. If the owner of the animal is convicted of cruelty to animals under section 18-9-202, animal fighting under section 18-9-204, or unlawful ownership of a dangerous dog under section 18-9-204.5 or is found by court order to have mistreated, neglected, or abandoned the animal under article 42 of title 35, C.R.S., the remaining proceeds, if any, are paid to the impound agency. If the owner of the animal is not convicted of such charges or is not found by court order to have mistreated, neglected, or abandoned the animal, the impound agency shall pay over the remaining proceeds, if any, to the owner of the animal.

(b) If the impound agency is the department of agriculture, the department shall transmit the moneys credited for expenses to the state treasurer, who shall credit them to the animal protection fund created in section 35-42-113, C.R.S.

(c) If the owner of the animal cannot be found, the court shall pay any remaining proceeds after all other expenses have been paid to the impound agency into the animal protection fund or, if the impound agency is not the department of agriculture, to such other impound agency as the court orders. An owner claiming the remaining proceeds must make the claim within one year after the payment of the proceeds to the impound agency. A claim not so presented to the court is forever barred unless the court, by proper order made in any case, otherwise decrees. An impound agency shall pay to the claimant any refund ordered by court decree.

(d) At least six days prior to sale of the animal, the impound agency shall provide written notice to the owner, at the owner's last-known address, of the time and place of the sale of the animal.

(e) If the owner of the animal is unknown, the impound agency shall publish for one week, in a newspaper of general circulation in the jurisdiction in which the animal was found, notice of sale of the animal and shall further post notice of the sale of the animal at a place provided for public notices in the jurisdiction in which the sale will take place, at least five days prior to the sale.

(f) This subsection (4) does not apply to the disposition of an animal for a fee by:

(I) Adoption of an animal;

(II) Release of an animal to a rescue group licensed pursuant to article 80 of title 35, C.R.S.;

(III) Release of an animal to another pet animal facility licensed pursuant to article 80 of title 35, C.R.S.; or

(IV) Release of an animal to a rehabilitator licensed by the parks and wildlife division or the United States fish and wildlife service.

(5) For purposes of this section, "impound agency" means an animal shelter as defined in section 35-80-102 (1), C.R.S., the department of agriculture, created in section 24-1-123, C.R.S., or any other agency that impounds an animal pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section or section 18-9-202 (1.8).

(6) This section does not apply to animals impounded solely under article 42 of title 35, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

The press has no right to engage in activities that are otherwise illegal for the purpose of reporting the news. People v. Bergen, 883 P.2d 532 (Colo. App. 1994).

Dogfight “for the purpose” of entertainment or monetary gain is distinguished from the type of confrontation that happens unintentionally because of a chance encounter between two or more uncontrolled dogs. People v. Bergen, 883 P.2d 532 (Colo. App. 1994) (decided under section as it existed prior to 1990 amendment).

Term “knowingly” in subsection (1)(b)(I) distinguishes guilty parties from those who inadvertently find themselves at a dogfight and those who are at the scene but unaware that a dogfight is taking place. There is no requirement that the attendee be at the scene for the purpose of fun or profit. People v. Bergen, 883 P.2d 532 (Colo. App. 1994) (decided under section as it existed prior to 1990 amendment).

“Knowing presence” mental state requirement for spectators is constitutional. No more specific mental state need be required, given legislative purpose to discourage dogfights by prohibiting attendance by spectators regardless of whether the spectators are enthusiastic, neutral, or disgusted observers. People v. Bergen, 883 P.2d 532 (Colo. App. 1994) (decided under section as it existed prior to 1990 amendment).

Muzzling of dogs is irrelevant under this section. People v. Bergen, 883 P.2d 532 (Colo. App. 1994) (decided under section as it existed prior to 1990 amendment).

The owner is liable for the total cost of board and care for a dog placed pursuant to this subsection (4).

(a) Was abused, neglected, mistreated, injured, or used by the defendant during the course of the criminal episode that gave rise to such conviction;

(b) Participated in or was affected by any act set forth in section 18-9-204 (1).

(2) (a) If an animal is the subject of a motion made under subsection (1) of this section and is not owned by the defendant, the court may nevertheless enter an order of forfeiture of the animal if the court finds that:

(I) The animal was abandoned prior to the criminal episode described in subsection (1) of this section;

(II) The owner of the animal is unknown; or

(III) The owner of the animal is known but cannot be located.

(b) Any person who contests a motion brought under this section shall establish such person's standing as a true owner of the animal. The factors to be considered by the court in determining whether such person is a true owner shall include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

(I) Whether the person was the primary user, custodian, or possessor of the animal;

(II) Whether there is evidence that ownership of the animal is vested in the person;

(III) Whether consideration was paid for the purchase of the animal, and, if so, how much of the consideration was furnished by the person.

(c) If the court determines that a person other than the defendant is the true owner of the animal, the court may not enter an order forfeiting the animal under this section unless the court finds:

(I) The true owner was involved in the criminal episode described in subsection (1) of this section;

(II) The true owner knew or reasonably should have known of the criminal episode described in subsection (1) of this section and failed to take all reasonable steps available to him or her to prevent it; or

(III) Ownership of the animal was conveyed to the true owner in order to avoid a forfeiture.

(3) An order of forfeiture entered pursuant to this section shall provide for the immediate disposition of the forfeited animal by any means described in section 18-9-201 (2.5) other than return to the owner. If, in the opinion of a licensed veterinarian, the animal is experiencing extreme pain or suffering, or is severely injured past recovery, severely disabled past recovery, or severely diseased past recovery, the animal may be euthanized without a court order.

(4) The owner or custodian of an animal that is the subject of a motion brought under this section shall be liable for the cost of the care, keeping, transport, or disposal of the animal. In no event shall the prosecuting attorney or the office of the prosecuting attorney be liable for such cost.

(5) The court in its discretion may order a forfeiture authorized by this section as an element of sentencing, as a condition of probation, or as a condition of a deferred sentence.

18-9-209. Immunity for reporting animal cruelty - false report - penalty. (1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2) of this section, a person who, in good faith, reports a suspected incident of animal cruelty, as described in section 18-9-202, to a local law enforcement agency or to the state bureau of animal protection shall be immune from civil liability for reporting the incident.

(2) The provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall not apply to a person who knowingly makes a false report of animal cruelty.

(3) A person who knowingly makes a false report of animal cruelty to a local law enforcement agency or to the state bureau of animal protection commits a class 3 misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501.

ANNOTATION

Terms "conversation or discussion" in § 18-9-304 are synonymous with term "oral communication" as defined in subsection (8). People v. Blehm, 44 Colo. App. 472, 623 P.2d 411 (1980).

Terms "telephone or telegraph communication" in § 18-9-303 are synonymous with "wire communication" as defined in subsection (9). People v. Blehm, 44 Colo. App. 472, 623 P.2d 411 (1980).

Monitoring conversations between husband and wife in jail not wiretapping or eavesdropping. Monitoring the conversations between a husband and wife in the visiting room of a jail is not wiretapping or eavesdropping because such conversations are not within the statutory definitions of "wire communication" and "oral communication". People v. Blehm, 44 Colo. App. 472, 623 P.2d 411 (1980).

18-9-302. Wiretapping and eavesdropping devices prohibited - penalty. Any person who manufactures, buys, sells, or knowingly has in his possession any instrument, device, contrivance, machine, or apparatus designed or commonly used for wiretapping or eavesdropping, as prohibited in sections 18-9-303 and 18-9-304, with the intent to unlawfully use or employ or allow the same to be so used or employed, or who knowingly aids, authorizes, agrees with, employs, permits, or conspires with any person to unlawfully manufacture, buy, sell, or have the same in his possession is guilty of a class 2 misdemeanor. Upon commission of a second or subsequent offense, any person committing the same commits a class 5 felony.

18-9-303. Wiretapping prohibited - penalty. (1) Any person not a sender or intended receiver of a telephone or telegraph communication commits wiretapping if he:

(a) Knowingly overhears, reads, takes, copies, or records a telephone, telegraph, or electronic communication without the consent of either a sender or a receiver thereof or attempts to do so; or

(b) Intentionally overhears, reads, takes, copies, or records a telephone, telegraph, or electronic communication for the purpose of committing or aiding or abetting the commission of an unlawful act; or

(c) Knowingly uses for any purpose or discloses to any person the contents of any such communication, or attempts to do so, while knowing or having reason to know the information was obtained in violation of this section; or

(d) Knowingly taps or makes any connection with any telephone or telegraph line, wire, cable, or instrument belonging to another or with any electronic, mechanical, or other device belonging to another or installs any device whether connected or not which permits the interception of messages; or

(e) Repealed.

(f) Knowingly uses any apparatus to unlawfully do, or cause to be done, any act prohibited by this section or aids, authorizes, agrees with, employs, permits, or intentionally conspires with any person to violate the provisions of this section.

(2) Wiretapping is a class 6 felony; except that, if the wiretapping involves a cordless telephone, it is a class 1 misdemeanor.

Law reviews. For article, "Interspousal Wiretapping and Eavesdropping: An Update - Part I", see 24 Colo. Law. 2343 (1995). For article, "Interspousal Wiretapping and Eavesdropping: An Update - Part II", see Colo. Law. 2569 (1995).

Paragraph (1)(e) is not unconstitutionally overbroad as infringing on fundamental or express rights. Although the paragraph might prohibit a parent from hanging up or disconnecting a child's telephone call, such a proscription is not real and substantial when compared to the statute's prohibition of a whole range of easily identifiable and constitutionally proscribable conduct. People v. Shepard, 983 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1999).

Subsection (2) does not violate the equal protection clause. Because there is less of a privacy expectation when using a cordless telephone and because such calls may be more easily intercepted, the general assembly may impose a lesser penalty for wiretapping involving a cordless telephone. People v. Richardson, 983 P.2d 5 (Colo. 1999).

Section 16-15-102 (10) inapplicable. Since § 18-9-304 and this section do not prohibit or make unlawful consensual recorded eavesdropping, where one party to the conversation agrees to the recording, there is no "unlawful interception" within the meaning of § 16-15-102 (10). That section is, therefore, not applicable, and the evidence should not be suppressed. People v. Morton, 189 Colo. 198, 539 P.2d 1255 (1975), cert. denied, 423 U.S. 1053, 96 S. Ct. 783, 46 L. Ed.2d 642 (1976).

Terms "telephone or telegraph communication" in this section are synonymous with "wire communication" as defined in § 18-9-301 (9). People v. Blehm, 44 Colo. App. 472, 623 P.2d 411 (1980).

And monitoring conversations between husband and wife in jail not wiretapping. Monitoring the conversations between a husband and wife in the visiting room of a jail is not wiretapping because such conversations are not within the statutory definition of "wire communication". People v. Blehm, 44 Colo. App. 472, 623 P.2d 411 (1980).

Recording played on telephone handset before every telephone call placed by a prisoner using that telephone stating that the call would be recorded, and the short jail orientation at which prisoners agreed to read and abide by rules contained in a handbook, which stated that outgoing telephone calls would be recorded, provided notice to the defendant that his calls would be recorded. When a prison inmate is required to permit monitoring of telephone calls as a condition of using prison telephones, the prisoner impliedly consents if he or she has notice of monitoring and still places calls on prison telephones. People v. Mares, 263 P.3d 699 (Colo. App. 2011).

18-9-304. Eavesdropping prohibited - penalty. (1) Any person not visibly present during a conversation or discussion commits eavesdropping if he:

(a) Knowingly overhears or records such conversation or discussion without the consent of at least one of the principal parties thereto, or attempts to do so; or

(b) Intentionally overhears or records such conversation or discussion for the purpose of committing, aiding, or abetting the commission of an unlawful act; or

(c) Knowingly uses for any purpose, discloses, or attempts to use or disclose to any other person the contents of any such conversation or discussion while knowing or having reason to know the information was obtained in violation of this section; or

(d) Knowingly aids, authorizes, agrees with, employs, permits, or intentionally conspires with any person to violate the provisions of this section.

(2) Eavesdropping is a class 1 misdemeanor.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "Legislation: The Statutory Right of Privacy in Colorado — Section 33 of the Eavesdropping Act: Should It be Narrowly Construed?", see 41 U. Colo. L. Rev. 174 (1969). For article, "Discovery and Admissibility of Sound Recordings and Their Transcripts", see 14 Colo. Law. 999 (1985).

Section recognizes right of privacy. The supreme court specifically recognizes the theory of tortious conduct designated as the invasion of the right of privacy, noting that the general assembly gave legislative recognition of the right of privacy by the enactment of this section. Rugg v. McCarty, 173 Colo. 170, 476 P.2d 753 (1970) (decided under former § 40-4-33, C.R.S.).

Eavesdropping statutes require use of subjective and objective tests to determine whether a person's conversation qualifies as protected oral communications. People v. Hart, 787 P.2d 186 (Colo. App. 1989).

Section 16-15-102 (10) inapplicable. Since § 18-9-303 and this section do not prohibit or make unlawful consensual recorded eavesdropping, where one party to the conversation agrees to the recording, there is no "unlawful interception" within the meaning of § 16-15-102 (10). That section is, therefore, not applicable, and the evidence should not be suppressed. People v. Morton, 189 Colo. 198, 539 P.2d 1255 (1975), cert. denied, 423 U.S. 1053, 96 S. Ct. 783, 46 L. Ed.2d 642 (1976).

Terms "conversation or discussion" in this section are synonymous with term "oral communication" as defined in § 18-9-301 (8). People v. Blehm, 44 Colo. App. 472, 623 P.2d 411 (1980).

And monitoring conversations between husband and wife in jail not eavesdropping. Monitoring the conversations between a husband and wife in the visiting room of a jail is not eavesdropping because such conversations are not within the statutory definition of "oral communication". People v. Blehm, 44 Colo. App. 472, 623 P.2d 411 (1980).

Consensually overheard conversation not eavesdropping. By the terms of subsection (1)(a), a consensually overheard conversation is not eavesdropping. People v. Palmer, 652 P.2d 1092 (Colo. App. 1982).

Consent of one party to recording supports summary judgment. Where plaintiff claimed that certain telephone conversations were illegally recorded, but admitted that the other party to the conversations had consented, there was no genuine issue of fact and summary judgment was proper. Abrahamsen v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 177 Colo. 422, 494 P.2d 1287 (1972) (decided under former § 40-4-28, C.R.S.).

For "consent" to be valid, it must be voluntary and uncoerced. Generally, it is sufficient for the prosecution, who has the burden of proving consent, to show that an informant had knowledge of the monitoring setup; however, when coercion is alleged, the prosecution must show that there was no undue pressure, threats or improper inducements. People v. Rivera, 765 P.2d 624 (Colo. App. 1988).

Whether the circumstances of a communication justify a belief that it is not subject to interception is analyzed in the same manner as the question of whether an investigative activity amounts to a search: whether there is a justifiable expectation of privacy at the time and place of the communication. People v. Lesslie, 939 P.2d 443 (Colo. App. 1996).

Occupants of bar restroom had an objectively reasonable expectation of privacy from surveillance with a police transmitter despite the fact that police or others might hear a conversation unaided. People v. Lesslie, 939 P.2d 443 (Colo. App. 1996).

18-9-305. Exceptions. (1) Nothing in sections 18-9-302 to 18-9-304 shall be interpreted to prevent a news agency, or an employee thereof, from using the accepted tools and equipment of that news medium in the course of reporting or investigating a public and newsworthy event; nor shall said sections prevent any person from using wiretapping or eavesdropping devices on his own premises for security or business purposes if reasonable notice of the use of such devices is given to the public.

(2) No part of sections 18-9-302 to 18-9-304 shall apply to the normal use of services, facilities, and equipment provided by a provider of wire or electronic communication service pursuant to its tariffs on file with the public utilities commission of the state of Colorado and with the federal communications commission; and said sections shall not apply to the normal functions of any operator of a switchboard nor to any officer, agent, or employee of a provider of wire or electronic communication service or other person engaged in the business of providing service, equipment, and facilities for communication who performs an otherwise prohibited act if such act is necessary to provide the communication services, equipment, or facilities or is necessary in the construction, maintenance, repair, operations, or use of the same, including the obtaining of billing and accounting information, the protecting of the communication services, equipment, and facilities from illegal use in violation of the tariffs referred to in this subsection (2), the protecting of the provider of wire or electronic communication service from the commission of fraud against it, and the providing of requested information in response to a subpoena or court order issued by a court of competent jurisdiction or on demand of other lawful authority.

(3) It shall not be unlawful under sections 18-9-302 to 18-9-304 for an officer, employee, or agent of any provider of wire or electronic communication service or other person to provide information, facilities, or technical assistance to an investigative or law enforcement officer who, pursuant to section 16-15-102, C.R.S., is authorized to intercept a wire, oral, or electronic communication for that purpose.

(4) A good faith reliance on a court order or the provisions of article 15 of title 16, C.R.S., shall constitute a complete defense to any criminal action brought under provision of sections 18-9-302 to 18-9-304 or any civil action brought under any other law of the state of Colorado. This section shall not be construed in any manner which would allow an investigative or law enforcement officer of the state of Colorado to engage in any wiretapping or eavesdropping without prior authorization by a court of competent jurisdiction under the provisions of article 15 of title 16, C.R.S., except as provided in section 16-15-102 (18), C.R.S.

(4.3) It shall not be unlawful under sections 18-9-302 to 18-9-304 for any person:

(a) To intercept or access an electronic communication made through an electronic communications system that is configured so that such electronic communication is readily accessible to the general public;

(b) To intercept any radio communication which is transmitted by:

(I) Any station for the use of the general public or that relates to ships, aircraft, vehicles, or persons in distress;

(II) Any governmental, law enforcement, civil defense, private land mobile, or public safety communications system, including police and fire, readily accessible to the general public;

(III) A station operating on an authorized frequency within the bands allocated to the amateur, citizens band, or general mobile radio services; or

(IV) Any marine or aeronautical communications system;

(c) To engage in any conduct which is:

(I) Prohibited by section 633 of the federal "Communications Act of 1934", as amended; or

(II) Excepted from the application of section 705 (a) of the federal "Communications Act of 1934", as amended, by section 705 (b) of said act;

(d) To intercept any wire or electronic communication, the transmission of which is causing harmful interference to any lawfully operating station or consumer electronic equipment, to the extent necessary to identify the source of such interference; or

(e) For other users of the same frequency to intercept any radio communication made through a system that utilizes frequencies monitored by individuals engaged in the provision or the use of such system, if such communication is not scrambled or encrypted.

(4.5) It shall not be unlawful under sections 18-9-302 to 18-9-304:

(a) To use a pen register or a trap and trace device; or

(b) For a provider of electronic communication service to record the fact that a wire or electronic communication was initiated or completed in order to protect such provider, another provider furnishing service toward the completion of the wire or electronic communication, or a user of that service from fraudulent, unlawful, or abusive use of such service.

(4.7) A person or entity providing an electronic communication service to the public shall not intentionally divulge the contents of any communication other than a communication to such person or entity, or an agent thereof, while in transmission on that service to any person or entity other than an addressee or intended recipient of such communication or an agent of such addressee or intended recipient; except that a person or entity providing electronic communication service to the public may divulge the contents of any such communication:

(a) As otherwise authorized in section 16-15-102 (12), (13), (14), and (16), C.R.S., and subsections (2) and (3) of this section;

(b) With the lawful consent of the originator or any addressee or intended recipient of such communication;

(c) To a person employed or authorized, or whose facilities are used, to forward such communication to its destination; or

(d) Which were inadvertently obtained by the service provider and which appear to pertain to the commission of a crime, if such divulgence is made to a law enforcement agency.

(4.9) It shall not be unlawful for a district attorney or law enforcement officer to listen to a recording of or to read a transcription of the contents of an electronic communication involving a cordless telephone when the district attorney or law enforcement officer has come into possession of such materials from a third party. In order to use such materials as evidence in a prosecution for a crime other than wiretapping or eavesdropping, the district attorney or law enforcement officer shall have a reasonable basis for believing that the recording or transcription is reliable and shall also have separate probable cause based on corroborating evidence to support a reasonable belief that the crime was committed. Nothing in this subsection (4.9) shall preclude a district attorney from prosecuting a person for a violation of section 18-9-303 or 18-9-304.

(5) The exceptions in this section shall be affirmative defenses.

ANNOTATION

This section is not unconstitutionally vague in that it fails to delineate who has the responsibility of giving notice and does not state "how notice is to be given". People v. McCauley, 192 Colo. 545, 561 P.2d 335 (1977).

The affirmative "security or business purpose" defense does not take effect until reasonable notice is given to the public by the agent, the owner, or some third party. People v. McCauley, 192 Colo. 545, 561 P.2d 335 (1977).

The burden of giving "reasonable notice" to the public can be placed upon the party who installed the wiretap. People v. McCauley, 192 Colo. 545, 561 P.2d 335 (1977).

Monitoring conversations between husband and wife in jail not wiretapping or eavesdropping. Monitoring the conversations between a husband and wife in the visiting room of a jail is not wiretapping or eavesdropping because such conversations are not within § 18-9-301's definitions of "wire communication" and "oral communication". People v. Blehm, 44 Colo. App. 472, 623 P.2d 411 (1980).

18-9-306. Abuse of telephone and telegraph service. (1) A person commits a class 3 misdemeanor, if:

(a) As an employee of a telegraph or telephone company he knowingly divulges the contents or the purport of any message or part thereof sent or intended to be sent to any person other than one to whom said message is sent or person authorized to receive the same; or

(b) He knowingly sends or delivers a false message or furnishes or conspires to furnish such message to an operator to be sent or delivered with intent to injure, deceive, or defraud any person, corporation, or the public; or

(c) He knowingly and without authorization opens any sealed envelope enclosing a message with the purpose of learning the contents; or

(d) He impersonates another, and thereby procures the delivery to himself of the message directed to such person, with the intent to use, destroy, or detain the same; or

(e) He knowingly and without authorization reads or learns the contents or meaning of a message on its transit and uses or communicates to another any information so obtained; or

(f) He knowingly bribes a telegraph or telephone operator or employee of a telegraph or telephone company to disclose any private message or the purport of the same received by him by reason of his trust as agent of the company or uses such information when thus obtained.

(2) An action under this section shall be brought in the county in which the subject matter of the action, or some part thereof, is located or found and shall be commenced by the filing of a complaint, which shall be verified by affidavit.

The court shall direct the sheriff to seize and retain until further order of the court any device which is being used in violation of section 18-9-309 (2) or (3). While the temporary restraining order remains in effect, all property seized pursuant to the order of the court shall remain in the custody of the court. Within fourteen days following the filing of a motion of any person adversely affected by a temporary restraining order, the court shall conduct a hearing and determine whether such temporary restraining order shall be continued pending final determination of the action. Until such hearing takes place, the temporary restraining order shall remain in full force and effect.

(4) The court may issue a permanent injunction to restrain, abate, or prevent the continuance or recurrence of the violation of section 18-9-309 (2) or (3). The court may grant declaratory relief, mandatory orders, or any other relief deemed necessary to accomplish the purposes of the injunction. The court may retain jurisdiction of the case for the purpose of enforcing its orders.

(5) If it is shown to the satisfaction of the court, either by verified complaint or affidavit, that a person is engaged in or is about to engage in any act which constitutes a violation of section 18-9-309 (2) or (3), the court may issue an order which shall be promptly served upon the person in whose name the illegal telecommunications equipment is listed, requiring the party, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the court but not exceeding forty-eight hours from the time of service of the petition on said party, to show cause before the judge why telecommunications service should not promptly be discontinued. At the hearing the burden of proof shall be on the complainant.

(6) Upon a finding by the court that the illegal telecommunications equipment is being used or has been used in violation of section 18-9-309 (2) or (3), the court shall issue an order requiring the telephone company which is rendering service over the device to disconnect such service. Upon receipt of such order, which shall be served upon an officer of the telephone company by the sheriff of the county in which the illegal telecommunications equipment is installed or by a duly authorized deputy, the telephone company shall proceed promptly to disconnect and remove such device and discontinue all telecommunications service until further order of the court.

18-10-101. Legislative declaration - construction. (1) It is declared to be the policy of the general assembly, recognizing the close relationship between professional gambling and other organized crime, to restrain all persons from seeking profit from gambling activities in this state; to restrain all persons from patronizing such activities when conducted for the profit of any person; to safeguard the public against the evils induced by common gamblers and common gambling houses; and at the same time to preserve the freedom of the press and to avoid restricting participation by individuals in sport and social pastimes which are not for profit, do not affect the public, and do not breach the peace.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-10-101 is similar to former § 40-10-3, CRS 53, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

This article prohibits gambling, the keeping of a place where gambling is commonly carried on, the keeping at such place, and exhibiting of gambling devices, and the betting of money or other property upon the results of any game. Everhart v. People, 54 Colo. 272, 130 P. 1076 (1913).

The legislative intent of this section is to prevent public gambling, and includes the risking of money or anything of value between two or more persons, on a contest of either chance, skill, or hazard, where one must be the loser and the other the gainer. Everhart v. People, 54 Colo. 272, 130 P. 1076 (1913).

The declaration of this section evidences a continuation of the policy against gambling for profit in Colorado. Condado Aruba Caribbean Hotel, N.V. v. Tickel, 39 Colo. App. 51, 561 P.2d 23 (1977).

Golf match not "gambling". A golf match, participated in and bet on by four golfers, in which each of the four, by his playing, had control over the outcome did not constitute "gambling" as defined in § 18-10-102 (2). Berckefeldt v. Hammer, 44 Colo. App. 320, 616 P.2d 183 (1980).

"Social gambling" specifically allowed. This section changed the common law and specifically exempted "social gambling" from the ambit of forbidden conduct. Houston v. Youngmans, 196 Colo. 53, 580 P.2d 801 (1978).

"Social gambling" is game incidental to bona fide social relationship, participated in by natural persons in no way connected to professional gambling. Houston v. Youngmans, 196 Colo. 53, 580 P.2d 801 (1978).

Gambling debts owed to a for-profit gambling business are still unenforceable in this state, despite the repeal of former C.R.S. 1963, section 40-10-13. Condado Aruba Caribbean Hotel, N.V. v. Tickel, 39 Colo. App. 51, 561 P.2d 23 (1977).

The declaration of this section does not support the contention that, although gambling is illegal and against public policy when it occurs in Colorado, it would not be contrary to public policy to enforce gambling debts incurred where gambling is legal. To the contrary, in the above legislative declaration there is a policy restraining any activities related to gambling conducted for profit, when not specifically sanctioned by statute, including collection of any gambling debts. Condado Aruba Caribbean Hotel, N.V. v. Tickel, 39 Colo. App. 51, 561 P.2d 23 (1977).

This section commands that the act be liberally construed. Bridge v. People, 63 Colo. 319, 165 P. 778 (1917).

Because of this section, care need be exercised that neither by illogical construction nor by loose language this article be so circumscribed as to defeat its purpose and usefulness. McBride v. People, 126 Colo. 277, 248 P.2d 725 (1952); Patterson v. People, 138 Colo. 368, 333 P.2d 1047 (1959).

This section declares that the definitive statute shall be liberally construed for the detection and punishment of offenders. Fischer v. People, 138 Colo. 559, 335 P.2d 871 (1959); Patterson v. People, 138 Colo. 368, 333 P.2d 1047 (1959).

State gambling legislation did not preempt municipal ordinance. Woolverton v. City & County of Denver, 146 Colo. 247, 361 P.2d 982 (1961), overruled insofar as it invalidated the theory of mutual exclusion where it related to matters of both state-wide and local interest in Vela v. People, 174 Colo. 465, 484 P.2d 1204 (1971), which held that in strictly local and municipal matters ordinances of home rule cities apply to the exclusion of state statutes.

A conviction in any jurisdiction of the United States of an offense which, if committed in this state, would be professional gambling shall warrant a prosecution in this state as a repeating gambling offender.

(10) "Vintage slot machine" means any model slot machine, as defined in section 12-47.1-103 (26), C.R.S., that was introduced on the market prior to January 1, 1984.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-10-102 is similar to former CSA, C. 48, § 234, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

The language of this section is plain and unambiguous. The statute does not prohibit the playing of games. It is only when they are made instruments of winning or losing money or property that a criminal character attaches to them. There being no enumeration of specific games, subjects or things, the general words used must be ascribed their ordinary meaning. Everhart v. People, 54 Colo. 272, 130 P. 1076 (1913).

Gambling defined. Gambling includes physical contests whether of man or beast, when practiced for the purpose of deciding wagers, as well as games of hazard or skill by means of instruments or devices. Everhart v. People, 54 Colo. 272, 130 P. 1076 (1913).

Golf match not "gambling". A golf match, participated in and bet on by four golfers, in which each of the four, by his playing, had control over the outcome did not constitute "gambling" as defined in subsection (2). Berkefeldt v. Hammer, 44 Colo. App. 320, 616 P.2d 183 (1980).

Definition of gambling devices pertains to use. The words "gambling device or apparatus" do not mean literally instrumentalities with appliances adapted and essential to particular games, but include any species of device or apparatus kept and used for gambling, winning, betting, or gaining money or other property. It is the use to which the article or thing is appropriated which renders the keeping or exhibition thereof unlawful within the meaning of the sections here involved. Everhart v. People, 54 Colo. 272, 130 P. 1076 (1913).

"Pinball" machines held gambling devices. Approximately Fifty-Nine Gambling Devices v. People ex rel. Burke, 110 Colo. 82, 130 P.2d 920 (1942).

Paper tickets that contain a coupon on one side and a cash prize game on the other and the machine that dispenses them are gambling devices. The coupon is merely incidental to the game portion of the ticket, and it does not eliminate the element of risk. Snizek v. Dept. of Rev., 113 P.3d 1280 (Colo. App. 2005).

Video games that had been used in gambling by liquor licensee were "usable in professional gambling activities" so that the games were subject to destruction and the proceeds of such games were subject to forfeiture pursuant to statute, even if the owner did not have actual or constructive knowledge of the use of the games for gambling. State Dept. of Rev. v. Grooms Music Co., 721 P.2d 1225 (Colo. App. 1986).

Nonprofit corporation's fundraising which involved casino-type gambling with play money did not qualify for the permissible social gambling exemption of this section because participants were risking a thing of value for gain contingent in whole or in part upon chance and the gambling, although incidental to a social relationship, was participated in by persons other than natural persons and was conducted under circumstances in which persons participated in professional gambling as intended by the statute. Charnes v. Central City Opera House, 773 P.2d 546 (Colo. 1989).

To determine whether a game is incidental to a bona fide social relationship and thus excluded from the definition of gambling, the critical inquiry is whether the participants came together for any shared purpose other than gambling; where a basketball pool was entered into only by devoted patrons of a neighborhood bar and liquor authority inspectors, it was incidental to a bona fide social relationship. Leichliter v. State Liquor Licensing Auth., 9 P.3d 1153 (Colo. 1999).

Cheating is not an essential element of the offense. Previous legislation was directed against games and bets thereon in which an element of cheating, trickery, or fraud entered, and to places wherein such games and bets continuously occurred; whereas this act, being the law as it now is, is directed against all places used or occupied for gambling, the keeping or exhibiting of gaming tables, establishments, devices, etc., to win or gain money or other property, the practice of gambling for a sum of money or other thing of value, and betting and wagering upon the result thereof. Everhart v. People, 54 Colo. 272, 130 P. 1076 (1913).

Nor is payment of winnings. While a gaming device may "pay nothing", it nevertheless may be used or kept for the purpose of gambling. Walker v. Begole, 99 Colo. 471, 63 P.2d 1224 (1936); MacArthur v. Wycaver, 120 Colo. 525, 211 P.2d 556 (1949).

The activity reached by this section could not be characterized as free expression or involving any right to privacy as that right has previously been defined. People v. Wheatridge Poker Club, 194 Colo. 15, 569 P.2d 324 (1977).

The definition of "profit" in subsection (1) is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Wheatridge Poker Club, 194 Colo. 15, 569 P.2d 324 (1977).

Nor is phrase “aiding or inducing”. The phrase “aiding or inducing” as employed in subsection (8)(a) is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Wheatridge Poker Club, 194 Colo. 15, 569 P.2d 324 (1977).

The general definition of “to aid” in § 18-1-901 (3)(a) is applicable to the definition of professional gambling in subsection (8). People v. Wheatridge Poker Club, 194 Colo. 15, 569 P.2d 324 (1977).

The term “to induce”, while not statutorily defined, may be ascribed its ordinary dictionary definition. People v. Wheatridge Poker Club, 194 Colo. 15, 569 P.2d 324 (1977).

Active participation in gambling process not required. It is not necessary in this state that someone actively participate in the gambling process in order to be engaged in professional gambling. People v. Wheatridge Poker Club, 194 Colo. 15, 569 P.2d 324 (1977).

Applied in Houston v. Youngmans, 196 Colo. 53, 580 P.2d 801 (1978); People v. Miller, 199 Colo. 32, 604 P.2d 36 (1979); United States v. McNulty, 729 F.2d 1243 (10th Cir. 1983).

18-10-103. Gambling - professional gambling - offenses. (1) A person who engages in gambling commits a class 1 petty offense.

(2) A person who engages in professional gambling commits a class 1 misdemeanor. If he is a repeating gambling offender, it is a class 5 felony.

ANNOTATION

Annotator’s note. Since § 18-10-103 is similar to former § 40-10-8, C.R.S. 1963, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Construction of section. The offense punished by this section was not a crime at common law, and under ordinary circumstances the statute would be subjected to strict construction. The general assembly, however, specifically provided to the contrary in § 18-10-101. Care, therefore, need be exercised that neither by illogical construction nor by loose language be it so circumscribed as to defeat its purpose and usefulness. McBride v. People, 126 Colo. 277, 248 P.2d 725 (1952).

Constitutionality of section. The fact that certain types of gambling were allowed by statute did not deny the petitioner, who was charged with gambling violations, equal protection of the law, especially where § 18-10-107 and this section, under which charges of gambling were issued against the petitioner, applied equally to all persons and made no classifications or distinctions. Smaldone v. People, 173 Colo. 385, 479 P.2d 973 (1971).

Playing for purpose of gain violates section. Under a charge of gambling, whether defendants played at a game for a wager with each other or with others is immaterial. If they played for the purpose of gain, whether against each other or with others, they violated the statute. Wilson v. People, 103 Colo. 150, 84 P.2d 463 (1938).

Question of residence not material under section. An information which charges in the language of the statute that defendants engaged in gambling for a livelihood is not insufficient because it does not further allege that they were without any fixed residence, gambling for a livelihood being a violation of the statute irrespective of the question of residence. Wilson v. People, 103 Colo. 150, 84 P.2d 463 (1938).

Two persons may be tried jointly for gambling for a livelihood although the intent of each to secure a livelihood was personal to himself. Wilson v. People, 103 Colo. 150, 84 P.2d 463 (1938).

Introduction of reputation evidence not reversible error. Where evidence of the defendant’s reputation of gambling for a livelihood is corroborative of other evidence, which is sufficient in itself to support the conviction, the introduction of reputation evidence does not constitute reversible error and the holding is limited to the offense of gambling for a livelihood. McNulty v. People, 180 Colo. 246, 504 P.2d 335 (1972).

For purposes of determining the legality of an ex parte order for wiretapping under section 16-15-102, the proposed intervention must involve a person who has previously been convicted of professional gambling twice within 5 years, so that a felony is authorized upon conviction. United States v. McNulty, 729 F.2d 1243 (10th Cir. 1983).

Nonprofit corporation’s fundraising which involved casino-type gambling with play money violated this section because participants were risking a thing of value for gain contingent in whole or in part upon chance and the gambling, although incidental to a social relationship, was participated in by persons other than natural persons and was conducted under circumstances in which persons participated in professional gambling as intended by the statute. Charnes v. Central City Opera House, 773 P.2d 546 (Colo. 1989).

18-10-104. Gambling devices - gambling records - gambling proceeds. (1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, all gambling devices, gambling records, and gambling proceeds are subject to seizure by any peace officer and may be confiscated and destroyed by order of a court acquiring jurisdiction. Gambling proceeds shall be forfeited to the state and shall be transmitted by court order to the general fund of the state.

(2) If a gambling device is a vintage slot machine and is not operated for gambling purposes for profit or for business purposes, it shall not be confiscated or destroyed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. If a gambling device is confiscated and the owner shows that such gambling device is a vintage slot machine and is not used for gambling purposes, the court acquiring jurisdiction shall order such vintage slot machine returned to the person from whom it was confiscated.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-10-104 is similar to former §§ 40-10-13, CRS 53, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

This section does not deny due process. Walker v. Begole, 99 Colo. 471, 63 P.2d 1224 (1936).

This section is not in violation of § 25 of art. II, Colo. Const., providing that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law in the respect that no provision is made for jury trial. Kite v. People, 32 Colo. 5, 74 P. 886 (1903); Stanley-Thompson Liquor Co. v. People, 63 Colo. 456, 168 P. 750 (1917).

And right to jury trial does not exist. A proceeding under this section is a proceeding in rem, and the constitutional right of trial by jury does not apply to such proceeding. Kite v. People, 32 Colo. 5, 74 P. 886 (1903); Approximately Fifty-Nine Gambling Devices v. People ex rel. Burke, 110 Colo. 82, 130 P.2d 920 (1942).

Gambling apparatus and implements are treated by this section as noxious per se, and they are ordered destroyed to remove a danger imminent from their very existence, not merely to punish the owner for an unlawful use. This section strikes at the thing itself, and not at any act or intent of its owner. Newman v. People, 23 Colo. 300, 47 P. 278 (1896); Kite v. People, 32 Colo. 5, 74 P. 886 (1903); Walker v. Begole, 99 Colo. 471, 63 P.2d 1224 (1936); MacArthur v. Wycaver, 120 Colo. 525, 211 P.2d 556 (1949).

They may be lawfully destroyed by the officers authorized thereunto, even though not used nor kept for use by the one having them in possession. Stanley-Thompson Liquor Co. v. People, 63 Colo. 456, 168 P. 750 (1917).

Gambling devices may legally be destroyed whether they are actually used for gambling or not. Approximately Fifty-Nine Gambling Devices v. People ex rel. Burke, 110 Colo. 82, 130 P.2d 920 (1942).

If done pursuant to court order. This section provides a means for the destruction of gambling paraphernalia, but even in such case it is to be accomplished in an orderly manner and upon the order of a court of competent jurisdiction. Houston v. Walton, 23 Colo. App. 282, 129 P. 263 (1913).

Whether machines were kept for gambling is question for court. In a proceeding to procure the destruction of gambling devices, the issue of whether the machines were kept for gambling purposes was a question of fact to be determined by the trial court. Approximately Fifty-Nine Gambling Devices v. People ex rel. Burke, 110 Colo. 82, 130 P.2d 920 (1942).

Statute providing that gambling devices are subject to seizure and may be confiscated and destroyed by court order does not require that the owner of the machine have knowledge, actual or constructive, that such machines are being used for gambling. State Dept. of Rev. v. Grooms Music Co., 721 P.2d 1225 (Colo. App. 1986).

Destruction of devices is not illegal as to person holding mortgage thereon. The destruction of gambling devices on which there was a chattel mortgage under this section is not illegal as to the mortgagee where the devices were left in the possession of the mortgagor to be used as he saw fit, the mortgagee knowing that the only reasonable use they could be put to was for gambling purposes, although the mortgagee did not actually give his consent to or know of such use by the mortgagor. Kite v. People, 32 Colo. 5, 74 P. 886 (1903).

Injunction probably does not lie to restrain seizing gaming devices used for gambling. Walker v. Begole, 99 Colo. 471, 63 P.2d 1224 (1936).

And they cannot be recovered in replevin nor damages given for injury to them. Gambling devices are things capable of no lawful use and are not the subject of property. They cannot be recovered in replevin, nor will damages be given for their loss or injury. Stanley-Thompson Liquor Co. v. People, 63 Colo. 456, 168 P. 750 (1917).

Applied in Sullivan v. Modern Music Co., 137 Colo. 292, 324 P.2d 374 (1958).

18-10-105. Possession of a gambling device or record. (1) Except as provided in subsection (1.5) of this section, a person who owns, manufactures, sells, transports, possesses, or engages in any transaction designed to affect the ownership, custody, or use of a gambling device or gambling record, knowing that it is to be used in professional gambling, commits possession of a gambling device or record.

(1.5) The sale, transportation, manufacture, and remanufacture of gambling devices, including the acquisition of essential parts therefor and the assembly of such parts, is permitted if such devices are sold, transported, manufactured, and remanufactured only for transportation in interstate or foreign commerce when such transportation is not prohibited by any applicable foreign, state, or federal law. Storage of gambling devices is also permitted but only for purposes of manufacturing, remanufacturing, and transporting such devices in interstate or foreign commerce when their transportation is not prohibited. Such activities may be conducted only by persons who have registered with the United States government pursuant to the provisions of chapter 24 of Title XV of the United States Code, as amended. Such gambling devices shall not be openly displayed, except to legal buyers, or sold for use in Colorado regardless of where purchased, nor manufactured, remanufactured, or stored for purposes of manufacture, remanufacture, and transportation in violation of any applicable state or federal law. For purposes of this subsection (1.5), "legal buyer" means a buyer who resides in another state or country which does not restrict the possession of the specific gambling device in question.

(2) Possession of a gambling device or record or violation of subsection (1.5) of this section is a class 2 misdemeanor. If the offender is a repeating gambling offender, it is a class 6 felony.

ANNOTATION

The offenses described in this section and section 18-10-107 each require proof of a different element and are not duplicitous. McNulty v. People, 180 Colo. 246, 504 P.2d 335 (1972) (decided under former § 40-10-8, C.R.S. 1963).

Applied in Paulino v. People, 113 Colo. 180, 155 P.2d 609 (1945) (decided under former CSA, C. 48, § 230).

18-10-106. Gambling information. (1) Whoever knowingly transmits or receives gambling information by telephone, telegraph, radio, semaphore, or other means or knowingly installs or maintains equipment for the transmission or receipt of gambling information commits a class 3 misdemeanor. If the offender is a repeating gambling offender, it is a class 6 felony.

(2) Facilities and equipment furnished by a public utility in the regular course of business, and which remain the property of the utility while so furnished, shall not be seized except in connection with an alleged violation of this article by the public utility and shall be forfeited only upon conviction of the public utility therefor.

ANNOTATION

Subsection (1) held constitutional. U.S. v. Pinelli, 890 F.2d 1461 (10th Cir. 1989), cert. denied, 495 U.S. 960, 110 S. Ct. 2568, 109 L. Ed.2d 750 (1989).

18-10-107. Gambling premises. (1) Whoever as owner, lessee, agent, employee, operator, or occupant knowingly maintains, aids, or permits the maintaining of gambling premises commits maintaining gambling premises.

(2) All gambling premises are common nuisances which shall be subject to abatement as provided by law.

(3) Maintaining gambling premises is a class 3 misdemeanor. If the offender is a repeating gambling offender, it is a class 6 felony.

Annotator's note. Since § 18-10-107 is similar to former § 40-10-7, C.R.S. 1963, and laws antecedent thereto, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Section does not deny equal protection. The fact that certain types of gambling were allowed pursuant to statute did not deny the petitioner, who was charged with gambling violations, equal protection of the law, especially where this section and § 18-10-103, under which charges of gambling were issued against the petitioner, applied equally to all persons and made no classifications or distinctions. Smaldone v. People, 173 Colo. 385, 479 P.2d 973 (1971).

The offenses described in section 18-10-105 and this section each require proof of a different element and are not duplicitous. McNulty v. People, 180 Colo. 246, 504 P.2d 335 (1972).

Intent is to prohibit all gambling places. It is clear that the law intends to, and does, prohibit every place commonly used or occupied for gambling of any character whatsoever, and the keeping and exhibiting of any instrumentalities to be used for gambling and winning, betting, or gaining money or other property upon the result of any game, and likewise the practice of gambling. Everhart v. People, 54 Colo. 272, 130 P. 1076 (1913).

And section includes pool halls. The keeper of a pool hall licensed by a city who knowingly permitted several games for money to be played in his hall was held liable to conviction under this section. Koucles v. People, 64 Colo. 595, 173 P. 400 (1918).

Information need not name persons who played. In an information under this section for keeping a room to be used and occupied for gambling, it is not necessary to set forth the names of persons who played at games in such room. Chase v. People, 2 Colo. 509 (1875).

Evidence held sufficient. Paulino v. People, 113 Colo. 180, 155 P.2d 609 (1945).

In a prosecution for keeping a gambling house and gaming devices, evidence of a room and desk, of posted odds on athletic contests, and betting in the establishment occupied by a corporation in the business of which defendant was active was held sufficient to go to the jury and to sustain a verdict of guilty, such facts being uncontradicted. Wolfe v. People, 90 Colo. 102, 6 P.2d 927 (1932).

Ordinance licensing casino not valid city ordinance. Vick v. People, 166 Colo. 565, 445 P.2d 220 (1968), cert. denied, 394 U.S. 945, 89 S. Ct. 1273, 22 L. Ed.2d 477 (1969).

18-10-108. Exceptions. Nothing contained in this article shall be construed to modify, amend, or otherwise affect the validity of any provisions contained in articles 9, 47.1, and 60 of title 12, C.R.S.

- (b) With intent to outrage the sensibilities of persons liable to observe or discover the action or its results; or
- (c) With intent to cause a breach of the peace or incitement to riot; or
- (d) Under such circumstances that it may cause a breach of the peace or incitement to riot.

(2) "Flag", as used in this section, means any flag, ensign, banner, standard, colors, or replica or representation thereof which is an official or commonly recognized symbol of the United States of America or the state of Colorado.

(3) Any person violating the provisions of this section commits a class 3 misdemeanor.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "Comment: Constitutional Law — Symbolic Speech — Colorado Flag Desecration Statute", see 48 Den. L. J. 451 (1971). For article, "The Flag-Burning Episode: An Essay on the Constitution", see 61 U. Colo. L. Rev. 39 (1990).

Subsection (1)(a) unconstitutional. Provision of this section making it unlawful to mutilate, deface, and defile a flag of the United States with intent to cast contempt thereupon is unconstitutional upon its face because the interests it seeks to promote are contrary to the fundamental values protected by the first amendment. People v. Vaughan, 183 Colo. 40, 514 P.2d 1318 (1973).

Statute was not designed to proscribe mutilating or misusing flag per se. People v. Vaughan, 183 Colo. 40, 514 P.2d 1318 (1973).

Specific intent required. A violation of this section occurs only when the surrounding circumstances manifest the exercise of the intellect in such a manner that inferences may be drawn therefrom that the acts or conduct were done with the specific intent of casting contempt on the flag. There is no violation of this section where the proscribed acts are the result of thoughtlessness, inadvertence, accident, or the like. People v. Vaughan, 183 Colo. 40, 514 P.2d 1318 (1973).

Symbolic speech protected. Conduct, which consisted of wearing a pair of blue jeans on the seat of which a portion of the American flag had been sewn, manifested an expressive intent and a communicative content such as to be considered “symbolic speech” and consequently was protected “speech” under the first amendment. People v. Vaughan, 183 Colo. 40, 514 P.2d 1318 (1973).

18-11-205. Unlawful to display flag - exceptions. (1) Any person who displays any flag other than the flag of the United States of America or the state of Colorado or any of its subdivisions, agencies, or institutions on a permanent flagstaff located on a state, county, municipal, or other public building or on its grounds within this state commits a class 1 petty offense.

(2) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2007, p. 423, § 1, effective August 3, 2007.)

(3) “Flag”, as used in this section, means any flag, ensign, banner, standard, colors, or replica or representation thereof which is an official or commonly recognized symbol of a particular nation, state, movement, cause, or organization.

(4) (a) This section does not apply to:

(I) The display of the flag of the United Nations or the flag of a foreign nation displayed to identify persons officially representing such foreign nation or the property or premises of the person or nation;

(II) The display of an appropriate flag upon ceremonial or commemorative occasions proclaimed by the president of the United States, the governor of the state of Colorado, the board of county commissioners of any county, or the mayor or other chief executive officer of a city or town within this state;

(III) The display of the flag of any adjacent state with the flag of the state of Colorado at the ports of entry weigh stations, in recognition of the joint state port operation; or

(IV) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2007, p. 423, § 1, effective August 3, 2007.)

(V) The display of a prisoners of war and missing in action flag or other appropriate veteran commemorative, United States or state armed forces, or military commemorative flag when displayed in accordance with 4 U.S.C. sec. 7;

(VI) The display of flags of foreign nations for special, occasional, ceremonial purposes when displayed in accordance with 4 U.S.C. sec. 7; or

(VII) The display of a flag for educational, cultural, or historical purposes with the prior permission of the chief administrative officer of the state, county, municipal, or other public building or grounds.

(b) This subsection (4) shall be an affirmative defense.

PART 1

FIREARMS AND WEAPONS - GENERAL

18-12-101. Definitions - peace officer affirmative defense. (1) As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Adult" means any person eighteen years of age or older.

(a.3) "Ballistic knife" means any knife that has a blade which is forcefully projected from the handle by means of a spring-loaded device or explosive charge.

(a.5) "Blackjack" includes any billy, sand club, sandbag, or other hand-operated striking weapon consisting, at the striking end, of an encased piece of lead or other heavy substance and, at the handle end, a strap or springy shaft which increases the force of impact.

(b) "Bomb" means any explosive or incendiary device or molotov cocktail as defined in section 9-7-103, C.R.S., or any chemical device which causes or can cause an explosion, which is not specifically designed for lawful and legitimate use in the hands of its possessor.

(c) "Firearm silencer" means any instrument, attachment, weapon, or appliance for causing the firing of any gun, revolver, pistol, or other firearm to be silent or intended to lessen or muffle the noise of the firing of any such weapon.

(d) “Gas gun” means a device designed for projecting gas-filled projectiles which release their contents after having been projected from the device and includes projectiles designed for use in such a device.

(e) “Gravity knife” means any knife that has a blade released from the handle or sheath thereof by the force of gravity or the application of centrifugal force.

(e.5) “Handgun” means a pistol, revolver, or other firearm of any description, loaded or unloaded, from which any shot, bullet, or other missile can be discharged, the length of the barrel of which, not including any revolving, detachable, or magazine breech, does not exceed twelve inches.

(e.7) “Juvenile” means any person under the age of eighteen years.

(f) “Knife” means any dagger, dirk, knife, or stiletto with a blade over three and one-half inches in length, or any other dangerous instrument capable of inflicting cutting, stabbing, or tearing wounds, but does not include a hunting or fishing knife carried for sports use. The issue that a knife is a hunting or fishing knife must be raised as an affirmative defense.

(g) “Machine gun” means any firearm, whatever its size and usual designation, that shoots automatically more than one shot, without manual reloading, by a single function of the trigger.

(h) “Short rifle” means a rifle having a barrel less than sixteen inches long or an overall length of less than twenty-six inches.

(i) “Short shotgun” means a shotgun having a barrel or barrels less than eighteen inches long or an overall length of less than twenty-six inches.

(i.5) “Stun gun” means a device capable of temporarily immobilizing a person by the infliction of an electrical charge.

(j) “Switchblade knife” means any knife, the blade of which opens automatically by hand pressure applied to a button, spring, or other device in its handle.

(2) It shall be an affirmative defense to any provision of this article that the act was committed by a peace officer in the lawful discharge of his duties.

ANNOTATION

Definition of “knife” in subsection (1)(f) is not void for vagueness or overbreadth. Where defendant possessed a screwdriver with specific intent to use it as a weapon, elements of crime defined in § 18-12-108 were present. People v. Gross, 830 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1992).

Defendant’s intent to use an object as a weapon is not established by the object’s appearance alone, even if the appearance demonstrates that its primary use is as a weapon; this test does not follow Gross and is contrary to the plain language of the concealed weapons statute. A.P.E. v. People, 20 P.3d 1179 (Colo. 2001).

The definition of “knife” in subsection (1)(f) is sufficiently specific to give fair warning of the proscribed conduct and is therefore constitutional. In applying the definition under § 18-12-108, the prosecution must prove that one of the intended uses of the instrument by the defendant was as a weapon. People v. Gross, 830 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1992).

As the term “knife” is not specifically defined in the deadly weapons statute, the meaning of “knife” anywhere it is used in this article is specifically limited by the definition contained in subsection (1)(f) regardless of cross reference to the broader deadly weapons statute. People ex rel. J.W.T., 93 P.3d 580 (Colo. App. 2004).

Applied in Miller v. District Court, 193 Colo. 404, 566 P.2d 1063 (1977).

18-12-102. Possessing a dangerous or illegal weapon - affirmative defense. (1) As used in this section, the term “dangerous weapon” means a firearm silencer, machine gun, short shotgun, short rifle, or ballistic knife.

(2) As used in this section, the term “illegal weapon” means a blackjack, gas gun, metallic knuckles, gravity knife, or switchblade knife.

(3) A person who knowingly possesses a dangerous weapon commits a class 5 felony. Each subsequent violation of this subsection (3) by the same person shall be a class 4 felony.

(4) A person who knowingly possesses an illegal weapon commits a class 1 misdemeanor.

(5) It shall be an affirmative defense to the charge of possessing a dangerous weapon, or to the charge of possessing an illegal weapon, that the person so accused was a peace officer or member of the armed forces of the United States or Colorado National Guard acting in the lawful discharge of his duties, or that said person has a valid permit and license for possession of such weapon.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, “Mens Rea and the Colorado Criminal Code”, see 52 U. Colo. L. Rev. 167 (1981). For article, “Pronouncements of the U.S. Supreme Court Relating to the Criminal Law Field: 1985-1986”, which discusses a case relating to unloaded guns as dangerous weapons, see 15 Colo. Law. 1612 (1986).

The prohibition against possession of illegal weapons in subsection (4) is neither facially void for vagueness as to the prohibition of possession of “metallic knuckles”, nor unconstitutionally vague as applied to the defendant. People ex rel. A.P.E., 988 P.2d 172 (Colo. App. 1999), rev’d on other grounds, 20 P.3d 1179 (Colo. 2001).

Possession of an illegal weapon under subsection (4) is a lesser included offense of possession of weapon by a previous offender under § 18-12-108 (1) when the same weapon is alleged in each charge. People v. Brown, 119 P.3d 486 (Colo. App. 2004).

Whether inoperable weapon is a dangerous one is question of fact. When a prosecution under this section involves a weapon that is inoperable for some reason, whether the weapon is a dangerous one is a question of fact. In considering this question, the trier of fact must weigh a variety of factors, including the time required, the changes that have to be made in the weapon, the parts which have to be inserted, and all the other attendant factors and circumstances. People v. Vigil, 758 P.2d 670 (Colo. 1988).

“A firecracker in a beer bottle” could constitute a molotov cocktail, ergo a bomb, which under former section was an illegal weapon. Miller v. District Court, 193 Colo. 404, 566 P.2d 1063 (1977).

Defendant could not be convicted of carrying a concealed weapon without the prosecution proving that defendant intended to use this short-bladed knife as a weapon. While the characteristics of an instrument may be an important factor in determining the intended purpose of an instrument, the language of the concealed weapons statute and established precedent establishes that a knife’s design does not, by itself, prove that the person carrying it intended to use it as a weapon. A.P.E. v. People, 20 P.3d 1179 (Colo. 2001).

Applied in People v. Taylor, 647 P.2d 682 (Colo. 1982).

18-12-103. Possession of a defaced firearm. A person commits a class 1 misdemeanor if he knowingly and unlawfully possesses a firearm, the manufacturer’s serial number of which, or other distinguishing number or identification mark, has been removed, defaced, altered, or destroyed, except by normal wear and tear.

18-12-103.5. Defaced firearms - contraband - destruction. (1) After a judgment of conviction under section 18-12-103 or 18-12-104 has become final, any defaced firearm upon which the judgment was based shall be deemed to be contraband, the possession of which is contrary to the public peace, health, and safety.

(2) Defaced firearms which are deemed to be contraband shall be placed in the possession of the Colorado bureau of investigation or of a local law enforcement agency designated by the Colorado bureau of investigation and shall be destroyed or rendered permanently inoperable.

18-12-105. Unlawfully carrying a concealed weapon - unlawful possession of weapons. (1) A person commits a class 2 misdemeanor if such person knowingly and unlawfully:

(a) Carries a knife concealed on or about his or her person; or
(b) Carries a firearm concealed on or about his or her person; or
(c) Without legal authority, carries, brings, or has in such person's possession a firearm or any explosive, incendiary, or other dangerous device on the property of or within any building in which the chambers, galleries, or offices of the general assembly, or either house thereof, are located, or in which a legislative hearing or meeting is being or is to be conducted, or in which the official office of any member, officer, or employee of the general assembly is located.

(d) (Deleted by amendment, L. 93, p. 964, § 1, effective July 1, 1993.)

(2) It shall not be an offense if the defendant was:

(a) A person in his or her own dwelling or place of business or on property owned or under his or her control at the time of the act of carrying; or

(b) A person in a private automobile or other private means of conveyance who carries a weapon for lawful protection of such person's or another's person or property while traveling; or

(c) A person who, at the time of carrying a concealed weapon, held a valid written permit to carry a concealed weapon issued pursuant to section 18-12-105.1, as it existed prior to its repeal, or, if the weapon involved was a handgun, held a valid permit to carry a concealed handgun or a temporary emergency permit issued pursuant to part 2 of this article; except that it shall be an offense under this section if the person was carrying a concealed handgun in violation of the provisions of section 18-12-214; or

(d) A peace officer, as described in section 16-2.5-101, C.R.S., when carrying a weapon in conformance with the policy of the employing agency as provided in section 16-2.5-101 (2), C.R.S.; or

(e) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2003, p. 1624, § 46, effective August 6, 2003.)

(f) A United States probation officer or a United States pretrial services officer while on duty and serving in the state of Colorado under the authority of rules and regulations promulgated by the judicial conference of the United States.

ANNOTATION

Recognition of § 13 of art. II, Colo. Const. Section 13 of art. II, Colo. Const., has limiting language dealing with defense of home, person, and property. These limitations have been recognized by the general assembly in the enactment of this section, which restricts the right to bear arms in certain circumstances, while permitting in other circumstances the carrying of a concealed weapon in defense of home, person, and property, and also when specifically authorized by written permit. People v. Blue, 190 Colo. 95, 544 P.2d 385 (1975).

The words "about the person" means sufficiently close to the person to be readily accessible for immediate use. People in Interest of R.J.A., 38 Colo. App. 346, 556 P.2d 491 (1976).

"Concealed" means placed out of sight so as not to be discernible or apparent by ordinary observation. People ex rel. O.R., 220 P.3d 949 (Colo. App. 2008).

The scope of subsection (2)(b) is clarified in § 18-12-105.6, which indicates the general assembly's intent that local ordinances on carrying weapons in private vehicles be preempted only insofar as they conflict with the provisions of § 18-12-105.6. Trinen v. City & County of Denver, 53 P.3d 754 (Colo. App. 2002).

The local ordinance concerning carrying a weapon in a private vehicle is not preempted since it can be harmonized with subsection (2)(b). Trinen v. City & County of Denver, 53 P.3d 754 (Colo. App. 2002).

Pistol tucked under edge of car seat. Where uncontested evidence established that pistol was tucked under the edge of a car seat on which petitioner was sitting, where it was within his easy reach, these circumstances constitute carrying a "firearm concealed on or about his person". People in Interest of R.J.A., 38 Colo. App. 346, 556 P.2d 491 (1976).

Question of whether weapon is concealed is question of fact for the jury which should not be summarily determined by the trial judge at the time that he rules on the defendant's motion to suppress. People v. Vincent, 628 P.2d 107 (Colo. 1981).

Former subsection (2)(c) did not confer power to issue permits for carrying concealed weapons to police chiefs and sheriffs. Douglass v. Kelton, 199 Colo. 446, 610 P.2d 1067 (1980).

Person receiving permit to carry concealed weapon cannot be convicted. Once a person receives a permit to carry a concealed weapon in a county or city, he may not be convicted under subsection (2)(c). Douglass v. Kelton, 199 Colo. 446, 610 P.2d 1067 (1980).

Statute as basis for jurisdiction. See People v. Pickett, 194 Colo. 178, 571 P.2d 1078 (1977).

Defendant could not be convicted of carrying a concealed weapon without the prosecution proving that defendant intended to use this short-bladed knife as a weapon. While the characteristics of an instrument may be an important factor in determining the intended purpose of an instrument, the language of the concealed weapons statute and established precedent establishes that a knife's design does not, by itself, prove that the person carrying it intended to use it as a weapon. A.P.E. v. People, 20 P.3d 1179 (Colo. 2001).

Applied in People v. Velasquez, 641 P.2d 943 (Colo. 1982); People v. Deschamp, 662 P.2d 171 (Colo. 1983).

18-12-105.5. Unlawfully carrying a weapon - unlawful possession of weapons - school, college, or university grounds. (1) A person commits a class 6 felony if such person knowingly and unlawfully and without legal authority carries, brings, or has in such person's possession a deadly weapon as defined in section 18-1-901 (3) (e) in or on the real estate and all improvements erected thereon of any public or private elementary, middle, junior high, high, or vocational school or any public or private college, university, or seminary, except for the purpose of presenting an authorized public demonstration or exhibition pursuant to instruction in conjunction with an organized school or class, for the purpose of carrying out the necessary duties and functions of an employee of an educational institution that require the use of a deadly weapon, or for the purpose of participation in an authorized extracurricular activity or on an athletic team.

(2) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2000, p. 709, § 45, effective July 1, 2000.)

(3) It shall not be an offense under this section if:

(a) The weapon is unloaded and remains inside a motor vehicle while upon the real estate of any public or private college, university, or seminary; or

(b) The person is in that person's own dwelling or place of business or on property owned or under that person's control at the time of the act of carrying; or

(c) The person is in a private automobile or other private means of conveyance and is carrying a weapon for lawful protection of that person's or another's person or property while traveling; or

(d) The person, at the time of carrying a concealed weapon, held a valid written permit to carry a concealed weapon issued pursuant to section 18-12-105.1, as said section existed prior to its repeal; except that it shall be an offense under this section if the person was carrying a concealed handgun in violation of the provisions of section 18-12-214 (3); or

(d.5) The weapon involved was a handgun and the person held a valid permit to carry a concealed handgun or a temporary emergency permit issued pursuant to part 2 of this article; except that it shall be an offense under this section if the person was carrying a concealed handgun in violation of the provisions of section 18-12-214 (3); or

(e) The person is a peace officer, as described in section 16-2.5-101, C.R.S., when carrying a weapon in conformance with the policy of the employing agency as provided in section 16-2.5-101 (2), C.R.S.; or

(f) and (g) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2003, p. 1626, § 51, effective August 6, 2003.)

(h) The person has possession of the weapon for use in an educational program approved by a school which program includes, but shall not be limited to, any course designed for the repair or maintenance of weapons.

ANNOTATION

Unless the prosecution can also establish that the person used or intended to use the knife as a weapon, a person cannot be prosecuted under subsection (1) for carrying a knife with a blade less than three and one-half inches in length on school grounds. Even though subsection (1) references the deadly weapons statute, that statute does not specifically define "knife". The term "knife" is, however, specifically limited to a weapon with a blade longer than three and one-half inches in length by § 18-12-101 (1), as applicable to this article. Thus, reading and harmonizing these provisions together, the plain language of both provisions establishes that, for purposes of this section, where the deadly weapon is a knife, it must qualify as a knife under § 18-12-101 (1)(f). People ex rel. J.W.T., 93 P.3d 580 (Colo. App. 2004).

18-12-105.6. Limitation on local ordinances regarding firearms in private vehicles.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds that:

(a) A person carrying a weapon in a private automobile or other private means of conveyance for hunting or for lawful protection of such person's or another's person or property, as permitted in sections 18-12-105 (2) (b) and 18-12-105.5 (3) (c), may tend to travel within a county, city and county, or municipal jurisdiction or in or through different county, city and county, and municipal jurisdictions, en route to the person's destination;

(b) Inconsistent laws exist in local jurisdictions with regard to the circumstances under which weapons may be carried in automobiles and other private means of conveyance;

(c) This inconsistency creates a confusing patchwork of laws that unfairly subjects a person who lawfully travels with a weapon to criminal penalties because he or she travels within a jurisdiction or into or through another jurisdiction;

(d) This inconsistency places citizens in the position of not knowing when they may be violating local laws while traveling within a jurisdiction or in, through, or between different jurisdictions, and therefore being unable to avoid committing a crime.

(2) (a) Based on the findings specified in subsection (1) of this section, the general assembly concludes that the carrying of weapons in private automobiles or other private means of conveyance for hunting or for lawful protection of a person's or another's person or property while traveling into, through, or within, a municipal, county, or city and county jurisdiction, regardless of the number of times the person stops in a jurisdiction, is a matter of statewide concern and is not an offense.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no municipality, county, or city and county shall have the authority to enact or enforce any ordinance or resolution that would restrict a person's ability to travel with a weapon in a private automobile or other private means of conveyance for hunting or for lawful protection of a person's or another's person or property while traveling into, through, or within, a municipal, county, or city and county jurisdiction, regardless of the number of times the person stops in a jurisdiction.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews: For article, "In the Crosshairs: Colorado's New Gun Laws", see 33 Colo. Law. 11 (January 2004).

This section clarifies the scope of § 18-12-105 (2)(b) and indicates the general assembly's intent that local ordinances on carrying weapons in private vehicles be preempted only insofar as they conflict with the provisions of this section. Trinen v. City & County of Denver, 53 P.3d 754 (Colo. App. 2002).

The use of the limiting language "into or through" in subsection (2) reflects the general assembly's intent not to restrict local weapons ordinances insofar as they apply to travel wholly within local jurisdictions. Trinen v. City & County of Denver, 53 P.3d 754 (Colo. App. 2002). (Decided under law as it existed prior to the 2003 amendments to subsection (2)).

18-12-106. Prohibited use of weapons. (1) A person commits a class 2 misdemeanor if:

(a) He knowingly and unlawfully aims a firearm at another person; or

(b) Recklessly or with criminal negligence he discharges a firearm or shoots a bow and arrow; or

(c) He knowingly sets a loaded gun, trap, or device designed to cause an explosion upon being tripped or approached, and leaves it unattended by a competent person immediately present; or

(d) The person has in his or her possession a firearm while the person is under the influence of intoxicating liquor or of a controlled substance, as defined in section 18-18-102 (5). Possession of a permit issued under section 18-12-105.1, as it existed prior to its repeal, or possession of a permit or a temporary emergency permit issued pursuant to part 2 of this article is no defense to a violation of this subsection (1).

(e) He knowingly aims, swings, or throws a throwing star or nunchaku as defined in this paragraph (e) at another person, or he knowingly possesses a throwing star or nunchaku in a public place except for the purpose of presenting an authorized public demonstration or exhibition or pursuant to instruction in conjunction with an organized school or class. When transporting throwing stars or nunchaku for a public demonstration or exhibition or for a school or class, they shall be transported in a closed, nonaccessible container. For purposes of this paragraph (e), “nunchaku” means an instrument consisting of two sticks, clubs, bars, or rods to be used as handles, connected by a rope, cord, wire, or chain, which is in the design of a weapon used in connection with the practice of a system of self-defense, and “throwing star” means a disk having sharp radiating points or any disk-shaped bladed object which is hand-held and thrown and which is in the design of a weapon used in connection with the practice of a system of self-defense.

ANNOTATION

This section is neither unconstitutionally overbroad nor unconstitutionally vague. People v. Garcia, 197 Colo. 550, 595 P.2d 228 (1979).

Right to bear arms is not absolute, and it can be restricted by the state’s valid exercise of its police power. People v. Garcia, 197 Colo. 550, 595 P.2d 228 (1979).

Common sense definition of “possession”, as it is used in subsection (1)(d) is the actual or physical control of a firearm. People v. Garcia, 197 Colo. 550, 595 P.2d 228 (1979).

Failure to define “under the influence of intoxicating liquor”, if error, was harmless, where defendant, charged with violation of this section, testified that he was too drunk to drive. People v. Beckett, 782 P.2d 812 (Colo. App. 1989), aff’d, 800 P.2d 74 (Colo. 1990).

Possession of a firearm while intoxicated is a strict liability offense, therefore, the trial court did not err in refusing to instruct the jury that “knowingly” was an element of the offense. People v. Wilson, 972 P.2d 701 (Colo. App. 1998).

Self-defense is not a valid defense to the crime of prohibited use of weapons. People v. Beckett, 782 P.2d 812 (Colo. App. 1989), aff’d, 800 P.2d 74 (Colo. 1990).

ANNOTATION

Section unambiguously creates a separate crime whenever a stun gun facilitates commission of the predicate offense, regardless of whether it is discharged. People v. Wheeler, 170 P.3d 817 (Colo. App. 2007).

Attempted robbery is not a lesser included offense of use of a stun gun. People v. Bass, 155 P.3d 547 (Colo. App. 2006).

18-12-107.5. Illegal discharge of a firearm - penalty. (1) Any person who knowingly or recklessly discharges a firearm into any dwelling or any other building or occupied structure, or into any motor vehicle occupied by any person, commits the offense of illegal discharge of a firearm.

(2) It shall not be an offense under this section if the person who discharges a firearm in violation of subsection (1) of this section is a peace officer as described in section 16-2.5-101, C.R.S., acting within the scope of such officer's authority and in the performance of such officer's duties.

(3) Illegal discharge of a firearm is a class 5 felony.

ANNOTATION

This section was intended to punish random drive-by and walk-by gunfire directed at occupied structures or vehicles from outside such premises or vehicles. People v. Simpson, 93 P.3d 551 (Colo. App. 2003).

The plain language of this section does not require that a bullet actually end up inside a house. The court of appeals held that firing a bullet into materials of which the house is built, in this case the shingles on the roof, violates this section. There is no requirement in the section that the bullet pierce the exterior of the building and enter the interior of the house. People v. Serpa, 992 P.2d 682 (Colo. App. 1999).

The second clause of subsection (1) does not require proof that a bullet actually entered the passenger compartment of the vehicle and the absence of such a requirement is consistent with the general assembly's clear intention to criminalize the discharge of a firearm into an occupied vehicle irrespective of whether an occupant is endangered. People v. White, 55 P.3d 220 (Colo. App. 2002).

Illegal discharge of a firearm is not a lesser included offense of attempted first degree murder after deliberation. Discharge of a firearm is not an element of attempted first degree murder after deliberation. People v. Beatty, 80 P.3d 847 (Colo. App. 2003).

Court erred by failing to instruct on self-defense. Illegal discharge of a firearm is a general intent offense to the extent that it involves a defendant who acts "knowingly", and self-defense is an affirmative defense to a general intent crime. People v. Taylor, 230 P.3d 1227 (Colo. App. 2009), overruled on other grounds in People v. Pickering, __ P.3d __ (Colo. 2011).

18-12-108. Possession of weapons by previous offenders. (1) A person commits the crime of possession of a weapon by a previous offender if the person knowingly possesses, uses, or carries upon his or her person a firearm as described in section 18-1-901 (3) (h) or any other weapon that is subject to the provisions of this article subsequent to the person's conviction for a felony, or subsequent to the person's conviction for attempt or conspiracy to commit a felony, under Colorado or any other state's law or under federal law.

(2) (a) Except as otherwise provided by paragraphs (b) and (c) of this subsection (2), a person commits a class 6 felony if the person violates subsection (1) of this section.

(b) A person commits a class 5 felony, as provided by section 18-12-102, if the person violates subsection (1) of this section and the weapon is a dangerous weapon, as defined in section 18-12-102 (1).

(c) A person commits a class 5 felony if the person violates subsection (1) of this section and the person's previous conviction was for burglary, arson, or any felony involving the use of force or the use of a deadly weapon and the violation of subsection (1) of this section occurs as follows:

(I) From the date of conviction to ten years after the date of conviction, if the person was not incarcerated; or

(II) From the date of conviction to ten years after the date of release from confinement, if such person was incarcerated or, if subject to supervision imposed as a result of conviction, ten years after the date of release from supervision.

(d) Any sentence imposed pursuant to this subsection (2) shall run consecutively with any prior sentences being served by the offender.

(3) A person commits the crime of possession of a weapon by a previous offender if the person knowingly possesses, uses, or carries upon his or her person a firearm as described in section 18-1-901 (3) (h) or any other weapon that is subject to the provisions of this article subsequent to the person's adjudication for an act which, if committed by an adult, would constitute a felony, or subsequent to the person's adjudication for attempt or conspiracy to commit a felony, under Colorado or any other state's law or under federal law.

(4) (a) Except as otherwise provided by paragraphs (b) and (c) of this subsection (4), a person commits a class 6 felony if the person violates subsection (3) of this section.

(b) A person commits a class 5 felony, as provided by section 18-12-102, if the person violates subsection (3) of this section and the weapon is a dangerous weapon, as defined in section 18-12-102 (1).

(c) A person commits a class 5 felony if the person commits the conduct described in subsection (3) of this section and the person's previous adjudication was based on an act that, if committed by an adult, would constitute burglary, arson, or any felony involving the use of force or the use of a deadly weapon and the violation of subsection (3) of this section occurs as follows:

(I) From the date of adjudication to ten years after the date of adjudication, if the person was not committed to the department of institutions, or on or after July 1, 1994, to the department of human services; or

(II) From the date of adjudication to ten years after the date of release from commitment, if such person was committed to the department of institutions, or on or after July 1, 1994, to the department of human services or, if subject to supervision imposed as a result of an adjudication, ten years after the date of release from supervision.

(d) Any sentence imposed pursuant to this subsection (4) shall run consecutively with any prior sentences being served by the offender.

(5) A second or subsequent offense under paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (2) and paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (4) of this section is a class 4 felony.

(6) (a) Upon the discharge of any inmate from the custody of the department of corrections, the department shall provide a written advisement to such inmate of the prohibited acts and penalties specified in this section. The written advisement, at a minimum, shall include the written statement specified in paragraph (c) of this subsection (6).

(b) Any written stipulation for deferred judgment and sentence entered into by a defendant pursuant to section 18-1.3-102 shall contain a written advisement of the prohibited acts and penalties specified in this section. The written advisement, at a minimum, shall include the written statement specified in paragraph (c) of this subsection (6).

(c) The written statement shall provide that:

(I) (A) A person commits the crime of possession of a weapon by a previous offender in violation of this section if the person knowingly possesses, uses, or carries upon his or her person a firearm as described in section 18-1-901 (3) (h), or any other weapon that is subject to the provisions of this title subsequent to the person's conviction for a felony, or subsequent to the person's conviction for attempt or conspiracy to commit a felony, or subsequent to the person's conviction for a misdemeanor crime of domestic violence as defined in 18 U.S.C. sec. 921 (a) (33) (A), or subsequent to the person's conviction for attempt or conspiracy to commit such misdemeanor crime of domestic violence; and

(B) For the purposes of this paragraph (c), "felony" means any felony under Colorado law, federal law, or the laws of any other state; and

(II) A violation of this section may result in a sentence of imprisonment or fine, or both.

(d) The act of providing the written advisement described in this subsection (6) or the failure to provide such advisement may not be used as a defense to any crime charged and may not provide any basis for collateral attack on, or for appellate relief concerning, any conviction.

ANNOTATION

The purpose of this section is to limit the possession of firearms by those who, by their past conduct, have demonstrated an unfitness to be entrusted with such dangerous instrumentalities. People v. Gallegos, 193 Colo. 263, 563 P.2d 937 (1977); People v. Quintana, 707 P.2d 355 (Colo. 1985).

This section does not deny defendant equal protection, even though it may permit using a prior burglary conviction in another jurisdiction as the "previous offense" when the same conduct might not have resulted in a burglary conviction if committed in this state. People v. Tenorio, 197 Colo. 137, 590 P.2d 952 (1979).

Constitutionality of section upheld. People v. Marques, 179 Colo. 86, 498 P.2d 929 (1972).

The classification which prohibits certain previous offenders from carrying a weapon is not unreasonable in its relationship to the evil sought to be cured. To limit the possession of firearms by those who by their past conduct have demonstrated an unfitness to be entrusted with such dangerous instrumentalities is clearly in the interest of the public health, safety, and welfare and within the scope of the general assembly's police power, and, accordingly, the statute in question is not subject to constitutional attack on an equal protection basis. People v. Trujillo, 178 Colo. 147, 497 P.2d 1 (1972).

The felon with a gun statute is not unconstitutional. People v. Bergstrom, 190 Colo. 105, 544 P.2d 396 (1975).

This section as amended in 1994 and as applied to defendant does not violate the prohibition against ex post facto laws because defendant's possession of a firearm occurred in 2009, well after the 1994 amendment. It does not matter that defendant's predicate felonies occurred before the change in the law, because defendant was punished for conduct occurring after the change. There is no ex post facto violation where one or some of the elements of an offense are committed prior to the effective date of a new statute, but where the crime is not completed until after the effective date. People v. DeWitt, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

"Involving" not constitutionally imprecise. "Involving" is a common, readily understood word, and whatever imprecision its use may entail does not rise to the level of constitutional infirmity. People v. Blue, 190 Colo. 95, 544 P.2d 385 (1975).

Nor is "use of force or violence" extremely vague, though this phrase is not specifically defined by the Colorado criminal code, there can be little doubt that most persons would readily comprehend its import. People v. Blue, 190 Colo. 95, 544 P.2d 385 (1975).

The time computation provision of this section is not too vague. Notwithstanding the fact that the wording of the time provision of this section might require more than a quick glance for full comprehension, its meaning is plain. People v. Blue, 190 Colo. 95, 544 P.2d 385 (1975).

This section is not an attempt to subvert the intent of section 13 of art. II, Colo. Const. The statute simply limits the possession of guns and other weapons by persons who are likely to abuse such possession. People v. Blue, 190 Colo. 95, 544 P.2d 385 (1975).

This section is legitimate and constitutional means of accomplishing the general assembly's obvious purpose. People v. Tenorio, 197 Colo. 137, 590 P.2d 952 (1979).

Limitations of section 13, art. II, Colo. Const., superimposed on section. In spite of the flat prohibition contained in this section, the specific limitations of section 13 of art. II, Colo. Const. must be superimposed on the section's otherwise valid language. People v. Ford, 193 Colo. 459, 568 P.2d 26 (1977).

Because the right to bear arms is not absolute, nor is this section vague or overbroad. People v. Taylor, 190 Colo. 144, 544 P.2d 392 (1975).

The right to bear arms is not absolute as that right is limited to the defense of one's home, person, and property. People v. Ford, 193 Colo. 459, 568 P.2d 26 (1977).

Affirmative defense under section 13, art. II, Colo. Const. A defendant charged under this section who presents competent evidence showing that his purpose in possessing weapons was the defense of his home, person, and property as recognized by section 13 of art. II, Colo. Const., thereby raises an affirmative defense. People v. Ford, 193 Colo. 459, 568 P.2d 26 (1977); People v. DeWitt, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

Purpose in keeping weapons is question of fact which must be submitted to jury. The question of the defendant's purpose in keeping the weapons in order to establish the affirmative defense based on his constitutional right to keep and bear arms under section 13 of art. II, Colo. Const. is one for the fact finder to determine at trial. People v. Ford, 193 Colo. 459, 568 P.2d 26 (1977).

But burden of proof is still on prosecution. After the defendant by competent evidence has raised the affirmative defense under section 13 of art. II, Colo. Const., the prosecution will still have the overall burden of proving its case. People v. Ford, 193 Colo. 459, 568 P.2d 26 (1977).

Trial court properly excluded affirmative defense based on section 13 of article II, Colo. Const., and a proposed jury instruction where the defendant's offer of proof was insufficient to support the proposed affirmative defense. People v. Barger, 732 P.2d 1225 (Colo. App. 1986).

Trial court's instruction to jury that second degree assault involved force or violence as a matter of law was proper for conviction under this statute notwithstanding fact that second degree assault could involve injury to another resulting from the administration of drug or other substance. People v. Allaire, 843 P.2d 38 (Colo. App. 1992).

Jury must find "knowing" possession to convict. To convict a previous offender of possessing a weapon, the jury must find, not mere possession, but that the defendant "knowingly" possessed the weapon and that he understood that the object possessed was a weapon. People v. Tenorio, 197 Colo. 137, 590 P.2d 952 (1979).

To convict under this section, the prosecution must prove that one of the defendant's intended uses for the instrument was as a weapon. As so construed, the section is not overbroad. People v. Gross, 830 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1992).

The mental state of "knowingly" applies only to the possession element of subsection (1), not to the prior felony conviction element. People v. DeWitt, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

This section is not void for vagueness in regard to the definitions of weapon cited therein. "Weapon" has a commonly understood meaning and the definition of "knife" cited in this section is sufficiently specific to give fair warning of the proscribed conduct. People v. Gross, 830 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1992).

Broad definition of "knife", incorporated into this section by reference to § 18-12-101, is constitutional. Where defendant possessed a screwdriver with specific intent to use it as a weapon, elements of crime were present. But this section does not prohibit possession of such an instrument for an innocent purpose, so prohibition is neither unconstitutionally vague nor overbroad. People v. Gross, 830 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1992).

"Possession" means actual or physical control over a firearm and is a question of fact for the jury. People v. Rivera, 765 P.2d 624 (Colo. App. 1988).

"Previously convicted" element satisfied by proof of a guilty plea and deferred judgment; judgment of conviction and sentencing are not required. People v. Allaire, 843 P.2d 38 (Colo. App. 1992).

The term "possession" in this section is a common term which is to be given its generally accepted meaning. Where court imposed the requirement of exclusive control, the generally accepted meaning was altered, making it both unduly restrictive and a potential source of confusion for jurors. People v. Martinez, 780 P.2d 560 (Colo. 1989).

"Involve" has been defined as "to have within or as part of itself: contain, include"; "to require as a necessary accompaniment". People v. Blue, 190 Colo. 95, 544 P.2d 385 (1975).

The word "force" in this section includes more than actual, applied physical force. People v. Gallegos, 193 Colo. 108, 563 P.2d 937 (1977).

Valid exercise of police power. The use, concealment, or possession of weapons specified in this section by a felon who has previously been convicted of one of the crimes itemized in this section may be validly prohibited under the police power. People v. Trujillo, 184 Colo. 387, 524 P.2d 1379 (1974).

Balancing of rights. The conflicting rights of the individual's right to bear arms and the state's right, indeed its duty under its inherent police power, to make reasonable regulations for the purpose of protecting the health, safety, and welfare of the people prohibits granting an absolute right to bear arms under all situations. People v. Blue, 190 Colo. 95, 544 P.2d 385 (1975).

The felon with a gun statute, this section, must be read in pari materia with § 18-1-702. People v. Blue, 190 Colo. 95, 544 P.2d 385 (1975).

Statute may be violated by either concealing or using any of the specified weapons. People v. Trujillo, 184 Colo. 387, 524 P.2d 1379 (1974).

Prior conviction element of offense. Under this section, the prior conviction does not go merely to the punishment to be imposed, but rather is an element of the substantive offense charged and this distinction is critical. People v. Fullerton, 186 Colo. 97, 525 P.2d 1166 (1974); People v. Quintana, 707 P.2d 355 (Colo. 1985).

Defendant in a possession of weapon by prior offender trial may request limiting instruction or stipulate to the fact of conviction of another offense rather than requiring prosecution to agree to waive a trial by jury. People v. District Court, 953 P.2d 184 (Colo. 1998).

A prior conviction obtained in violation of a defendant's constitutional rights cannot be used as the underlying conviction in a prosecution under this section. People v. Quintana, 707 P.2d 355 (Colo. 1985).

Reference by name or description to crimes committed in other jurisdictions is a proper means for the general assembly to define which prior crimes satisfy the "previous offender" element of this statute and such references to crimes committed elsewhere do not constitute delegation of this state's legislative power. People v. Tenorio, 197 Colo. 137, 590 P.2d 952 (1979).

Conviction being challenged on appeal may be used as a predicate offense under statute prohibiting possession of firearms by previous offenders since a conviction becomes final and is valid for purposes of appeal when sentencing occurs. People v. Tramaglino, 791 P.2d 1171 (Colo. App. 1989).

Showing necessary for conviction under conspiracy provision. A conviction under the conspiracy provision of this section does not require a showing that the overt act of the conspiracy was an act of force or violence, but rather that, the crime which is the object of the conspiracy was one of force or violence. People v. Jenkins, 198 Colo. 347, 599 P.2d 912 (1979).

Where one is charged under this section with possession of a weapon, having previously been convicted of conspiracy to commit the crime of robbery, it is unnecessary to prove that the underlying robbery which was the object of the conspiracy did in fact involve the use of force or violence. People v. Jenkins, 198 Colo. 347, 599 P.2d 912 (1979).

Defendant to invoke procedural safeguards where substantive offense also charged. While procedural safeguards such as separate trials or a bifurcated procedure should be available to ensure a fair trial for a defendant charged with a substantive offense and with violation of this section, it is the defendant who must make a tactical decision whether to invoke such procedures, and the defendant must exercise the right to these procedures by means of a timely, pre-trial motion. People v. Peterson, 656 P.2d 1301 (Colo. 1983).

Prior Colorado conviction not predicate felony for purposes of federal prohibition of possession of firearm by felon. Defendant was wrongly charged for possession of gun by felon, because at the time of his arrest he was once again entitled to possess a gun. Under this statute defendant's civil rights had been restored ten years after he served time on his prior conviction, such rights encompassing his ability to possess a firearm. U.S. v. Hall, 20 F.3d 1066 (10th Cir. 1994).

Plaintiff whose felony conviction in another state was set aside under that state's law and who was entitled to possess a handgun under that state's law was entitled to possess a handgun under this section. Seguna v. Maketa, 181 P.3d 399 (Colo. App. 2008).

The fact that defendant assisted in purchase of firearm and was within "arm's reach" of firearm at time of arrest constituted prima facie evidence of illegal possession of a firearm, which precluded defendant from judgment of acquittal. People v. Rivera, 765 P.2d 624 (Colo. App. 1988).

Evidence sufficient in prosecution for possession of weapon. People v. Tenorio, 197 Colo. 137, 590 P.2d 952 (1979).

Evidence including retrieval of gun from house where defendant arrested, witnesses' identifications of gun as belonging to defendant, and defendant's use of gun during previous threats provided ample support for verdict. People v. Jackson, 98 P.3d 940 (Colo. App. 2004).

An attempted robbery by threat is a felony involving the use of force under this section. People v. Gallegos, 193 Colo. 108, 563 P.2d 937 (1977).

Robbery is crime involving use of "force or violence". The offense of robbery, whether committed by actual force or by constructive force, i.e., threats or intimidation, is a crime involving the use of "force or violence" for the purposes of this section. People v. Jenkins, 198 Colo. 347, 599 P.2d 912 (1979).

Felony menacing is a felony involving the use of force or a deadly weapon and thus a class 5 felony. People v. Montez, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2010).

When the same weapon is alleged in each charge, possession of an illegal weapon under § 18-12-102 (4) is a lesser included offense of possession of a weapon by a previous offender under subsection (1) of this section. People v. Brown, 119 P.3d 486 (Colo. App. 2004).

Defendant may receive a separate conviction under this statute for each firearm defendant possesses. Defendant properly convicted of two counts under this section because he possessed two shotguns removed from a house. People v. Montez, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2010).

18-12-108.5. Possession of handguns by juveniles - prohibited - exceptions - penalty. (1) (a) Except as provided in this section, it is unlawful for any person who has not attained the age of eighteen years knowingly to have any handgun in such person's possession.

(b) Any person possessing any handgun in violation of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) commits the offense of illegal possession of a handgun by a juvenile.

(c) (I) Illegal possession of a handgun by a juvenile is a class 2 misdemeanor.

(II) For any second or subsequent offense, illegal possession of a handgun by a juvenile is a class 5 felony.

- (I) In attendance at a hunter's safety course or a firearms safety course; or

- (b) Any person under the age of eighteen years who is on real property under the control of such person's parent, legal guardian, or grandparent and who has the permission of such person's parent or legal guardian to possess a handgun;
- (c) Any person under the age of eighteen years who is at such person's residence and who, with the permission of such person's parent or legal guardian, possesses a handgun for the purpose of exercising the rights contained in section 18-1-704 or section 18-1-704.5.
- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2) of this section, a handgun is "loaded" if:
 - (a) There is a cartridge in the chamber of the handgun; or
 - (b) There is a cartridge in the cylinder of the handgun, if the handgun is a revolver; or
 - (c) The handgun, and the ammunition for such handgun, is carried on the person of a person under the age of eighteen years or is in such close proximity to such person that such person could readily gain access to the handgun and the ammunition and load the handgun.
- (4) Repealed.

ANNOTATION

Possession of a handgun by a juvenile is a "status" offense, an offense consisting of conduct that would not constitute an offense if engaged in by an adult. People v. Juvenile Court, 893 P.2d 81 (Colo. 1995).

This section and the presumption statute (§ 19-2-204) were adopted to secure the safety of juveniles and the communities in which they reside. The Children's Code has consistently evidenced a legislative intent to accomplish both such purposes. People v. Juvenile Court, 893 P.2d 81 (Colo. 1995).

The parental permission language in subsection (2)(b) is an affirmative defense to the offense of unlawful possession of a handgun by a juvenile. People ex rel. L.M., 17 P.3d 829 (Colo. App. 2000).

18-12-108.7. Unlawfully providing or permitting a juvenile to possess a handgun - penalty - unlawfully providing a firearm other than a handgun to a juvenile - penalty.

(1) (a) Any person who intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly provides a handgun with or without remuneration to any person under the age of eighteen years in violation of section 18-12-108.5 or any person who knows of such juvenile's conduct which violates section 18-12-108.5 and fails to make reasonable efforts to prevent such violation commits the crime of unlawfully providing a handgun to a juvenile or permitting a juvenile to possess a handgun.

(b) Unlawfully providing a handgun to a juvenile or permitting a juvenile to possess a handgun in violation of this subsection (1) is a class 4 felony.

(2) (a) Any person who intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly provides a handgun to a juvenile or permits a juvenile to possess a handgun, even though such person is aware of a substantial risk that such juvenile will use a handgun to commit a felony offense, or who, being aware of such substantial risk, fails to make reasonable efforts to prevent the commission of the offense, commits the crime of unlawfully providing or permitting a juvenile to possess a handgun. A person shall be deemed to have violated this paragraph (a)

if such person provides a handgun to or permits the possession of a handgun by any juvenile who has been convicted of a crime of violence, as defined in section 18-1.3-406, or any juvenile who has been adjudicated a juvenile delinquent for an offense which would constitute a crime of violence, as defined in section 18-1.3-406, if such juvenile were an adult.

(b) Unlawfully providing a handgun to a juvenile or permitting a juvenile to possess a handgun in violation of this subsection (2) is a class 4 felony.

(3) With regard to firearms other than handguns, no person shall sell, rent, or transfer ownership or allow unsupervised possession of a firearm with or without remuneration to any juvenile without the consent of the juvenile's parent or legal guardian. Unlawfully providing a firearm other than a handgun to a juvenile in violation of this subsection (3) is a class 1 misdemeanor.

(4) It shall not be an offense under this section if a person believes that a juvenile will physically harm the person if the person attempts to disarm the juvenile or prevent the juvenile from committing a violation of section 18-12-108.5.

Editor's note: Amendments to subsection (5.5) by section 11 of House Bill 03-1236 and section 26 of House Bill 03-1236 were harmonized.

ANNOTATION

This section is not unconstitutionally vague or overbroad. The prohibition of the possession of incendiary devices is reasonably related to the legitimate governmental interest of preventing harm to the public and such prohibition is within the state's police power. As a result, defendant's argument that the statute is unconstitutionally overbroad is without merit. The defendant's vagueness argument also fails because the statute provides reasonable notice of the prohibited conduct. People v. Rowerdink, 756 P.2d 986 (Colo. 1988).

1977 amendments harmonized. Two 1977 amendments were not irreconcilable and revisor of statute properly harmonized the amendments by adding "knowingly" and "or attempts to commit" in subsection (4); and defendant, who would not have been convicted under the language of either amendment as passed by the legislature, was properly convicted under the harmonized language. People v. Owens, 670 P.2d 1233 (Colo. 1983).

The existence of a wick is not only material, but essential, to a charge under this section. People v. Brown, 194 Colo. 553, 574 P.2d 92 (1978).

Incendiary device without a wick may be prosecuted despite any apparent language to the contrary in People v. Brown, (194 Colo. 553, 574 P.2d 92 (1978)). People v. Owens, 670 P.2d 1233 (Colo. 1983).

The prosecution's inability to produce the wick remnant does not require suppression of testimony regarding its existence where a good faith effort was made to preserve it pursuant to standard fire department procedures and the investigator who observed the wick remnant is available for examination. People v. Brown, 194 Colo. 553, 574 P.2d 92 (1978).

"Explosive or incendiary" includes items which in themselves are not explosive or incendiary, but which have been prepared or altered for use in the creation of an explosive or incendiary device. People v. Lovato, 630 P.2d 597 (Colo. 1981).

Blasting cap within ambit of "other forms of high explosives". The material in a blasting cap is classified as a high explosive and, thus, falls within the ambit of "other forms of high explosives" which are expressly included in this section's definition of explosive or incendiary devices. People v. Lovato, 630 P.2d 597 (Colo. 1981).

Phrase "including any device" defined. The phrase "which consists of or includes a breakable container including a flammable liquid or compound and a wick" is not a limitation on all devices proscribed by this section, but instead defines the phrase "including any device". The statute thus proscribes the use of any incendiary bomb or grenade, including one with a wick and a breakable container. People v. Owens, 670 P.2d 1233 (Colo. 1983).

Proscribed conduct unlike fourth degree arson. This section does not deny equal protection by proscribing the same conduct as the fourth degree arson statute yet carrying a substantially greater penalty; the elements of each offense and the mental states required are different. People v. Owens, 670 P.2d 1233 (Colo. 1983).

Applied in Miller v. District Court, 193 Colo. 404, 566 P.2d 1063 (1977); People v. Stoppel, 637 P.2d 384 (Colo. 1981).

18-12-110. Forfeiture of firearms. Upon the motion of the prosecuting attorney after the conviction of a defendant, the court may order the forfeiture of any firearms which were used by the defendant during the course of the criminal episode which gave rise to said conviction as an element of sentencing or as a condition of probation or of a deferred sentence. Firearms forfeited under this section shall be disposed of pursuant to section 16-13-311, C.R.S.

18-12-111. Unlawful purchase of firearms. (1) Any person who knowingly purchases or otherwise obtains a firearm on behalf of or for transfer to a person who the transferor knows or reasonably should know is ineligible to possess a firearm pursuant to federal or state law commits a class 4 felony.

(2) (a) Any person who is a licensed dealer, as defined in 18 U.S.C. sec. 921 (a) (11), shall post a sign displaying the provisions of subsection (1) of this section in a manner that is easily readable. The person shall post such sign in an area that is visible to the public at each location from which the person sells firearms to the general public.

(b) Any person who violates any provision of this subsection (2) commits a class 2 petty offense and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of two hundred fifty dollars.

PART 2

PERMITS TO CARRY CONCEALED HANDGUNS

Law reviews: For article, "In the Crosshairs: Colorado's New Gun Laws", see 33 Colo. Law. 11 (January 2004).

18-12-201. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds that:

(a) There exists a widespread inconsistency among jurisdictions within the state with regard to the issuance of permits to carry concealed handguns and identification of areas of the state where it is lawful to carry concealed handguns;

(b) This inconsistency among jurisdictions creates public uncertainty regarding the areas of the state in which it is lawful to carry concealed handguns;

(c) Inconsistency results in the arbitrary and capricious denial of permits to carry concealed handguns based on the jurisdiction of residence rather than the qualifications for obtaining a permit;

(d) The criteria and procedures for the lawful carrying of concealed handguns historically has been regulated by state statute and should be consistent throughout the state to ensure the consistent implementation of state law; and

(e) It is necessary that the state occupy the field of regulation of the bearing of concealed handguns since the issuance of a concealed handgun permit is based on a person's constitutional right of self-protection and there is a prevailing state interest in ensuring that no citizen is arbitrarily denied a concealed handgun permit and in ensuring that the laws controlling the use of the permit are consistent throughout the state.

(2) Based on the findings specified in subsection (1) of this section, the general assembly hereby concludes that:

(a) The permitting and carrying of concealed handguns is a matter of statewide concern; and

(b) It is necessary to provide statewide uniform standards for issuing permits to carry concealed handguns for self-defense.

(3) In accordance with the findings and conclusions specified in subsections (1) and (2) of this section, the general assembly hereby instructs each sheriff to implement and administer the provisions of this part 2. The general assembly does not delegate to the sheriffs the authority to regulate or restrict the issuance of permits provided for in this part 2 beyond the provisions of this part 2. An action or rule that encumbers the permit process by placing burdens on the applicant beyond those sworn statements and specified documents detailed in this part 2 or that creates restrictions beyond those specified in this part 2 is in conflict with the intent of this part 2 and is prohibited.

(I) A protection order issued pursuant to section 18-1-1001 or section 19-2-707, C.R.S., that is in effect at the time the application is submitted; or

(II) A permanent protection order issued pursuant to article 14 of title 13, C.R.S.; or

(III) A temporary protection order issued pursuant to article 14 of title 13, C.R.S., that is in effect at the time the application is submitted;

(h) Demonstrates competence with a handgun by submitting:

(I) Evidence of experience with a firearm through participation in organized shooting competitions or current military service;

(II) Evidence that, at the time the application is submitted, the applicant is a certified instructor;

(III) Proof of honorable discharge from a branch of the United States armed forces within the three years preceding submittal of the application;

(IV) Proof of honorable discharge from a branch of the United States armed forces that reflects pistol qualifications obtained within the ten years preceding submittal of the application;

(V) A certificate showing retirement from a Colorado law enforcement agency that reflects pistol qualifications obtained within the ten years preceding submittal of the application; or

(VI) A training certificate from a handgun training class obtained within the ten years preceding submittal of the application. The applicant shall submit the original training certificate or a photocopy thereof that includes the original signature of the class instructor. In obtaining a training certificate from a handgun training class, the applicant shall have discretion in selecting which handgun training class to complete.

(2) Regardless of whether an applicant meets the criteria specified in subsection (1) of this section, if the sheriff has a reasonable belief that documented previous behavior by the applicant makes it likely the applicant will present a danger to self or others if the applicant receives a permit to carry a concealed handgun, the sheriff may deny the permit.

(3) (a) The sheriff shall deny, revoke, or refuse to renew a permit if an applicant or a permittee fails to meet one of the criteria listed in subsection (1) of this section and may deny, revoke, or refuse to renew a permit on the grounds specified in subsection (2) of this section.

(b) Following issuance of a permit, if the issuing sheriff has a reasonable belief that a permittee no longer meets the criteria specified in subsection (1) of this section or that the permittee presents a danger as described in subsection (2) of this section, the sheriff shall suspend the permit until such time as the matter is resolved and the issuing sheriff determines that the permittee is eligible to possess a permit as provided in this section.

(c) If the sheriff suspends or revokes a permit, the sheriff shall notify the permittee in writing, stating the grounds for suspension or revocation and informing the permittee of the right to seek a second review by the sheriff, to submit additional information for the record, and to seek judicial review pursuant to section 18-12-207.

ANNOTATION

Plaintiff whose felony conviction in another state was set aside under that state's law and who was entitled to possess a handgun under that state's law was entitled to possess a handgun under § 18-12-108 and was entitled to a concealed handgun permit under this section. Seguna v. Maketa, 181 P.3d 399 (Colo. App. 2008).

Sheriff's decision not to reissue concealed handgun permit was a quasi-judicial decision. Copley v. Robinson, 224 P.3d 431 (Colo. App. 2009).

Sheriff's refusal to reissue concealed handgun permit was based on proceedings and procedures that violated applicant's procedural due process rights. Copley v. Robinson, 224 P.3d 431 (Colo. App. 2009).

Applicant was denied due process because he was not apprised of or allowed to review adverse evidence or given the opportunity to confront adverse evidence and witnesses. Copley v. Robinson, 224 P.3d 431 (Colo. App. 2009).

Sheriff's findings of fact and conclusions of law, prepared on remand from the district court, did not satisfy statutory requirement for a written statement of the grounds for suspension or revocation. By the time case proceeded to district court, it was too late for sheriff to inform applicant of the evidence against him and the grounds for sheriff's decision in order to provide applicant with a reasonable opportunity to exercise his statutory rights to supplement the record or request a second review to confront such evidence. Copley v. Robinson, 224 P.3d 431 (Colo. App. 2009).

18-12-204. Permit contents - validity - carrying requirements. (1) (a) Each permit shall bear a color photograph of the permittee and shall display the signature of the sheriff who issues the permit. In addition, the sheriffs of this state shall ensure that all permits issued pursuant to this part 2 contain the same items of information and are the same size and the same color.

(b) A permit is valid for a period of five years after the date of issuance and may be renewed as provided in section 18-12-211. A permit issued pursuant to this part 2, including a temporary emergency permit issued pursuant to section 18-12-209, is effective in all areas of the state, except as otherwise provided in section 18-12-214.

(2) (a) A permittee, in compliance with the terms of a permit, may carry a concealed handgun as allowed by state law. The permittee shall carry the permit, together with valid photo identification, at all times during which the permittee is in actual possession of a concealed handgun and shall produce both documents upon demand by a law enforcement officer. Failure to produce a permit upon demand by a law enforcement officer raises a rebuttable presumption that the person does not have a permit. Failure to carry and produce a permit and valid photo identification upon demand as required in this subsection (2) is a class 1 petty offense. A charge of failure to carry and produce a permit and valid photo identification upon demand pursuant to this subsection (2) shall be dismissed by the court if, at or before the permittee's scheduled court appearance, the permittee exhibits to the court a valid permit and valid photo identification, both of which were issued to the permittee prior to the date on which the permittee was charged with failure to carry and produce a permit and valid photo identification upon demand.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) apply to temporary emergency permits issued pursuant to section 18-12-209.

(3) (a) A person who may lawfully possess a handgun may carry a handgun under the following circumstances without obtaining a permit and the handgun shall not be considered concealed:

(I) The handgun is in the possession of a person who is in a private automobile or in some other private means of conveyance and who carries the handgun for a legal use, including self-defense; or

(II) The handgun is in the possession of a person who is legally engaged in hunting activities within the state.

(b) The provisions of this subsection (3) shall not be construed to authorize the carrying of a handgun in violation of the provisions of section 18-12-105 or 18-12-105.5.

18-12-205. Sheriff - application - procedure - background check. (1) (a) To obtain a permit, a person shall submit a permit application on a statewide standardized form developed by the sheriffs and available from each sheriff. The permit application form shall solicit only the following information from the applicant:

(I) The applicant's full name, date of birth, and address;

(II) The applicant's birth name, if different from the name provided pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), and any other names the applicant may have used or by which the applicant may have been known;

(III) The applicant's home address or addresses for the ten-year period immediately preceding submittal of the application;

(IV) Whether the applicant is a resident of this state as of the date of application and whether the applicant has a valid driver's license or other state-issued photo identification or military order proving residence; and

(V) Whether the applicant meets the criteria for obtaining a permit specified in section 18-12-203 (1).

(b) The permit application form shall not require the applicant to waive or release a right or privilege, including but not limited to waiver or release of privileged or confidential information contained in medical records.

(2) (a) An applicant shall complete the permit application form and return it, in person, to the sheriff of the county or city and county in which the applicant resides, to the sheriff of the county or city and county in which the applicant maintains a secondary residence or owns or leases real property used by the applicant in a business, or to the sheriff that previously issued a permit to the applicant. The applicant shall sign the completed permit application form in person before the sheriff. The applicant shall provide his or her signature voluntarily upon a sworn oath that the applicant knows the contents of the permit application and that the information contained in the permit application is true and correct. An applicant who knowingly and intentionally makes a false or misleading statement on a permit application or deliberately omits any material information requested on the application commits perjury as described in section 18-8-503. Upon conviction, the applicant shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501. In addition, the applicant shall be denied the right to obtain or possess a permit, and the sheriff shall revoke the applicant's permit if issued prior to conviction.

(b) An applicant shall also submit to the sheriff a permit fee not to exceed one hundred dollars for processing the permit application. The sheriff shall set the amount of the permit fee as provided in subsection (5) of this section. In addition, the applicant shall submit an amount specified by the director of the bureau, pursuant to section 24-72-306, C.R.S., for processing the applicant's fingerprints through the bureau and through the federal bureau of investigation. Neither the permit fee nor the fingerprint processing fee shall be refundable in the event the sheriff denies the applicant's permit application or suspends or revokes the permit subsequent to issuance.

(3) In addition to the items specified in subsection (2) of this section, an applicant, when submitting the completed permit application, shall submit the following items to the sheriff:

(a) Documentary evidence demonstrating competence with a handgun as specified in section 18-12-203 (1) (h); and

(b) A full frontal view color photograph of the applicant's head taken within the thirty days immediately preceding submittal of the permit application; except that the applicant need not submit a photograph if the sheriff photographs the applicant for purposes of issuing a permit. Any photograph submitted shall show the applicant's full head, including hair and facial features, and the depiction of the applicant's head shall measure one and one-eighth inches wide and one and one-fourth inches high.

(4) (a) The sheriff shall witness an applicant's signature on the permit application as provided in subsection (2) of this section and verify that the person making application for a permit is the same person who appears in any photograph submitted and the same person who signed the permit application form. To verify the applicant's identity, the applicant shall present to the sheriff the applicant's valid Colorado driver's license or valid Colorado or military photo identification.

(b) After verifying the applicant's identity, the sheriff shall take two complete sets of the applicant's fingerprints. The sheriff shall submit both sets of fingerprints to the bureau, and the sheriff shall not retain a set of the applicant's fingerprints.

(c) After receipt of a permit application and the items specified in this section, the sheriff shall verify that the applicant meets the criteria specified in section 18-12-203 (1) and is not a danger as described in section 18-12-203 (2). The verification at a minimum shall include requesting the bureau to conduct a search of the national instant criminal background check system and a search of the state integrated criminal justice information system to determine whether the applicant meets the criteria specified in section 18-12-203 (1). In addition, if the applicant resides in a municipality or town, the sheriff shall consult with the police department of the municipality or town in which the applicant resides, and the sheriff may consult with other local law enforcement agencies.

(5) The sheriff in each county or city and county in the state shall establish the amount of the new and renewal permit fees within his or her jurisdiction. The amount of the new and renewal permit fees shall comply with the limits specified in paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section and section 18-12-211 (1), respectively. The fee amounts shall reflect the actual direct and indirect costs to the sheriff of processing permit applications and renewal applications pursuant to this part 2.

18-12-206. Sheriff - issuance or denial of permits - report. (1) Within ninety days after the date of receipt of the items specified in section 18-12-205, a sheriff shall:

(a) Approve the permit application and issue the permit; or

(b) Deny the permit application based solely on the ground that the applicant fails to qualify under the criteria listed in section 18-12-203 (1) or that the applicant would be a danger as described in section 18-12-203 (2). If the sheriff denies the permit application, he or she shall notify the applicant in writing, stating the grounds for denial and informing the applicant of the right to seek a second review of the application by the sheriff, to submit additional information for the record, and to seek judicial review pursuant to section 18-12-207.

(2) If the sheriff does not receive the results of the fingerprint checks conducted by the bureau and by the federal bureau of investigation within ninety days after receiving a permit application, the sheriff shall determine whether to grant or deny the permit application without considering the fingerprint check information. If, upon receipt of the information, the sheriff finds that the permit was issued or denied erroneously, based on the criteria specified in section 18-12-203 (1) and (2), the sheriff shall either revoke or issue the permit, whichever is appropriate.

(3) (a) Each sheriff shall maintain a list of the persons to whom he or she issues permits pursuant to this part 2. Upon request by another criminal justice agency for law enforcement purposes, the sheriff may, at his or her discretion, share information from the list of permittees with a law enforcement agency for the purpose of determining the validity of a permit. A database maintained pursuant to this subsection (3) and any database operated by a state agency that includes permittees shall be searchable only by name.

(b) (I) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), on and after July 1, 2011, a sheriff shall not share information from the list of permittees with a law enforcement agency for the purpose of creating a statewide database of permittees, and any law enforcement agency that receives information concerning permittees from a sheriff shall not use the information to create or maintain a statewide database of permittees. Any information concerning a permittee that is included in a statewide database pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) shall be removed from the database no later than July 1, 2011.

(II) Prior to the repeal in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), the state auditor's office shall conduct a performance audit of the statewide database of permittees as provided in section 2-3-118, C.R.S.

(c) Except for suspected violations of sections 18-12-105 and 18-12-105.5, a peace officer may not use or search a database of permittees maintained by a law enforcement agency to establish reasonable suspicion for a traffic stop, or when contacting an individual, to justify probable cause for a search or seizure of a person or a person's vehicle or property.

(4) Each sheriff shall annually prepare a report specifying, at a minimum, the number of permit applications received during the year for which the report was prepared, the number of permits issued during the year, the number of permits denied during the year, the reasons for denial, the number of revocations during the year, and the reasons for the revocations. The report shall not include the name of a person who applies for a permit, regardless of whether the person receives or is denied a permit. Each sheriff shall submit the report on or before March 1, 2004, and on or before March 1 each year thereafter, to the members of the general assembly. In addition, each sheriff shall provide a copy of the annual report prepared pursuant to this subsection (4) to a member of the public upon request.

ANNOTATION

Sheriff's decision not to reissue concealed handgun permit was a quasi-judicial decision. Copley v. Robinson, 224 P.3d 431 (Colo. App. 2009).

Sheriff's refusal to reissue concealed handgun permit was based on proceedings and procedures that violated applicant's procedural due process rights. Copley v. Robinson, 224 P.3d 431 (Colo. App. 2009).

18-12-207. Judicial review - permit denial - permit suspension - permit revocation.

(1) If a sheriff denies a permit application, refuses to renew a permit, or suspends or revokes a permit, the applicant or permittee may seek judicial review of the sheriff's decision. The applicant or permittee may seek judicial review either in lieu of or subsequent to the sheriff's second review.

(2) The procedure and time lines for filing a complaint, an answer, and briefs for judicial review pursuant to this section shall be in accordance with the procedures specified in rule 106 (a) (4) and (b) of the Colorado rules of civil procedure.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, at a judicial review sought pursuant to this section, the sheriff shall have the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the applicant or permittee is ineligible to possess a permit under the criteria listed in section 18-12-203 (1) or, if the denial, suspension, or revocation was based on the sheriff's determination that the person would be a danger as provided in section 18-12-203 (2), the sheriff shall have the burden of proving the determination by clear and convincing evidence. Following completion of the review, the court may award attorney fees to the prevailing party.

18-12-208. Colorado bureau of investigation - duties. (1) Upon receipt of a permit applicant's fingerprints from a sheriff pursuant to section 18-12-205 (4) or upon a sheriff's request pursuant to section 18-12-211 (1), the bureau shall process the full set of fingerprints to obtain any available state criminal justice information or federal information pursuant to section 16-21-103 (5), C.R.S., and shall report any information received to the sheriff. In addition, within ten days after receiving the fingerprints, the bureau shall forward one set of the fingerprints to the federal bureau of investigation for processing to obtain any available state criminal justice information or federal information.

(2) The bureau shall use the fingerprints received pursuant to this part 2 solely for the purposes of:

(a) Obtaining information for the issuance or renewal of permits; and

(b) Notifying an issuing sheriff that a permittee has been arrested for or charged with an offense that would require revocation or suspension of the permit or that a permittee has been convicted of such an offense.

(3) On or before January 15, 2004, and on or before January 15 each year thereafter until January 15, 2007, the bureau shall provide to the general assembly a list of the jurisdictions in which the sheriff provides to the bureau the names of persons to whom the sheriff issues permits.

18-12-209. Issuance by sheriffs of temporary emergency permits. (1) Notwithstanding any provisions of this part 2 to the contrary, a sheriff, as provided in this section, may issue a temporary emergency permit to carry a concealed handgun to a person whom the sheriff has reason to believe may be in immediate danger.

(2) To receive a temporary emergency permit, a person shall submit to the sheriff of the county or city and county in which the person resides or in which the circumstances giving rise to the emergency exist the items specified in section 18-12-205; except that an applicant for a temporary emergency permit need not submit documentary evidence demonstrating competence with a handgun as required under section 18-12-205 (3) (a), and the applicant shall submit a temporary permit fee not to exceed twenty-five dollars, as set by the sheriff. Upon receipt of the documents and fee, the sheriff shall request that the bureau conduct a criminal history record check of the bureau files and a search of the national instant criminal background check system. The sheriff may issue a temporary emergency permit to the applicant if the sheriff determines the person may be in immediate danger and the criminal history record check shows that the applicant meets the criteria specified in section 18-12-203; except that the applicant need not demonstrate competence with a handgun and the applicant may be eighteen years of age or older. A temporary emergency permit issued pursuant to this section is valid for a period of ninety days after the date of issuance. Prior to or within ten days after expiration of a temporary emergency permit, the permittee may apply to the issuing sheriff for renewal of the permit. The issuing sheriff may renew a temporary emergency permit once for an additional ninety-day period; except that, if the permittee is younger than twenty-one years of age, the sheriff may renew the temporary emergency permit for subsequent ninety-day periods until the permittee reaches twenty-one years of age.

18-12-210. Maintenance of permit - address change - invalidity of permit.

(1) Within thirty days after a permittee changes the address specified on his or her permit or within three business days after his or her permit is lost, stolen, or destroyed, the permittee shall notify the issuing sheriff of the change of address or permit loss, theft, or destruction. Failure to notify the sheriff pursuant to this subsection (1) is a class 1 petty offense.

(2) If a permit is lost, stolen, or destroyed, the permit is automatically invalid. The person to whom the permit was issued may obtain a duplicate or substitute therefor upon payment of fifteen dollars to the issuing sheriff and upon submission of a notarized statement to the issuing sheriff that the permit has been lost, stolen, or destroyed.

(3) The provisions of this section apply to temporary emergency permits issued pursuant to section 18-12-209.

18-12-211. Renewal of permits. (1) Within one hundred twenty days prior to expiration of a permit, the permittee may obtain a renewal form from the issuing sheriff and renew the permit by submitting to the issuing sheriff a completed renewal form, a notarized affidavit stating that the permittee remains qualified pursuant to the criteria specified in section 18-12-203 (1) (a) to (1) (g), and the required renewal fee not to exceed fifty dollars, as set by the sheriff pursuant to section 18-12-205 (5). The renewal form shall meet the requirements specified in section 18-12-205 (1) for an application. The sheriff shall verify pursuant to section 18-12-205 (4) that the permittee meets the criteria specified in section 18-12-203 (1) (a) to (1) (g) and is not a danger as described in section 18-12-203 (2) and shall either renew or deny the renewal of the permit in accordance with the provisions of section 18-12-206 (1). If the sheriff denies renewal of a permit, the permittee may seek a second review of the renewal application by the sheriff and may submit additional information for the record. The permittee may also seek judicial review as provided in section 18-12-207.

(2) A permittee who fails to file a renewal form on or before the permit expiration date may renew the permit by paying a late fee of fifteen dollars in addition to the renewal fee established pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. No permit shall be renewed six months or more after its expiration date, and the permit shall be deemed to have permanently expired. A person whose permit has permanently expired may reapply for a permit, but the person shall submit an application for a permit and the fee required pursuant to section 18-12-205. A person who knowingly and intentionally files false or misleading information or deliberately omits material information required under this section is subject to criminal prosecution for perjury under section 18-8-503.

18-12-212. Exemption. (1) This part 2 shall not apply to law enforcement officers employed by jurisdictions outside this state, so long as the foreign employing jurisdiction exempts peace officers employed by jurisdictions within Colorado from any concealed handgun or concealed weapons laws in effect in the foreign employing jurisdiction.

(2) Notwithstanding any provision of this part 2 to the contrary, a retired peace officer, level I or Ia, as defined in section 18-1-901 (3) (I) (I) and (3) (I) (II), as said section existed prior to its repeal in 2003, within the first five years after retirement may obtain a permit by submitting to the sheriff of the jurisdiction in which the retired peace officer resides a letter signed by the sheriff or chief of police of the jurisdiction by which the peace officer was employed immediately prior to retirement attesting that the retired officer meets the criteria specified in section 18-12-203 (1). A retired peace officer who submits a letter pursuant to this subsection (2) is not subject to the fingerprint or criminal history check requirements specified in this part 2 and is not required to pay the permit application fee. Upon receipt of a letter submitted pursuant to this subsection (2), the sheriff shall issue the permit. A permit issued pursuant to this subsection (2) may not be renewed. Upon expiration of the permit, the permittee may apply for a new permit as provided in this part 2.

18-12-213. Reciprocity. (1) A permit to carry a concealed handgun or a concealed weapon that is issued by a state that recognizes the validity of permits issued pursuant to this part 2 shall be valid in this state in all respects as a permit issued pursuant to this part 2 if the permit is issued to a person who is:

- (a) Twenty-one years of age or older; and
- (b) (I) A resident of the state that issued the permit, as demonstrated by the address stated on a valid picture identification that is issued by the state that issued the permit and is carried by the permit holder; or
- (II) A resident of Colorado for no more than ninety days, as determined by the date of issuance on a valid picture identification issued by Colorado and carried by the permit holder.

(2) For purposes of this section, a “valid picture identification” means a driver’s license or a state identification issued in lieu of a driver’s license.

18-12-214. Authority granted by permit - carrying restrictions. (1) (a) A permit to carry a concealed handgun authorizes the permittee to carry a concealed handgun in all areas of the state, except as specifically limited in this section. A permit does not authorize the permittee to use a handgun in a manner that would violate a provision of state law. A local government does not have authority to adopt or enforce an ordinance or resolution that would conflict with any provision of this part 2.

(b) A peace officer may temporarily disarm a permittee, incident to a lawful stop of the permittee. The peace officer shall return the handgun to the permittee prior to discharging the permittee from the scene.

(2) A permit issued pursuant to this part 2 does not authorize a person to carry a concealed handgun into a place where the carrying of firearms is prohibited by federal law.

(3) A permit issued pursuant to this part 2 does not authorize a person to carry a concealed handgun onto the real property, or into any improvements erected thereon, of a public elementary, middle, junior high, or high school; except that:

(a) A permittee may have a handgun on the real property of the public school so long as the handgun remains in his or her vehicle and, if the permittee is not in the vehicle, the handgun is in a compartment within the vehicle and the vehicle is locked;

(b) A permittee who is employed or retained by contract by a school district as a school security officer may carry a concealed handgun onto the real property, or into any improvement erected thereon, of a public elementary, middle, junior high, or high school while the permittee is on duty;

(c) A permittee may carry a concealed handgun on undeveloped real property owned by a school district that is used for hunting or other shooting sports.

(4) A permit issued pursuant to this part 2 does not authorize a person to carry a concealed handgun into a public building at which:

(a) Security personnel and electronic weapons screening devices are permanently in place at each entrance to the building;

(b) Security personnel electronically screen each person who enters the building to determine whether the person is carrying a weapon of any kind; and

(c) Security personnel require each person who is carrying a weapon of any kind to leave the weapon in possession of security personnel while the person is in the building.

(5) Nothing in this part 2 shall be construed to limit, restrict, or prohibit in any manner the existing rights of a private property owner, private tenant, private employer, or private business entity.

(6) The provisions of this section apply to temporary emergency permits issued pursuant to section 18-12-209.

ANNOTATION

Institutions of higher education not exempt from the express authorization of permittees to carry concealed handguns “in all areas of the state”. The concealed carry act, §§ 18-12-201 to 18-12-216, satisfies the “unless otherwise [provided] by law” provision of article VIII, section 5(2), of the state constitution by manifesting a clear and unmistakable intent to subject the entire state to a single statutory scheme regulating concealed handgun carry, subject to specified exceptions. Students for Concealed Carry on Campus, LLC v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2010).

18-12-215. Immunity. (1) The bureau and a local law enforcement agency and an individual employed by the bureau or a local law enforcement agency shall not be liable for any damages that may result from good faith compliance with the provisions of this part 2.

(2) A law enforcement officer or agency, medical personnel, and an organization that offers handgun training classes and its personnel who in good faith provide information regarding an applicant shall not be liable for any damages that may result from issuance or denial of a permit.

18-12-216. Permits issued prior to May 17, 2003. (1) A permit issued pursuant to section 18-12-105.1, as it existed prior to its repeal, shall permanently expire on June 30, 2007, or on the expiration date specified on the permit, whichever occurs first. A person who submitted a full set of fingerprints to obtain a permit prior to May 17, 2003, upon expiration of the permit, may apply for renewal of the permit as provided in this part 2. A person who did not submit a full set of fingerprints to obtain a permit prior to May 17, 2003, upon expiration of the permit, may apply for a new permit as provided in this part 2.

The general assembly also encourages commercial stakeholders affected by commodity metals theft to sign up for and participate in the scrap theft alert system.

(c) Advertising of such practices may aggravate the adverse financial and other impacts upon recipients of health care.

(2) Therefore, the general assembly declares that such business practices are illegal and that violation thereof or the advertising thereof shall be grounds for disciplinary actions. (I) The person who provides the health care determines that the services are necessary for the immediate health and welfare of the patient; and

(II) The waiver is made on a case-by-case basis and the person who provides the health care determines that payment of the deductible or copayment would create a substantial financial hardship for the patient; and

(III) The waiver is not a regular business practice of the person who provides the health care.

(b) Any person who provides health care and who waives the deductible or copayment for more than one-fourth of his patients during any calendar year, excluding patients covered by subsection (5) of this section, or who advertises through newspapers, magazines, circulars, direct mail, directories, radio, television, or otherwise that he will accept from any third-party payor, as payment in full for services rendered, the amount the third-party payor covers shall be presumed to be engaged in waiving the deductible or copayment as a regular business practice.

(II) Upon conviction of a second offense, illegal possession or consumption of ethyl alcohol by an underage person shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, and the court shall order the defendant to submit to and complete an alcohol evaluation or assessment, an alcohol education program, or an alcohol treatment program, at the defendant's own expense. The court may further order the defendant to perform up to twenty-four hours of useful public service, subject to the conditions and restrictions specified in section 18-1.3-507.

(III) Upon conviction of a third or subsequent offense, illegal possession or consumption of ethyl alcohol by an underage person shall be a class 2 misdemeanor, and the court, in addition to sentencing the defendant pursuant to the provisions of section 18-1.3-501, shall order the defendant to submit to and complete an alcohol evaluation or assessment, an alcohol education program, or an alcohol treatment program, at the defendant's own expense.

(IV) A person convicted of a violation of this section is subject to an additional penalty surcharge of twenty-five dollars that shall be administered to the adolescent substance abuse prevention and treatment fund.

(3) It shall be an affirmative defense to the offense described in subsection (2) of this section that the ethyl alcohol was possessed or consumed by a person under twenty-one years of age under the following circumstances:

(a) While such person was legally upon private property with the knowledge and consent of the owner or legal possessor of such private property and the ethyl alcohol was possessed or consumed with the consent of his parent or legal guardian who was present during such possession or consumption; or

(b) When the existence of ethyl alcohol in a person's body was due solely to the ingestion of a confectionery which contained ethyl alcohol within the limits prescribed by section 25-5-410 (1) (i) (II), C.R.S.; or the ingestion of any substance which was manufactured, designed, or intended primarily for a purpose other than oral human ingestion; or the ingestion of any substance which was manufactured, designed, or intended solely for medicinal or hygienic purposes; or solely from the ingestion of a beverage which contained less than one-half of one percent of ethyl alcohol by weight.

(c) The person is a student who:

(I) Tastes but does not imbibe an alcohol beverage only while under the direct supervision of an instructor who is at least twenty-one years of age and employed by a post-secondary school;

(III) Is participating in a culinary arts, food service, or restaurant management degree program; and

(IV) Tastes but does not imbibe the alcohol beverage for instructional purposes as a part of a required course in which the alcohol beverage, except the portion the student tastes, remains under the control of the instructor.

(4) The possession or consumption of ethyl alcohol shall not constitute a violation of this section if such possession or consumption takes place for religious purposes protected by the first amendment to the United States constitution.

(4.5) An underage person shall be immune from criminal prosecution under this section if he or she establishes the following:

(a) The underage person called 911 and reported in good faith that another underage person was in need of medical assistance due to alcohol consumption;

(b) The underage person who called 911 provided his or her name to the 911 operator;

(c) The underage person was the first person to make the 911 report; and

(d) The underage person who made the 911 call remained on the scene with the underage person in need of medical assistance until assistance arrived and cooperated with medical assistance or law enforcement personnel on the scene.

(5) Prima facie evidence of a violation of subsection (2) of this section shall consist of:

(a) Evidence that the defendant was under the age of twenty-one years and possessed or consumed ethyl alcohol anywhere in this state; or

(b) Evidence that the defendant was under the age of twenty-one years and manifested any of the characteristics commonly associated with ethyl alcohol intoxication or impairment while present anywhere in this state.

(6) During any trial for a violation of subsection (2) of this section, any bottle, can, or any other container with labeling indicating the contents of such bottle, can, or container shall be admissible into evidence, and the information contained on any label on such bottle, can, or other container shall be admissible into evidence and shall not constitute hearsay. A jury or a judge, whichever is appropriate, may consider the information upon such label in determining whether the contents of the bottle, can, or other container were composed in whole or in part of ethyl alcohol. A label which identifies the contents of any bottle, can, or other container as "beer", "ale", "malt beverage", "fermented malt beverage", "malt liquor", "wine", "champagne", "whiskey" or "whisky", "gin", "vodka", "tequila", "schnapps", "brandy", "cognac", "liqueur", "cordial", "alcohol", or "liquor" shall constitute prima facie evidence that the contents of the bottle, can, or other container was composed in whole or in part of ethyl alcohol.

(7) A parent or legal guardian of a person under twenty-one years of age or any natural person who has the permission of such parent or legal guardian may give or permit the possession and consumption of ethyl alcohol to or by a person under the age of twenty-one years under the conditions described in paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section. This subsection (7) shall not be construed to permit any establishment which is or is required to be licensed pursuant to article 46, 47, or 48 of title 12, C.R.S., or any members, employees, or occupants of any such establishment to give, provide, make available, or sell ethyl alcohol to a person under twenty-one years of age.

(8) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit any statutory or home rule municipality from enacting any ordinance which prohibits persons under the age of twenty-one years from possessing or consuming ethyl alcohol, which ordinance is at least as restrictive or more restrictive than this section.

(9) Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit or preclude prosecution for any offense pursuant to article 46, 47, or 48 of title 12, C.R.S., except as provided in such articles.

(10) Upon the expiration of one year from the date of a conviction, dismissal, completion of deferred judgment, or conclusion of deferred prosecution for a violation of subsection (2) of this section, the person convicted of such violation may petition the court in which the conviction was assigned for an order sealing the record of such conviction. The court shall grant such petition if the petitioner has not been arrested for, charged with, or convicted of any felony, misdemeanor, or petty offense during the period of one year following the date of such petitioner's conviction for a violation of subsection (2) of this section.

(11) The qualitative result of an alcohol test or tests shall be admissible at the trial of any person charged with a violation of subsection (2) of this section upon a showing that the device or devices used to conduct such test or tests have been approved as accurate in detecting alcohol by the executive director of the department of public health and environment.

(12) Official records of the department of public health and environment relating to the certification of breath test instruments, certification of operators and operator instructors of breath test instruments, certification of standard solutions, and certification of laboratories shall be official records of the state. Copies of such records, attested by the executive director of the department of public health and environment or his deputy and accompanied by a certificate bearing the official seal for said department, which state that the executive director of the department has custody of such records, shall be admissible in all courts of record and shall constitute prima facie evidence of the information contained in such records. The official seal of the department described in this subsection (12) may consist of a rubber stamp producing a facsimile of the seal stamped upon the document.

(13) In any judicial proceeding in any court of this state concerning a charge under subsection (2) of this section, the court shall take judicial notice of methods of testing a person's blood, breath, saliva, or urine for the presence of alcohol and of the design and operation of devices certified by the department of public health and environment for testing a person's blood, breath, saliva, or urine for the presence of alcohol. This subsection (13) shall not prevent the necessity of establishing during a trial that the testing devices were working properly and that such testing devices were properly operated. Nothing in this subsection (13) shall preclude a defendant from offering evidence concerning the accuracy of testing devices.

(14) No law enforcement officer shall enter upon any private property to investigate any violation of this section without probable cause.

(15) Repealed.

(16) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(I) There are many children in Colorado who struggle with substance abuse, and their substance abuse problems have a direct social and economic impact on the state;

(II) It is estimated that in Colorado there are thirty thousand children and youth between the ages of twelve and seventeen with a substance abuse problem that often continues into young adulthood;

(III) At any one time, sixty to eighty percent of the youth in the juvenile justice system have a substance abuse problem, and thirty percent of the referrals for substance abuse problems in the juvenile justice system have co-occurring disorders;

(IV) Colorado does not have the capacity to provide substance abuse treatment for all children who need the treatment. In fiscal year 2004, only four thousand three hundred eighty children received publicly funded substance abuse treatment, representing only fifteen percent of the children in the state who needed substance abuse treatment.

(V) It is necessary for the state of Colorado to provide more adolescent substance abuse treatment in a developmentally, intellectually, and socially appropriate manner and therefore it is necessary to create the adolescent substance abuse prevention and treatment fund for that purpose.

(b) The surcharge collected pursuant to subparagraph (IV) of paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the adolescent substance abuse prevention and treatment fund, which fund is hereby created and referred to in this section as the "fund". The moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the unit in the department of human services that administers behavioral health programs and services, including those related to mental health and substance abuse, established in article 80 of title 27, C.R.S., for adolescent substance abuse prevention and treatment programs. The unit in the department of human services that administers behavioral health programs and services, including those related to mental health and substance abuse, is authorized to seek and accept gifts, grants, or donations from private or public sources for the purposes of this section. All private and public funds received through gifts, grants, or donations shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the fund. Any unexpended moneys in the fund may be invested by the state treasurer as provided by law. All interest and income derived from the investment and deposit of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or another fund.

Editor’s note: (1) This section is similar to former § 12-7-109 (1) and (2) as it existed prior to 2012.

(2) Section 52 of chapter 280, Session Laws of Colorado 2012, provides that the act adding this section applies to offenses committed and applications submitted on or after on or after July 1, 2012.

ANNOTATION

Annotator’s note. Since § 18-13-130 is similar to § 12-7-109 as it existed prior to its 2012 relocation with amendments to this section, a relevant case construing that provision has been included in the annotations to this section.

A constitutional challenge on the basis of vagueness to this section is without merit since this section is definite that gifts shall not be made to court employees by professional bondsmen. Herbertson v. Dept. of Ins., 173 Colo. 327, 478 P.2d 668 (1970).

It is generally recognized that the bail bond business is a matter of public concern, and hence, is subject to reasonable regulation under the police power of the state. Herbertson v. Dept. of Ins., 173 Colo. 327, 478 P.2d 668 (1970).

Where the general assembly has proscribed the making of a gift to certain specified officials with whom bail bondsmen must deal in the normal course of their licensed activities, and has not required that such act be done with an evil purpose, guilty knowledge, scienter, or mens rea, held, under such circumstances, the constitutional challenge to this section on the basis of lack of mens rea or criminal intent is without merit. Herbertson v. Dept. of Ins., 173 Colo. 327, 478 P.2d 668 (1970).

18-15-101. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) To “collect” an extension of credit means to induce in any way any person to make repayment thereof.

(2) “Creditor” means any person who extends credit or any person claiming by, under, or through any such person.

(3) “Debtor” means any person who receives an extension of credit or any person who guarantees the repayment of an extension of credit or in any manner undertakes to indemnify the creditor against loss resulting from the failure of any person who receives an extension of credit to repay the same.

(4) To “extend credit” means to make or renew any loan or to enter into any agreement, express or implied, whereby the repayment or satisfaction of any debt or claim, whether acknowledged or disputed, valid or invalid, and however arising, may or will be deferred.

(5) An “extortionate means” is any means which involves the use, or an express or implicit threat of use, of violence or other criminal means to cause harm to the person, reputation, or property of any person.

(6) (a) “Loan finance charge” means the sum of all charges payable directly or indirectly by the debtor and imposed directly or indirectly by the lender as an incident to or as a condition of the extension of credit, whether paid or payable by the debtor, the lender, or any other person on behalf of the debtor to the lender or to a third party, including, but not limited to, any of the following types of charges that are applicable:

(1) Interest or any amount payable under a point, discount, or other system of charges, however denominated;

(II) Premium or other charge for any guarantee of insurance protecting the lender against the debtor's default or other credit loss;

(7) "Repayment" of an extension of credit includes the repayment, satisfaction, or discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or claim, acknowledged or disputed, valid or invalid, resulting from or in connection with that extension of credit.

18-15-102. Extortionate extension of credit - penalty. Any person who makes any extension of credit in any amount regardless of the loan finance charge with respect to which it is the understanding of the creditor and the debtor at the time it is made that delay in making repayment or failure to make repayment will result in the use of extortionate means of collection is guilty of extortionate extension of credit, which is a class 4 felony.

18-15-103. Presumption that extension of credit is extortionate. (1) The provisions of this section are nonexclusive and in no way limit the effect or applicability of section 18-15-102.

(2) In any prosecution under section 18-15-102, if it is shown that the factors enumerated in paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this subsection (2) were present in connection with the making of the extension of credit in question, there shall arise a presumption that the extension of credit was extortionate:

(a) The extension of credit was made with a loan finance charge in excess of that established for criminal usury.

(b) At the time credit was extended, the debtor reasonably believed that one or more extensions of credit by the creditor had been collected or attempted to be collected by extortionate means or the nonrepayment thereof had been punished by extortionate means.

(c) Upon the making of the extension of credit, the total of the extensions of credit by the creditor to the debtor then outstanding, including any unpaid interest or similar charges, exceeded one hundred dollars.

(3) In any prosecution under section 18-15-102, evidence of similar offenses tending to establish the existence of a plan, scheme, or design on the part of the defendant to produce a result of which the act charged is a part shall be admissible in evidence against the defendant. Such evidence of similar offenses, if known to the debtor, shall also be admissible in evidence for the purpose of establishing the reasonable belief of the debtor referred to in paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section.

(4) Whether evidence introduced under the provisions of subsection (2) of this section giving rise to the presumption that the extension of credit was extortionate is sufficient to establish the guilt of the defendant beyond a reasonable doubt, if such evidence is not disputed, is a question to be determined by the jury under proper instructions or by the court if no jury trial is had. Where there is evidence tending to show the innocence of the transaction, the issue of whether the extension of credit was extortionate shall be submitted to the jury, if trial is to a jury, unless the court is satisfied that the evidence as a whole clearly negates the presumed offense.

18-15-104. Engaging in criminal usury. (1) Any person who knowingly charges, takes, or receives any money or other property as a loan finance charge where the charge exceeds an annual percentage rate of forty-five percent or the equivalent for a longer or shorter period commits the crime of criminal usury, which is a class 6 felony.

(2) It is an affirmative defense to criminal usury for a person, or his agent or assignee, who charges, takes, or receives money or property as a loan finance charge in excess of an annual percentage rate of forty-five percent in either of the following circumstances:

(a) That at the time of making the loan finance charge it could not have been determined by a mathematical computation that the annual percentage rate would exceed an annual percentage rate of forty-five percent;

(b) That the loan finance charge was not in excess of an annual percentage rate of forty-five percent when the rate of the finance charge was calculated on the unpaid balance of the debt on the assumption that the debt is to be paid according to its terms and is not paid before the end of the agreed term.

(3) The affirmative defenses referred to in subsection (2) of this section shall only apply when the provisions relating to the loan finance charge are set forth in a written agreement signed by all the parties and such written agreement is submitted to the court and the district attorney at least ten days prior to trial.

(4) This section shall not apply to:

(a) Charges and fees permitted by articles 1 to 6 of title 5, C.R.S., or charges and fees that are similar to such charges and fees and are specifically authorized by law;

(b) Credit card charges and fees not exceeding those permitted for consumer transactions under articles 1 to 6 of title 5, C.R.S., when imposed upon or collected from a person or in a transaction not subject to said provisions;

(c) A reverse mortgage as defined in section 11-38-102, C.R.S.; and

(d) Additional interest charges permitted by section 5-12-107 (3), C.R.S.

18-16-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and determines that illicit traffic in stolen valuable articles is encouraged by the absence of any required record-keeping system by persons purchasing such valuable articles. The general assembly further finds that law enforcement officials are hindered in the identification and recovery of stolen valuable articles, and that law enforcement officials are hindered in the discovery and identification of persons selling stolen valuable articles due to the absence of such a required record-keeping system. Accordingly, it is the intent of the general assembly, by enacting this article, to aid law enforcement officials in the discovery and identification of sellers of stolen valuable articles and in the identification and recovery of stolen valuable articles by providing a mandatory record-keeping and reporting system by purchasers and by providing a holding period during which time such articles shall not be disposed of or altered in any manner. Local governments may adopt ordinances more strict than the provisions of this article.

Evidence sufficient to sustain defendant's conviction for giving false information. People v. Chavez, 764 P.2d 371 (Colo. App. 1988).

18-16-109. Applicability. The provisions of this article shall not apply to private collectors purchasing collectors' items from other private collectors or businesses engaged in selling valuable articles exclusively as collectors' items, and who pay for such purchases by check, nor shall the provisions of sections 18-16-101 to 18-16-108 apply to valuable articles purchased exclusively in interstate commerce and paid for by check mailed to the seller in another state, if a record of the check by which payment was made and the name and address of the seller is maintained for a period of three years, or a retail merchant who, in a retail transaction involving the sale of a valuable article, receives another valuable article as a trade-in and credits the retail purchaser with the value thereof if the retail purchaser provides proof satisfactory to the retailer that the valuable article was originally purchased from that retailer. For the purpose of this section, a "private collector" is an individual, business, or corporation who purchases an item for a price based on the value of the article as a historical item rather than the prevailing market price of the item's metallic or stone composition; who has an interest in preserving the item in its unique or historical form and who does not alter the form of the article; and whose primary purpose is to keep the article in a collection or to sell to another collector.

ANNOTATION

Constitutionality of exclusions. The exclusions from the act's application are not unconstitutionally vague. Exotic Coins, Inc. v. Beacom, 699 P.2d 930 (Colo. 1985), cert. denied, 474 U.S. 892, 106 S. Ct. 214, 88 L. Ed.2d 214 (1985).

18-16-110. Severability. If any provision of this article or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect the other provisions of this article which may be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and, to this end, the provisions of this article are declared to be severable.

18-17-102. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds that organized crime in the state of Colorado, as well as nationwide, is a highly sophisticated, diversified, and widespread activity that annually consumes millions of dollars locally and billions of dollars nationally from this state's and the nation's economy through unlawful conduct and the illegal use of force, fraud, and corruption. Organized crime derives a major portion of its power through money procured from such illegal endeavors as syndicated and organized gambling, loan-sharking, the theft of property and fencing of stolen property, the illegal importation, manufacture, and distribution of drugs and other controlled substances, and other forms of social exploitation. This money and power are increasingly being used to infiltrate and corrupt legitimate business and labor organizations and to subvert and corrupt our democratic processes. Organized crime activities within this state weaken the stability of this state's and the nation's economy, harm innocent investors and competing organizations, impede free competition, threaten the peace and health of the public, endanger the domestic security, and undermine the general welfare of the state and its citizens. The general assembly further finds that organized crime continues to grow and flourish because of defects in the evidence-gathering process of the law which inhibits the development and use of the legally admissible evidence necessary to bring criminal and other sanctions or remedies to bear on the unlawful activities of those engaged in organized crime and because the sanctions and remedies presently available to the state are unnecessarily limited in scope and impact. Therefore, the general assembly declares that it is the purpose of this article to seek the eradication of organized crime in this state by strengthening the legal tools in the evidence-gathering process, by establishing new penal prohibitions, and by providing enhanced sanctions and new remedies to deal with the unlawful activities of those engaged in organized crime.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Civil RICO Update: The Evolving 'Pattern' Requirement — Parts I and II", see 16 Colo. Law. 806 and 1004 (1987).

Neither RICO nor this act require that the plaintiff in a civil action aver and prove that the conduct described as racketeering activity is connected to organized crime. Plains Res., Inc. v. Gable, 782 F.2d 883 (10th Cir. 1986).

Federal case law under "RICO" is instructive in determining existence of a pattern of racketeering activity, in absence of prior interpretation by state courts, because COCCA was modeled after the federal act. People v. Chaussee, 847 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1992), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, People v. Chaussee, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

In order to establish "pattern of racketeering activity" under Colorado Organized Crime Control Act, it was not necessary to prove that the criminal acts meet standards of continuity or of relatedness to one another as those requirements have been established by judicial construction under the federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act (RICO). People v. Chaussee, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

"Pattern of racketeering activity" under subsection (3) can be established by proving at least two acts of "racketeering", as defined in subsection (5), that are related to the conduct of the enterprise. People v. Chaussee, 880 P.2d 749

(Colo. 1994), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, People v. Chaussee, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

"Pattern of racketeering activity", as defined in subsection (3), found to exist. People v. Chaussee, 847 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1992), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, People v. Chaussee, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

Alleged perjury and forgery in court proceedings arising from fraudulent scheme were not part of a "pattern of racketeering activity". People v. Chaussee, 847 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1992), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, People v. Chaussee, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

Definition of "enterprise" not unconstitutionally impermissibly vague. Although the definition is broad, it is not so vague that a person of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning. People v. McGlotten, 166 P.3d 182 (Colo. App. 2007).

Defendant fit within the definition of "enterprise" where indictment defined "enterprise" as "a group of individuals..." and where alleged prostitution ring qualified as "a group of individuals associated in fact although not a legal entity". People v. Cerrone, 867 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1993); aff'd on other grounds, 900 P.2d 45 (Colo. 1995).

Enterprise need not be separate and distinct from the racketeering activity. People v. Cerrone, 867 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1993); aff'd on other grounds, 900 P.2d 45 (Colo. 1995).

Defendant can be both the “person” and the “enterprise” defined in the statute. People v. Cerrone, 867 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1993); aff’d on other grounds, 900 P.2d 45 (Colo. 1995).

Vicarious liability claim against mortgage brokerage firm that employed licensed securities broker who violated this section survives motion to dismiss. Dolin v. Contemporary Fin. Solutions, Inc., 622 F. Supp. 2d 1077 (D. Colo. 2009).

18-17-104. Prohibited activities. (1) (a) It is unlawful for any person who knowingly has received any proceeds derived, directly or indirectly, from a pattern of racketeering activity or through the collection of an unlawful debt to use or invest, whether directly or indirectly, any part of such proceeds or the proceeds derived from the investment or use thereof in the acquisition of any title to, or any right, interest, or equity in, real property or in the establishment or operation of any enterprise.

(b) A purchase of securities on the open market for purposes of investment, and without the intention of controlling or participating in the control of the issuer, or of assisting another to do so, shall not be unlawful under this subsection (1) if the securities of the issuer held by the purchaser, the members of his immediate family, and his or their accomplices in any pattern of racketeering activity or the collection of an unlawful debt after such purchase do not amount in the aggregate to one percent of the outstanding securities of any one class and do not confer, either in law or in fact, the power to elect one or more directors of the issuer.

(2) It is unlawful for any person, through a pattern of racketeering activity or through the collection of an unlawful debt, to knowingly acquire or maintain, directly or indirectly, any interest in or control of any enterprise or real property.

(3) It is unlawful for any person employed by, or associated with, any enterprise to knowingly conduct or participate, directly or indirectly, in such enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity or the collection of an unlawful debt.

(4) It is unlawful for any person to conspire or endeavor to violate any of the provisions of subsection (1), (2), or (3) of this section.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, “Civil RICO in Colorado: New Twists in the Road to Treble Damages”, see 15 Colo. Law. 9 (1986). For article, “The Potential Application of RICO in the Natural Resources/Environmental Law Context”, see 63 Den. U.L. Rev. 535 (1986). For article, “Civil RICO Update: The Evolving ‘Pattern’ Requirement — Parts I and II”, see 16 Colo. Law. 806 and 1004 (1987).

Federal case law under the federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act (RICO) is instructive upon similar issues arising under the Colorado Organized Crime Control Act (COCCA), because COCCA was modeled after the federal act. Tallitsch v. Child Support Servs., Inc., 926 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1996); Floyd v. Coors Brewing Co., 952 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1997).

The absence of knowledge of the underlying fraudulent activity defeats liability under subsection (1)(a). Sender v. Mann, 423 F. Supp. 2d 1155 (D. Colo. 2006).

Trial court properly dismissed claim brought under this section where employee did not allege that employer received proceeds from pattern of racketeering and engaged in the laundering of proceeds from such activity. Ferris v. Local 26, 867 P.2d 38 (Colo. App. 1993).

Enterprise and person cannot be the same entity for purpose of alleged violation of this article. Ferris v. Local 26, 867 P.2d 38 (Colo. App. 1993).

When instructing the jury on a COCCA charge, the court should include a definition of enterprise that defines an enterprise as consisting of at least one individual and the defendant. The addition of such a definition eliminates any confusion regarding a COCCA charge against an individual defendant and the fact the enterprise must include the defendant and at least one other individual. People v. James, 40 P.3d 36 (Colo. App. 2001).

When a separate entity is formed by incorporation, the corporation constitutes an enterprise within the meaning of the statutory definition, separate from the person engaged in the pattern of racketeering activity. People v. Pollard, 3 P.3d 473 (Colo. App. 2000).

Enterprise need not be separate and distinct from the racketeering activity. People v. Cerrone, 867 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1993).

In order to establish "pattern of racketeering activity" under Colorado Organized Crime Control Act, it was not necessary to prove that the criminal acts meet standards of continuity or of relatedness to one another as those requirements have been established by judicial construction under the federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act (RICO). People v. Chaussee, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994); Brooks v. Bank of Boulder, 891 F. Supp. 1469 (D. Colo. 1995); Brooks v. Bank of Boulder, 911 F. Supp. 470 (D. Colo. 1996).

"Pattern of racketeering activity", as defined in § 18-17-103 (3), can be established by proving at least two acts of "racketeering", as defined in § 18-17-103 (5), that are related to the conduct of the enterprise. People v. Chaussee, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994); Brooks v. Bank of Boulder, 891 F. Supp. 1469 (D. Colo. 1995); Brooks v. Bank of Boulder, 911 F. Supp. 470 (D. Colo. 1996).

Pattern of racketeering activity construed. Manufacturer's single scheme of efforts to market mortar and brick bonding compound for use in construction industry was not "pattern of racketeering activity". Behunin v. Dow Chemical Co., 650 F. Supp. 1387 (D. Colo. 1986).

Multiple predicate acts allegedly committed in the course of perpetration of fraud on more than one victim using the same modus operandi, and which apparently would have continued but for the institution of legal proceedings, formed a "pattern of racketeering activity". People v. Chaussee, 847 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1992), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

Alleged perjury and forgery in court proceedings arising from fraudulent scheme were not part of a "pattern of racketeering activity". People v. Chaussee, 847 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1992), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 880 P.2d 749 (Colo. 1994).

A "close-ended" pattern of racketeering refers to a series of related predicate acts extending over a substantial period of time concluded by the time the RICO action is brought. A period of six to seven months is not a long enough period to state a close-ended RICO claim. Alter v. DBLKM, Inc., 840 F. Supp. 799 (D. Colo. 1993).

An "open-ended" pattern of racketeering involves a series of predicate acts that by their nature indicate the likelihood of continuing criminal activity. Bare allegations that defendants will engage in future similar conduct, without specific facts, will not suffice to state a RICO claim. Alter v. DBLKM, 840 F. Supp. 799 (D. Colo. 1993).

Plaintiff must show at least one injury resulting from each of the predicate acts, but it is not necessary to establish that an injury resulted from a pattern of racketeering. New Crawford Valley, Ltd. v. Benedict, 877 P.2d 1363 (Colo. App. 1993); Floyd v. Coors Brewing Co., 952 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1997).

To state a claim under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO) and its state law correlate Colorado Organized Crime Control Act (COCCA), plaintiffs must allege a "pattern of racketeering activity" of sufficient relatedness and that poses a sufficient threat of continuity. Alter v. DBLKM, Inc., 840 F. Supp. 199 (D. Colo. 1993).

Predicate acts are of sufficient relatedness if they have same or similar purposes, results, participants, victims, or methods of commission, otherwise are interrelated by distinguishing characteristics and are not isolated events. Alter v. DBLKM, Inc., 840 F. Supp. 199 (D. Colo. 1993).

The continuity requirement involves an examination of the temporal aspect of the alleged predicate acts. H.J., Inc. v. Northwestern Bell Tel. Co., 492 U.S. 229, 109 S. Ct. 2893, 106 L. Ed.2d 195 (1989); Alter v. DBLKM, Inc., 840 F. Supp. 199 (D. Colo. 1993).

To state a claim under subsection (1)(a), a plaintiff must plead that an injury flowed from defendant's use or investment of racketeering income, not the predicate acts themselves. Brooks v. Bank of Boulder, 891 F. Supp. 1469 (D. Colo. 1995).

A violation of subsection (1) is stated when at least one predicate acts results in the production of proceeds that are invested in or used to operate a separate enterprise. New Crawford Valley, Ltd. v. Benedict, 877 P.2d 1363 (Colo. App. 1993).

Investors in an alleged Ponzi scheme adequately alleged the bank into which the defendant deposited funds from the scheme used or invested income derived from defendant's pattern of racketeering in itself and defendant in violation of subsection (1)(a). Therefore, the filing of claims for relief in an amended complaint would not be futile. Brooks v. Bank of Boulder, 911 F. Supp. 470 (D. Colo. 1996).

Allegations adequate so that filing claims for relief in an amended complaint would not be futile where investors in an alleged Ponzi scheme alleged the bank into which the defendant deposited funds from the scheme participated in directing defendant's affairs through the commission of criminal predicate acts. Brooks v. Bank of Boulder, 911 F. Supp. 470 (D. Colo. 1996).

The required nexus between racketeering activities and the affairs of an enterprise is shown if the predicate acts are carried out in the conduct of the enterprise's affairs. New Crawford Valley, Ltd. v. Benedict, 877 P.2d 1363 (Colo. App. 1993).

Legal advice and representation is, by itself, insufficient to justify liability under subsection (3). Sender v. Mann, 423 F. Supp. 2d 1155 (D. Colo. 2006).

No conspiracy is required to establish a violation of subsection (4); an endeavor or attempt by a single person is sufficient. New Crawford Valley, Ltd. v. Benedict, 877 P.2d 1363 (Colo. App. 1993).

To state a claim under subsection (4), a plaintiff must plead with particularity an agreement to a pattern of racketeering activity and an agreement to the statutorily proscribed conduct. A conspiracy claim must fail where plaintiffs fail to allege any agreement or concerted action. Brooks v. Bank of Boulder, 891 F. Supp. 1469 (D. Colo. 1995).

Mere association with conspirators, even with knowledge of their involvement in a crime, is insufficient to prove participation in a conspiracy. Sender v. Mann, 423 F. Supp. 2d 1155 (D. Colo. 2006).

Indictment sufficiently alleged a violation of the act where it gives the defendant notice of the crime allegedly committed and defines the acts which formed the basis for the crime with sufficient particularity. People v. Edebohls, 944 P.2d 552 (Colo. App. 1996).

Information sufficiently alleged a violation of the act because, although the charge under the act failed to allege other crimes, the information contained separate charges of such other crimes. People v. Pollard, 3 P.3d 473 (Colo. App. 2000).

The allegation of a completed act under subsection (1), (2), or (3) includes an allegation of an attempt to violate subsection (4). New Crawford Valley, Ltd. v. Benedict, 877 P.2d 1363 (Colo. App. 1993).

Allegations of secondary liability through aiding and abetting state a viable claim under the Colorado Organized Crime Control Act. F.D.I.C. v. First Interstate Bank of Denver, N.A., 937 F. Supp. 1461 (D. Colo. 1996).

Allegations of secondary liability based on principles of respondeat superior state a viable claim under the Colorado Organized Crime Control Act. F.D.I.C. v. First Interstate Bank of Denver, N.A., 937 F. Supp. 1461 (D. Colo. 1996).

18-17-105. Criminal penalties. (1) Any person convicted of engaging in activity in violation of the provisions of section 18-17-104 commits a class 2 felony and, upon conviction thereof, shall, in addition to the penalty provided for in section 18-1.3-401:

(a) Be fined not more than twenty-five thousand dollars; and

(b) Forfeit to the state any interest, including proceeds, he has acquired or maintained in violation of section 18-17-104 and any interest in, security of, claim against, or property or contractual right of any kind affording a source of influence over any enterprise which has established, operated, controlled, conducted, or participated in the conduct of in violation of section 18-17-104.

(2) In lieu of the fine authorized by paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section, any person convicted of engaging in conduct in violation of the provisions of section 18-17-104, through which he derived pecuniary value, or by which he caused personal injury or property damage or other loss, may be sentenced to pay a fine that does not exceed three times the gross value gained or three times the gross loss caused, whichever is the greater, plus court costs and the costs of investigation and prosecution, reasonably incurred.

(3) The court shall hold a hearing to determine the amount of the fine authorized by subsection (2) of this section.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (2) of this section, "pecuniary value" means:

(a) Anything of value in the form of money, a negotiable instrument, or a commercial interest or anything else, the primary significance of which is economic advantage; or

(b) Any other property or service that has a value in excess of one hundred dollars.

(5) In any action brought under this section, the district court may, at any time, enter such injunctions, prohibitions, or restraining orders, or take such actions, including the acceptance of satisfactory performance bonds, in connection with any property or other interest subject to forfeiture under this section, as the court may deem proper.

(6) Upon conviction of a person under this section, the district court shall authorize the district attorney or the attorney general to seize all property or other interest declared forfeited under this section upon such terms and conditions as the court shall deem proper. The state shall dispose of all property or other interest seized under this section as soon as feasible, making due provision for the rights of innocent persons. If a property right or other interest is not exercisable or transferable for value by the state, it shall expire and shall not revert to the convicted person. The disposition of seized property shall be as follows:

(a) Any personal property which is required by law to be destroyed, or the possession of which is illegal, or which, in the opinion of the court is not properly the subject of a sale may be destroyed pursuant to a warrant for the destruction of personal property, issued by the district court, directed to the sheriff, and returned by the sheriff upon execution thereof. The district court shall stay the execution of any such warrant during the period in which the property is used as evidence in any pending criminal or civil proceeding.

(b) Any personal property seized and forfeited under the provisions of this section shall be sold by the sheriff in the manner provided for sales on execution. In lieu of ordering the sale of such property, the court may, if it finds that it can be used by a law enforcement agency, order it delivered to a law enforcement agency for such use.

(c) As to any real property, the district court shall enter a permanent order of abatement. The order of abatement shall direct the sheriff to sell such building or place and the ground upon which it is situated, to the extent of the interest, direct or indirect, of such person convicted under this section, at public sale in the manner provided for sales of property upon execution.

(d) The proceeds realized from such sales shall be applied as follows:

(I) To the fees and costs of sale;

(II) All costs and expenses of investigation and prosecution, including, but not limited to, costs of resources and manpower incurred in investigation and prosecution;

(III) The balance, if any, to the general fund of the state.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, “State and Federal Forfeiture of Property Used in Criminal Activity”, see 11 Colo. Law. 2597 (1982).

No violation of equal protection because the Colorado Organized Crime Control Act (COCCA) punishes defendant with a class 2 felony when the two underlying predicate crimes are misdemeanors. The additional requirement that the offense be conducted as a part of an enterprise satisfies the related legislative purpose of deterring organized crime. People v. McGlotten, 166 P.3d 182 (Colo. App. 2007).

No double jeopardy. Separate convictions for a violation of the Colorado Organized Crime Control Act (COCCA) and underlying predicate offenses, which convictions were based upon the same activity, do not constitute double jeopardy. People v. Hoover, 165 P.3d 784 (Colo. App. 2006).

The general assembly intended the provisions of COCCA to deter specific criminal activities using the threat of multiple or cumulative sentences to be imposed in conjunction with other punishments. People v. Hoover, 165 P.3d 784 (Colo. App. 2006).

18-17-106. Civil remedies. (1) Any district court may, after making due provision for the rights of innocent persons, enjoin violations of the provisions of section 18-17-104 by issuing appropriate orders and judgments, including, but not limited to:

(a) Ordering any defendant to divest himself of any interest in any enterprise, including real property;

(b) Imposing reasonable restrictions upon the future activities or investments of any defendant, including, but not limited to, prohibiting any defendant from engaging in the same type of endeavor as the enterprise in which he was engaged in violation of the provisions of section 18-17-104;

(c) Ordering the dissolution or reorganization of any enterprise;

(d) Ordering the suspension or revocation of a license, permit, or prior approval granted to any enterprise by any agency of the state;

(e) Ordering the forfeiture of the charter of a corporation organized under the laws of this state or the revocation of a certificate authorizing a foreign corporation to conduct business within the state, upon finding that the board of directors or a managerial agent acting on behalf of the corporation, in conducting the affairs of the corporation, has authorized or engaged in conduct in violation of section 18-17-104 and that, for the prevention of future criminal activity, the public interest requires the charter of the corporation forfeited and the corporation dissolved or the certificate revoked.

(2) All property, real or personal, including money, used in the course of, intended for use in the course of, derived from, or realized through conduct in violation of the provisions of section 18-17-104 is subject to civil forfeiture to the state. The state shall dispose of all forfeited property as soon as commercially feasible. If property is not exercisable or transferable for value by the state, it shall expire. All forfeitures or dispositions under this section shall be made with due provision for the rights of innocent persons. The disposition of seized property shall be as follows:

(a) Any personal property which is required by law to be destroyed, or the possession of which is illegal, or which, in the opinion of the court is not properly the subject of a sale may be destroyed pursuant to a warrant for the destruction of personal property, issued by the district court, directed to the sheriff, and returned by the sheriff upon execution thereof. The district court shall stay the execution of any such warrant during the period in which the property is used as evidence in any pending criminal or civil proceeding.

(b) Any personal property seized and forfeited under the provisions of this section shall be sold by the sheriff in the manner provided for sales on execution.

(c) As to any real property, the district court shall enter a permanent order of abatement. The order of abatement shall direct the sheriff to sell such building or place and the ground upon which it is situated, to the extent of the interest, direct or indirect, of such person found to be in violation of the provisions of section 18-17-104, at public sale in the manner provided for sales of property upon execution.

(d) The proceeds realized from such sales shall be applied pursuant to section 16-13-311 (3) (a), C.R.S.

(3) Property subject to forfeiture under this section may be seized by a law enforcement officer upon court process. Seizure without process may be made if:

(a) The seizure is incident to a lawful arrest or search or an inspection under an administrative inspection warrant;

(b) The property subject to seizure has been the subject of a prior judgment in favor of the state in a forfeiture proceeding based upon this section.

(4) In the event of a seizure under subsection (3) of this section, a forfeiture proceeding shall be instituted promptly. Property taken or detained under this section shall not be subject to replevin but is deemed to be in the custody of the law enforcement officer making the seizure, subject only to the order of the court. When property is seized under this section, pending forfeiture and final disposition, the law enforcement officer may:

(a) Place the property under seal;

(b) Remove the property to a place designated by court;

(c) Require another agency authorized by law to take custody of the property and remove it to an appropriate location.

(5) The attorney general or district attorney may institute civil proceedings under this section. Any action instituted under this section shall conform to the procedures set forth in part 3 or part 5 of article 13 of title 16, C.R.S. In any action brought under this section, the district court shall proceed as soon as practicable to the hearing and determination. Pending final determination, the district court may, at any time, enter such injunctions, prohibitions, or restraining orders or take such actions, including the acceptance of satisfactory performance bonds, as the court may deem proper.

(6) Any aggrieved person may institute a proceeding under subsection (1) of this section. In such proceeding, relief shall be granted in conformity with the principles that govern that granting of injunctive relief from threatened loss or damage in other civil cases; except that no showing of special or irreparable damage to the person shall have to be made. Upon the execution of proper bond against damages for an injunction improvidently granted and a showing of immediate danger of significant loss or damage, a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction may be issued in any such action before a final determination on the merits.

(7) Any person injured by reason of any violation of the provisions of section 18-17-104 shall have a cause of action for threefold the actual damages sustained. Such person shall also recover attorney fees in the trial and appellate courts and costs of investigation and litigation reasonably incurred; except that:

(a) The defendant or any injured person may demand a trial by jury in any civil action brought pursuant to this section; and

(b) Any injured person shall have a right or claim to forfeited property or to the proceeds derived therefrom superior to any right or claim the state has in the same property or proceeds.

(8) A final judgment or decree rendered in favor of the people in any criminal proceeding under this article shall estop the defendant in any subsequent civil action or proceeding as to all matters as to which such judgment or decree would be an estoppel as between the parties.

(9) The application of one civil remedy under any provision of this article shall not preclude the application of any other remedy, civil or criminal, under this article or any other provision of law. Civil remedies under this article are supplemental and not mutually exclusive.

(10) Whenever it is established in an action brought pursuant to this section that a person has received proceeds derived from activities prohibited by section 18-17-104, the court shall, upon request, award to the plaintiff a money judgment of forfeiture for the amount of such proceeds. The person subjected to such a money judgment may claim a setoff in an amount equal to the fair market value of other property forfeited if he shows that said property is traceable to a pattern of racketeering activity.

(11) The burden of proof in an action brought pursuant to this section shall be by clear and convincing evidence.

Law reviews. For article, "State and Federal Forfeiture of Property Used in Criminal Activity", see 11 Colo. Law. 2597 (1982). For article, "The Potential Application of RICO in the Natural Resources/Environmental Law Context", see 63 Den. U.L. Rev. 535 (1986).

The Colorado Organized Crime Control Act does not interdict the court's authority to order a stay, but the requirement in subsection (5) that a court proceed to the merits "as soon as practicable" is a factor that the court should consider in deciding whether to grant a stay. In re Kozeny, 236 F.3d 615 (10th Cir. 2000).

Subsection (6) concerning the granting of injunctive relief is applied in Federal Deposit Ins. Corp. v. Antonio, 649 F. Supp. 1352 (D. Colo. 1986).

Court has authority under this statute to freeze assets which are not related to the illegal conduct in order to ensure availability of assets to satisfy monetary judgments. Federal Deposit Ins. Corp. v. Antonio, 843 F.2d 1311 (10th Cir. 1988).

Federal cases construing RICO may be instructive. However, where there exists approprate Colorado authority on an issue, that authority is controlling. Tallitsch v. Child Support Servs., Inc., 926 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1996).

Method for determining an award of attorney fees described, and appropriate factors enumerated, in Tallitsch v. Child Support Servs., Inc., 926 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1996).

No "rule of proportionality" for attorney fees. Purpose of this statute to encourage "private attorneys general" would be defeated if the fees to be awarded were limited according to the amount recovered in damages. However, this does not preclude a trial court's review of the success achieved and the results obtained when setting a reasonable fee. Tallitsch v. Child Support Servs., Inc., 926 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1996).

Plaintiff claiming injury "by reason of any violation" of § 18-17-104 has standing under this section only if plaintiff has been injured by the conduct constituting the violation and can recover only for harm caused by one or more of the predicate acts under COCCA. Floyd v. Coors Brewing Co., 952 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1997).

18-17-107. Civil investigative demand. (1) Whenever the attorney general or the district attorney has reason to believe that any person or enterprise may be in possession, custody, or control of any documentary materials relevant to a racketeering investigation, he may, prior to the institution of a civil or criminal proceeding thereon, issue in writing, and cause to be served upon such person, a civil investigative demand requiring such person to produce such material for examination.

(2) Each such demand shall:

(a) State the nature of the conduct constituting the alleged racketeering violation which is under investigation and the provision of law applicable thereto;

(b) Describe the class or classes of documentary material demanded thereunder with such definiteness and certainty as to permit such material to be fairly identified;

(c) State that the demand is returnable forthwith or prescribe a return date which will provide a reasonable period of time within which the material so demanded may be assembled and made available for inspection and copying or reproduction;

(d) Identify the custodian to whom such material shall be made available; and

(e) State an advisement of rights, available under the provisions of this article, in addition to any appropriate constitutional rights advisement.

(3) No such demand shall:

(a) Contain any requirement which would be held to be unreasonable if contained in a subpoena duces tecum issued by a court of the state in aid of a grand jury investigation of such alleged racketeering violation; or

(b) Require the production of any documentary evidence which would be privileged from disclosure if demanded by a subpoena duces tecum issued by a court of the state in aid of a grand jury investigation of such alleged racketeering violation.

(4) Service of such demand or any petition filed under this section may be made upon a person by:

(a) Delivering a duly executed copy thereof to any partner, executive officer, managing agent, or general agent thereof, or to any agent thereof authorized by appointment or by law to receive service of process on behalf of such person or upon any individual person;

(b) Delivering a duly executed copy thereof to the residence, principal office, or place of business of the person to be served; or

(c) Depositing such copy in the United States mail, by registered or certified mail, duly addressed to such person at its residence, principal office, or place of business.

(5) A verified return by the individual serving any such demand or petition setting forth the manner of such service shall be prima facie proof of such service. In the case of service by registered or certified mail, such return shall be accompanied by the return post-office receipt of delivery of such demand.

(6) (a) The attorney general or district attorney shall designate an investigator to serve as racketeer document custodian and such racketeering investigators as he shall determine to be necessary to serve as deputies to such officer.

(b) Any person upon whom any demand issued under this section has been duly served shall make such material available for inspection and copying or reproduction to the custodian designated therein at the principal place of such person, or at such other place as such custodian and such person thereafter may agree and prescribe in writing or as the court may direct, pursuant to this section, on the return date specified in such demand or on such later date as such custodian may prescribe in writing. Such person may, upon written agreement between such person and the custodian, substitute for copies of all or any part of such material originals thereof.

(c) The custodian to whom any documentary material is so delivered shall take physical possession thereof and shall be responsible for the use made thereof and for the return thereof pursuant to this article. The custodian may cause the preparation of such copies of such documentary material as may be required for official use under regulations which shall be promulgated by the attorney general or the district attorney. Under such reasonable terms and conditions as the attorney general or district attorney shall prescribe, documentary material, while in the possession of the custodian, shall be available for examination by the person who produced such material or any duly authorized representatives of such person.

(d) Whenever any attorney has been designated to appear on behalf of the state before any court or grand jury in any case or proceeding involving any alleged violation of this article, the custodian may deliver to such attorney such documentary material in the possession of the custodian as such attorney determines to be required for use in the presentation of such case or proceeding on behalf of the state. Upon the conclusion of any such case or proceeding, such attorney shall return to the custodian any documentary material so withdrawn which has not passed into the control of such court or grand jury through the introduction thereof into the record of such case or proceeding.

(e) Upon the completion of the racketeering investigation for which any documentary material was produced under this article or in any case or proceeding arising from such investigation, the custodian shall return to the person who produced such material all such material other than copies thereof made by the attorney general or the district attorney pursuant to this subsection (6) which has not passed into the control of any court or grand jury through the introduction thereof into the record of such case or proceeding.

(f) When any documentary material has been produced by any person under this section for use in any racketeering investigation, and no such case or proceeding arising therefrom has been instituted within a reasonable time after completion of the examination and analysis of all evidence assembled in the course of such investigation, such person shall be entitled, upon written demand made upon the attorney general or district attorney, to the return of all documentary material other than copies thereof made pursuant to this subsection (6) so produced by such person.

(g) In the event of the death, disability, or separation from service of the custodian of any documentary material produced under any demand issued under this section or the official relief of such custodian from responsibility for the custody and control of such material, the attorney general or district attorney shall promptly designate another racketeering investigator to serve as custodian thereof and transmit notice in writing to the person who produced such material as to the identity and address of the successor so designated. Any successor so designated shall have with regard to such materials all duties and responsibilities imposed by this section upon his predecessor in office with regard thereto; except that he shall not be held responsible for any default or dereliction which occurred before his designation as custodian.

(7) Whenever any person fails to comply with any civil investigative demand duly served upon him under this section or whenever satisfactory copying or reproduction of any such material cannot be done and such person refuses to surrender such material, the attorney general or a district attorney may file, in the district court of the state for any judicial district in which such person resides, is found, or transacts business, and serve upon such person a petition for an order of such court for the enforcement of this section.

(8) Within twenty-one days after the service of any such demand upon any person, or at any time before the return date specified in the demand, whichever period is shorter, such person may file, in the district court of the state for the judicial district within which such person resides, is found, or transacts business, and serve upon such custodian a petition for an order of such court modifying or setting aside such demand. The time allowed for compliance with the demand in whole or in part as deemed proper and ordered by the court shall not run during the pendency of such petition in the court. Such petition shall specify each ground upon which the petitioner relies in seeking such relief and may be based upon any failure of such demand to comply with the provisions of this section or upon any constitutional or other legal right or privilege of such person.

(9) At any time during which any custodian is in custody or control of any documentary material delivered by any person in compliance with any such demand, such person may file, in the district court of the state for the judicial district within which the office of such custodian is situated, and serve upon such custodian a petition for an order of such court requiring the performance by such custodian of any duty imposed upon him by this section.

(10) Whenever any petition is filed in any district court of the state under this section, such court shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine the matter so presented and to enter such order or orders as may be required to carry into effect the provisions of this section.

Editor’s note: Section 173 of chapter 208, Session Laws of Colorado 2012, provides that the act amending subsection (8) applies to specified time intervals. For more information, see page 896 of Session Laws of Colorado 2012.

ANNOTATION

Constitutionality. This section does not violate the prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures if the investigation is for a lawfully authorized purpose; the information sought is relevant to the inquiry; and the demand is sufficiently specific and spans a reasonable period of time. Benson v. People, 703 P.2d 1274 (Colo. 1985).

Nor does it violate due process because the procedural protections it affords are as complete as those afforded persons served with a grand jury subpoena. Benson v. People, 703 P.2d 1274 (Colo. 1985).

Demand need not be specific. A civil investigative demand complies with this section if it adequately notifies the recipient of the pending investigation and states the general nature of the conduct being investigated. Benson v. People, 703 P.2d 1274 (Colo. 1985).

ANNOTATION

Section 18-17-107, used in the civil context, is remedial and not penal in nature. Thus, statute of limitation for bringing an action under that section may be tolled until the time of reasonable discovery of injurious act as provided by § 13-80-101. Todd Holding Co. v. Super Valu Stores, 874 P.2d 402 (Colo. App. 1993).

18-17-109. Severability. If any provision of this article or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions of this article which may be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and, to this end, the provisions of this article are declared to be severable.

ANNOTATION

Crime of simple possession is lesser included offense of the crime of possession with the intent to distribute. People v. Gilmore, 97 P.3d 123 (Colo. App. 2003).

The definition of “controlled substance analog” as applied to pseudoephedrine is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Frantz, 114 P.3d 34 (Colo. App. 2004).

The definition of “cocaine” in subsection (4), by its plain language, includes a mixture that includes any amount of cocaine. Therefore, the amount of cocaine involved in a transaction is determined by the total amount of the mixture containing the cocaine, not just the amount of cocaine in the mixture. People v. Esquivel-Alaniz, 985 P.2d 22 (Colo. App. 1999).

It is evident that one who “manufactures” a controlled substance also possesses the substance in the course of manufacturing it. Patton v. People, 35 P.3d 124 (Colo. 2001).

18-18-103. Special definition - board. As used in parts 1 and 2 of this article, “board” means the state board of pharmacy. As used in parts 3, 4, 5, and 6 of this article, “board” means the respective licensing board responsible for licensing and registering practitioners or other persons who are subject to registration pursuant to part 3 of this article. For physicians the respective board is the Colorado medical board, for podiatrists the respective board is the Colorado podiatry board, for dentists the respective board is the state board of dental examiners, for optometrists the respective board is the state board of optometry, for pharmacists and pharmacies the respective board is the state board of pharmacy, for veterinarians the respective board is the state board of veterinary medicine, and for manufacturers, distributors, and humane societies the respective board is the state board of pharmacy.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-18-204 is similar to § 12-22-310 as it existed prior to its repeal in 1992, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

The statutory language of the Uniform Controlled Substance Act of 1992 does not convey an intention by the Colorado general assembly to limit its application solely to designer drugs. Thus, the argument that pseudoephedrine is not a designer drug and therefore outside the jurisdiction of this act is invalid. People v. Frantz, 114 P.3d 34 (Colo. App. 2004).

Coca leaves, including cocaine, included. It is the legislative intent that any derivative of coca leaves, including cocaine, be included as a "Schedule II" controlled substance. People v. Root, 650 P.2d 562 (Colo. 1982).

The description, "having a stimulant effect on the central nervous system", does not create a separate element of proof. It provides guidance as to the category into which any new substance should be placed. People v. Moran, 983 P.2d 143 (Colo. App. 1999).

The definition of "controlled substance analog" as applied to pseudoephedrine is not unconstitutionally vague. Thus, pseudoephedrine is a controlled substance analog and enforceable under subsection (2)(g). People v. Frantz, 114 P.3d 34 (Colo. App. 2004).

Applied in Holmes v. District Court, 668 P.2d 11 (Colo. 1983); People v. Chase, 675 P.2d 315 (Colo. 1984).

18-18-302. Registration requirements. (1) Every person who manufactures, distributes, or dispenses any controlled substance within this state, or who proposes to engage in the manufacture, distribution, or dispensing of any controlled substance within this state, shall obtain annually or biannually, if applicable, a registration, issued by the respective licensing board or the department in accordance with rules adopted by such board or by the department. For purposes of this section and this article, "registration" or "registered" means the registering of manufacturers, pharmacists, pharmacies, and humane societies located in this state, and distributors located in or doing business in this state, by the state board of pharmacy as set forth in article 42.5 of title 12, C.R.S., the licensing of physicians by the Colorado medical board, as set forth in article 36 of title 12, C.R.S., the licensing of podiatrists by the Colorado podiatry board, as set forth in article 32 of title 12, C.R.S., the licensing of dentists by the state board of dental examiners, as set forth in article 35 of title 12, C.R.S., the licensing of optometrists by the state board of optometry, as set forth in article 40 of title 12, C.R.S., the licensing of veterinarians by the state board of veterinary medicine, as set forth in article 64 of title 12, C.R.S., and the licensing of researchers and addition programs by the department of human services, as set forth in part 2 of article 80 of title 27, C.R.S.

(2) A person registered by the board or the department under this part 3 to manufacture, distribute, dispense, or conduct research with controlled substances may possess, manufacture, distribute, dispense, or conduct research with those substances to the extent authorized by the registration and in conformity with this article and with article 42.5 of title 12, C.R.S.

(3) The following persons need not register and may lawfully possess controlled substances under this article:

(a) An agent or employee of any registered manufacturer, distributor, or dispenser of any controlled substance if the agent or employee is acting in the usual course of business or employment;

(b) A common or contract carrier or warehouseman, or an employee thereof, whose possession of any controlled substance is in the usual course of business or employment;

(c) An ultimate user or a person in possession of any controlled substance pursuant to a lawful order of a practitioner.

(4) The board or department may waive by rule the requirement for registration of certain manufacturers, distributors, or dispensers upon finding it consistent with the public health and safety.

(5) The board or department may inspect the establishment of a registrant or applicant for registration of those persons they are authorized to register under this part 3 in accordance with rules adopted by the board or department.

18-18-303. Registration. (1) The board or department shall register an applicant to manufacture or distribute substances included in schedules I through V unless the board or department determines that the issuance of that registration would be inconsistent with the public interest. In determining the public interest, the board or department shall consider the following factors:

- (a) Maintenance of effective controls against diversion of controlled substances into other than legitimate medical, scientific, research, or industrial channels;
- (b) Compliance with applicable state and local law;
- (c) Promotion of technical advances in the art of manufacturing controlled substances and the development of new substances;
- (d) Any convictions of the applicant under any laws of another country or federal or state laws relating to any controlled substance;
- (e) Past experience of the applicant in the manufacture or distribution of controlled substances, and the existence in the applicant's establishment of effective controls against diversion of controlled substances into other than legitimate medical, scientific, research, or industrial channels;
- (f) Furnishing by the applicant of false or fraudulent material in any application filed under this article;
- (g) Suspension or revocation of the applicant's federal registration or the applicant's registration of another state to manufacture, distribute, or dispense controlled substances as authorized by federal law; and
- (h) Any other factors relevant to and consistent with the public health and safety.

(2) Registration under subsection (1) of this section entitles a registrant to manufacture or distribute a substance included in schedule I or II only if it is specified in the registration.

(3) A practitioner must be registered with the board or department before dispensing a controlled substance or conducting research with respect to a controlled substance included in schedules II through V. The department need not require separate registration under this article for practitioners engaging in research with nonnarcotic substances included in schedules II through V where the registrant is already registered under this article in another capacity. Practitioners registered under federal law to conduct research with substances included in schedule I may conduct research with substances included in schedule I within this state upon furnishing the department evidence of that federal registration.

(4) A manufacturer or distributor registered under the federal "Controlled Substances Act", 21 U.S.C. sec. 801 et seq., may submit a copy of the federal application as an application for registration as a manufacturer or distributor under this section. The board may require a manufacturer or distributor to submit information in addition to the application for registration under the federal act.

(5) Persons licensed or registered under article 42.5 of title 12, C.R.S., or article 32, 35, 36, 40, or 64 of title 12, C.R.S., need not be licensed separately to distribute or dispense controlled substances to the extent provided under law if they are registered or are exempt from registration by the federal drug enforcement administration, provided that such persons indicate on any initial application or renewal application the schedules of controlled substances that the persons are authorized to use under Public Law 91-513, known as the federal "Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970".

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 12-22-305 as it existed prior to 1992.

18-18-304. Suspension or revocation of registration. (1) The board or department may suspend or revoke a registration under section 18-18-303 to manufacture, distribute, or dispense a controlled substance upon finding that the registrant has:

- (a) Furnished false or fraudulent material information in any application filed under this part 3;
- (b) Been convicted of a felony under any state or federal law relating to any controlled substance;

(c) Had the registrant's federal registration suspended or revoked and is no longer authorized by federal law to manufacture, distribute, or dispense controlled substances; or

(d) Committed acts that would render registration under section 18-18-303 inconsistent with the public interest as determined under that section.

(2) The board or department may deny, suspend, revoke, or take other authorized disciplinary action to limit the authority of any registrant to prescribe, distribute, dispense, or administer controlled substances, or any classification thereof, within this state if grounds for denial, suspension, or revocation exist. These proceedings shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.

(3) If a registration is suspended or revoked, the board or department may place under seal all controlled substances owned or possessed by the registrant at the time of suspension or the effective date of the revocation order. No disposition may be made of substances under seal until the time for taking an appeal has elapsed or until all appeals have been concluded unless a court, upon application, orders the sale of perishable substances and the deposit of the proceeds of the sale with the court. When a revocation order becomes final, the court may order the controlled substances forfeited to the state.

(4) The board or department may seize or place under seal any controlled substance owned or possessed by a registrant whose registration has expired or who has ceased to practice or do business in the manner contemplated by the registration. The controlled substance must be held for the benefit of the registrant or the registrant's successor in interest. The board or department shall notify a registrant, or the registrant's successor in interest, whose controlled substance is seized or placed under seal, of the procedures to be followed to secure the return of the controlled substance and the conditions under which it will be returned. The board or department may not dispose of any controlled substance seized or placed under seal under this subsection (4) until the expiration of one hundred eighty days after the controlled substance was seized or placed under seal. The costs incurred by the board or department in seizing, placing under seal, maintaining custody, and disposing of any controlled substance under this subsection (4) may be recovered from the registrant, any proceeds obtained from the disposition of the controlled substance, or from both. Any balance remaining after the costs have been recovered from the proceeds of any disposition must be delivered to the registrant or the registrant's successor in interest.

(5) The board or department shall promptly notify the drug enforcement administration of all orders restricting, suspending, or revoking registration and all forfeitures of controlled substances.

18-18-305. Order to show cause. (1) Before denying, suspending, or revoking a registration, or refusing a renewal of registration, the board or department shall serve upon the applicant or registrant an order to show cause why registration should not be denied, revoked, or suspended, or the renewal refused. The order must state its grounds and direct the applicant or registrant to appear before the board or department at a specified time and place not less than thirty days after the date of service of the order. In case of a refusal to renew a registration, the order must be served not later than thirty days before the expiration of the registration. These proceedings must be conducted in accordance with section 24-4-105, C.R.S. The proceedings do not preclude any criminal prosecution or other proceeding. A proceeding to refuse to renew a registration does not affect the existing registration, which remains in effect until completion of the proceeding.

(2) The board or department may suspend, without an order to show cause, any registration simultaneously with the institution of proceedings under section 18-18-304, or where renewal of registration is refused, upon finding that there is an imminent danger to the public health or safety which warrants this action. The suspension continues in effect until the conclusion of the proceedings, including judicial review thereof, unless sooner withdrawn by the board or department or dissolved by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(2) Except as provided in section 18-18-414, a person may dispense a controlled substance only as provided in this section.

(3) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (3), a person shall not dispense a substance included in schedule II to an ultimate user of the substance without:

(I) The written prescription of a practitioner; or

(b) A practitioner, other than a pharmacy, may dispense a schedule II substance directly to the ultimate user without a written prescription.

(4) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (4), a person shall not dispense a substance included in schedule III, IV, or V to an ultimate user of the substance without:

(I) A written or oral prescription order of a practitioner; or

(5) A practitioner may dispense or deliver a controlled substance to or for an individual or animal only for medical treatment or authorized research in the ordinary course of that practitioner's profession.

(6) No civil or criminal liability or administrative sanction may be imposed on a pharmacist for action taken in reliance on a reasonable belief that an order purporting to be a prescription was issued by a practitioner in the usual course of professional treatment or in authorized research.

(2) The department shall regularly prepare and make available to other state regulatory, licensing, and law enforcement agencies a report on the patterns and trends of actual distribution, diversion, and abuse of controlled substances.

(3) The department shall enter into written agreements with local, state, and federal agencies for the purpose of improving identification of sources of diversion and to improve enforcement of and compliance with this article and other laws and regulations pertaining to unlawful conduct involving controlled substances. An agreement must specify the roles and responsibilities of each agency that has information or authority to identify, prevent, and control drug diversion and drug abuse. The department shall convene periodic meetings to coordinate a state diversion prevention and control program. The department shall arrange for cooperation and exchange of information among agencies and with neighboring states and the federal government.

(4) The department shall annually report to the governor and to the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives on the outcome of this program with respect to its effects on distribution and abuse of controlled substances, including recommendations for improving control and prevention of the diversion of controlled substances in this state.

OFFENSES AND PENALTIES

18-18-401. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(a) The regulation of controlled substances in this state is important and necessary for the preservation of public safety and public health;

(b) Successful, community-based substance abuse treatment and education programs, in conjunction with mental health treatment as necessary, provide effective tools in the effort to reduce drug usage and criminal behavior in communities. Therapeutic intervention and ongoing individualized treatment plans prepared through the use of meaningful and proven assessment tools and evaluations offer a potential alternative to incarceration in appropriate circumstances and should be utilized accordingly.

(c) Savings recognized from reductions in incarceration rates should be dedicated toward funding community-based treatment options and other mechanisms that are accessible to all of the state's counties for the implementation and continuation of such programs.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Felony Sentencing in Colorado", see 18 Colo. Law. 1689 (1989).

Equal protection is not violated when a defendant is charged for the same conduct under both this section and § 18-18-405(1)(a) because unlawful use and unlawful possession are distinct offenses that each require proof of at least one fact that the other does not. People v. District Ct. of 11th Jud. Dist., 964 P.2d 498 (Colo. 1998).

This section and § 18-18-405 do not contain identical elements for purposes of an equal protection analysis. The general assembly's choice to classify possession as a graver offense than use is reasonably related to the general purposes of the criminal legislation. Campbell v. People, 73 P.3d 11 (Colo. 2003).

As written, this section is clear and unambiguous in exempting § 18-18-406.5 from its provisions, including the treatment option. People v. Goodale, 78 P.3d 1103 (Colo. 2003).

By intentionally omitting marihuana from the treatment option available under this section, the general assembly explicitly chose to offer the treatment option only to those addicted to other substances. Such a classification has a rational basis based upon real in fact differences between the substances and is not completely arbitrary or irrational. People v. Goodale, 78 P.3d 1103 (Colo. 2003).

Under § 18-18-404 (3), defendant's guilty plea is tantamount to a conviction in that it establishes guilt. People v. Roberts, 865 P.2d 938 (Colo. App. 1993).

Trial court exceeded its jurisdiction by applying sentencing alternative under subsection (3) applicable to unlawful "use" of controlled substance offenses to resentencing of probationer convicted of "possession" of a controlled substance under § 18-18-405. People v. Hutchings, 881 P.2d 466 (Colo. App. 1994).

Court order to surrender a driver's license and pay certain victim's fees and a drug surcharge fee was not erroneous where the defendant pled guilty to the charge and where the statute authorizes the court to impose "reasonable conditions." People v. Roberts, 865 P.2d 938 (Colo. App. 1993).

While an individual may unlawfully possess a controlled substance without voluntarily using it, it is simply not feasible for an individual to voluntarily use a controlled substance without also possessing it. People v. Villapando, 984 P.2d 51 (Colo. 1999).

18-18-405. Unlawful distribution, manufacturing, dispensing, or sale. (1) (a) Except as authorized by part 1 of article 42.5 of title 12, C.R.S., part 2 of article 80 of title 27, C.R.S., or part 2 or 3 of this article, it is unlawful for any person knowingly to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute, or to possess with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute, a controlled substance; or induce, attempt to induce, or conspire with one or more other persons, to manufacture, dispense, sell, distribute, or possess with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute, a controlled substance; or possess one or more chemicals or supplies or equipment with intent to manufacture a controlled substance.

(b) As used in this subsection (1), "dispense" does not include labeling, as defined in section 12-42.5-102 (18), C.R.S.

(2) (a) Except as is otherwise provided for offenses concerning marijuana and marijuana concentrate in section 18-18-406 and for offenses involving minors in section 18-18-407 (1) (g), any person who violates any of the provisions of subsection (1) of this section:

(I) In the case of a controlled substance listed in schedule I or II of part 2 of this article, commits:

(A) A class 3 felony; or

(B) A class 2 felony, if the violation is committed subsequent to a prior conviction in this or any other state, the United States, or any territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States of a violation to which this subparagraph (I) applies or would apply if convicted in this state;

(II) In the case of a controlled substance listed in schedule III of part 2 of this article, commits:

(A) A class 4 felony; or

(B) A class 3 felony, if the violation is committed subsequent to any prior conviction in this or any other state, the United States, or any territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States of a violation to which subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) or this subparagraph (II) applies or would apply if convicted in this state;

(III) In the case of a controlled substance listed in schedule IV of part 2 of this article, commits:

(A) A class 5 felony; or

(B) A class 4 felony, if the violation is committed subsequent to a prior conviction in this or any other state, the United States, or any territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States of a violation to which subparagraph (I) or (II) of this paragraph (a) or this subparagraph (III) applies or would apply if convicted in this state;

(IV) In the case of a controlled substance listed in schedule V of part 2 of this article, commits:

(A) A class 1 misdemeanor; or

(B) A class 5 felony, if the violation is committed subsequent to any prior conviction in this or any other state, the United States, or any territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States of a violation to which subparagraph (I), (II), or (III) of this paragraph (a) or this subparagraph (IV) applies or would apply if convicted in this state.

(b) Repealed.

(2.5) (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section, a person who violates the provisions of subsection (1) of this section with regard to flunitrazepam or ketamine commits a class 3 felony; except that the person commits a class 2 felony if the violation is committed subsequent to a prior conviction in this or any other state, the United States, or any territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States of a violation involving flunitrazepam or ketamine or to which subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section applies or would apply if convicted in this state.

(c) Repealed.

(2.6) Repealed.

(3) (a) Unless a greater sentence is required pursuant to the provisions of another statute, any person convicted pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section for knowingly manufacturing, dispensing, selling, distributing, or possessing with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute, or inducing, attempting to induce, or conspiring with one or more other persons, to manufacture, dispense, sell, distribute, or possess with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute an amount that is or has been represented to be:

(I) At least twenty-five grams or one ounce but less than four hundred fifty grams of any material, compound, mixture, or preparation that contains a schedule I or schedule II controlled substance as listed in section 18-18-203 or 18-18-204 shall be sentenced to the department of corrections for at least the minimum term of incarceration in the presumptive range provided for such offense in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) with regard to offenses other than manufacturing, dispensing, selling, distributing, or possessing with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute, and for at least the minimum term of incarceration in the presumptive range provided for such offense in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) as modified pursuant to section 18-1.3-401 (10) with regard to manufacturing, dispensing, selling, distributing, or possessing with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute;

(II) At least four hundred fifty grams or one pound but less than one thousand grams of any material, compound, mixture, or preparation that contains a schedule I or schedule II controlled substance as listed in section 18-18-203 or 18-18-204 shall be sentenced to the department of corrections for a term of at least the midpoint of the presumptive range but not more than twice the maximum presumptive range provided for such offense in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) with regard to offenses other than manufacturing, dispensing, selling, distributing, or possessing with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute, and for a term of at least the midpoint of the presumptive range but not more than twice the maximum presumptive range provided for such offense in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) as modified pursuant to section 18-1.3-401 (10) with regard to manufacturing, dispensing, selling, distributing, or possessing with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute;

(III) One thousand grams or one kilogram or more of any material, compound, mixture, or preparation that contains a schedule I or schedule II controlled substance as listed in section 18-18-203 or 18-18-204 shall be sentenced to the department of corrections for a term greater than the maximum presumptive range but not more than twice the maximum presumptive range provided for such offense in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) with regard to offenses other than manufacturing, dispensing, selling, distributing, or possessing with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute, and for a term greater than the maximum presumptive range but not more than twice the maximum presumptive range provided for such offense in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) as modified pursuant to section 18-1.3-401 (10) with regard to manufacturing, dispensing, selling, distributing, or possessing with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute.

(b) In addition to any other penalty imposed under this subsection (3), upon conviction, a person who violates this subsection (3) shall be fined not less than one thousand dollars but not more than five hundred thousand dollars. For offenses committed on or after July 1, 1985, the fine shall be in an amount within the presumptive range set out in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) (III).

(3.5) The felony offense of unlawfully manufacturing, dispensing, selling, distributing, or possessing with intent to unlawfully manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute a controlled substance is an extraordinary risk crime that is subject to the modified presumptive sentencing range specified in section 18-1.3-401 (10).

(4) Repealed.

(5) When a person commits unlawful distribution, manufacture, dispensing, sale, or possession with intent to manufacture, dispense, sell, or distribute any schedule I or schedule II controlled substance, as listed in section 18-18-203 or 18-18-204, flunitrazepam, or ketamine, pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, twice or more within a period of six months, without having been placed in jeopardy for the prior offense or offenses, and the aggregate amount of the schedule I or schedule II controlled substance, flunitrazepam, or ketamine involved equals or exceeds twenty-five grams, the defendant shall be sentenced pursuant to the mandatory sentencing requirements specified in subsection (3) of this section.

(6) Repealed.

(7) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (2) of this section, and except as otherwise provided in sub-subparagraph (B) of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) or paragraph (a) of subsection (2.5) of this section, a person who violates subsection (1) of this section by selling, dispensing, or distributing a controlled substance other than marijuana or marijuana concentrate to a minor under eighteen years of age and who is at least eighteen years of age and at least two years older than the minor commits a class 3 felony and, unless a greater sentence is provided under any other statute, shall be sentenced to the department of corrections for a term of at least the minimum, but not more than twice the maximum, of the presumptive range provided for such offense in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) as modified pursuant to section 18-1.3-401 (10).

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-18-405 is similar to § 18-18-105 as it existed prior to the repeal and reenactment of this article in 1992, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Provision of this section classifying conspiracy to distribute a schedule II controlled substance as a class three felony does not violate equal protection even though distribution of a schedule II controlled substance is itself a class three felony and § 18-2-206 generally classifies any conspiracy to commit a class three felony as a class four felony. The general assembly could reasonably determine that conspiracies to distribute drugs have greater social impact and consequences than other conspiracies and should carry harsher penalties. People v. Thurman, 948 P.2d 69 (Colo. App. 1997).

Defendant's felony conviction under this statute did not violate equal protection when compared with § 12-22-314, which punishes cocaine possession as a misdemeanor, in that practitioners are engaged in an occupation which regularly requires administration, dispensation, and possession of controlled substance. People v. Unruh, 713 P.2d 370 (Colo.), cert. denied, 479 U.S. 1171, 106 S. Ct. 2894, 90 L. Ed.2d 981 (Colo. 1986).

Equal protection is not violated when a defendant is charged for the same conduct under both this section and § 18-18-404(1)(a) because unlawful use and unlawful possession are distinct offenses that each require proof of at least one fact that the other does not. People v. District Ct. of 11th Jud. Dist., 964 P.2d 498 (Colo. 1998).

Prohibiting possession of controlled substances under this section does not violate equal protection when compared with § 18-18-104, which punishes use of the same controlled substances less harshly, because punishing possession more harshly than use is justified to control distribution of controlled substances. People v. Cagle, 751 P.2d 614 (Colo. 1988), appeal dismissed for want of a substantial federal question, 486 U.S. 1028, 108 S. Ct. 2009, 100 L. Ed 2d 597 (1988); People v. Warren, 55 P.3d 809 (Colo. App. 2002); People v. Campbell, 58 P.3d 1080 (Colo. App. 2002), aff'd on other grounds, 73 P.3d 11 (Colo. 2003).

This section and § 18-18-404 do not contain identical elements for purposes of an equal protection analysis. The general assembly's choice to classify possession as a graver offense than use is reasonably related to the general purposes of the criminal legislation. Campbell v. People, 73 P.3d 11 (Colo. 2003).

Conduct proscribed under this statute different than conduct proscribed by more general criminal attempt and conspiracy statutes; therefore, this statute's harsher penalty does not violate equal protection. People v. Roy, 723 P.2d 1345 (Colo. 1986).

Defendant's due process rights not violated when the amount of cocaine was included in the information and jury instructions. The instructions correctly charged the jury to determine the substantive offense: Possession with intent to sell the controlled substance. People v. Martinez, 36 P.3d 201 (Colo. App. 2001) (decided under law in effect prior to 1997 amendment).

There is no double jeopardy violation when a conviction for possession of a controlled substance and a conviction for distribution of a controlled substance were each based on a different quantum of drugs. People v. Davis, 2012 COA 1, __ P.3d __.

The general assembly has chosen to make drug possession a crime requiring only a general intent: if one knowingly possesses the substance, he has violated the statute. People v. Barry, 888 P.2d 327 (Colo. App. 1994).

“Knowing” element. This section requires only that a person know that he or she possesses a controlled substance, and not that he or she know the precise controlled substance possessed. People v. Perea, 126 P.3d 241 (Colo. App. 2005).

“Knowingly” requirement does not apply to the amount of controlled substance. “Knowingly” appears only in subsection (1)(a) and applies only to the elements of the crime. The amount of controlled substance in subsection (2) operates as a sentence enhancer and does not contain a mens rea. People v. Scheffer, 224 P.3d 279 (Colo. App. 2009).

To sustain a conviction for possession of a controlled substance, the prosecution must show that defendant had knowledge that he or she was in possession of a narcotic drug and that he or she knowingly intended to possess the drug. This element may be established circumstantially: If the defendant has exclusive possession of the premises in which drugs are found, the jury may infer knowledge from the fact of possession. Similarly, knowledge can be inferred from the fact that defendant was the driver and sole occupant of a vehicle, irrespective of whether he or she was also the vehicle’s owner. People v. Baca, 109 P.3d 1005 (Colo. App. 2004).

A conviction for unlawful possession of a controlled substance may be predicated on circumstantial evidence. The controlled substance need not be found on the person of the defendant as long as it is found in a place under his or her dominion and control. Whenever a person is not in exclusive possession of the premises where the drugs are found, such an inference may not be drawn unless there are statements or circumstances tending to buttress the inference of possession. People v. Atencio, 140 P.3d 73 (Colo. App. 2005).

In this case, there are four pieces of circumstantial evidence that buttress the inference: (1) The defendant fled from officers; (2) the baggies were found in the place where defendant’s flight was interrupted; (3) the baggies were warmer than the night air; and (4) the baggies had not been in the location of the yard prior to apprehension of the defendant. People v. Atencio, 140 P.3d 73 (Colo. App. 2005).

“Knowingly” element of this section is applied in People v. Romero, 689 P.2d 692 (Colo. App. 1984).

In light of all the indications suggesting a legislative intent to create a single, unitary offense, as well as the absence of evidence to the contrary, the acts enumerated in subsection (1)(a) all represent stages in the commission of one crime. People v. Abiodun, 111 P.3d 462 (Colo. 2005).

The statutory language of the Uniform Controlled Substance Act of 1992 does not convey an intention by the Colorado general assembly to limit its application solely to designer drugs. Thus, the argument that pseudophedrine is not a designer drug and therefore outside the jurisdiction of this act is invalid. People v. Frantz, 114 P.3d 34 (Colo. App. 2004).

Legislature did not intend to limit representations regarding the amount to those made during the transaction. The statute is intended to target offenders whose level of involvement is that of an “ounce dealer”, and all representations made by a defendant regarding the amount are indicative of an offender’s level of involvement in a transaction. People v. Abiodun, 87 P.3d 164 (Colo. App. 2003), aff’d on other grounds, 111 P.3d 462 (Colo. 2005).

Quantity not an element. Subsection (3)(a) does not create an additional element of quantity for the underlying substantive offense; rather, it defines circumstances that, if proven beyond a reasonable doubt, may require a sentence greater than the presumptive minimum contained in § 18-1.3-401 (1)(a). Whitaker v. People, 48 P.3d 555 (Colo. 2002); People v. Hinojos-Mendoza, 140 P.3d 30 (Colo. App. 2005), aff’d in part and rev’d in part on other grounds, 169 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2007).

Nevertheless, quantity still must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt. People v. Hinojos-Mendoza, 140 P.3d 30 (Colo. App. 2005), aff’d in part and rev’d in part on other grounds, 169 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2007).

The provision in subsection (2.3)(a) applies to possession of one gram or less of a compound, mixture, or preparation that contains any quantity of a controlled substance not to the weight of the controlled substance itself. People v. Reeves, 252 P.3d 1137 (Colo. App. 2010).

Where the quantity of a drug is so minute that it amounts to only a trace, there is no basis, from that fact alone, for any logical or reasonable inference that the defendant had knowledgeable possession. People v. Theel, 505 P.2d 964 (Colo. 1973).

When the amount of contraband is less than a usable quantity, other evidence may be necessary to establish knowing possession. People v. Theel, 505 P.2d 964 (Colo. 1973); People v. Ceja, 904 P.2d 1308 (Colo. 1995); Richardson v. People, 25 P.3d 54 (Colo. 2001).

The absence of a usable quantity does not constitute evidence that the defendant did not know that he possessed the drug. Rather, evidence of a usable quantity alone is sufficient evidence of knowledge to permit the case to go to a jury. Where there is not evidence of a usable quantity, the People must present other evidence regarding the defendant's knowledge to justify the jury's consideration of the element. Richardson v. People, 25 P.3d 54 (Colo. 2001).

Evidence sufficient to uphold conviction. The jury could infer that defendant was at the scene to sell drugs based on the evidence that an informant had arranged a drug deal for $300, defendant was one of two people at the location of the drug deal, and there was $300 worth of drugs under defendant's car seat. People v. Robinson, 226 P.3d 1145 (Colo. App. 2009).

Whether defendant had been previously convicted of possession of a controlled substance was not required to be proven beyond a reasonable doubt since previous conviction related to sentence enhancement statutory provision, properly deemed so by the trial court. People v. Whitley, 998 P.2d 31 (Colo. App. 1999).

When sentence enhancement provision increases punishment based on a defendant's criminal history but requires no statutory burden of proof or hearing procedure applicable to determination of the prior criminal conduct, due process is satisfied as long as the defendant receives reasonable notice of the potential for an increased sentence and the prosecution meets its burden of proving the prior criminal conduct by a preponderance of the evidence. People v. Whitley, 998 P.2d 31 (Colo. App. 1999).

A positive field test result is not a prerequisite for a warrantless arrest of a defendant for a drug-related offense if sufficient other factors are present to support probable cause for such an arrest. People v. Rayford, 725 P.2d 1142 (Colo. 1986).

Presence at defendant's laboratory of phenylacetonitrile, which can be combined with other substances to produce a schedule II controlled substance, was insufficient to support conviction of attempted manufacture and possession of schedule II controlled substance against defendant. People v. Noland, 739 P.2d 906 (Colo. App. 1987).

Taking delivery of a controlled substance by purchase is inevitably incident to the criminal conduct of one who delivers it; therefore, the person who purchases the controlled substance is exempt from liability as a complicitor for the crime of distribution committed by the person delivering the controlled substance. People v. Hart, 787 P.2d 186 (Colo. App. 1989).

Adoption of the rule that "transitory" handling of a drug may not constitute "possession" would provide no defense to defendant since jurisdictions with such rule have held that the rule is inapplicable in a case in which the defendant had flushed an alleged narcotic down the toilet when police raided the residence. People v. Barry, 888 P.2d 327 (Colo. App. 1994).

The prescription exception referenced in subsection (1)(a) of this section and appearing in § 18-18-302 (3)(c) is an affirmative defense, notwithstanding the fact that the general assembly did not label it as such. Thus, the trial court erred by refusing to instruct the jury that it was the prosecution's burden to disprove, beyond a reasonable doubt, evidence that defendant attempted to gain possession of the controlled substance pursuant to a lawful order of a practitioner. People v. Whaley, 159 P.3d 757 (Colo. App. 2006).

While subsection (1)(a) uses both the words "sale" and "distribute" to define methods by which the statute may be violated, those words no longer have distinct legal meaning or effect as they had prior to the enactment of the Colorado Controlled Substances Act. Both are words used to describe an exchange involving the unauthorized delivery of a controlled substance. People v. Farris, 812 P.2d 654 (Colo. 1991).

Where the information charged the defendant with "sale and distribution" of a controlled substance, and although the verdict found that he "sold or distributed" such a substance, thereby charging and sustaining only one offense, the trial court properly instructed the jury as to the elements of the crime of sale or distribution of cocaine and as to the pertinent definition of distribution, its refusal to instruct on the "procuring agent" defense was not error. People v. Farris, 812 P.2d 654 (Colo. 1991).

With the exception of simple possession, the general assembly intended the drug-related crimes proscribed in subsection (1), including possession with intent to distribute, to be punished as class 3 felonies. People v. Pierre, 30 P.3d 816 (Colo. App. 2001).

Crime of simple possession is lesser included offense of the crime of possession with the intent to distribute. People v. Gilmore, 97 P.3d 123 (Colo. App. 2003).

While an individual may unlawfully possess a controlled substance without voluntarily using it, it is simply not feasible for an individual to voluntarily use a controlled substance without also possessing it. People v. Villapando, 984 P.2d 51 (Colo. 1999).

A type of possession is a lesser-included offense of the crime of manufacture. It is evident that one who manufactures a controlled substance also possesses the substance in the course of manufacturing it; possession requires immediate and knowing control over the substance. Patton v. People, 35 P.3d 124 (Colo. 2001).

Possession is incidental and necessary to distribution, and convictions for possession must merge with the convictions for distribution. People v. Abiodun, 87 P.3d 164 (Colo. App. 2003), aff'd on other grounds, 111 P.3d 462 (Colo. 2005).

Manufacturing a controlled substance is a lesser included offense of child abuse based on manufacturing a controlled substance. People v. Laurent, 194 P.3d 1053 (Colo. App. 2008) (decided under law in effect prior to 2006 amendment to § 18-6-401 (1)(c)).

No conflict between this section and § 18-1.3-401. In this section, the general assembly defined the elements of the crime of possession with intent to distribute and incorporated the presumptive range found in § 18-1.3-401 (1)(a). This section does not preclude the finding that an offense is an extraordinary risk crime and does not preclude the application of § 18-1.3-401 (10) to increase the presumptive range found in subsection (1)(a). People v. Hinojos-Mendoza, 140 P.3d 30 (Colo. App. 2005), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 169 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2007).

Conspiracy to distribute a controlled substance is not an extraordinary risk crime. A plain reading of the statute does not include inchoate crimes. People v. Valenzuela, 216 P.3d 588 (Colo. 2009).

Subsection (3)(a) requires that, when a defendant is convicted pursuant to subsection (3)(a) and another drug offense with a different sentencing regimen, the court shall apply the regimen producing the greater sentence. In this case, defendant was convicted as a special offender under this section and convicted of possession with intent to distribute under § 18-18-407. Under the regimen in § 18-18-407, the sentencing range was eight to 48 years, under the regimen for this section, the court was required to impose a sentence of at least 16 years and one day, so the court correctly sentenced the defendant pursuant to the regimen of this section. People v. Montalvo-Lopez, 215 P.3d 1139 (Colo. App. 2008).

For the sentence enhancer in subsection (3), a finding of the defendant's knowledge of the precise amount possessed is not required whether the person is a principal or a complicitor. Once a determination of guilt has been made, then if the amount is 28 grams or more, the court is required to sentence the defendant to a minimum presumptive sentence. People v. Ramirez, 997 P.2d 1200 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd, 43 P.3d 611 (Colo. 2001).

Under subsection (3), defendant is not entitled to credit against sentence for time served in a supervised, nonresidential community corrections program rather than in incarceration in the department of corrections. People v. Winters, 789 P.2d 1120 (Colo. App. 1990).

Trial court exceeded its jurisdiction in applying sentencing alternative available under § 18-18-404 (3) to probationer who was convicted under this section. People v. Hutchings, 881 P.2d 466 (Colo. App. 1994).

A reviewing court's decision whether to address a challenge to multiple punishments by first comparing the acts for which punishment was separately imposed, or by first assessing whether the acts constitute separate offenses, is largely a matter of preference, based on the circumstances of each case and the extent to which one or the other analysis is likely to completely resolve the question. People v. Abiodun, 111 P.3d 462 (Colo. 2005).

As long as each legally distinct offense has been charged with sufficient specificity to distinguish it from other offenses and evidence at trial is sufficient to support convictions of each charge, general verdicts of guilt will be adequate to support multiple convictions. People v. Abiodun, 111 P.3d 462 (Colo. 2005).

Convictions for possession of a controlled substance and possession of manufacturing chemicals or supplies were based on factually distinct conduct and do not violate double jeopardy. People v. Crespi, 155 P.3d 570 (Colo. App. 2006).

This section as it existed prior to its amendment in 1987 mandated sentencing defendants convicted of cocaine offenses involving more than 28 grams to the department of corrections and did not permit sentencing of such defendants to community corrections. People v. Winters, 765 P.2d 1010 (Colo. 1988).

To obtain a conviction for possession of cocaine, subsection (1)(a) does not require the prosecution to prove that the defendant knowingly possessed a usable quantity of cocaine. Rather, the prosecution must prove that the defendant knowingly possessed some quantity of a controlled substance. People v. Ceja, 904 P.2d 1308 (Colo. 1995) (decided under former § 18-18-105 (1)(a) as it existed prior to the 1992 repeal and reenactment of the "Uniform Controlled Substances Act of 1992", article 18 of title 18); People v. Richardson, 8 P.3d 562 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd, 25 P.3d 54 (Colo. 2001).

Subsection (3)(a) was not intended to create a separate offense for possessing more than 25 grams of a schedule I or schedule II controlled substance, but instead was merely intended to be a mandatory sentencing provision. Therefore, defendant's conviction and sentence for possession of 28 grams or more of cocaine must be vacated. People v. Salcedo, 985 P.2d 7 (Colo. App. 1998), rev'd on other grounds, 999 P.2d 833 (Colo. 2000); People v. Tafoya, 985 P.2d 26 (Colo. App. 1999).

The language in the introductory paragraph of subsection (3)(a) stating "[e]xcept as otherwise provided in § 18-18-407 relating to special offenders" gives the court discretion in special offender cases to impose a minimum sentence less than the minimum sentence otherwise required by subsection (3)(a). People v. Coleman, 55 P.3d 817 (Colo. App. 2002).

The definition of "cocaine" in § 18-18-102 (4), by its plain language, includes a mixture that includes any amount of cocaine. Therefore, the amount of cocaine involved in a transaction is determined by the total amount of the mixture containing the cocaine, not just the amount of cocaine in the mixture. People v. Esquivel-Alaniz, 985 P.2d 22 (Colo. App. 1999).

Possession of 28 grams or more of cocaine is not a separate offense, but rather triggers a mandatory sentencing provision. People v. Ramirez, 1 P.3d 233 (Colo. App. 1999) (decided under law in effect prior to 1997 amendment).

Possession of more than 25 grams of cocaine is an element that increases the length of sentence, not a separate offense. However, where defendant's sentence reflected the appropriate application of this section to the sentence imposed for his conviction of other charges under this section, his sentence did not need to be changed. Only the mittimus need be changed to reflect two convictions rather than three. People v. Esquivel-Alaniz, 985 P.2d 22 (Colo. App. 1999).

The general assembly intended to punish as a class 3 felony possession with intent to distribute a schedule II controlled substance when the amount possessed does not trigger the enhanced sentencing provisions of subsection

(3). People v. Perry, 68 P.3d 472 (Colo. App. 2002).

Defendant's conviction and sentence for possession with intent to sell greater than 28 grams of a controlled substance must be vacated when defendant's conviction had already been enhanced by § 18-18-407; and may not be applied as a sentence enhancer to either defendant's possession conviction or his conspiracy conviction because the charge of which defendant had notice in the charging document only allowed for the 28 grams or more of a controlled substance to be applied to the possession with intent to sell conviction. People v. Pineda-Eriza, 49 P.3d 329 (Colo. App. 2001).

Sufficient evidence to support crime of possession with intent to distribute. People v. Gilmore, 97 P.3d 123 (Colo. App. 2003).

Repeat offender penalty enhancer does not have to be considered by the jury. The fact of a prior conviction does not have to be proved a jury. People v. Gilmore, 97 P.3d 123 (Colo. App. 2003).

Court required to apply both § 18-1.3-801 and this section. A second violation of this section for unlawful distribution and sale of a schedule II controlled substance increases the offense to a class 2 felony. If defendant has been convicted of three previous felonies, § 18-1.3-801 (2) requires court to sentence defendant to four times the maximum of the presumptive range for a class 2 felony. People v. Cordova, 199 P.3d 1 (Colo. App. 2007).

Applied in People v. Donald, 637 P.2d 392 (Colo. 1981); People v. Nunez, 658 P.2d 879 (Colo. 1983); People v. Clements, 661 P.2d 267 (Colo. 1983); Holmes v. District Court, 668 P.2d 11 (Colo. 1983); People v. Sprow, 718 P.2d 524 (Colo. 1986); People v. Holmberg, 992 P.2d 705 (Colo. App. 1999).

(b) The sale, transfer, or dispensing of five or more pounds of marijuana or one pound or more of marijuana concentrate to a person under eighteen years of age but at least fifteen years of age is a class 3 felony.

(c) A class 4 felony if the offense involves thirty or more plants.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-18-406 is similar to § 18-18-106 as it existed prior to the repeal and reenactment of this article in 1992, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Double jeopardy. The elements of the offense of possession of eight or more ounces of marihuana and the offense of cultivation of marihuana are not identical; therefore, conviction of both offenses does not violate constitutional protections against double jeopardy. People v. Benson, 124 P.3d 851 (Colo. App. 2005).

Possession of hashish constitutionally treated differently. Because hashish is readily distinguishable from and potentially more intoxicating than marijuana, the general assembly may constitutionally treat possession of those substances differently, subsection (1) and (4)(b)(I), even though hashish falls into the statutory definition of marijuana in § 12-22-303(17). People v. Velasquez, 666 P.2d 567 (Colo. 1983), appeal dismissed for want of substantial federal question, 465 U.S. 1001, 104 S. Ct. 989, 79 L. Ed.2d 223 (1984).

As is possession of hash oil. Since the active ingredient in hash oil is THC and occurs in greater concentrations in hash oil than in hashish, statute providing for more severe punishment for possession of hashish and hash oil is based upon reasonable classification and does not deny equal protection. People v. Siwierka, 683 P.2d 356 (Colo. 1984).

Penalty scheme does not violate equal protection even though lesser penalties for criminal conspiracy are established under § 18-2-206. People v. Finnessey, 747 P.2d 673 (Colo. 1987).

The phrase "intent to distribute" is not unconstitutionally vague. The phrase is a term that a person of ordinary intelligence can understand. The quantity required to permit the fact finder to infer that the possessor intended to distribute a controlled substance is evidentiary in nature and necessarily depends upon all the facts and circumstances of the case. People v. Clendenin, 232 P.3d 210 (Colo. App. 2009) (decided prior to 2010 amendment).

The distinction between marihuana and marihuana concentrate as set forth in §§ 12-22-303(17) and 12-22-303(18) complies with both the equal protection and due process requirements of the Colorado and United States constitutions. People v. Rickstrew, 712 P.2d 1008 (Colo. 1986).

Subsection (5) does not state an element of felony distribution and the language used demonstrates a deliberate choice by the general assembly to differentiate the crime of possession from the crime of dispensing or sale under subsection (8)(b)(I) and the circumstances giving rise to the crime of possession. People v. Torres, 812 P.2d 672 (Colo. App. 1990) (decided prior to 2010 amendment).

The absence of the phrase "[a]ny provision of this article to the contrary notwithstanding" in subsection (7)(b) does not indicate that any statutory provisions of article 18 of title 18 that are "to the contrary" of that subsection are not overridden by it, nor does the absence of this phrase require a court to instruct a jury in accordance with subsection (5). People v. Graybeal, 155 P.3d 614 (Colo. App. 2007).

The 1982 addition of subsection (8)(b)(I) makes clear that subsections (8)(b)(I) and (5) are independent of one another, define distinctly different crimes, and effectuate different legislative goals. People v. Torres, 812 P.2d 672 (Colo. App. 1990).

Multiple drug convictions sustainable if factually distinct. Both of the defendant's marihuana convictions are sustainable because the facts suggest one package of marihuana was intended for personal use and the other package was intended for distribution. People v. Valencia, 169 P.3d 212 (Colo. App. 2007).

There was no basis for a jury to have acquitted defendant on felony distribution charge under subsection (8)(b)(I) and at the same time find him guilty of possession under subsection (5) because the transactions involved consideration and the fact that defendant's motive was a desire to develop a friendship and sexual relationship with the detective rather than profit did not change the character of the transaction. People v. Torres, 812 P.2d 672 (Colo. App. 1990).

Possession of eight ounces of marijuana or more is a lesser included offense of possession with the intent to distribute marijuana. Each element of the possession offense is included in the offense of possession with intent to distribute except the quantity; however, the quantity is a sentence enhancer, not an essential element of the offense. People v. Garcia, 251 P.3d 1152 (Colo. App. 2010).

Possession of marijuana is not a lesser included offense of transferring marijuana under subsection (7)(b) or contributing to the delinquency of a minor under § 18-6-701. People v. Graybeal, 155 P.3d 614 (Colo. App. 2007).

Possession not lesser included offense to crime of introducing contraband. Because proof of possession is not an essential element to the crime of introducing contraband (§ 18-8-203), the crime of possession of cannabis cannot be a lesser included offense thereof. People v. Etchells, 646 P.2d 950 (Colo. App. 1982).

Probable cause to believe defendant committed the crime of possession of contraband under § 18-8-204.1 where defendant tested positive for marijuana and was in the custody of the department of corrections on the date of the offense and evidence of use assumes possession. People v. Smith, 984 P.2d 50 (Colo. 1999).

A person may not be subject to a custodial arrest for violating this section. The plain meaning of this section is that a peace officer may issue a summons and complaint and may subject a person only to a non-custodial arrest, under which circumstances a peace officer may conduct only a pat-down search for weapons and search for instrumentalities or evidence of the specific crime for which the officer had probable cause to make an arrest. People v. Bland, 884 P.2d 312 (Colo. 1994).

"Arrest and detention", as used in subsection (2), are synonymous terms; both refer to "noncustodial" arrests. People v. Bland, 884 P.2d 312 (Colo. 1994).

Even though a person may not be subject to a custodial arrest for possessing one ounce or less of marihuana in violation of this section, the non-custodial arrest of such a person may permit not only a search for weapons, but also an extensive search for the instrumentalities of the crime. People v. Bland, 884 P.2d 312 (Colo. 1994).

Lawful possession of marihuana under subsection (10) is an affirmative defense to charges of unlawful possession with intent to distribute marihuana and unlawful possession of eight or more ounces of marihuana. The provision provides a legal justification to what would otherwise be criminally culpable behavior. People v. Reed, 932 P.2d 842 (Colo. App. 1996).

Question of the validity of § 42-2-124 was ripe for determination where court stayed its surrender of defendant's license pending appeal after convicting defendant of drug use under this section. People v. Smith, 944 P.2d 639 (Colo. App. 1997).

Subsection (10) does not preclude a finding of probable cause to conduct a search based upon the smell of burning marihuana. People v. Mendez, 948 P.2d 105 (Colo. App. 1997), aff'd on other grounds, 986 P.2d 275 (Colo. 1999).

Applied in People v. Root, 650 P.2d 562 (Colo. 1982); Corr v. District Court, 661 P.2d 668 (Colo. 1983); People v. Hazelhurst, 662 P.2d 1081 (Colo. 1983).

(c) Cultivate salvia divinorum with intent to dispense, sell, or distribute any amount of the salvia divinorum.

(2) A person who violates any provision of subsection (1) of this section commits a class 5 felony.

(a) Dispenses, sells, or distributes the synthetic cannabinoid or salvia divinorum to a minor who is less than eighteen years of age; and

(b) Is at least eighteen years of age and at least two years older than said minor.

18-18-406.3. Medical use of marijuana by persons diagnosed with debilitating medical conditions - unlawful acts - penalty - medical marijuana program cash fund.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution was approved by the registered electors of this state at the 2000 general election;

(b) Section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution creates limited exceptions to the criminal laws of this state for patients, primary care givers, and physicians concerning the medical use of marijuana by a patient to alleviate an appropriately diagnosed debilitating medical condition;

(c) Section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution requires a state health agency designated by the governor to establish and maintain a confidential registry of patients authorized to engage in the medical use of marijuana;

(d) The governor, in accordance with paragraph (h) of subsection (1) of section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution, has designated the department of public health and environment, referred to in this section as the department, to be the state health agency responsible for the administration of the medical marijuana program;

(e) Section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution requires the department to process the applications of patients who wish to qualify for and be placed on the confidential registry for the medical use of marijuana, and to issue registry identification cards to patients who qualify for placement on the registry;

(f) Section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution sets forth the lawful limits on the medical use of marijuana;

(g) Section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution requires the general assembly to determine and enact criminal penalties for specific acts described in the constitutional provision;

(h) In interpreting the provisions of section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution, the general assembly has applied the definitions contained in subsection (1) of the constitutional provision and has attempted to give the remaining words of the constitutional provision their plain meaning;

(i) This section reflects the considered judgment of the general assembly regarding the meaning and implementation of the provisions of section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution.

(2) (a) Any person who fraudulently represents a medical condition to a physician, the department, or a state or local law enforcement official for the purpose of falsely obtaining a marijuana registry identification card from the department, or for the purpose of avoiding arrest and prosecution for a marijuana-related offense, commits a class 1 misdemeanor.

(b) If an officer or employee of the department receives information that causes such officer or employee reasonably to believe that fraudulent representation, as described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), has occurred, such officer or employee shall report the information to either the district attorney of the county in which the applicant for the marijuana registry identification card resides, or to the attorney general.

(3) The fraudulent use or theft of any person's marijuana registry identification card, including, but not limited to, any card that is required to be returned to the department pursuant to section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution, is a class 1 misdemeanor.

(5) Any person including, but not limited to, any officer, employee, or agent of the department, or any officer, employee, or agent of any state or local law enforcement agency, who releases or makes public any confidential record or any confidential information contained in any such record that is provided to or by the marijuana registry of the department without the written authorization of the marijuana registry patient commits a class 1 misdemeanor.

(6) The use, possession, manufacturing, dispensing, selling, or distribution of a synthetic cannabinoid, as defined in section 18-18-102 (34.5), shall not be considered an exception to the criminal laws of this state for the purposes of this section or of section 14 of article XVIII of the state constitution.

The records or information produced for review by the state or local licensing authority shall not become public records by virtue of the disclosure and may be used only for a purpose authorized by article 43.3 of title 12, C.R.S., or for another state or local law enforcement purpose. The records or information shall constitute medical data as defined by section 24-72-204 (3) (I), C.R.S. The state or local medical marijuana licensing authority may disclose any records or information so obtained only to those persons directly involved with any investigation or proceeding authorized by article 43.3 of title 12, C.R.S., or for any state or local law enforcement purpose.

ANNOTATION

Primary care-giver must do more than merely supply a patient with marijuana for medical use in order to meet the constitutional requirement of having a significant responsibility for managing the well-being of a patient who has a debilitating medical condition. People v. Clendenin, 232 P.3d 210 (Colo. App. 2009).

Primary care-giver affirmative defense does not apply where the provision of marijuana is itself the substance of the relationship. People v. Clendenin, 232 P.3d 210 (Colo. App. 2009).

18-18-406.5. Unlawful use of marijuana in a detention facility. (1) Any person confined in any detention facility in this state who possesses or uses up to eight ounces of marijuana commits a class 6 felony; except that, if the person commits a second or subsequent violation where both the initial and subsequent violations involved more than one ounce of marijuana, the person commits a class 5 felony.

(2) Any person confined in any detention facility in this state who possesses or uses eight ounces or more of marijuana shall be subject to the provisions of section 18-18-406 (4) (b).

(3) For purposes of this section, "detention facility" means any building, structure, enclosure, vehicle, institution, or place, whether permanent or temporary, fixed or mobile, where persons are or may be lawfully held in custody or confinement under the authority of the state of Colorado or any political subdivision of the state of Colorado.

ANNOTATION

This section does not violate the equal protection clause of the Colorado or U.S. Constitution by failing to provide the treatment option available under § 18-18-404. This section presents a classification that is neither arbitrary nor irrational. People v. Goodale, 78 P.3d 1103 (Colo. 2003).

By intentionally omitting marihuana from the treatment option available under § 18-18-404, the legislature explicitly chose to offer the treatment option only to those addicted to other substances. Such a classification has a rational basis based upon real in fact differences between the substances. People v. Goodale, 78 P.3d 1103 (Colo. 2003).

This section is directly related to the legislature's purpose of punishing those who use marihuana in a detention facility. Section 18-18-404 is clear and unambiguous in exempting this section from its provisions, including the treatment option. The legislature explicitly intended that marihuana users not be given the treatment option provided for in § 18-18-404. People v. Goodale, 78 P.3d 1103 (Colo. 2003).

Defendant's argument rests on the misleading presumption that, because use of a schedule I or II controlled substance is a more serious crime than the use of marihuana in a detention facility, any opportunity given those charged with the more serious crime must also be given to those charged with the less serious crime. Such symmetry of punishment, however, is not required by the constitution where valid classifications, based on varieties of evils, exist. People v. Goodale, 78 P.3d 1103 (Colo. 2003).

18-18-406.7. Unlawful possession of cathinones. (1) It is unlawful for any person to possess any amount of any cathinones.

(2) A person who violates any provision of subsection (1) of this section commits a class 1 misdemeanor.

18-18-406.8. Unlawful distribution, manufacturing, dispensing, or sale of cathinones. (1) It is unlawful for any person to knowingly:

(a) Distribute, manufacture, dispense, or sell, or to possess with intent to distribute, manufacture, dispense, or sell, any amount of any cathinones; or

(b) Induce, attempt to induce, or conspire with one or more other persons to distribute, manufacture, dispense, or sell, or possess with intent to distribute, manufacture, dispense, or sell, any amount of any cathinones.

(2) A person who violates subsection (1) of this section commits a class 3 felony and shall be sentenced as provided in section 18-1.3-401; except that, unless a greater sentence is provided under any other statute, the person shall be sentenced to the department of corrections for a term of at least the minimum, but not more than twice the maximum, of the presumptive range provided for the offense in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) as modified pursuant to section 18-1.3-401 (10), if the person is at least eighteen years of age and:

(a) Distributed, dispensed, or sold; or possessed with intent to distribute, dispense, or sell; any amount of any cathinones to a minor under eighteen years of age who is at least two years younger than said person; or

(b) Induced, attempted to induce, or conspired with one or more other persons to distribute, dispense, or sell any amount of any cathinones to a minor under eighteen years of age who is at least two years younger than said person.

18-18-407. Special offender. (1) Upon a felony conviction under this part 4, the presence of any one or more of the following extraordinary aggravating circumstances designating the defendant a special offender shall require the court to sentence the defendant to the department of corrections for a term of at least the minimum term of years within the presumptive range for a class 2 felony but not more than twice the maximum term of years within the presumptive range for a class 2 felony:

(a) The defendant was previously convicted in courts of the United States or a state or any political subdivision thereof for two or more offenses involving the manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distribution of controlled substances, which offenses did not arise from the same criminal episode or course of events and differ from the pending felony and which were punishable by imprisonment in excess of one year;

(b) The defendant committed an offense as part of a pattern of manufacturing, sale, dispensing, or distributing controlled substances, which offense is a felony under applicable laws of Colorado, which constituted a substantial source of that person's income, and in which that person manifested special skill or expertise;

(c) The defendant committed a felony which was, or was in furtherance of, a conspiracy with one or more persons to engage in a pattern of manufacturing, sale, dispensing, or distributing a controlled substance, which offense is a felony under applicable laws of Colorado, and the defendant did, or agreed that he would, initiate, organize, plan, finance, direct, manage, or supervise all or part of such conspiracy or manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distributing, or give or receive a bribe, or use force in connection with such manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distribution;

(d) The defendant unlawfully introduced, distributed, or imported into the state of Colorado more than four grams of any schedule I or II controlled substance listed in part 2 of this article or more than two grams of methamphetamine;

(e) The defendant unlawfully sold, dispensed, distributed, possessed, or imported into the state of Colorado a quantity in excess of one hundred pounds of marijuana or marijuana concentrate;

(f) (I) The defendant used, displayed, or possessed on his or her person or within his or her immediate reach, a deadly weapon as defined in section 18-1-901 (3) (e) at the time of the commission of a violation of this part 4; or

(II) The defendant or a confederate of the defendant possessed a firearm, as defined in section 18-1-901 (3) (h), to which the defendant or confederate had access in a manner that posed a risk to others or in a vehicle the defendant was occupying during the commission of a violation of this part 4;

(g) The defendant solicited, induced, encouraged, intimidated, employed, hired, or procured a child, as defined in section 19-1-103 (18), C.R.S., to act as his agent to assist in the unlawful distribution, manufacturing, dispensing, sale, or possession for the purposes of sale of any controlled substance in violation of section 18-18-405. It shall not be a defense under this paragraph (g) that the defendant did not know the age of any such individual.

(h) (I) The defendant engaged in a continuing criminal enterprise by violating any provision of this part 4 which is a felony; and

(II) The violation is a part of a continuing series of two or more violations of this part 4 on separate occasions:

(A) Which are undertaken by that person in concert with five or more other persons with respect to whom that person occupies a position of organizer, supervisor, or any other position of management; and

(B) From which that person obtained substantial income or resources.

(2) (a) A defendant shall be a special offender if the defendant is convicted of selling, distributing, possessing with intent to distribute, manufacturing, or attempting to manufacture any controlled substance in violation of section 18-18-405 either within or upon the grounds of any public or private elementary, middle, junior high, or high school, vocational school, or public housing development, or within one thousand feet of the perimeter of any such school or public housing development grounds on any street, alley, parkway, sidewalk, public park, playground, or other area or premises that is accessible to the public, or within any private dwelling that is accessible to the public for the purpose of the sale, distribution, use, exchange, manufacture, or attempted manufacture of controlled substances in violation of this article, or in any school vehicle, as defined in section 42-1-102 (88.5), C.R.S., while such school vehicle is engaged in the transportation of persons who are students. The court is required in addition to imposing the sentence to imprisonment in the department of corrections required by subsection (1) of this section, to fine the defendant without suspension at least twice the minimum fine provided for in section 18-1.3-401 (1) (a) (III) if the defendant's offense is a felony or in section 18-1.3-501 (1) if the defendant's offense is a misdemeanor.

(b) The department of education may cooperate with local boards of education and the officials of public housing developments, and make recommendations regarding the uniform implementation and furnishing of notice of the provisions of this subsection (2). Such recommendations may include, but shall not be limited to, the uniform use of signs and other methods of notification which may be used to implement this subsection (2).

(c) For the purposes of this section, the term "public housing development" means any low-income housing project of any state, county, municipal, or other governmental entity or public body owned and operated by a public housing authority that has an on-site manager. "Public housing development" shall not include single-family dispersed housing or small or large clusters of dispersed housing having no on-site manager.

(3) (a) In support of the findings under paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, it may be shown that the defendant has had in his own name or under his control income or property not explained as derived from a source other than such manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distribution of controlled substances.

(b) For the purposes of paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section only, a "substantial source of that person's income" means a source of income which, for any period of one year or more, exceeds the minimum wage, determined on the basis of a forty-hour week and fifty-week year, or which, for the same period, exceeds fifty percent of the defendant's declared adjusted gross income under Colorado or any other state law or under federal law, whichever adjusted gross income is less.

(c) For the purposes of paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, "special skill or expertise" in such manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distribution includes any unusual knowledge, judgment, or ability, including manual dexterity, facilitating the initiation, organizing, planning, financing, directing, managing, supervising, executing, or concealing of such manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distributing, the enlistment of accomplices in such manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distribution, the escape from detection or apprehension for such manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distribution, or the disposition of the fruits or proceeds of such manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distribution.

(d) For the purposes of paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (1) of this section, such manufacture, sale, dispensing, or distribution forms a pattern if it embraces criminal acts which have the same or similar purposes, results, participants, victims, or methods of commission or otherwise are interrelated by distinguishing characteristics and are not isolated events.

(4) Nothing in this section shall preclude the court from considering aggravating circumstances other than those stated in subsection (1) of this section as a basis for sentencing the defendant to a term greater than the presumptive range for the felony.

(5) If a defendant who is subject to the provisions of this section is subject to a greater sentence pursuant to the provisions of another statute, the court shall impose sentence pursuant to that statute. The prosecution shall not be forced to elect under which statute to proceed.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Felony Sentencing in Colorado", see 18 Colo. Law. 1689 (1989).

Attorney's note. Since § 18-18-407 is similar to § 18-18-107 as it existed prior to the repeal and reenactment of this article in 1992, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Subsection (1)(d) is not unconstitutionally vague or overbroad. There is no constitutionally protected right of expression in introducing, distributing, or importing a controlled substance into Colorado. People v. Garcia, 752 P.2d 570 (Colo. 1988).

The words "introduced," "distributed," and "imported" have meanings commonly understood by persons of reasonable intelligence and, therefore, the trial court did not need to provide definitional instructions for these terms. People v. Whitaker, 32 P.3d 511 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd on other grounds, 48 P.3d 555 (Colo. 2002).

Subsection (1)(d) does not deny defendants' equal protection rights. The special offender statute does not proscribe precisely the same unlawful act as the substantive statute, and any defendant who is convicted of a controlled substance offense, and as part of that criminal act also unlawfully introduced, distributed, or imported the controlled substance into Colorado is subject to the special offender statute. People v. Garcia, 752 P.2d 570 (Colo. 1988).

Subsection (1)(f) is not unconstitutionally vague or overbroad. Subjecting a narcotics offender to special offender sentencing because of the offender's possession of a deadly weapon is reasonably related to the government's legitimate interest in preventing crime, and constitutes a valid exercise of the state's police power and does not violate the right to bear arms in self-defense as protected in the Colorado constitution. People v. Atencio, 878 P.2d 147 (Colo. App. 1994).

Evidence showing that defendant had a loaded 9 millimeter handgun in a bedroom in close proximity to the drugs and to where the defendant was arrested established sufficient nexus between the deadly weapon and the offense. People v. Atencio, 878 P.2d 147 (Colo. App. 1994).

Term "deadly weapon" is not vague; it was not necessary for the prosecution to show that the defendant intended to use the handgun found in his bedroom as a deadly weapon. People v. Atencio, 878 P.2d 147 (Colo. App. 1994).

Ordinary and commonplace definitions of the terms "used," "displayed," "possessed," or "available for use" provide fair notice of the conduct prohibited by subsection (1)(f) of this section. People v. Atencio, 878 P.2d 147 (Colo. App. 1994).

Proximity of revolver to methamphetamine sufficient to establish its "availability for use" under the statute even if its trigger mechanism was secured by a padlock. People v. Martinez, 165 P.3d 907 (Colo. App. 2007).

Provisions of this section do not define substantive offenses, but rather merely represent sentence enhancement provisions which limit the sentencing discretion of the district court. Therefore the defendant is not entitled to a preliminary hearing. Felts v. County Court, 725 P.2d 61 (Colo. App. 1986); People v. Vega, 870 P.2d 549 (Colo. App. 1993) (decided under former § 18-18-107).

Since subsection (1) is a sentence-enhancing provision and does not create a separate criminal offense, it was not necessary for the trial court to instruct the jury as to a culpable mental state and it was sufficient for the jury to be given a special interrogatory. People v. Whitaker, 32 P.3d 511 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd, 48 P.3d 555 (Colo.

2002); People v. Hopper, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

Defendant should not receive a separate sentence on the special offender count because section does not create a substantive offense. People v. Rios, 43 P.3d 726 (Colo. App. 2001).

Evidence that defendant brought a controlled substance from a foreign or external source into the state is sufficient evidence to convict defendant under subsection (1)(d). Because the statute uses the disjunctive "or", defendant need not have intended both the importation and distribution of the substance in the state. People v. Montalvo-Lopez, 215 P.3d 1139 (Colo. App. 2008).

Prosecution was not required to prove that defendant "knew" the quantity of drugs he possessed or that defendant "knew" that he imported a controlled substance into Colorado to increase a defendant's sentence pursuant to this section. Whitaker v. People, 48 P.3d 555 (Colo. 2002).

When defendant convicted and sentenced on a separate charge as a special offender as a substantive offense in addition to the conviction and sentence upon the enhanced offenses, the conviction and sentence on the special offender charge must be vacated. People v. Martinez, 36 P.3d 201 (Colo. App. 2001).

The enhancement provision of §18-18-405 (3), as it previously existed, does not apply if an accused was found to be a special offender; defendant's sentence on a count cannot be enhanced twice. People v. Martinez, 36 P.3d 201 (Colo. App. 2001).

Defendant's drug conviction, as both a special drug offender under prior version of subsection (1) and as an habitual criminal, should have resulted in a prison sentence determined by the additional aggravating circumstances of this section. By using a formula that increases the sentence length without reclassifying the offense for which it is imposed, the legislature requires the application of two different sentence enhancing provisions when the special offender is also an habitual criminal, independently mandating sentence enhancement for different aggravating circumstances. Martinez v. People, 69 P.3d 1029 (Colo. 2003).

Neither this section nor the habitual criminal statute purports to limit the effect of additional aggravation or to place an upper limit on the ultimate sentence for a defendant to whom its provisions apply. Martinez v. People, 69 P.3d 1029 (Colo. 2003).

The plain language of the 1997 amendment to the introductory paragraph of subsection (1) shows that the general assembly gave sentencing courts discretion to impose a lower minimum sentence under this section than would in some circumstances be the minimum sentence under § 18-18-405 (3)(a). People v. Coleman, 55 P.3d 817 (Colo. App. 2002).

The correct interpretation of subsection (2)(a) is that it requires a showing that the defendant intended to distribute the controlled substance to a person who was within, or on the grounds of, the school or public housing development. People v. Trusty, 53 P.3d 668 (Colo. App. 2001).

Assertion of an affirmative defense to a charge brought pursuant to this section is inappropriate. People v. Aponte, 867 P.2d 183 (Colo. App. 1993).

Bifurcated trial on special offender count not required. This section is not analogous to the habitual criminal statute but is instead analogous to the crime of violence sentence enhancement statute. Therefore a separate charge, a special interrogatory to the jury, and an instruction to the jury that the beyond a reasonable doubt burden of proof applies to the special offender count are required, but a bifurcated trial is not required in order to adequately accord the defendant procedural and constitutional safeguards. People v. Garcia, 752 P.2d 570 (Colo. 1988).

Nor is defendant entitled to a bifurcated trial under this section. People v. Vazquez, 768 P.2d 721 (Colo. App. 1988), cert. denied, 787 P.2d 174 (Colo. 1990).

This section does not require proof of a mental state. People v. Vazquez, 768 P.2d 721 (Colo. App. 1988), cert. denied, 787 P.2d 174 (Colo. 1990); People v. Pineda-Eriza, 49 P.3d 329 (Colo. App. 2001); People v. Hopper, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

Knowledge of the amount of illegal drugs involved is not required even if the defendant is convicted as a complicitor. Complicitor is held to the same level of culpability as a principal. Defendant convicted as a complicitor is subject to the enhanced penalties under the provisions of this section. People v. Ramirez, 997 P.2d 1200 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd, 43 P.3d 611 (Colo. 2001).

Section as applied to defendant convicted as a complicitor does not violate federal or state constitutional due process rights. People v. Ramirez, 997 P.2d 1200 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd, 43 P.3d 611 (Colo. 2001).

Imposition of a 20-year sentence was not an abuse of discretion where underlying offense was possession of four pounds of cocaine with intent to distribute and defendant had violated terms of probation imposed in previous drug-related murder case. People v. Garcia, 752 P.2d 570 (Colo. 1988).

Trial court's conclusion that the minimum mandatory enhanced sentence defendant could receive for possession with intent to sell a controlled substance was 24 years and one day was not abuse of discretion, statute was not ambiguous, and rule of lenity does not apply. People v. Pineda-Eriza, 49 P.3d 329 (Colo. App. 2001).

This statute constitutes a sentence enhancement provision which limits the trial court's sentencing discretion. People v. Delgado, 832 P.2d 971 (Colo. App. 1991).

Section does not permit a mandatory parole sentence in excess of that authorized for the underlying class of felony. The statute is a sentence enhancer that is not a reclassification of the underlying substantive offense. People v. Butler, 224 P.3d 380 (Colo. App. 2009); People v. Garcia, 251 P.3d 1152 (Colo. App. 2010).

Section 18-1-105 (10) allows the trial court only to suspend the imposition or execution of a sentence, not the length of the sentence, and in light of the mandatory language of this section, the trial court was required to sentence the defendant within the range set forth in the statute. People v. Delgado, 832 P.2d 971 (Colo. App. 1991).

This section mandates only the length of sentence which a special drug offender must receive, without altering the sentencing options otherwise within the court's discretion. The general assembly intended merely to increase the length of the sentence prescribed for each particular offense, rather than shifting discretion from the courts to the executive director of the department of corrections, regardless of the character and circumstances of the underlying ing offense. Shipley v. People, 45 P.3d 1277 (Colo. 2002).

No special verdict required. This statute is a presumptive penalty statute which requires no special verdict of special offender status by the jury and therefore affirmative defenses are not applicable and no determination of aggravating or mitigating factors are required. People v. Vega, 870 P.2d 549 (Colo. App. 1993) (decided under former § 18-18-107).

A bifurcated trial is not required under the special offender statute. People v. Vega, 870 P.2d 549 (Colo. App. 1993) (decided under former § 18-18-107).

Defendant not entitled to the ameliorative effects of amendatory legislation if the legislature has not indicated its intent to require retroactive application; thus trial court had no discretion to reduce defendant's sentence under an amended statute when legislation specified that the amendment applied only to offenses committed on or after a date that occurred after defendant committed his offense. People v. Pineda-eriza, 49 P.3d 329 (Colo. App. 2001).

The evidence supported a conclusion that the knives were readily accessible for use by defendant with defendant's intended drug trafficking activity. People v. Tweedy, 126 P.3d 303 (Colo. App. 2005).

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 18-18-108 as it existed prior to 1992.

ANNOTATION

Storage for purposes of § 16-13-303 denotes that an item is left at a location for some period of time. It is not synonymous with possession. Generally the term indicates duration and not a transient situation. People v. One 1967

Ford Mustang, 781 P.2d 186 (Colo. App. 1989) (decided under § 18-18-108 as it existed prior to the 1992 repeal and reenactment of this article).

18-18-411. Keeping, maintaining, controlling, renting, or making available property for unlawful distribution or manufacture of controlled substances. (1) It is unlawful for any person knowingly or intentionally to keep, maintain, control, rent, lease, or make available for use any store, shop, warehouse, dwelling, building, vehicle, vessel, aircraft, room, enclosure, or other structure or place, which that person knows is resorted to for the purpose of keeping for distribution, transporting for distribution, or distributing controlled substances in violation of this article.

(2) Except as authorized by this article, it is unlawful for any person to:

(a) Knowingly or intentionally open or maintain any place which that person knows is resorted to for the purpose of unlawfully manufacturing a controlled substance; or

(b) Manage or control any building, room, or enclosure, either as an owner, lessee, agent, employee, or mortgagee, and knowingly or intentionally rent, lease, or make available for use, with or without compensation, the building, room, or enclosure which that person knows is resorted to for the purpose of unlawfully manufacturing a controlled substance.

(3) A person does not violate subsection (2) of this section:

(a) By reason of any act committed by another person while that other person is unlawfully on or in the structure or place, if the person lacked knowledge of the unlawful presence of that other person; or

(b) If the person has notified a law enforcement agency with jurisdiction to make an arrest for the illegal conduct.

(4) A person who violates this section commits a class 1 misdemeanor.

18-18-412. Abusing toxic vapors - prohibited. (1) No person shall knowingly smell or inhale the fumes of toxic vapors for the purpose of causing a condition of euphoria, excitement, exhilaration, stupefaction, or dulled senses of the nervous system. No person shall knowingly possess, buy, or use any such substance for the purposes described in this subsection (1), nor shall any person knowingly aid any other person to use any such substance for the purposes described in this subsection (1). This subsection (1) shall not apply to the inhalation of anesthesia or other substances for medical or dental purposes.

(2) Any person who knowingly violates the provisions of subsection (1) of this section commits the offense of abusing toxic vapors. Abusing toxic vapors is a class 1 petty offense; except that no person shall receive a sentence to confinement in jail for being convicted of a first offense pursuant to this subsection (2). Any person convicted of a second or any subsequent offense pursuant to this subsection (2) may receive a sentence to confinement in jail.

(5) Any juvenile charged with an offense pursuant to this section shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the juvenile court pursuant to section 19-2-104, C.R.S.

18-18-413. Authorized possession of controlled substances. A person to whom or for whose use any controlled substance has been prescribed or dispensed by a practitioner may lawfully possess it, but only in the container in which it was delivered to him unless he is able to show that he is the legal owner or a person acting at the direction of the legal owner of the controlled substance. Any person convicted of violating this section commits a class 1 petty offense.

(II) The date on which such controlled substance was dispensed;

(III) The number of such prescription as filed in the prescription files of the pharmacy which dispensed such prescription;

(IV) The name of the prescribing practitioner;

(VI) The name of the patient and, if for an animal, the name of the owner;

(l) The failure of a practitioner, in dispensing a controlled substance other than by direct administration in the course of his practice, to affix to the immediate container a label bearing directions for use of the controlled substance, his name and registry number, the name of the patient, the date, and, if for an animal, the name of the owner;

(m) The administration of a controlled substance other than to the patient for whom prescribed;

(n) The possession, by any practitioner, of a controlled substance which was not obtained from a pharmacy and which was received from a person who is not licensed as a manufacturer, distributor, or practitioner. (2) (a) A pharmacist in an emergency situation, in lieu of a written or electronically transmitted prescription order, in good faith, may dispense up to a seventy-two-hour supply of any controlled substance listed in schedule II of part 2 of this article without a written or electronically transmitted prescription order. An "emergency situation", as used in this paragraph (a), means a situation in which the prescribing practitioner determines:

(I) That immediate dispensing of the controlled substance is necessary for proper treatment of the intended ultimate user;

(II) That no alternative prescription drug is available, including drugs that are not controlled substances under schedule II of part 2 of this article;

(III) That it is not reasonably possible for the prescribing practitioner to provide a written prescription order to be presented to the person dispensing the controlled substance, or to electronically transmit a prescription order to the dispenser, prior to such dispensing.

(b) (I) Upon receiving an emergency oral prescription order from the practitioner, the pharmacist shall immediately reduce the prescription order to writing or an electronic format and shall write or otherwise ensure that the following language and information is recorded in the prescription record: "Authorization for emergency dispensing" and the date and time of dispensing of the oral prescription.

(II) The prescribing practitioner shall reduce the prescription order to writing or an electronic format and shall deliver the prescription order to the pharmacist in person, by facsimile transmission as provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection (2), by mail, or by electronic transmission within seventy-two hours after prescribing the schedule II controlled substance. If delivered by mail, the envelope must be postmarked within seventy-two hours after prescribing. Upon receipt of the prescription order, the pharmacist shall maintain the prescription order with the oral prescription order that has been reduced to writing or an electronic format.

(III) The pharmacist shall notify the board if the prescribing practitioner fails to deliver the written or electronic prescription order to the pharmacist.

(c) (I) A prescription for a controlled substance listed in schedule II of part 2 of this article may be transmitted via facsimile equipment, so long as the original written, signed prescription is presented to the pharmacist for review prior to the actual dispensing of the controlled substance, except as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (c).

(II) A prescription written for a schedule II controlled substance for a hospice patient or for a resident of a long-term care facility or for the direct home administration to a patient by parenteral, intravenous, intramuscular, subcutaneous, or intraspinal infusion (infusion drug therapy) may be transmitted by the practitioner or the practitioner's agent to the dispensing pharmacy or pharmacist by facsimile transmission. The practitioner or the practitioner's agent shall note on the prescription that the patient is a hospice patient or a resident in a long-term care facility or a patient receiving infusion drug therapy. The facsimile serves as the original written prescription for purposes of this section and shall be maintained as specified by the board.

(III) For the purposes of this paragraph (c):

(A) "Hospice patient" means an individual who is receiving hospice care from an entity licensed and regulated by the department of public health and environment pursuant to sections 25-1.5-103 (1) (a) (I) and 25-3-101, C.R.S.

(B) "Long-term care facility" means a facility that is licensed and regulated as a skilled nursing facility or nursing care facility by the department of public health and environment pursuant to sections 25-1.5-103 (1) (a) (I) and 25-3-101, C.R.S.

(3) Any person who violates paragraph (a), (b), (c), or (d) of subsection (1) of this section shall be punished as provided for in section 18-18-405 or 18-18-406.

(4) Any person who violates paragraph (e), (f), (g), (h), (i), (j), (k), (l), (m), or (n) of subsection (1) of this section or subsection (2) of this section or any other provision of this part 4 for which a penalty is not specified is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(5) Any person who violates paragraph (o), (q), (r), or (t) of subsection (1) of this section commits a class 4 felony.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-18-414 is similar to § 12-22-314 as it existed prior to its repeal in 1992 and is similar to §§ 12-22-302, 12-22-313, 12-22-322, 12-22-404, and 12-22-412 as they existed prior to the repeal and reenactment of part 3 and part 4 of article 22 of title 12 in 1981, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section. For other cases construing the former provisions, see the annotations following those sections in the 1978 replacement volume 5 and the 1980 cumulative supplement thereto.

No equal protection violation stems from the fact that this statute punishes cocaine possession as a misdemeanor and § 18-18-105 punishes cocaine possession as a felony, since practitioners are engaged in an occupation which regularly requires administration, dispensation, and possession of controlled substances. People v. Unruh, 713 P.2d 370 (Colo.), cert. denied, 476 U.S. 1171, 106 S. Ct. 2894, 90 L. Ed.2d 981 (1986).

For constitutionality of legislative distinction between narcotics and other drugs, see People v. Caponey, 647 P.2d 668 (Colo. 1982).

Possession deemed general intent crime. Possession of a narcotic drug in violation of former § 12-22-302 is a general intent crime. People v. Harfmann, 633 P.2d 500 (Colo. App. 1981).

The offenses proscribed by §§ 12-22-302 and 12-22-314, now encompassed by this section, were general intent offenses having a culpability requirement of knowing conduct which did not entitle a defendant to an instruction on specific intent. And, the court must instruct the jury that each of the elements constituting the offense must be done "knowingly". People v. McGhee, 677 P.2d 419 (Colo. App. 1983).

Defense of voluntary intoxication not applicable. The policies adopted by the general assembly in refusing to permit a defense of voluntary intoxication in general intent crimes defined in the criminal code apply with equal force to general intent crimes under the Colorado Controlled Substances Act. People v. Harfmann, 633 P.2d 500 (Colo. App. 1981).

Chemical tests are not necessary in all cases to prove that a particular substance is a narcotic drug. People v. Steiner, 640 P.2d 250 (Colo. App. 1981); People ex rel. J.G., 97 P.3d 300 (Colo. App. 2004).

Proof through circumstantial evidence. The prosecution may prove that a substance is cocaine through circumstantial evidence. People v. Steiner, 640 P.2d 250 (Colo. App. 1981).

The prosecution does not need to admit a substance into evidence to prove that is a controlled substance. So long as a sufficient chain of custody is established, the prosecution can meet its burden through circumstantial evidence. People ex rel. J.G., 97 P.3d 300 (Colo. App. 2004).

Procuring agent defense requires that the defendant act as an exclusive agent for the buyer; as such, the defendant becomes a principal, or a conspirator in the purchase rather than in the sale of the narcotics and, therefore, he cannot be convicted of sale or conspiracy to sell. People v. Smith, 623 P.2d 404 (Colo. 1981); People v. McGhee, 677 P.2d 419 (Colo. App. 1983).

Procuring agent defense negates existence of essential element of offense of sale of narcotic, the sale itself. People v. Hall, 44 Colo. App. 535, 622 P.2d 571 (1980).

Under the "procuring agent" defense, a defendant becomes a principal or conspirator in the purchase rather than the sale of the narcotics and, therefore, cannot be convicted of sale or conspiracy to sell narcotic drugs. Bailey v. People, 630 P.2d 1062 (Colo. 1981).

Trial court must credit defendant for time served against maximum as well as minimum sentence term. When the trial court credits the defendant for time already served in setting the minimum term of his sentence, it is error for the trial court not to also credit the defendant for that time against the maximum term of the sentence. People v. Stewart, 626 P.2d 685 (Colo. 1981).

Applied in People v. Macias, 631 P.2d 584 (Colo. 1981); People v. Gomez, 632 P.2d 586 (Colo. 1981), cert. denied, 455 U.S. 943, 101 S. Ct. 1439, 71 L. Ed.2d 655 (1982); People v. Ball, 639 P.2d 1078 (Colo. 1982); People v. Hoffman, 655 P.2d 393 (Colo. 1982); People v. Sprowl, 718 P.2d 524 (Colo. 1986).

18-18-415. Fraud and deceit. (1) (a) No person shall obtain a controlled substance or procure the administration of a controlled substance by fraud, deceit, misrepresentation, or subterfuge; or by the forgery or alteration of an order; or by the concealment of a material fact; or by the use of a false name or the giving of a false address.

(b) Information communicated to a practitioner in an effort to procure a controlled substance other than for legitimate treatment purposes or unlawfully to procure the administration of any such controlled substance shall not be deemed a privileged communication.

(c) No person shall willfully make a false statement in any order, report, or record required by this article.

(d) No person, for the purpose of obtaining a controlled substance, shall falsely assume the title of, or represent himself to be, a manufacturer, distributor, practitioner, or other person authorized by law to obtain a controlled substance.

(e) No person shall make or utter any false or forged order.

(f) No person shall affix any false or forged label to a package or receptacle containing a controlled substance.

(2) Any person who violates any provision of this section commits:

(a) A class 6 felony and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-401.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 18-18-415 is similar to § 12-22-315 as it existed prior to its repeal in 1992 and is similar to § 12-22-319 as it existed prior to the repeal and reenactment of part 3 of article 22 of title 12 in 1981, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Subsection (1)(b) is not unconstitutionally vague on its face. People v. Harte, 131 P.3d 1180 (Colo. App. 2005).

Subsection (1)(b) of this section operates as an exception to the physician-privilege in § 13-90-107 (1)(d). When subsection (1)(b) applies, there is no privilege as to a communication made by a patient to a physician, and no waiver is required to introduce the communication at trial. People v. Harte, 231 P.3d 1180 (Colo. App. 2005).

The determination whether subsection (1)(b) applies to a communication between a patient and practitioner rests with the trial court, not with the recipient of the communication, a prospective witness, or another health care provider. People v. Harte, 131 P.3d 1180 (Colo. App. 2005).

An attorney's guilty plea to making and altering a false and forged prescription for Phentermine, a controlled substance, and of criminal attempt to obtain a controlled substance by forgery and alteration constituted "serious crimes" as defined by C.R.C.P. 241.16 (e). People v. Moore, 849 P.2d 40 (Colo. 1993).

Criminal provisions not overlapping. Section 12-22-126 and former § 12-22-319 (now this section) do not proscribe the same conduct and, hence, do not violate the constitutional guarantees of equal protection and due process. People v. Wellington, 633 P.2d 1390 (Colo. 1981); People v. Caponey, 647 P.2d 668 (Colo. 1982).

Applied in People v. Madonna, 651 P.2d 378 (Colo. 1982); People v. Frayer, 661 P.2d 1198 (Colo. App. 1982).

18-18-416. Controlled substances - inducing consumption by fraudulent means.

(1) It is unlawful for any person, surreptitiously or by means of fraud, misrepresentation, suppression of truth, deception, or subterfuge, to cause any other person to unknowingly consume or receive the direct administration of any controlled substance, as defined in section 18-18-102 (5); except that nothing in this section shall diminish the scope of health care authorized by law.

(2) Any person who violates the provisions of this section commits a class 4 felony.

18-18-417. Notice of conviction. Upon the conviction of any person for a violation of any provision of this part 4, a copy of the judgment, sentence, and opinion, if any, of the court shall be sent by the clerk of the court to the state board of pharmacy or the department of public health and environment or officer, if any, by whom the convicted defendant has been licensed or registered to practice his profession or to carry on his business.

18-18-418. Exemptions. (1) The provisions of section 18-18-414 shall not apply to:

(a) Agents of persons licensed under part 2 of article 80 of title 27, C.R.S., or under part 3 of this article, acting within the provisions of their licenses; or

(b) Officers or employees of appropriate agencies of federal, state, or local governments acting pursuant to their official duties; or

(c) A student who is in possession of an immediate precursor who is enrolled in a chemistry class for credit at an institution of higher education, or a work study student, a teaching assistant, a graduate assistant, or a laboratory assistant, if such student's or technician's use of the immediate precursor is for a bona fide educational purpose or research purpose and if the chemistry department of the institution of higher education otherwise possesses all the necessary licenses required by the department.

(2) All combination drugs that are exempted by regulation of the attorney general of the United States department of justice, pursuant to section 1006 (b) of Public Law 91-513 (84 Stat. 1236), known as the "Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970", on or after July 1, 1981, are exempted from the provisions of part 1 of article 42.5 of title 12, C.R.S., part 2 of article 80 of title 27, C.R.S., and part 3 of this article.

(3) The provisions of this part 4 do not apply to peyote if said controlled substance is used in religious ceremonies of any bona fide religious organization.

(4) The provisions of section 12-42.5-131 and 27-80-210, C.R.S., shall not apply to a practitioner authorized to prescribe with respect to any controlled substance that is listed in schedule III, IV, or V of part 2 of this article and that is manufactured, received, or dispensed by the practitioner in the course of his or her professional practice unless he or she dispenses, other than by direct administration, any such controlled substance to patients and they are charged therefor either separately or together with charges for other professional services or unless the practitioner regularly engages in dispensing any such controlled substance to his or her patients.

(5) The exemptions set forth in this section shall be available as a defense to any person accused of violating the provisions of section 18-18-414.

(6) It shall not be necessary for the state to negate any exemption or exception in this part 4, part 1 of article 42.5 of title 12, C.R.S., part 2 of article 80 of title 27, C.R.S., or part

3 of this article in any complaint, information, indictment, or other pleading or in any trial, hearing, or other proceeding under this part 4. The burden of proof of any such exemption or exception is upon the person claiming it.

18-18-420. Imitation controlled substances - definitions. As used in sections 18-18-419 to 18-18-424, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Controlled substance" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 18-18-102 (5).

(2) "Distribute" means the actual, constructive, or attempted transfer, delivery, or dispensing to another of an imitation controlled substance, with or without remuneration.

(3) "Imitation controlled substance" means a substance that is not the controlled substance that it is purported to be but which, by appearance, including color, shape, size, and markings, by representations made, and by consideration of all relevant factors as set forth in section 18-18-421, would lead a reasonable person to believe that the substance is the controlled substance that it is purported to be.

(4) "Manufacture" means the production, preparation, compounding, processing, encapsulating, packaging or repackaging, or labeling or relabeling of an imitation controlled substance.

ANNOTATION

Legislative intent of "purported". The general assembly intended the term "purported", as applied in this section, to refer to the circumstances surrounding defendant's conduct. Based on the substance's appearance by a representation made and by consideration of all relevant factors as set out in § 18-18-421, a reasonable person would believe the substance to be a controlled substance. There is no requirement, therefore, that a defendant knowingly purport the substance to be a controlled substance. People v. Taylor, 131 P.3d 1158 (Colo. App. 2005).

18-18-421. Imitation controlled substances - determination - considerations.

(1) In determining whether a substance is an imitation controlled substance, the trier of fact may consider, in addition to all other relevant factors, the following:

(a) Statements by an owner or by anyone in control of the substance concerning the nature of the substance or its use or effect;

(b) Statements made to the recipient that the substance may be resold for inordinate profit which is more than the normal markup charged by legal retailers of similar pharmaceutical products;

(c) Whether the substance is packaged in a manner normally used for illicit controlled substances;

(d) Evasive tactics or actions utilized by the owner or person in control of the substance to avoid detection by law enforcement authorities;

(e) The proximity of the imitation controlled substance to any controlled substances when conduct purported to be illegal under this article is observed.

ANNOTATION

Legislative intent of “purported” in § 18-18-420. The general assembly intended the term “purported”, as applied in § 18-18-420, to refer to the circumstances surrounding defendant’s conduct. Based on the substance’s appearance by a representation made and by consideration of all relevant factors as set out in this section, a reasonable person would believe the substance to be a controlled substance. There is no requirement, therefore, that a defendant knowingly purport the substance to be a controlled substance. People v. Taylor, 131 P.3d 1158 (Colo. App. 2005).

18-18-422. Imitation controlled substances - violations - penalties. (1) (a) Except as provided in section 18-18-424, it is unlawful for any person to manufacture, distribute, or possess with intent to distribute an imitation controlled substance.

(b) Any person who violates the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) commits:

(I) A class 5 felony; or

(II) A class 4 felony, if the violation is committed subsequent to a prior conviction for a violation of this subsection (1).

(2) (a) It is unlawful for a person eighteen years of age or over to distribute an imitation controlled substance to a person under eighteen years of age.

(b) Any person who violates the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) commits:

(I) A class 4 felony; or

(II) A class 3 felony, if the violation is committed subsequent to a prior conviction for a violation of this subsection (2).

(3) (a) It is unlawful for any person to place in a newspaper, magazine, handbill, or other publication or to post or distribute in any public place any advertisement or solicitation which he knows will promote the distribution of imitation controlled substances.

(b) Any person who violates the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) commits a class 1 misdemeanor.

(4) It is not a defense to a violation of this section that the defendant believed that the imitation controlled substance was a genuine controlled substance.

18-18-423. Counterfeit substances prohibited - penalty. (1) It is unlawful for any person knowingly or intentionally to manufacture, deliver, or possess with intent to manufacture or deliver, a controlled substance which, or the container or labeling of which, without authorization, bears the trademark, trade name, or other identifying mark, imprint, number, or device, or any likeness thereof, of a manufacturer, distributor, or dispenser, other than the person who in fact manufactured, distributed, or dispensed the substance.

(2) It is unlawful for any person knowingly or intentionally to make, distribute, or possess a punch, die, plate, stone, or other thing designed to print, imprint, or reproduce the trademark, trade name, or other identifying mark, imprint, or device of another or any likeness of any of the foregoing upon any drug or container or labeling thereof.

(3) Any person who violates this section commits a class 5 felony.

18-18-424. Imitation controlled substances - exceptions. The provisions of sections 18-18-419 to 18-18-424 shall not apply to practitioners licensed, registered, or otherwise authorized under the laws of this state to possess, administer, dispense, or distribute a controlled substance, if the distribution, possession, dispensing, or administering of the imitation controlled substance is done in the lawful course of his professional practice.

18-18-425. Drug paraphernalia - legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the possession, sale, manufacture, delivery, or advertisement of drug paraphernalia results in the legitimization and encouragement of the illegal use of controlled substances by making the drug culture more visible and enticing and that the ready availability of drug paraphernalia tends to promote, suggest, or increase the public acceptability of the illegal use of controlled substances. Therefore, the purposes of the provisions controlling drug paraphernalia are:

(a) To protect and promote the public peace, health, safety, and welfare by prohibiting the possession, sale, manufacture, and delivery, or advertisement, of drug paraphernalia; and

(b) To deter the use of controlled substances by controlling the drug paraphernalia associated with their use.

Terms "designed" and "primarily" in definition of "drug paraphernalia" are not unconstitutionally vague. High Gear and Toke Shop v. Beacom, 689 P.2d 624 (Colo. 1984).

Term "intended" is unconstitutionally vague and is severed from the definition. High Gear and Toke Shop v. Beacom, 689 P.2d 624 (Colo. 1984).

Definition of "drug paraphernalia" does not violate due process. By severing the word

"adapted" from the definition, the act can be upheld. Hejira Corp. v. MacFarlane, 660 F.2d 1356 (10th Cir. 1981) (decided prior to the 1981 amendment to subsection (2) which deleted the word "adapted").

Term "designed" not overbroad. As this section restricts the term "designed," by requiring that an item must be primarily designed for use with illegal drugs in order to constitute paraphernalia, that term, as used in this part, not overbroad. Hejira Corp. v. MacFarlane, 660 F.2d 1356 (10th Cir. 1981).

Intent requirement of subsection (2) refers to intent of possessor or seller. Hejira Corp. v. MacFarlane, 660 F.2d 1356 (10th Cir. 1981).

Applied in Wakabayashi v. Tooley, 648 P.2d 655 (Colo. 1982).

18-18-427. Drug paraphernalia - determination - considerations. (1) In determining whether an object is drug paraphernalia, a court, in its discretion, may consider, in addition to all other relevant factors, the following:

- (a) Statements by an owner or by anyone in control of the object concerning its use;
- (b) The proximity of the object to controlled substances;
- (c) The existence of any residue of controlled substances on the object;
- (d) Direct or circumstantial evidence of the knowledge of an owner, or of anyone in control of the object, or evidence that such person reasonably should know, that it will be delivered to persons who he knows or reasonably should know, could use the object to facilitate a violation of sections 18-18-425 to 18-18-430;
- (e) Instructions, oral or written, provided with the object concerning its use;
- (f) Descriptive materials accompanying the object which explain or depict its use;
- (g) National or local advertising concerning its use;
- (h) The manner in which the object is displayed for sale;
- (i) Whether the owner, or anyone in control of the object, is a supplier of like or related items to the community for legal purposes, such as an authorized distributor or dealer of tobacco products;

- (j) The existence and scope of legal uses for the object in the community;
- (k) Expert testimony concerning its use.
- (2) In the event a case brought pursuant to sections 18-18-425 to 18-18-430 is tried before a jury, the court shall hold an evidentiary hearing on issues raised pursuant to this section. Such hearing shall be conducted in camera.

Annotator's note. Since § 18-18-427 is similar to § 12-22-503 as it existed prior to its repeal in 1992, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Constitutionality of Drug Paraphernalia Act upheld against challenge based on assertion that use of the terms "reasonably should know" and "could" were unconstitutionally vague and overbroad as used in this section. Lee v. Smith, 772 P.2d 82 (Colo. 1989).

Overbreadth analysis not applicable. Since an overbreadth analysis is appropriately employed where the legislation at issue affects constitutionally protected conduct, and since no constitutionally protected conduct was raised in challenge to Drug Paraphernalia Act, law will not be invalidated as overbroad or vague. Lee v. Smith, 772 P.2d 85 (Colo. 1989).

Standards not set for courts alone. The 11 specific standards of this section, to be considered when determining whether an item falls within the definition of drug paraphernalia, are not for the court's use alone. They were not intended to be withheld from the enforcement officers or anyone else administering or complying with the statute. Hejira Corp. v. MacFarlane, 660 F.2d 1356 (10th Cir. 1981).

Section contains sufficient language to avoid arbitrary enforcement even though there are no guidelines specifically directed to enforcement authorities. High Gear and Toke Shop v. Beacom, 689 P.2d 624 (Colo. 1984).

Applied in Wakabayashi v. Tooley, 648 P.2d 655 (Colo. 1982).

18-18-428. Possession of drug paraphernalia - penalty. (1) Except as described in section 18-1-711, a person commits possession of drug paraphernalia if he or she possesses drug paraphernalia and knows or reasonably should know that the drug paraphernalia could be used under circumstances in violation of the laws of this state.

(2) Any person who commits possession of drug paraphernalia commits a class 2 petty offense and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.

Annotator's note. Since this section is similar to § 18-18-110 as it existed prior to the repeal and reenactment of this article in 1992, a relevant case construing that provision has been included in the annotations to this section.

Where the information charged the defendant with "sale and distribution" of a controlled substance, and although the verdict found that he "sold or distributed" such a substance, thereby charging and sustaining only one offense, the trial court properly instructed the jury as to the elements of the crime of sale or distribution of cocaine and as to the pertinent definition of distribution, its refusal to instruct on the "procuring agent" defense was not error. People v. Farris, 812 P.2d 654 (Colo. 1991).

Cases relied on by the defendant all involved charges for sale or conspiracy to sell narcotic drugs under the old statute rather than for distribution of drugs after the enactment of the Colorado Controlled Substances Act in 1981 and are distinguishable under the rationale expressed in People v. Dinkel (189 Colo. 404, 541 P.2d 898 (1975)), which has now been formally codified in this section. People v. Farris, 812 P.2d 654 (Colo. 1991).

18-18-432. Drug offender public service and rehabilitation program. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Convicted" and "conviction" mean a plea of guilty, including a plea of guilty entered pursuant to a deferred sentence under section 18-1.3-102, or a verdict of guilty by a judge or jury, and includes a plea of no contest accepted by the court.

(b) "Drug offender" means any person convicted of any offense under this article.

(c) "Useful public service" means any work which is beneficial to the public and which involves a minimum of direct supervision or other public cost. "Useful public service" does not include any work which would endanger the health or safety of a drug offender.

(2) (a) Upon conviction, each drug offender, other than an offender sentenced to the department of corrections or an offender sentenced directly to a community corrections facility, shall be sentenced by the court to pay for and complete, at a minimum, forty-eight hours of useful public service for any felony, twenty-four hours of useful public service for any misdemeanor, and sixteen hours of useful public service for any petty offense. Such useful public service shall be in addition to, and not in lieu of, any other sentence received by the drug offender. The court shall not suspend any portion of the minimum number of useful public service hours ordered. If any drug offender is sentenced to probation, whether supervised by the court or by a probation officer, the order to pay for and complete the useful public service hours shall be made a condition of probation.

(b) The provisions of this subsection (2) relating to the performance of useful public service are also applicable to any drug offender who receives a deferred prosecution in accordance with section 18-1.3-101 or who receives a deferred sentence in accordance with section 18-1.3-102 and the completion of any stipulated amount of useful public service hours to be completed by the drug offender shall be ordered by the court in accordance with the conditions of such deferred prosecution or deferred sentence as stipulated to by the prosecution and the drug offender.

(c) If not already established pursuant to law, there may be established in each judicial district in the state a useful public service program under the direction of the chief judge of the judicial district. It shall be the purpose of the useful public service program to identify and seek the cooperation of governmental entities and political subdivisions thereof and corporations organized not for profit or charitable trusts for the purpose of providing useful public service jobs; to interview and assign persons who have been ordered by the court to perform useful public service to suitable useful public service jobs; and to monitor compliance or noncompliance of such persons in performing useful public service assignments as specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2).

(d) Any general public liability insurance policy obtained pursuant to this subsection (2) shall be in a sum of not less than the current limit on government liability under the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of title 24, C.R.S.

(e) For the purposes of the “Colorado Governmental Immunity Act”, article 10 of title 24, C.R.S., “public employee” does not include any person who is sentenced pursuant to this subsection (2) to participate in any type of useful public service.

(f) No governmental entity shall be liable under the “Workers’ Compensation Act of Colorado”, articles 40 to 47 of title 8, C.R.S., or under the “Colorado Employment Security Act”, articles 70 to 82 of title 8, C.R.S., for any benefits on account of any person who is sentenced pursuant to this section to participate in any type of useful public service, but nothing in this subsection (2) shall prohibit a governmental entity from electing to accept the provisions of the “Workers’ Compensation Act of Colorado” by purchasing and keeping in force a policy of workers’ compensation insurance covering such person.

(3) Upon a plea of guilty, including a plea of guilty entered pursuant to a deferred sentence under section 18-1.3-102 or a verdict of guilty by the court or a jury, to any offense under this article, or upon entry of a deferred prosecution pursuant to section 18-1.3-101 for any offense under this article, the court shall order the drug offender to immediately report to the sheriff’s department in the county where the drug offender was charged, at which time the drug offender’s fingerprints and photographs shall be taken and returned to the court, which fingerprints and photographs shall become a part of the court’s official documents and records pertaining to the charges against the drug offender and the drug offender’s identification in association with such charges. On any trial for a violation of any criminal law of this state, a duly authenticated copy of the record of former convictions and judgments of any court of record for any of said crimes against the drug offender named in said convictions and judgments shall be prima facie evidence of such convictions and may be used in evidence against the drug offender. Identification photographs and fingerprints that are part of the record of such former convictions and judgments of any court of record or which are part of the record at the place of the drug offender’s incarceration after sentencing for any of such former convictions and judgments shall be prima facie evidence of the identity of the drug offender and may be used in evidence against such drug offender. Any drug offender who fails to immediately comply with the court’s order to report to the sheriff’s department, to furnish fingerprints, or to have photographs taken may be held in contempt of court.

ENFORCEMENT AND ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURES

18-18-501. Administrative inspections and warrants. (1) As used in this section, “controlled premises” means:

(a) Places where persons registered or exempted from registration requirements under this article are required to keep records; and

(b) Places including factories, warehouses, establishments, and conveyances in which persons registered or exempted from registration requirements under this article are permitted to hold, manufacture, compound, process, sell, deliver, or otherwise dispose of any controlled substance.

(2) The procedure for issuance and execution of administrative inspection warrants is as follows:

(a) A judge of a state court of record within the judge’s jurisdiction, and upon proper oath or affirmation showing probable cause, may issue warrants for the purpose of conducting administrative inspections of controlled premises as authorized by this article or rules adopted under this article, and seizures of property appropriate to the inspections. For purposes of the issuance of administrative inspection warrants, probable cause exists upon showing a reasonable belief that this article or the rules adopted therein have been violated, sufficient to justify administrative inspection of the area, premises, building, or conveyance in the circumstances specified in the application for the warrant.

(b) A warrant may issue only upon an affidavit of a designated officer or employee having knowledge of the facts alleged, sworn to before the judge and establishing the grounds for issuing the warrant. If the judge is satisfied that grounds for the application exist or that there is probable cause to believe they exist, the judge shall issue a warrant identifying the area, premises, building, or conveyance to be inspected, the purpose of the inspection, and, if appropriate, the type of property to be inspected, if any. The warrant must:

(I) State the grounds for its issuance and the name of each individual whose affidavit has been taken in support thereof;

(II) Be directed to an individual authorized under Colorado law to execute it;

(III) Command the individual to whom it is directed to inspect the area, premises, building, or conveyance identified for the purpose specified and, if appropriate, direct the seizure of the property specified;

(IV) Identify the item or types of property to be seized, if any; and

(V) Direct that it be served during normal business hours and designate the court to which it must be returned.

(c) A warrant issued pursuant to this section must be executed and returned within fourteen days after its date unless, upon a showing of a need for additional time, the court orders otherwise. If property is seized pursuant to a warrant, a copy must be given to the person from whom or from whose premises the property is taken, together with a receipt for the property taken. The return of the warrant must be made promptly, accompanied by a written inventory of any property taken. The inventory must be made in the presence of the individual executing the warrant and of the person from whose possession or premises the property was taken, if present, or in the presence of at least one credible individual other than the individual executing the warrant. A copy of the inventory must be delivered to the person from whom or from whose premises the property was taken and to the applicant for the warrant.

(d) The judge or court who has issued a warrant shall attach to the warrant a copy of the return and all papers returnable in connection therewith and file them with the clerk of the appropriate state court for the judicial district in which the inspection was made.

(3) The board or department may make administrative inspections of controlled premises of those persons they are authorized to register under this article in accordance with the following provisions:

(a) If authorized by an administrative inspection warrant issued pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, an officer or employee designated by the board or department, upon presenting the warrant and appropriate credentials to the owner, operator, or agent in charge, may enter controlled premises for the purpose of conducting an administrative inspection.

(b) If authorized by an administrative inspection warrant, an officer or employee designated by the board or department may:

(I) Inspect and copy records required by this article to be kept;

(II) Inspect, within reasonable limits and in a reasonable manner, controlled premises and all pertinent equipment, finished and unfinished material, containers and labeling found therein, and, except as provided in paragraph (d) of this subsection (3), all other things therein, including records, files, papers, processes, controls, and facilities bearing on violation of this article; and

(III) Inventory any stock of any controlled substance therein and obtain samples thereof.

(c) This section does not prevent the inspection without a warrant of books and records pursuant to an administrative subpoena issued in accordance with section 24-4-105, C.R.S., nor does it prevent entries and administrative inspections, including seizures of property, without a warrant:

(I) If the owner, operator, or agent in charge of the controlled premises consents;

- (II) In situations involving inspection of conveyances if there is reasonable cause to believe that the mobility of the conveyance makes it impracticable to obtain a warrant;
- (III) In any other exceptional or emergency circumstance where time or opportunity to apply for a warrant is lacking; or
- (IV) In all other situations in which a warrant is not constitutionally required.
- (d) An inspection authorized by this section may not extend to financial data, sales data, other than shipment data, or pricing data unless the owner, operator, or agent in charge of the controlled premises consents in writing.

ARTICLE 18.5

Methamphetamine Abuse Prevention, Intervention, and Treatment and the Response of the Criminal Justice System

Cross references: For the legislative declaration contained in the 2006 act enacting this article, see section 1 of chapter 341, Session Laws of Colorado 2006.

18-18.5-101. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds that:

(a) Methamphetamine is a central nervous system stimulant that can be orally ingested, smoked, snorted, or injected;

(b) Current legitimate medical uses for methamphetamine are very limited, consisting of relatively short-term treatment for narcolepsy, attention deficit disorder, and obesity;

(c) Methamphetamine continues to exhibit a high potential for addiction and abuse;

(d) Methamphetamine use and manufacturing place countless Colorado children at risk of methamphetamine ingestion and exposure to toxic chemicals, weapons, pornography, predators, and impaired and neglectful caretakers. These children are at increased risk of neglect as well as physical and sexual abuse.

(e) Methamphetamine abuse during pregnancy places children at direct risk for complications, including premature delivery, altered neonatal behavior patterns such as abnormal reflexes and extreme irritability, congenital deformities, low birth weight, attention deficit disorder, and prenatal and postnatal neglect, many of which cause lifelong defects;

(f) In Colorado, the rate of methamphetamine treatment admissions increased over two hundred percent between 1997 and 2004 and has risen since. Methamphetamine-related arrests and prosecutions have increased at a similar rate, and seventy percent of Colorado counties reported a major increase in out-of-home foster care placements in the last five years due to the use or manufacture of methamphetamine.

(g) Each year Colorado spends significant amounts of money in costs related to untreated substance abuse.

(2) The general assembly further finds that methamphetamine labs and abuse are a scourge that harms citizens of Colorado. Improvements in responses to the methamphetamine epidemic should be supported in the criminal justice system, mental health services, social services, child welfare and youth services, community task forces, treatment for parents who abuse methamphetamine and treatment for children affected by methamphetamine use or manufacture, and other systems affected by methamphetamine.

(3) The general assembly, therefore, determines and declares that it is necessary to create a state methamphetamine task force to:

(a) Examine and implement the most effective models and practices for the prevention of methamphetamine production, distribution, and abuse and for the treatment of children and adults affected by methamphetamine addiction;

(b) Formulate and implement a response from the criminal justice sector regarding the methamphetamine problem; and

(c) Make recommendations to the general assembly for the development of statewide strategies and legislative proposals related to these issues.

ANNOTATION

Drug offender surcharge is properly characterized as a punishment rather than as a nonpunitive, compensatory payment. As such, the surcharge is appropriately scrutinized against constitutional provisions prohibiting ex post facto legislation. People v. Stead, 845 P.2d 1156 (Colo. 1993).

Imposition of drug offender surcharge violated prohibition against ex post facto laws where defendant committed offenses before effective date of statute. People v. Stead, 845 P.2d 1157 (Colo. 1993); People v. Henry, 845 P.2d 1160 (Colo. 1993); People v. Ellington, 854 P.2d 223 (Colo. 1993); People v. Brown, 854 P.2d 228 (Colo. 1993); People v. Stead, 854 P.2d 229 (Colo. 1993).

Court erred in imposing surcharge for offenses that took place in December, 1990. Statute was intended to apply to acts committed on or after July 1, 1991, and imposition of surcharge for 1990 act violates constitutional prohibition against ex post facto law. People v. Racheli, 878 P.2d 46 (Colo. App. 1994).

The double jeopardy clause requires the trial court to impose the drug offender surcharge at the time it imposes defendant's sentence in open court. The surcharge is considered punishment and may be waived in full or in part based upon a defendant's financial ability to pay. People v. McQuarrie, 66 P.3d 181 (Colo. App. 2002).

Incarceration does not necessarily render a defendant unable to pay the drug offender surcharge. People v. Griffiths, 251 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2010).

18-19-103.5. Rural alcohol and substance abuse surcharge - repeal. (1) In addition to the surcharges established in section 18-19-103, each drug offender and each alcohol- or drug-related offender who is convicted, or receives a deferred sentence pursuant to section 18-1.3-102, shall be required to pay a surcharge to the clerk of the court in the county in which the conviction occurs or in which the deferred sentence is entered. The surcharge shall be in an amount determined by the judge but shall be not less than one dollar nor more than ten dollars.

(2) The clerk of the court shall disburse the surcharge required by subsection (1) of this section as follows:

(a) Five percent shall be retained by the clerk for purposes of administering the disbursement of the surcharge pursuant to this subsection (2);

(b) Ninety-five percent shall be disbursed to the state treasurer who shall credit the same to the rural alcohol and substance abuse cash fund created in section 27-80-117 (3), C.R.S.

(3) The minimum penalty surcharge shall be mandatory, and the court shall have no discretion to suspend or waive the surcharge; except that the court may suspend or waive the surcharge for a defendant determined by the court to be indigent.

(4) This section is repealed, effective July 1, 2016, unless the general assembly extends the repeal of the rural alcohol and substance abuse prevention and treatment program created in section 27-80-117, C.R.S.

18-19-104. Judicial district drug offender treatment boards. (1) Each judicial district shall create a drug offender treatment board, whose membership is knowledgeable about adult criminal and juvenile justice matters, consisting of:

- (a) The district attorney serving the judicial district or his or her designee;
- (b) The chief public defender serving the judicial district or his or her designee;

(2) The board shall give priority to drug court funding if the jurisdiction operates a drug court and the drug court operates with best evidence-based or promising practices. Each drug offender treatment board shall annually make recommendations to the correctional treatment board for funding local assessed treatment needs.

(3) Each judicial district's drug offender treatment board may adopt rules and guidelines as necessary to perform the functions of the board.

and possession of burglary tools for actions that violated the specific provisions of this section. People v. Warner, 930 P.2d 564 (Colo. 1996).

18-21-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that the commission of sex offenses exacts an unacceptable toll on the fiscal resources of both state and local government and thereby increases the fiscal burden upon the taxpayers of this state. It is the intent of the general assembly in enacting this article to require, as much as possible, that persons convicted of a sex offense pay for the cost of the evaluation, identification, and treatment and continuing monitoring to protect victims and potential victims as described in article 11.7 of title 16, C.R.S.

(2) "Sex offense" has the same meaning as defined in section 16-11.7-102 (3), C.R.S.

18-21-103. Source of revenues - allocation of moneys - sex offender surcharge fund - creation. (1) On and after July 1, 1992, each person who is convicted of a sex offense, or receives for such offense a deferred sentence pursuant to section 18-1.3-102, shall be required to pay a surcharge to the clerk of the court in which the conviction occurs or in which the deferred sentence is entered. Such surcharge shall be in the following amounts:

- (a) For each class 2 felony of which a person is convicted, three thousand dollars;
- (b) For each class 3 felony of which a person is convicted, two thousand dollars;

- (c) For each class 4 felony of which a person is convicted, one thousand dollars;
- (d) For each class 5 felony of which a person is convicted, seven hundred fifty dollars;
- (e) For each class 6 felony of which a person is convicted, five hundred dollars;
- (f) For each class 1 misdemeanor of which a person is convicted, four hundred dollars;
- (g) For each class 2 misdemeanor of which a person is convicted, three hundred dollars;
- (h) For each class 3 misdemeanor of which a person is convicted, one hundred fifty dollars.

(1.5) On and after July 1, 2000, each juvenile who is adjudicated for commission of an offense that would constitute a sex offense if committed by an adult or who receives for such offense a deferred adjudication shall be required to pay a surcharge to the clerk of the court in which the adjudication occurs or in which the deferred adjudication is entered. The amount of such surcharge shall be half the amount that would have been assessed against an adult offender pursuant to subsection (1) of this section for commission of the offense.

(2) The clerk of the court shall allocate the surcharge required by subsection (1) of this section as follows:

(a) Five percent shall be retained by the clerk for administrative costs incurred pursuant to this subsection (2). Such amount retained shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the general fund, and such amount shall be subject to appropriation by the general assembly for the costs of such administration.

(b) Ninety-five percent shall be transferred to the state treasurer who shall credit the same to the sex offender surcharge fund created pursuant to subsection (3) of this section.

(3) There is hereby created in the state treasury a sex offender surcharge fund which shall consist of moneys received by the state treasurer pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section. The state treasurer may invest any moneys in the fund not expended for the purpose of this section as provided by law. The state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the investment and deposit of moneys in the fund to the fund. Any moneys not appropriated by the general assembly shall remain in the sex offender surcharge fund and shall not be transferred or revert to the general fund of the state at the end of any fiscal year. All moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the judicial department, the department of corrections, the division of criminal justice of the department of public safety, and the department of human services, after consideration of the plan developed pursuant to section 16-11.7-103 (4) (c), C.R.S., to cover the direct and indirect costs associated with the evaluation, identification, and treatment and the continued monitoring of sex offenders.

(4) The court may waive all or any portion of the surcharge required by this section if the court finds that a person convicted of a sex offense is indigent or financially unable to pay all or any portion of such surcharge. The court shall waive only that portion of the surcharge which the court has found that the person convicted of a sex offense is financially unable to pay.

ANNOTATION

Surcharge improperly applied where offense occurred approximately 18 months before section enacted. People v. Salas, 902 P.2d 398 (Colo. App. 1994).

Imposition of two surcharges for conviction does not violate the prohibition against double jeopardy. The surcharge created by subsection (1)(c) and the surcharge created by § 24-4.2-104 (1)(a)(II)(A) may both be applied to the conviction for second degree sexual assault. People v. Thien Van Vo, 932 P.2d 849 (Colo. App. 1996).

Assessment of surcharges pursuant to this section violates the prohibition against ex post facto laws since the offenses at issue occurred before the effective date of this section. People v. Bowring, 902 P.2d 911 (Colo. App. 1995).

Imposition of the mandatory $1,000 fine for persons convicted of a class 4 felony sex offense was not unconstitutionally excessive where the trial court discussed the defendant's ability to pay the surcharge at the sentencing hearing and defendant did not object to the amount of the fine or request a reduction of the amount. People v. Bolt, 984 P.2d 1181 (Colo. App. 1999).

The surcharge amounts specified in this section are not disproportionate to the levels of offenses as a matter of law. People v. Bolt, 984 P.2d 1181 (Colo. App. 1999).

Trial court improperly imposed surcharge where defendant plead guilty to an offense that is not included in the definition of "sex offense" in § 16-11.7-102. Although defendant was a "sex offender", as defined in § 16-11.7-102, because her plea was based on acts that were included in the definition of "sex offense" and thus created a history of sex offenses, the surcharge created in this section applies only to persons convicted of a "sex offense". People v. Meidinger, 987 P.2d 937 (Colo. App. 1999).
